60 YEARS IN BUSINESS in Middle River were observed by Victor Berg of Berg's Pharmacy Saturday when his daughter, Mrs. Terry Stout of Fosston, and granddaughter Kristen hosted an open house for the public. Berg moved to Middle River from Ada with his family in 1906 at the age of six and graduated from Middle River high school in 1917. He studied pharmacy as an apprentice for four years as required at that time in Minneapolis and St. Paul before purchasing his present store from A. W. Clay in 1926. Although 86 years old he has no present thoughts of retiring. "Even if I am old, I still have to eat," he quipped.

Fire Dept. Notes Nat'l. Prevention Week October 5-11

National Fire prevention week will be observed in Thief River Falls this week. According to Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman this year's theme is "Learn Not to Burn. It really Works."

Arrangements have been made with Bjorkman to conduct a Kindergarten trip for Washington, Northrop, Knox and Mark Twain schools in Thief River Falls to the Fire department on Thursday. Bjorkman said Fire department personnel will give a tour of the Fire department and stress: the importance of keeping low where there is a lot of smoke and heat; learn to stop, drop and roll when on fire; checking smoke detectors monthly; completely extinquishing smoking materials; and many more helpful tips which may help save lives.

National Fire prevention week is always held during the Week of October 9. October 9, 1871 was the date of the great Chicago fire. This year is the 75th anniversary of that fire.

Last year the fire department in Thief River Falls, which also serves five area townships, North, Rocksbury, Smiley, Silverton and Norden, responded to 90 calls. Sixty-four of those calls were in Thief River Falls and 26 in the rural area. The total includes false alarms and all calls. There were 52 actual fire calls and 22 false alarms, which does not necessarily mean maliciously made calls.

Last year the fire related deaths in Minnesota totaled 54, the lowest count since 1963. The highest death toll was 134 in 1976. The causes of those deaths last year breaks down by percentages of 16 per cent by smoke, 13 per cent from accidents involving wood stoves and fireplaces, and 5 and-a-half per cent caused by children playing with matches.

Home fire deaths in the United States in 1985 rose 19.8 per cent in 1985 over the previous year, according to a report from the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA). The report, "Fire Loss in the United States During 1985," states that 4,855 people died in home fires during 1985, compared to 4,075 deaths in 1984. The report is the result of an annual survey of fire departments across the nation.

Overall total civilian (non firefighter) fire deaths in all types of structures rose to 6,185 in 1985, an 18 per cent increase over last year.

Commenting on his findings contained in NFPA's bi-monthly magazine, in Fire Journal, author Michael J. Karter, Jr., MFPA's senior statistical analyst, explained that the most likely explanation for the large percentage increase in fire deaths in 1985 is that 1984 was an unusually good year in terms of the lower number of fire deaths. Dr. Jonn R. Hall, Jr., director of fire analysis at ANFPA further states that "we should remember that even with this increase, home fire deaths are still

Conservation Of Soil And Water To Be Conference Topic

Critical need for improved soil and water conservation policies will be the focus of a conference at St. Paul's Landmark center October 14 and 15.

"Making Soil and Water Conservation Work: Scientific, State and Federal Policy Perspectives," is sponsored by the University of Minnesota's Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of public affairs and department of agricultural and applied economics, in conjunction with the soil science department. It is made possible by a gift from the Northwest area foundation.

The conference will focus on technological and institutional innovations in soil and water conservation policy.

"Integrating technical information with policy to target fragile lands is the aim of this conference," said C. Ford Runge, a university professor and director of the Humphrey Institute's North American Granary project. "If we're going to be competitive in terms of exports, we have to make sure we don't squander our soil. Our federal agricultural programs have actually encouraged farmers to plow up marginal land. As a result, recent estimates of soil loss have never been higher."

Conference participants will also consider links between state programs and federal authority, where traditional soil conservation programs were developed. "States have an increasing role to play in soil conservation as federal resources dwindle," Runge said.

A conference highlight will be discussion of the actual implementation of targeting marginal land in the Reinvest in Minnesota program. Featured speakers include Norma Berg, former USDA director of the Soil Conservation Service; Charles Benbrook, National Academy of Sciences; and Sandra Batie, visiting research fellow, National Governor's Association.

Cost of the conference is $50.00 if registered by noon Oct. 13 and $75.00 at the door. To register in advance, call Betty Radcliffe at (612) 625-0576.

GOOSE FEST PULLING CONTEST with Middle River at the far end and Plummer at the near end was a big event in Saturday's festivities at Middle River. The Middle River team out-pulled Plummer on this day but a rematch in the future was promised.

North Central AMPI Board Authorizes Bonus Payment

North Central region of AMPI board of directors authorized a bonus payment of 25 cents per hundredweight for milk produced in September, October, and November of 1986 at a special meeting held at Mankato. The payment is estimated to amount to over $2.9 million and will be paid in December of this year.

According to Don Gregg, regional manager, "Dairy farmers continue to experience financial difficulty and we're happy and proud that AMPI's North Central region can, once again, lead the way in providing extra cash to our members when it is needed so desperately."

In addition to the bonus, the board, at its regularly scheduled meeting held earlier in August, authorized a payment of 40 per cent of 1985 earnings with payment to be made in September of this year. This will amount to nearly $1 million or 2 cents per hundredweight.

The region will also revolve the 1981 capital retain this fall, totaling over $5.1 million.

MN State Patrol And MN Truckers Gear Together

Minnesota state patrol's commercial vehicle section and the Minnesota trucking association have implemented a career enrichment exchange through a ride-a-long program. The purpose of the exchange is to provide a greater understanding between personnel from trucking companies and the patrol in regard to methods of operation, everyday problems, employer expectations of employees and application of operating rules and regulations of their respective organizations.

Final details of the first ride-a-long were worked out by Captain John Greene, Minnesota state patrol and Nanci Anderson, employee safety manager for Midwest motor express, Inc. The initial exchange involved Midwest motor express over-the-road truck driver Robert Stigen of Fridley. Stigen was given an overview of patrol operations, visited the patrol's communications center to see its capabilities in both enforcement and emergencies, spent time at scale sites so he could observe both platform and mobile scales from the other side, and then traveled in a patrol car to learn the jargon and problems that are considered routine duties of a trooper.

At the same time Stigen was with the patrol, Donald Lortscher, a state patrol law compliance representative was given a overview of the Midwest motor express trucking operation. Lortscher toured Midwest's Roseville terminal and learned what takes place before a truck hits the road. He received a briefing on the Federal motor carrier safety regulations and saw how Midwest administered these requirements in the area of driver hiring, training and control. He also toured Midwest's truck maintenance shop to observe first hand how Midwest administers the Federal vehicle maintenance and inspection requirements.

Scott Torgerson, Grygla, Is Country Songwriter

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Country-western singer and songwriter Scott Torgerson of Grygla is finally beginning to see and hear some of his hard work. Torgerson recently completed his first album and then to his surprise, got some precious air time on local radios when he won a music contest.

It didn't happen quite the way he imagined it would nor was the song he wrote the one he expected to do well. "Forty Thousand in the Air," is a song all about a young man not quite ready to settle down. He takes a plane ride and discover's he's 40,000 feet in the air but his heart is on the ground. It really didn't have any special meaning to him, it just popped into his head—the words anyway.

About a month ago he found out he won the Kentucky Fried Chicken Songwriting contest held in Jamestown, ND. He was pretty excited to find out that his song was picked over 35 entrants and will be sent to Los Angeles, CA, where it will compete against other entries from across the nation. The top 10 entries from that contest will be sent to Nashville where Sylvia and her producer will select one to win.

The attention from his success at the Jamestown contest probably did much to get some valuable air time for songs on his new album. Torgerson, with the help of Wayne Kruse of St. Hilaire as executive producer, his musically gifted friends and Audio Camera of Turtle River, had his first album cut last summer. Actually he cut just a few hundred tapes. He said it took a great deal of work and time.

He didn't expect that it would take so much time, so much money or so many trips to Turtle River to complete the album. But the experience has not soured him on producing country music albums.

"You really don't know if you're any good unless you give it a try," said Torgerson. "I've tried to live my life that way," he added.

It hasn't been an easy road to follow. Torgerson began writing songs and playing the guitar when he was six years old. At that age he was too young and too small to hold the guitar properly but he continued to try. When he finally did receive some recognition by winning a contest at Jamestown, he received as a prize a telephone and radio combination. He was pleased to receive the prize but out on his home in rural Grygla he doesn't have a phone connection or electricity.

Winning the contest brought him some added attention on the air waves. Several area radio stations are playing his tunes, which he greatly appreciates. He said he hasn't really heard a consensus among listeners

He recently won a country western music contest in Jamestown, ND, that was sponsored by Kentucky Fried Chicken and KXJB in Jamestown. His winning tune, "40,000 feet in the Air", was chosen over 35 other entries and qualified it for another contest in California. Several tunes off his album are also being played over the air by local radio stations.

Tri-County Drama Dep't. To Present "Rumplestilskin"

Tri-County high school drama department at Karlstad will present "Rumplestiltskin," a children's musical written by Dr. Christopher Jones with piano arrangements by Ann Marie Paulson, November 19, 20, 21 and 22 with six performances scheduled.

Matinee performances are planned for November 19, 20 and 21 exclusively for large group reservations from area elementary schools. Evening performances are November 20, 21 and 22 with an 8 p.m. curtain.

"Rumplestiltskin" was first produced at Tri-County in 1980. Intended partly as an experiment in children's theatre, it resulted in establishing a permanent schedule calling for a children's theatre production every second year. Subsequent productions were "Hansel and Gretel" (1982) and "The Wizard of Oz" (1984). The series is now being repeated with different casts and a new generation of audiences.

Audition turn-outs have been large, so this play has been double cast to involve some 40 students from grades 7-12. Playing the title role in both casts will be Erich Lutz. Other cast members are as follows: Troubadour — Jodie McDonald and Andrea Cummins; King — Ken Pisaneschi and Jed Nordin; Queen — Melanie Hilde and Elizabeth Hultgren; Prince Precious — Eric Nordin and Shawn Collins; Lord Lanky — Steve Collins and Joel Anderson; Lady Dahlia — Karen Porter and Jennifer Thompson; Cook — Minddy Bogestad and Robin Gudmundson; Priscilla — Lori Spilde and Loralee Poole; Rumplestiltskins — Kristi Bothum and Ryan Grahn, Monique Nordin and Becky Anderson, Kim Anderson and Holly Anderson; Tammy Gudmundson and Jason Dahl, Jamie Westling and Chris Gust, Tom Engen and Melody York.

Assistant director is Bobbie Pietruszewski; pianist, Susan Banaszewski; lights, Jenny Westling; sound, Holly Hanson; spotlights, Kenneth Sylskar and Brenda Anderson; and stage managers, Kevin Pisaneschi and Daniel Britten.

This production is under the direction of Robert Gust and Etta Souder.

Grain Marketing Compact Sought For Grain Market

Legislators and farm organization representatives from 12 states met in St. Paul September 29 to develop strategy for implementing an interstate grain marketing compact to increase the marketing potential for Midwest farmers.

Senator Chuck Davis, a leading proponent of the grain compact in the Minnesota Legislature, said the compact, if ratified by at least five states before July 1, 1988, would establish an interstate commission empowered to investigate the grain marketing system.

"The commission could also recommend state and federal legislation to improve grain marketing, and could promote the development of marketing alternatives for producers," Davis said. "The compact would be a vital link in the strategy to return profitability to our family farmers."

State legislatures in Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa have already passed legislation authorizing the compact. Compact legislation is expected to be introduced next year in Oklahoma, Colorado, Ohio, Kansas, South Dakota and North Dakota.

Willis Eken, president of Minnesota Farmers Union, which backed the compact legislation now included in the Minnesota omnibus farm act of 1986, said it's time for Midwestern states to take the initiative to raise farm prices.

The idea of a grain compact is rooted in similar, successful strategies. States have used such agreements to coordinate action on issues ranging from child welfare to water allocation.

David stressed that implementation of an interstate compact would pro

Gov. Proclaims National 4-H Week Oct. 5-11

Gov. Rudy Perpich has proclaimed October 5-11 national 4-H week in Minnesota. The special designation is in recognition of the importance of 4-H to the lives of more than 116,000 young people in the state and the more than 14,000 adults who volunteer their talents to the organization.

The proclamation also recognizes the hundreds of individuals, businesses and associations that make important financial contributions to Minnesota 4-H each year, says Byron Schneider, head of the Minnesota 4-H program, which is part of the University of Minnesota's extension service.

In proclaiming national 4-H week, Gov. Perpich cited the organization as "one of our state's greatest success stories, forging an ideal partnership between public and private sectors to stimulate and fulfill the potential of youth.

Funds Available Thru Joint Venture Tourism Program

A total of 13 tourism organizations throughout Minnesota will receive $225,000 in funding this fall through the joint venture tourism marketing program, according to Mark Dayton, commissioner of energy and economic development, and Hank Todd, director of tourism.

"This program is a very effective way to expand tourism marketing," according to Todd. "State funding of $225,000 will assist [illegible] projects around the state in this cycle, but the private sector contributions for these projects will exceed $440,000."

Projects to be funded this fall include direct mail programs, advertising campaigns in other states, promotion of tourism events and new publications, including community brochures and meeting planner guides.

"Our goal is to enhance the Minnesota tourism industry," said Todd. "We can do that most effectively by working cooperatively with communities, who know best which features will attract visitors to their areas."

Joint venture assistance is available to nonprofit organizations whose primary purpose is to promote tourism. Private businesses are not eligible for this program. Applications may not exceed $10,000 for multiple community projects and private sector contributions must meet or exceed the amount requested from the office of tourism.

The next application period will close February [illegible]. Joint venture program information and applications are available from the Minnesota Office of Tourism, [illegible] Jackson Street, [illegible] St. Paul, MN [illegible] or by calling 612-297-4015.

ON JUDGING

William Barclay calls our attention to one of Montaigne's grim essays about a Persian judge who centuries ago had been bribed to render an unjust and biased verdict on a certain case before him.

When Cambysses, the king, learned what had happened he ordered the judge executed. He decreed that the judge's body be skinned and tanned and used to cover the seat where the judges sat in judgement, a grim reminder to them that they should never allow prejudice to affect their verdicts.

We shudder at such a method but it does bring into clear focus the awesome responsibility some among us have as they strive to render justice to all.

Jesus was clear and plain about judging. Said He: "Judge not that you be not judged. For with the judgement you pronounce you will be judged, and the measure you give will be the measure you get." (Matt. 7:1,2)

He was not speaking of our court system so much as the system of relationships with one another. He was reminding us that no person is good enough, yea, big enough to judge another in the daily court of public opinion where mercy, not justice, is called for.

Grain Marketing Compact Sought For Grain Market

vide farmers with a powerful marketing tool. "Compacts are the most binding contract a state can enter into," he said.

A recent study concluded that 3.2 billion bushels of wheat would have to be exported at today's low prices to return the same income to producers as was generated by 1.7 billion bushels of wheat exports in 1981-82.

Scott Torgerson, Grygla, Is Country Songwriter

as to which song they prefer. He believes that's a good sign. A strong album, he said, will have many favorites.

Curiosity more than a strong favorite has paid dividends. People, he said, seem to listen more closely when they hear a song written by someone local. Many people have asked him who the singer is in "Stranger Ain't Me." Darcie Morphew of Bemidji was the singer, Dan Dahlin and Tracey Pritchard of Thief River Falls and several other musicians from the Bemidji area, have combined their talents to produce his songs.

Torgerson admits he has a long way to go, but it's his biggest break so far. He may never hear if he won in Los Angeles and may never see any of these songs played by anyone but himself, but he won't stop writing tunes. He said he's already got 17 songs written since the album came out. He only hopes that he can get another album if he can get the first one paid off.

$100 SCHOLARSHIP was presented by the Thief River Falls noon Lioness club to Riggie Nedreas of Bagley, member of the fashion merchandising class at the Thief River Falls AVTI. Milly Dallman, treasurer of the Lioness club, made the presentation in appreciation for the fashion merchandising class' help in presentation of the Lioness club style show in May. Scholarship funds came from proceeds of the style show. Nedreas is a native of Norway who came to the United States as an exchange student in high school and returned here to further her education.

down 18.8 per cent from their 1978 levels. At the same time, the return to the fire death levels of 1982 and 1983 may mean that the United States has reached a plateau in reducing fire deaths."

In further explaining his point, Dr. Hall points to significant segments of the population which represent growing percentages in fire fatalities. "The share of our population below the poverty level has been climbing for a decade, and we have had growth in both the very young and very old age groups, where the risk of fire death is highest," he explained. Dr. Hall noted NFPA's commitment to continued expansion of its public fire safety education efforts: "Since the vast majority of deaths occurred in the home, NFPA firesafety education programs will continue to focus on home-related concerns," he said. "More than ever, the importance of smoke detector use and maintenance, residential sprinklers, and escape planning must be brought to the attention of all residential occupants," said Dr. Hall.

According to a 1985 Lou Harris poll, nearly 75 per cent of all United States homes have at least one smoke detector. However, other studies have indicated that the vast majority of fires continue to occur in homes without smoke detectors. Further studies have suggested that nearly one-third of the installed smoke detectors are inoperative due to dead batteries or faulty detection mechanisms.

Dr. Hall said residential sprinklers as an important new application of a proven technology for fire protection. "Whether they will be as readily accepted as smoke detectors is still undecided," he said, "but we're seeing encouraging trends in more and more locations across America." Residential sprinkler requirements for new homes have already been introduced or are in existence in several states including California, New York, Georgia, Florida and Nevada.

The total number of United States fires in 1985 was 2,371,000 according to the report. These fires accounted for more than $7 billion in property loss, an increase of 9.2 per cent over 1984. This, combined with a slight increase in fire injuries as well as the sharp increase in fire deaths, points to a heightened need for public firesafety education, said Dr. Hall.

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Oklee, Minn.

While there they toured Coeur-d'alene, a new eight acre resort built by a Norwegian millionaire. It has the world's longest floating boardwalk and 14,000 red geraniums were in bloom. The most expensive room at the resort was $1,500 a day and less. The resort opened May 1st. Esther is employed at this special resort.

On our way Sunday afternoon to Twin Lakes, Idaho, we came upon a young teenager, Frankie Fjord, driving his Norwegian horses and nifty wagon. We stopped and visited. Frankie was to do some fencing for his horses up in the mountains. The mark on these Fjord horses is their cream colored coat and distinctive black line which runs along the mane and down the back. They are relatively a new breed to the United States. They have been used in Norway and other European countries for many years for logging, farming and as carriage horses. Only 200 are registered in this country.

Monday, Ethel, Helen and Orlando drove to East Helena, Montana, to visit with Maryann Halvorson and family and were overnight guests. Maryann gave us a tour to the state capitol and other interesting sights. We also visited with Merald who lives a few miles down the road.

A couple days were spent touring the Medora area, Teddy Roosevelt National Park.

At Mount Rushmore, in the Black Hills, they viewed the Shrine of Democracy with the four great presidents.

Passing through Mitchell, SD, they toured the Corn Palace. This year's theme was "First America." All grasses, small grains and corn dressed the building. The first Corn Palace was opened in 1892, completely covered with corn and grains. Lovely sight. The theme is changed every year.

We stopped and visited with Harold and Clara Mae South, formerly of rural Goodridge, at Hull, IA. While there they were given a tour of their many beautiful flowers and Harold's vegetable garden. Harold and Gladys Mae are a retired couple and keep busy with so many hobbies.

In Mankato they visited with Mrs. Edith Corcoran and Mrs. Ethel Lauber, twin nieces of Mrs. Theresa Wiseth Johnson of Goodridge. We enjoyed a lovely dinner luncheon at their home.

On their way home we stopped at Montevideo to visit with Ingvald and Irene. The weather was nice throughout the trip but drove through snow at Glacier Park, MT, the snowplows were cleaning the blacktop roads. In Hill City, SD, we drove through a cloudburst and large hailstones. Parts of Iowa, South Dakota and Southern Minnesota, the corn fields and bean fields were flooding. It rained seven to 13 inches. The farmers were very depressed. The sun was shining when we arrived home.

STRANDQUIST...

Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thun spent the day at George Monroe's also visiting at the Milo Monroe home. Friday evening they visited Ella Thun.

How thankful we are to God for this great country and its freedoms. There were 46 people on the bus, including the tour director and the driver.

Handicapped Parking

One of the issues of greatest concern expressed during forums conducted by the Minnesota state council for the handicapped this past spring was that of handicapped parking, according to John Clawson, executive director of the state council.

Problems most often identified were: (1) Non-disabled persons continue to park in handicapped parking spaces; (2) snow and debris are not removed from handicapped parking spaces; and (3) local law enforcement officers are not enforcing violation of the law with consistency across the state.

"For disabled persons, the blue handicapped parking sign is a symbol not of privilege but of necessity," Clawson notes. "Handicapped parking spaces are needed to give people with mobility limitations the same opportunities to use public or private facilities as nondisabled people.

"Some persons cannot walk or, because a visible or hidden impairment makes walking difficult or hazardous, disabled persons are at a disadvantage — particularly in the winter — when planning visits to community facilities," he added. "In order to make certain that every citizen has equal access to your community's stores, schools and public buildings, the community needs to respect the need for accessible parking for people with disabilities and make certain that the provisions of the law are enforced."

Following is information about handicapped parking provided by the state council for the handicapped:

By law, handicapped parking spaces must be identified by signs with the international symbol of access in white on blue indicating the space is reserved for disabled persons. Signs must be visible from inside a vehicle parked in the space, be kept clear of obstructions and be non-moveable or moveable only by authorized persons. The law applies to buildings constructed after Nov. 18, 1975 that provide parking spaces, and for existing structures that have made additions or alterations to the parking lot since that date. Handicapped parking is to be located as near as possible to the accessible-building-entrance-and-is-reserved for those vehicles clearly marked by state handicapped parking identification.

Both the certificate and plate allow handicapped individuals to park in a designated handicapped parking space without being subject to a fine for improper parking. They may also park at public parking meters or in time zones without having to return to feed the meter or move the vehicle before the time limit expires. However, the intent of the law is to provide convenience, and parking meters should not be used as day-long parking spots while at work or in similar situations. The law does not allow one to park in no parking zones, fire lanes, rush-hour zones, in front of fire hydrants or at yellow curbs.

If a space is clearly identified for handicapped parking by signs which are not in compliance with the standard design, the space is still considered reserved for disabled persons.

Because using a self-service pump can be impossible for many disabled persons, they may obtain gasoline at those pumps at the same reduced price, while having a gas station attendant fill their tank. This is only possible at gasoline stations which offer both full service and self-service gasoline. To obtain this service, the handicapped parking certificate or plate must be displayed on the disabled person's vehicle.

Anyone who has a mobility limitation, hidden or visible, is eligible to apply for handicapped parking identification. For this purpose, a physically handicapped person is defined as one who has lost either or both arms or legs, or has lost the use of either of those limbs. Also eligible are those having hidden disabilities that severely limit their range of mobility but do not necessarily limit their ability to walk. These include cardiac, respiratory or arthritic problems. In application, the main difference between eligibility for the plate and certificate is that plates can be issued only to disabled owners or primary operators of the vehicle upon which they are displayed.

Temporarily disabled people are eligible for temporary certificates which afford all the courtesies of the regular certificate. An applicant's doctor will indicate on the application form the anticipated duration of the disabling condition.

In addition, vehicle identification from other states will be honored and will afford disabled non-state residents regular state handicapped parking use.

The handicapped parking license plate carries a raised symbol of accessibility as identification and entitles the owner of the vehicle an annual credit on his or her license registration fee. Obviously the plates cannot be carried from one vehicle to another, which some disabled people feel is a disadvantage. Also, some fear that a permanently displayed plate may invite vandalism to a car or assault to its driver.

The handicapped parking certificate is a card designed to be placed on the dashboard or sun visor of a vehicle. It is issued to individuals, whether they are drivers or non-drivers, and to institutions that transport disabled individuals. It need not be permanently affixed and is transferable to any vehicle transporting a disabled person. A current certificate bears the white-on-blue international symbol of accessibility in its center, making it easily recognizable. Holders of the old certificate (which is still valid) may obtain a new certificate from the state department of public safety.

"Wrong Way" Congress?

Following comments were written by Richard Lesher, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Back in 1938, a young pilot named Douglas Corrigan left New York to fly to Los Angeles. Just 23 hours and 13 minutes later, he landed in Dublin, Ireland, earning the nickname "Wrong Way" Corrigan.

There are some in Congress who appear determined to repeat Corrigan's dubious achievement. After deregulating the airline industry in 1978, producing more competition and major savings for travelers, they are now trying to undo the process of the last eight years.

At issue is H.R. 4838, a bill that would impose "labor protective provisions" on all airlines involved in business transactions that could adversely affect employment, wages, working conditions or the seniority of the airline employees. In today's highly competitive airline industry, that could include just about every carrier.

Labor protective provisions are unprecedented in a deregulated industry. In fact, the only precedent was in a regulated industry — the airlines before 1978. When airlines merged under regulation, the federal government required payment to laid-off employees of 60 per cent of their salaries for up to five years, continuation of fringe benefits including health and life insurance, and compensation for relocation expenses.

Air carriers were hard pressed to afford that even when fares were set by the government and they were protected from competition. There is no way they can afford it now.

Indeed, in today's highly competitive airline industry, some carriers are on the ropes, seeking mergers or buyouts in order to stay airborne. Imposition of labor protective provisions would sound the death knell for these companies, destroying thousands of jobs. It would be bad for the airlines and even worse for the public, as diminished competition would lead inexorably to higher fares.

Perhaps worst of all, H.R. 4838 would upset the collective bargaining applecart. Job security is the number one union goal in contract negotiations today. To simply give the unions what they now must bargain for would be a major blow to the airlines at a time when many need labor concessions to remain solvent.

H.R. 4838 would, in effect, repudiate the deregulation of 1978, forcing airlines to protect unnecessary jobs, maintain artificial wage and benefit levels, and perpetuate labor inefficiencies.

Some say "Wrong Way" Corrigan never really meant to fly to Los Angeles. He had applied for permission to fly to Ireland but was turned down because his aircraft was deemed unsafe. He may have made up the "wrong way" story to avoid prosecution.

I suspect the authors of H.R. 4838 are engaging in the same kind of charade. They claim they want to protect airline employees, but their real goal is "reregulation" of the airline industry.

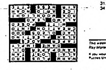
Answer To Puzzle:



Topics Of The Times By Norman A. Holen

October 10, 1946

—And is your coal bin filled for this winter? We thought not.

—Idle thought — Wonder if Stalin permits the functioning in Russia of a pro-American group corresponding to the Communist party in the United States?

—Remember way back when a shopper asked "How much is it?" rather than "Can I buy some?"

—According to Billy Noonan, a lot of folks are hoping that this wave of prosperity is a permanent wave.

—Maybe the meat problem would be solved more quickly if the administration treated it as an economic rather than a political issue.

—How big is a dollar bill? Just big enough to cover a pound of butter.

—Japs to Get Soup Operas Overseas—Headline. No better, says a commentator, than a defeated enemy deserves.

—That money folks can't spend for beef these days will come handy in bidding for those 4-H baby beeves at the arena November 2.

—The Times was too bashful to mention that last week was being observed as National Newspaper week.

N.A.H.

Penney's ad in the October 10, 1946 Times featured sweaters and skirts like those shown above. "Cardigan sweaters in fitted styles to tuck inside your new belted skirts, or loose-swinging, boxy types. White, luscious pastels, darks, bright colors, $3.98. Soft wool skirts with sparkling belts to accent the little-waisted look, front pleats releasing gentle fullness. Equally appropriate for sports or dressy wear. Rich shades, 24 to 30, $4.98."

Auction sales abounded in this week's Times. Sore Throat Is One Of Body's Danger signals

A sore throat is the body's way of saying something is wrong. It can be a symptom of a variety of illnesses from the common cold to cancer, according to the Minnesota Medical association.

Sore throats are usually caused by viruses or bacteria. Viruses are the most common sore throat culprits. An example of sore throat-causing virus is influenza.

Streptococcal infections, better known as "strep throat," are characterized by a sore throat and are caused by bacteria. Strep infections can be quite serious and, if not treated right away, can escalate into rheumatic fever or result in heart damage. Strep infections can be successfully treated with penicillin or other antibiotics.

The viruses and bacteria that cause sore throats are spread in a variety of ways. Most often, germs are transmitted through "droplets," such as when an infected person coughs or sneezes, or through direct contact by kissing, or by sharing a toothbrush or drinking glass.

Physicians diagnose throat infections by taking a throat culture. During a culture, germs from the throat are collected on a cotton swab, then transferred to a petri dish so a physician can readily identify the type of germs responsible for the infection.

Sometimes sore throats are caused by infected tonsils or adenoids. If a physician finds these tissues to be the source of continued sore throat trouble, you may be advised to have them surgically removed. Sometimes the removal will cut down on future sore throats, sometimes it does not.

Sore throats can also be caused by the environment. Cold dry air, especially during the winter months, can irritate throats. Pollens that set off allergies and tobacco smoke are also major contributors to sore throats.

To treat a minor sore throat, physicians recommend plenty of rest and aspirin or aspirin substitutes to ease throat pain. Over-the-counter sprays and lozenges or a good old fashioned salt water gargle, can also provide temporary relief from sore throat discomfort.

Medical attention should be sought if the sore throat is severe, especially if it is associated with a high fever and difficulty in swallowing.

Proper Planting Procedures Help Conserving Acres

Now is the time to plan for and prepare Conservation Reserve acres for 1987," according to Ralph Rundell and Thomas Stegar, soil conservationists. "The key to successful plantings is proper seedbed preparation, use of good quality seed of the correct mixture, and doing a good job of the seeding itself.

"Proper seedbed preparation is part of the seeding practice. If you prepare your conservation reserve acres the same as you do for a crop you plan to harvest, you should get a good stand. After all, you are seeding a crop you expect to remain for 10 years. Your conservation reserve contract requires you to maintain an adequate acceptable cover for the contract period. A little extra care and effort when seeding the cover could well save you from the necessity of replanting your cover," they continued.

"We have seen some problems on conservation reserve seedings that farmers should be aware of," they added. "The people who had a good field preparation with a smooth, sod-free and weed-free surface generally had good to excellent stands. There were some problems where the seeding was done with a spreader. It looks like some seedings did not have the seed and fertilizer mixed throughout. There were spots that had almost too heavy a stand; spots that had no grass-legume coming; and some spots where the nurse crop did not grow.

"Another problem with broadcast seeding is that too many times the wrong implement is used to cover the seed. An old style drag or harrow that covers the grass and legume about one-fourth to one-half inch and smoothes the field is probably the best."

Those who have Conservation Reserve acres to plant in 1987 and have questions about methods or problems, stop in at the local SWCD office or call Ralph Rundell at 294-6144, Al Gustafson at 681-3348 or Tom Stegar at 745-4351.

Farmers Urged To Use State Test On Wheat Protein

Area wheat growers are encouraged to use the state's laboratory to test their wheat, following results of a recent evaluation of accuracy in determining the protein content of wheat.

"Since some farmers are being docked 30 cents a bushel for every percentage-of-protein below 14 per cent, and given a 25-cent bonus for every percentage point above 14 per cent, accurate testing is essential to maintain farm income," states Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer.

Stumpf said that a protein evaluation conducted by the Minnesota department of agriculture found that nine different elevators testing the same sample of wheat came up with nine different levels of protein. These variations ranged from 12.6 per cent to 16.1 per cent.

"I am not suggesting that local elevators are purposely downgrading the value of wheat," Sen. Stumpf said. "The $30,000 price tag for accurate analyzers, such as those used by the state lab, puts them beyond the reach of most country elevators."

Stumpf also noted that most local elevators are cooperating with efforts being made to determine accurate protein levels, and are providing preaddressed mailers to send samples to the state labs. "This way, the state can analyze the wheat on the same day it is received, and these results can be phoned back to the elevator that day," Sen. Stumpf added.

"The actual protein content of the wheat sample used by the state was 15 per cent," Stumpf added. "This makes its value $2.65 a bushel on the day of the survey.

"A farmer delivering to the elevator that is giving the lowest protein reading would have received 70 cents less per bushel than he or she would have. Seventy cents a bushel is no small matter in this farm economy," he added.

Pork Producers Delegate Body Establishes Rates

National Pork Producers delegate body, established under provisions of the 1985 port act, met in Kansas City September 17 and 18 to establish official rates for the new 100 per cent national port producer checkoff, and nominate producers and importers for consideration as members of a new national pork board that will have the duty of collecting and disbursing the new checkoff funds. The checkoff will go into effect November 1, and is mandatory for all producers and importers of hogs and pork products.

The 145 delegates at the Kansas City meeting were selected by producers at special elections in each state in July. They were then formally appointed by Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng.

The delegates established .25 of one per cent of value (.0025) as the initial rate of the checkoff, beginning November 1. They also adopted a funding distribution chart as the basis for determining checkoff funds returned to state associations. Under the law, no state can receive less than 16½ per cent of the checkoff funds collected within its state.

One of the biggest responsibilities facing delegates at their first meeting was the election of 23 producers and importers as nominees for appointment to the new national pork board. That is the board that will have the responsibility of collecting the new producers checkoff funds and determining how the money will be spent. Secretary of Agriculture Lyng will appoint to the board 15 of the 23 nominees selected by the national pork producers delegate body.

Traditionally, the secretary appoints the nominees in the order of preference suggested by producers, unless there is some overriding reason to do otherwise.

Secretary Lyng is expected to make his official appointments to the national pork board within the next 30 days. Ron Kahle, a pork producer from Kearney, NE, who served as chairman of the national pork producers delegate body, personally presented the delegate vote results to Secretary Lyng at the agriculture secretary's office in Washington, D.C., Tuesday morning.

SDA Community Services Center Has Record Year

Community Services center of the Thief River Falls Seventh-day Adventist church has given aid to 2,258 people during the last eight months, according to a report released yesterday.

Mrs. Mae Howes, director of the local center at 1004 S. Tindolph, said that aid included the distribution of 37,490 articles of clothing and the donation of cash, food, bedding and furniture amounting to well over $500. Volunteer workers also gave in excess of 13,028 hours of work. "All of these figures represent all-time highs for the center," she commented.

"The purpose of the center is to give aid to needy people regardless of race or religion," she said. "We cooperate fully with county and city agencies in giving assistance to those in need. We don't seek to replace other agencies, but help those people who may not be eligible for other aid." Mrs. Howes pointed out that all of the services of the center are free.

"We don't pay any wages, and everyone involved with the center donates their time," she said. "The center is maintained by the Thief River Falls Adventist church, which pays for the utilities and maintenance of the facility."

She also noted that every Adventist church is encouraged to maintain a stockpile of good usable clothing, bedding and other goods for local distribution.

SILVERTON . . .

Estelle Grinde visited early Friday afternoon with Stella Omdahl of Warren at the home of her mother Mrs. Jennie Omundson in Thief River Falls.

A record 19.5 million mothers, or 6 out of 10 women with children under 18 years old, were in the U.S. labor force in 1984. Ten years earlier, not quite 5 out of 10 mothers were employed outside the home, according to "Working Mothers and Their Children," a fact sheet issued by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Ag Outlook Meeting Shows Cloudy Horizon

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"In summary, there's a helluva lot of corn and a helluva lot of wheat," stated Bill Penning, area extension agent in farm management from Thief River Falls, in addressing a sparse crowd at a market outlook meeting Friday afternoon at the Best Western inn. Perhaps most farmers already knew what the outlook would be and preferred not to hear the bad news.

Penning led off the session which also included presentations by Phil Bergland, director of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS); Sam Bigger, area extension agent in marketing at the University of Minnesota in Crookston; and Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent.

Penning emphasized that all agricultural products are very unelastic in demand, meaning that supply has a lot to say about price. With a carryover of 1.9 billion bushels from 1985 to 1986 in the United States, the supply was surplus before the current crop was harvested. The United States produces about 2.2 billion bushels of the 18.4 billion bushels produced in the world.

Although United States producers harvested only 60.9 million acres of the 91.7 million acre base — a reduction of 33.6 per cent — yields averaged 35.5 bushels per acre and a reduction of 46 per cent would have been necessary to achieve supply control, Penning said. As a result, prices remain in a depressed state and it would take a major disaster of some type to effect any significant upward swing.

Corn producers harvested 69.1 million acres of an 82.4 million base for a 16.14 per cent reduction while a reduction of 29.1 per cent would have been necessary to achieve supply control. The United States produces 8.3 billion bushels of the world's production of 29.526 billion bushels, of which 6.95 billion bushels are needed annually for domestic use.

Phil Bergland said that the 1987 wheat program is the only program for next year which has been announced by the U.S. department of agriculture and that he had received no information at all on other programs. He said that the main activity has been participation in the Payment in Commodity (PIC) program whereby farmers are paid with a commodity certificate in lieu of a check. The certificate is used by farmers to buy grain from the Commodity Credit corporation. The PIC program has no relationship to the PIK (Payment in Kind) program which was a one-year effort several years ago.

Advantages to persons who receive PIC certificates are that they can use them to buy their own grain back at reduced prices, or take them to the elevator where they can be sold at a premium. As of last week, he said, elevators were paying about 15 per cent above the face value of the certificates. Elevators in turn use the certificates to redeem stored grain.

Bergland said the program did help in freeing up storage in northwest Minnesota for 1986 crop grain. It also helped USDA because using stocks already in the program meant it was unnecessary to go to the treasury looking for cash, he said. Transfer was simply made from government CCC stocks to private owners. The sales did create abnormal marketing conditions, he said, and some elevators and many individuals profited from the sales.

Person interjected that PIC certificates have resulted in an inversion in grain marketing. While producers are normally looking for the highest price available, those with PIC certificates are looking for the lowest possible price to maximize the gain on certificate value.

Sam Bigger earned a chuckle from the few farmers in attendance when he summarized the market situation from his viewpoint. "There are three animals in the marketplace," he said, "the bulls, the bears and the hogs. And the hogs always get slaughtered."

His inference was that there were market peaks where farmers who were alert to changing conditions could market their crops at an advantage, but that those who passed up the peaks with the idea that prices would go higher always took a beating.

Comment Period On OTH-B Radar Site Open Until Oct. 31

Comment period for submitting written comments to the air force on the proposed Over the Horizon-Backscatter (OTH-B) central radar system has been extended to October 31.

Deadline for comments on the OTH-B radar was previously set at October 6. The air force has extended the deadline in response to requests from residents in the areas near the possible radar sites.

The comments are being accepted as part of the environmental impact process. The air force held scoping meetings in the affected areas this past February to inform residents of the radar plans. In August, the air force issued a draft environmental impact statement which detailed the environmental, social and economic effects the radar would have on each location.

In September, three public hearings were held where residents' comments were recorded. Those comments, along with the written comments received through October 31, will be addressed in the final version of the environmental impact statement.

Thirty days after the release of the final environmental impact statement, the secretary of the air force will make a decision on where to base the radar.

Anyone who would like to send comments on the OTH-B central radar system should address them to: Lt. V.G. Brown, ESD-SCO, Hanscom AFB, MA 01731. For further information, contact the office of public affairs at (617) 377-4064.

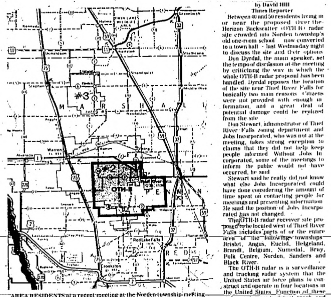
Elect Bob Puetz Officer Of Wood Promotion Group

Bob Puetz of Thief River Falls has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Wood Promotion council, a recently-formed state-wide organization to speak for Minnesota's small and medium-sized wood product manufacturers, distributors and associated businesses.

Puetz owns and operates Puetz Cabinet and Millwork of Thief River Falls. President of the council is Bill Rogers of Lake Elmo. Initial funds for the council were provided in grants from the Blandin foundation and the Minnesota department of agriculture. First order of business for the organization will be a membership drive. First annual convention was conducted last week in St. Cloud.

Puetz said the MWPC will seek to strengthen the forest products industry of Minnesota and raise the public's awareness of its importance to the state's economy.

Opponents To OTH-B Site Near TRF Gain Strength



AREA RESIDENTS at a recent meeting at the Norden township meeting hall wondered if it was just a coincidence that the proposed OTH-B radar site location and one of the proposed nuclear waste repository sites, considered last spring, overlap substantially.

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Between 40 and 50 residents living in or near the proposed Over the-Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) radar site crowded into Norden township's old one-room school — now converted to a town hall — last Wednesday night to discuss the site and their options.

Don Dyrdal, the main speaker, set the tempo of discussion at the meeting by criticizing the way in which the whole OTH-B radar proposal has been handled. Dyrdal opposes the location of the site near Thief River Falls for basically two main reasons: Citizens were not provided with enough information, and a great deal of potential damage could be realized from the site.

Don Stewart, administrator of Thief River Falls zoning department and Jobs Incorporated, who was not at the meeting, takes strong exception to claims that they did not help keep people informed. Without Jobs Incorporated, some of the meetings to inform the public would not have occurred, he said.

Stewart said he really did not know what else Jobs Incorporated could have done considering the amount of time spent on contacting people for meetings and presenting information. He said the position of Jobs Incorporated has not changed.

The OTH-B radar receiver site proposed to be located west of Thief River Falls includes parts of or the entire area of the following townships: Bristet, Angus, Euclid, Helgeland, Brandt, Belgium, Numedal, Bray, Polk Centre, Norden, Sanders and Black River.

The OTH-B radar is a surveillance and tracking radar system that the United States air force plans to construct and operate in four locations in the United States. Function of these radar systems is to detect, track, and give early warning of aircraft and cruise missiles approaching North America to the North American aerospace defense command and the national command authorities.

The site near Thief River Falls would be a receive site. The difference between the transmit site and receive site would be a longer antenna array (about 9,000 feet), a closer exclusion fence, and the use of only a single subarray with a uniform 65 foot tall back screen at the receive site.

A plot of land, according to the environmental impact study drafted for this project, roughly 10,000 feet by 2,600 feet (about 600 acres), would be required for each of four receive array and exclusion areas, thus the receive site would require a total of at least 2,400 acres. The adjacent buildings would be somewhat smaller than those for the transmit site (5,000 square feet) because receiving equipment is smaller than high-power transmitters. It could create as many as 60 permanent jobs in the area.

Residents within the area have little knowledge or understanding of the immensity of the project even at this critical point in time, Dyrdal said. Without the extension on public comment granted from October 6 to October 31, discussion would be already finished.

Several people at the meeting echoed his concern that most of the people within the area did not know they were in the area being considered, didn't have enough time to review the environmental impact study to make an informed comment, and were not contacted for comment by those people in the area instru-

Dawn Anderson - Rory Haugen Wed At Faith Lutheran Church

Faith Lutheran church in Goodridge was the scene of the June 21, 1986, wedding of Dawn Marie Anderson and Rory Dale Haugen. Rev. Gary Moore officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Haugen, all of Goodridge.

Friend of the couple, Carol Kriel, served as organist, playing processional of "The Wind Beneath My Wings" and "Bridal Chorus." Recessional was "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." Friends, Kevin and Judy TeBeest, sang. Selections were "Wedding Song," "Truly" and "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do."

The bride was accompanied by her parents to an altar decorated with spiral candelabra trimmed in lavender satin ribbons. She wore a white, chiffonet gown, trimmed in Venise and Alencon lace featuring a sculptured open neckline trimmed with Venise lace and tiny, simulated pearls. The close-fitting bodice was trimmed with Venise and Alencon lace, with a semi empire waist. Fitted sleeves came to a point over the wrist, and were trimmed with the same lace. Double rows of chiffonet ruffles trimmed the hemline of the full, bouffant skirt, and formed flounces falling from the back waist, flowing to a semi-cathedral train.

To complete her attire, the bride wore a crown headpiece of Schiffli lace decorated in simulated pearls, with fingertip veil and blusher flowing from the back. She carried a cascading bouquet of lavender roses and white pixy carnations. Jennifer Race was the bride's personal attendant.

Deb Race, Munich, ND, sister of the bride, served as her matron of honor. Other bridesmaids were Kim McLean, Moorhead, and Tracy Aandal, Goodridge, both cousins of the bride; Kathy Enge, Grand Forks, ND, friend of the couple; and Rhonda Downs and Rynae Haugen, both sisters of the groom from Goodridge. They wore full length, lavender gowns worn off-the-shoulder featuring double ruffled hems tucked on the side and their gifts from the bride, pearl necklaces. They carried bouquets of lavender roses and white pixy carnations, with matching flowers in their hair.

Heather Downs, Goodridge, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She carried a bridal basket filled with lavender roses and white carnations similar to those of the other bridal attendants, and wore a wreath of flowers in her hair. Her gown matched those of the bridesmaids.

Paul Bragg, Grand Forks, ND, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore a gray tuxedo matching those of the groom's attendants.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with matching cummerbund and bow tie. His boutonniere was composed of lavender roses and pixy carnations.

Rodney Haugen, Goodridge, served as his brother's best man. Other gentlemen attendants were Gerry Tharaldson and Tim Anderson, both friends of the couple from Goodridge; brother of the bride, Brent Anderson, Goodridge; and Ryan Haugen, Goodridge, and Randy Haugen, Grand Forks, ND, both brothers of the groom.

Neil Race, Munich, ND, brother-in-law of the bride, Randy Downs, Goodridge, brother-in-law of the groom, Keith Haugen, Roseau, cousin of the groom, and Tony McLean, Grygla, cousin of the bride, ushered the guests.

All gentlemen of the wedding party wore gray tuxedos with lavender carnation boutonnieres.

Mothers of the couple wore street-length gowns in bridal colors of lavender, with corsages of white and lavender roses interspersed with carnations.

Honored guests were grandparents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Haugen, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sundberg and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tanner; and godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wiskow and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mietzel.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents presented a reception in the church hall for the guests. Olive Wiskow baked and decorated the four-tiered, white frosted wedding cake. It was trimmed with lavender roses; topped with a crystal heart; and featured a flowing fountain at the base. Two heart-shaped side cakes connected with white bridal stairs.

Host and hostess for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Aandal, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Haugen, uncle and aunt of the groom. Palma Anderson, the groom's aunt, and Joy Austin, aunt of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake, and aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, Julie Sparby and Carolyn Lee, poured.

Punch was served by Kellie Olson, friend of the couple, and Jennifer Bragg, cousin of the bride. Rhonda and Vada Haugen, sisters-in-law of the groom, were in charge of the guest book, and Bette Sundberg and Sandy Bragg, aunts of the bride, arranged the gifts. Programs and rice were distributed by Lindsay Haugen, niece of the groom, Sara Sundberg, cousin of the bride, and Kristen Race, niece of the bride. Waitresses were Michelle Henrickson, Juanita Sigerud and Sheri Vettelson, all friends of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Lake of the Woods, the couple is at home in Oklee. Both are employees of Arctco in Thief River Falls. The bride is a 1984 graduate of Goodridge high school and a 1986 graduate of the Bemidji AVTI. The groom is a 1981 graduate of Goodridge high school, and a 1986 graduate of Bemidji state university.

Cook's Choice

October is National Popcorn Month, a good time to remember that popcorn is full of fiber and low in calories. Americans ate 46 quarts each last year, up four quarts from the year before, according to the Popcorn Institute.

Of course, if you want to keep the calories low, keep the butter off. As for oil, the institute's research shows that the calorie difference between oil-popped and air-popped corn is negligible. One cup of popped corn, no oil, contains about 20 calories; one cup of popcorn made with oil contains 40 to 45 calories. Popcorn is low in fat and calories and does not contain sugar or sodium.

Here are two different methods of making that old favorite, Caramel Corn:

Baked Caramel Corn

1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
2 cups firmly-packed brown sugar
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon vanilla
6 quarts popped corn

Melt butter; stir in brown sugar, corn syrup and salt. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; boil without stirring for five minutes. Remove from heat; stir in soda and vanilla. Gradually pour over popped corn, mixing well. Turn into 2 large, shallow baking or roasting pans. Bake at 250 degrees for one hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Remove from oven, cool completely. Break apart and store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 5 quarts.

Microwave Caramel Corn

One-third cup butter or margarine
1 two-thirds cup firmly-packed brown sugar
One-third cup light or dark corn syrup
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 pop and serve bag (3.5 oz.) of microwave popcorn, popped

In a large, shallow baking dish, microwave butter on high until melted, about 1 1/4 minutes. Stir in brown sugar and corn syrup. Microwave on high until mixture boils, about 3 minutes, stirring once. Microwave on high 3 to 4 minutes without stirring. Stir in soda and vanilla. Stir in popped corn, mixing well. Microwave on 75 per cent power approximately 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes to coat popcorn evenly. Cool completely. Break apart and store in tightly covered container. Makes about 2 quarts.

Readers are invited to share their favorite recipes in the Cook's Choice column. Mail recipes to Cook's Choice, Thief River Falls Times, Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. All recipes will be published.

Cybill Shepherd Is Christmas Seal Chairman

Actress Cybill Shepherd is national chairman of the 1986 Christmas Seal campaign and honorary chairman for Minnesota is Barry ZeVan, it was announced by Norman G. Hepper, M.D., president of the association. The announcement was made at a board of directors meeting on September 18.

Shepherd, star of the TV series "Moonlighting," has also appeared in major feature films. Barry ZeVan has just celebrated 40 years in the television industry. Shepherd and ZeVan will be speaking out in support of this year's Christmas Seal campaign, which provides most of the funding for the American Lung association of Minnesota's programs which help prevent and control lung diseases.

"I'm a confirmed nonsmoker and want to do as much as possible to help the American Lung association in its efforts to educate the public about the hazards of smoking," Shepherd said.

"Thanks to previous Christmas Seal campaigns and the efforts of many fine scientists and physicians, we have seen tuberculosis eliminated as a major life-threatening disease in this country," ZeVan stated. "I look forward to the day we can say the same for all lung diseases."

Christmas Seals will be arriving at over 800,000 Minnesota homes by November 1.

Cholesterol And Fat Are Topics Of Update Session

On Tuesday, October 21, the Pennington county extension service will be offering an update session on fat and cholesterol research being conducted at the University of Minnesota.

Paul Addis, food and nutrition specialist from the U of M, will present the topic, "Cooking with Less Fat" at the Northwest regional library meeting room from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Addis will review the "Dietary Guidelines for Americans," focusing on Guidelines No. 3, "Avoid Too Much Fat, Saturated Fat and Cholesterol."

Participants will learn about the sources of fat and cholesterol in the diet and about ways to modify their diets to reduce cholesterol levels. Special emphasis will be placed on the role of dietary fish oils in reducing cholesterol levels.

Handouts on dietary fat and cholesterol will be available to all program participants. For more information on this program, contact the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116.

Writing Program For Older Adults Held By COMPAS

Older adults throughout Minnesota can join a writing program without leaving their homes. The program, Literary Post, is conducted through the mail and participants correspond with mail order editors. Literary Post is conducted by COMPAS, Minnesota's largest community arts organization, and it is available to anyone who is 60 or older.

Literary Post runs from November of 1986 through June of 1987. Each participant is assigned to one of five mail order editors whose jobs are to review the writing of participants and respond with critical suggestions, writing assignments and encouragement. Participants and the mail order editors carry on this correspondence until the program ends next spring.

The COMPAS mail order editors are Bart Schneider, Mary Rockcastle, Nancy Weber, Walt Howerton, and Jonis Agee. All of these people have strong writing and teaching experience.

Literary Post is open to any older Minnesotan with an interest in writing: people who want to record their life stories, people who like to write poetry, people who have an idea for a novel. The writing of both beginning and experienced writers will receive careful attention from the mail order editors.

The only cost for the program is the price of postage stamps. Anyone interested in joining Literary Post should send a note with name and address to: Literary Post, COMPAS, 308 Landmark Center, 75 W. 5th St., St. Paul, MN. 55102. Enrollment is limited. The mail order editors will write to enrolled participants with information on how to begin the program.

This begins the third year COMPAS has conducted Literary Post. Last year more than 700 older Minnesotans corresponded with mail order editor Carol Bly. The overwhelming response to last year's program prompted compas to expand the program and hire additional mail order editors. COMPAS has conducted numerous writing programs for older adults and Literary Post is designed to make high quality literary criticism accessible to older people throughout Minnesota.

The INSIDE SCOOP

From Lincoln High

by GAYLE BORCHERT

This week's column is aimed at the sophomores. Every year one sophomore is chosen to represent our school at the Hugh O'Brian leadership seminar in the Twin Cities. This opportunity is open to any sophomore and can be a very rewarding experience.

The seminar itself is held in June, usually at Hamline University in St. Paul, and lasts one weekend. Speakers from different areas such as education, retail business, farming and government are brought in for panel discussions to challenge the students. During the weekend a boy and a girl are selected from the group to go the national seminar.

KINDERGARTEN STUDENTS from Northrop elementary school were among the groups to visit the fire hall in Thief River Falls on Thursday. Fireman Rick Jensen conducted a tour of the hall, explaining the equipment used and its purpose, and showing the youngsters where firemen sleep, prepare their meals and make their home away from home. He answered questions from the students and impressed on them the importance of things to do in case of a fire. Questions asked by the youngsters indicated that they had already received and understood fire safety information. The fire hall visits were part of the local observance of fire prevention week.

Ag Outlook Is Not Bright, Say Area Experts

Bigger commented on the oilseed market, noting that most of the information he had available was for soybeans which are not gown in large quantity in northwestern Minnesota. This area does produce the most sunflowers, however, and sunflower prices are tied to the overall available vegetable oil supply.

U.S. soybean poduction is estimated at 1.98 billion bushels, down six per cent from last year. Four per cent of the decline is in lower yields and two per cent in reduced acreage. Stocks on hand going into the 1986-87 marketing year are estimated at 525 million bushels, an all-time high. It represents 28 per cent of current annual use, second only to the 34 per cent of annual use carried over in 1968.

The 1986 U.S. sunflower seed planted acreage was 1,895,000 acres. Total harvested acreage is estimated at 1,852,000 acres with average yields of 1,161 pounds per acre. Production of 975,000 metric tons will be down 32 per cent from a year ago and combined with beginning stocks and imports will bring supplies down about seven per cent from a year ago.

Howard Person presented some of the little good news in the outlook when he discussed livestock enterprises. Cattle numbers are down, feed costs per pound of gain are at a several year low due to lower feed prices and prices of competitive meats are increasing. Modest profits have returned to the cattle feeders and are expected to reach the cow-calf sector soon.

The dairy herd buyout animals are clearing the market and the demand for lean beef has resulted in earlier marketing at lighter weights, clearing more animals out of the supply. Health groups are including beef in their diet recommendations, pork supplies are down and the new tax law is expected to reduce the influence of tax-loss farming on the market in the future.

For 1987 the highest prices for beef are predicted to be in the second quarter at 60 to 66 cents per pound. Cow-calf prices are expected to be quite good as demand for feeders increases.

Hog production looks good on the short term, Person said, with the low present supply creating higher prices. Favorable lamb slaughter prices during the past two years should continue for at least another year. Prices are expected to hit $68 to $69 per hundredweight in the first two quarters of 1987.

While dairy prices are expected to decline, milk consumption is up and feed costs are down. Alternatives are not good anb there is little incentive to switch from dairy to other livestock enterprises. Capacity exceeds the demand and gross margins for dairying are low.

Turkey production, although limited to a relatively small number of producers, has been a bright spot in area agriculture. Consumption has been increasing yearly and is expected to reach 13.5 pounds per person in 1986. Bigger quipped that he heard of a Roseau county turkey producer who died this fall and it took the undertaker a full day to get the smile off his face.

Minnesota growers are raising 32.6 million turkeys this year, an increase of seven per cent, while North Dakota and South Dakota growers are producing 2.7 million turkeys, an increase of three per cent. Feed prices are expected to remain low and increase prospects for profitability.

Soil And Water Districts Offer Several Contests

Abundant crops and plentiful rains of 1986 make it easy to forget how important our soil and water resources are in Minnesota. We forget that every day over 100 acres of Minnesota's soil is taken for houses, factories, shopping centers, highways and other uses. Wind and water erosion continue to rob the productivity of much of the soil that is left. With a rapidly growing population in the world, shouldn't we be concerned about maintaining our soil and water resources?

Looking back over the 50 years that they have been helping landowners protect their soil and water, Minnesota's soil and water conservation districts realize that we all need to be even more concerned in the next 50 years. Major changes are taking place in the way we use our soil and water, changes tht will affect our whole rural economy.

Through a poster and essay contest sponsored by the local soil and water conservation districts, Minnesota students will be able to study the value of water and soil to each of us. To help the teachers with the topic, the Minnesota association of soil and water conservation districts has prepared a teacher's resource packet for fifth and sixth grade students. In addition, essay guidelines and sources of information on the theme are available for fifth through 12th grade students.

Posters, murals and essays are being sought on the topic "We All Need Soil and Water." The contests are being announced now to encourage teachers to include conservation in their curriculum schedule for the 1986-87 school year. Cash prizes for the winning posters and essays will be given at the local district, regional and state levels.

For more infomation on obtaining the resource packets and the contest guidelines, contact the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district at Grygla, the Pennington SWCD in Thief River Falls, Marshall SWCD in Warren or Red Lake SWCD in Red Lake Falls.

Older Americans Receive Eye Care Tips On Helpline

Toll-free Helpline that provides medical eye care for older Americans — 1-800-222-3937 — has received more than 100,000 calls from across the U.S. since it opened January 6.

Emerson H. Hillyard, 66, of Ulysses, PA, was the 100,000th person to call the national eye care project, a public service program cosponsored by the foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Minnesota Academy of Ophthalmology.

"Through this outreach effort," said Raymond C. Croissant, MD, president of the Minnesota Academy of Ophthalmology, "we are providing medical eye care for older people whose sight is threatened by diseases like macular degeneration, cataracts and diabetic retinopathy. We want to let people know that deteriorating eyesight in their later years can be prevented."

The National Eye Care Project provides medical eye care to U.S. citizens and legal residents age 65 and over who are not currently under the care of an ophthalmologist, who have no access to one, or who have not seen one in the past three years.

A total of 903 Minnesota residents have called the service, and 530 have been referred to volunteer ophthalmologists near their homes. The matching of patients to physicians is done by a computer, which then generates a letter informing the patient to call the physician for an appointment.

Of the 100,000 callers, 66,200 have been referred to physicians for medical eye care. More than 16,000 have already been treated for sight-threatening eye diseases. Thirty-four per cent of these patients had never had an eye exam until they called the Helpline.

Patients who do not have Medicare or other insurance wil receive care at no charge, the academy said. For those who have coverage, participating ophthalmologists will accept insurance as payment in full for their services, without billing copayments or deductibles. Cost of hospital care, eyeglasses, and prescription drugs is not covered.

The national eye care project Helpline is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in all time zones except Hawaii (8 a.m. to 3 p.m.). The service opened in Washington state January 6, and was gradually implemented by region, becoming available July 22 in all states.

Study Crib Death At Children's Medical Center

What began as a pilot project for Hennepin county became a statewide effort in 1976 to learn why 130 Minnesota babies a year die unexpectedly in their sleep.

The Minnesota sudden infant death center, located at Minneapolis children's medical center, will recognize its 10th anniversary this October. The center's staff works with research programs around the country to study the syndrome and in the last 10 years has examined the sudden deaths of 1,383 infants as well as served 15,000 family members from literally every county in the state.

Sudden infant death syndrome — often called crib death — is the sudden and unexpected death of any infant in whom a thorough post-mortem examination fails to determine any apparent cause of death. Sixty-five per cent of the natural deaths of infants in this country are SIDS deaths.

Progress in the search for the cause of this mysterious killer so far has been primarily to eliminate mistaken suspicions, like bottle feeding and DPT vaccinations.

The cause is probably a developmental defect in the part of the nervous system which controls the heart, the body's thermostat, and breathing capabilities, according to Dr. Ralph Franciosi, medical director of the Minnesota SID center. But understanding what could go wrong with the developmental nervous system will first mean learning how the nervous system works in a healthy infant, Franciosi says.

"Antibiotics and medicine have been wiping out traditional diseases," he says, "but in the new age that is coming, the hard-core things like SIDS, will be on the frontier of medicine, unlocking clues to problems like dyslexia, learning disorders, and epilepsy. These are problems whose causes we may not yet have the technology or the expertise to understand."

The Minnesota sudden infant death center works with and offers consultation to medical examiners doing autopsies on unexplained infant deaths; counsels the families of victims; educates professionals and the public about SIDS; and coordinates resources which include public health nurses, coroners, medical examiners, physicians, funeral directors, police, clergy and emergency workers.

For more information about SIDS and support for families who have lost a child to SIDS, write or call the Minnesota SID Center, Minneapolis Children's Medical Center, 2525 Chicago Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn., 55404, phone (612) 874-6285.

Dear Readers,
How does one explain death to a child? Very simply, and directly, as a normal part of life — it is all about us in nature. When a pet dies, or a relative or close friend, certainly an explanation is called for. When children know what to expect, they feel less apprehensive and insecure.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

INTERESTING EYE FACTS
Humans are not the only living creatures having color vision. All primates such as chimpanzees and gorillas, have excellent color vision, but other mammals have poor color perception. Even many insects have color vision — the honeybee is attracted to ultraviolet colors given off by many flowers, colors not visible to the human eye.
Our eye has a blind spot, which corresponds to the point in the back of our eye where the optic nerve leaves the eye. You can find your blindspot by closing your left eye and looking directly at my nose in the picture above. If you hold the paper about eight inches away, the black dot below my name will disappear.
About one million cataract operations were performed in the United States last year, making it one of the most common and safest of surgeries.
Some animals, such as the cat, have excellent night vision. They have a reflecting layer, called the tapetum lucidem, behind the retina. What little light does enter the eye at night is bounced off this mirror-like layer and "used again". This reflection of light from the eye makes the animal's eye seem to "glow in the dark" when illuminated by the headlights of your car.

Bemidji Symphony To Open Concert Season Nov. 2nd

Bemidji symphony orchestra will open its 49th season with a November 2 concert on at 7:30 p.m. in Carl O. Thompson recital hall located in the Bangsberg fine arts complex on the campus of Bemidji state university.

Comprised of Bemidji state university students, high school students and community members, the orchestra performs several concerts throughout the year with a repertoire consisting of works for small or chamber orchestra.

The program begins with "The Hebrides (Fingal's Cave) Overture," a musical landscape written by 19th century composer Felix Mendelsshohn. "Symphony No. 23" written by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart will be the second work presented that evening. Closing the first half of the performance is Marcel Poot's "Mosaique," written in 1969. Highlighting the concert is the performance of "Symphony No. 4" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

This performance will be conducted by the orchestra's new conductor, Dr. Barry H. Kolman. Dr. Kolman hopes to organize an orchestral society for Bemidji with a board that acts as the governing body of the orchestra as well as aids with finances and planning for the future.

Admission to the concert is $2 for the general public and $1 for the BSU activity card holders, students and senior citizens.

For more information about the Bemidji Symphony Orchestra contact Dr. Barry Kolman in Bangsberg Hall 323, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699, phone 755-3364.

Secretary And Office Assistant Conference Set

A national video teleconference for secretaries and office assistants will be held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) on Wendesday, October 29, beginning at 11:30 a.m. in the agricultural research center auditorium.

This is the second nationally televised teleconference brought to the community by UMC since the erection of the satellite down-link system this fall.

"Professional Development for Secretaries and Administrative Assistants" is a four-hour nationwide video teleconference with a half-hour sandwich break which is available to all community members.

Course outline includes working as a team member, improving interpersonal skills, techniques for planning and organizing, strategies for effective time management and strengthening the boss and secretary relationship.

Cost of the video teleconference is underwritten by UMC, but there will be a $25 charge to cover price of the workbook which will be used in conjunction with the teleconference.

Application blanks may be obtained by calling UMC's business division at 218-281-6510, ext. 445. Because the workbooks are a necessary part of the video teleconference, registrations must be received by UMC's business division before October 22.

Universities Now Study Muscular Dystrophy Drug

Muscular Dystrophy association (MDA) grantees at four major hospital-affiliated universities have begun a one-year clinical trial of the drug mazindol for the treatment of Duchenne muscular dystrophy, according to MDA Red River Valley chapter president Zona Roesler.

In previous testing of mazindol, the drug appeared to slow the loss of muscle function in the fatal disorder that almost exclusively affects boys.

"MDA is coordinating these and other efforts abroad to determine as quickly as possible whether mazindol is indeed capable of slowing down the destructive course of this deadly disease," Mrs. Roesler said.

Mazindol gained attention last July when an MDA-supported investigator from Brazil reported results of administering the drug to one of two identical twin boys with Duchenne muscular dystrophy. After one year, although both boys' strength had diminished, the boy treated with mazindol was significantly stronger than his brother. Researchers immediately began treatment of both boys.

The MDA-funded trail announced today involves 90 boys. According to MDA president S. Mouchly Small, M.D., mazindol's ability to inhibit the release of growth hormone in children and the resulting reduction of muscle growth may be the key to the drug's purported ability to slow progression in Duchenne muscular dystrophy. Previous reports have indicated that the disease takes a slower than usual course when the muscular dystrophy is accompanied by a naturally occurring shortage of growth hormone in the same patient.

"Mazindol is not a cure for muscular dystrophy," cautioned Dr. Small. "In addition, until necessary studies are completed and possible side effects determined, it cannot be recommended as a general treatment."

The studies are being conducted simultaneously at Ohio state university at Columbus; the University of Rochester, New York; Vanderbilt university in Nashville, and Washington university in St. Louis. Concurrent with the MDA-funded study in the United States are scientific investigations of the drug in patients by researchers in Brazil, England and Italy.

Duchenne muscular dystrophy is one of 40 neuromuscular disorders MDA seeks to defeat through worldwide research, comprehensive medical care and far-reaching professional and public health education.

Rundell Believes Energy Awareness Still Being Used

"The idea of energy awareness can affect all of us. For some, it is the decision to burn fuel oil or propane for heat instead of cutting or purchasing wood. Others may decide to travel while gas prices are down from what they were. Farm operators may decide to till their fields another time or two now that diesel fuel is lower," states Ralph Rundell of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district.

"We all made efforts to reduce our energy uses during the high oil price era. Have we lapsed back into our 'use plenty as long as it is available' habitats? I don't think this is so. I see more people driving energy efficient cars and car-pooling to work or other events.

"Driving to Warren often, I see many fields that are chiseled and not plowed. Many farmers are letting their fields really green-up before tilling them again. There are a few farmers planting winter grain with a no-till drill and it will be interesting to see how these fields compare to normally tilled and planted winter grains," Rundell said. "Let's all take a look at our energy use. Are we using it because it is available or are we considering our uses and how to be more efficient? Think about it! It is your money and your resources you are burning up."

A Rose By Any Other Name . . .

In case you may have missed it among the day to day business of earning enough money to pay your federal taxes, the U.S. House of Representatives on September 23 named the rose as our official national floral emblem. According to the National Committee on Roses, the unanimous voice vote by the House silenced almost a century of controversy.

It must have been fairly quiet controversy, because we don't believe we ever heard about it before. But it's good that the controversy has been finally ended and that our national lawmakers can feel relief from the strain that such an issue must have placed on them all these years. Imagine going to bed night after night (or morning after morning, as the case may be) and session after session with the gnawing thought churning in your mind that the burning issue of a national floral emblem remains unsettled. It must have been a psychological hell for Congressmen.

But now the turmoil and uncertainty of a century is finally over and the only concern our lawmakers need have is that they unanimously made the wrong choice. And they did, you know. As time goes by those self-assured Congressman will be haunted in their dreams by visions of American Beauties (the rose variety, of course) fading and withering on their thorny stems.

Oh, the members of Congress thought they have proper reasons for their choice. The rose can be grown in all 50 states and it does have a reputation (cultivated by a good public relations groups) as the flower of love and peace. It is widely grown and readily recognized and it smells nice and looks pretty and people like it. It's infinitely easier to spell than stephanotis or hydrangea or even gladiolus or geranium or hyacinth, and the iris sounds too much like the IRS to gain much favor with the public.

But for all its PR and sentimentality, the rose is really a floral wimp. The reason so many people in the United States try to grow roses is because it is such a challenge to keep them alive and actually get them to bloom. People who grow roses to have flowers are like people who jog with arch supports and knee braces to keep in shape. It's the idea of gritting it out, of beating the odds, of showing the world that what can't be done really can be done.

Roses need constant nurture and attention. They are like human infants who can't stand to be too wet, who need to be fed by hand and treated with powder now and then. If all goes well and they actually do bloom, their beauty if only fleeting. For a brief instant they are rose-like in appearance, then they spread their petals, and shed their petals, and it's all over for another year.

Now take marigolds or chrysanthemums, for instance. These are flowers with guts and determination! If you're not careful, a marigold will be blooming before you transplant it from the greenhouse or supermarket or drug store into your own garden. And if it wasn't for our severely cold climate, these flowers would probably last for five or six years. It takes mums a little longer to get in the mood to blossom, but once they bloom, they also keep at it.

The pansy would be a good national flower, but the connotation of the United States and pansy might disturb some people. If Benjamin Franklin had had his way, the turkey would be the national bird and most people don't like the inference of the United States being a turkey nation, either.

Many arguments could be presented for many flowers, and over a century they probably have been made. But it should have been evident to the lawmakers that the only rational choice would have been the dandelion. What an emblem of freedom and liberty and independence and courage that little bugger would be!

The dandelion bursts into life with the first warming rays of the spring sun. It resists all attempts to be squelched and it spreads its message of freedom on tiny parachuted seeds far and wide. It springs to life from the tiniest of beginnings and its roots are deep in the good earth. No effort to root it out can destroy its spirit to rise again. It is a floral personification of the American spirit. It needs no pampering, no social welfare program, no nursing care like those finicky roses.

The rose as the national floral emblem? Forget it. It stands only as an emblem of the national congress — taking a century to make a decision and then unanimously making the wrong one.

Travel Trauma

Following column by Carolyn Thompson was published recently in the Anoka Union:

Shipping fever.

That's what a veterinarian I know calls it. The term refers to the ailments suffered by livestock which are being shipped to market in confined stuffy quarters, stressing them to the limit.

It could also be called flying fever. When you pack a few hundred tourists into a silver cylinder and shoot them at supersonic speeds through several time zones over a 14-hour period, you get distress. Add to this several tasteless microwaved snacks and meals served at strange times, and you don't have a happy person.

Even on a 747 jet plane, the quarters are too confined to encourage sleeping, but if you should nod off, the captain will interrupt to point out the lights from Nova Scotia on the left side of the plane. You're on the right. If this doesn't happen, the flight attendants will come through the aisle hawking $4 headsets for a $1.50 movie that's been on the VCR market for years. It was on TV last week.

After that, they'll offer alcoholic beverages at $3 an ounce. If you're foolish enough to buy that, they'll plop a dinner tray down before you've opened the teeny weeny bottle.

Suddenly the flight attendants disappear after you've finished your meal, and you try to balance your magazine over the dirty dishes. A flight attendant races down the aisle reminding people to fasten seat belts and return trays before landing at the next stop, but disappears before you can get her attention. You're forced to land with a tray in your stomach.

In the air again, you adjust your seat to get more leg room, but the woman behind you raps you on the head. She doesn't speak English, but you decipher eventually that she fears her tray will be shoved into her chest if you move your seat back. You try to tell her that airline seats move independent of the trays, but she doesn't understand. You give up, smile and tell her in English that if she raps you on the head again, she'll arrive in Europe with one less finger.

You step over two other people to get into the aisle, only to find it blocked by a cart filled with duty-free goods being peddled by the flight attendants. No rush, though, because 25 people are waiting in line to use the washroom. When it's finally your turn, you discover that a tobacco spitting passenger has plugged up the sink.

You wait in line for the next washroom, but the guy in front of you decides to shave and take a mini-bath. You knock on the door and ask him if he plans to be buried at sea.

These are only a few of the incidents that happened to me aboard the flights to and from Scandinavia recently. The ground experiences were equally stressful, from being herded off the plane in New York for a customs check, with unscrupulous red caps offering to transport your bags three feet to the airline weigh-in slot. In one case, one of the passengers never saw her bag again. In another, a passenger saw his $15 bottle of imported liquor splattered on the floor.

Going to and returning from Scandinavia we wasted an entire day traveling and spent two 24-hour periods without sleep. Two days after arriving in Denmark I had a cold which became even worse on the return flight to America.

Flying is not a pleasant experience any more, and while I love visiting different places, I'm almost ready to give it up to avoid the misery of the plane trip. While airlines are offering free flight plans and executive incentives, they are overlooking the comfort of the passenger. I don't care how many miles of free travel they give me if I'm miserable every inch of the way.

Frankly, I'd rather go by cattle car.

Borrowed Nonsense

She knew the tooth had to be pulled, but the nervous patient in the dental chair had her mouth clamped shut. When ready to proceed, the dentist had his technician jab her in the seat with a pin. The involuntary reaction unclamped the jaw and the dentist was able to complete his work. "That wasn't so bad, was it?" he asked the lady left the chair. "No, it wasn't," she agreed, "but I didn't know the roots went that deep!"

"Now, sir," the salesman pressed as his concluding point, "do you know of any other hospitalization policy that guarantees to put you in a room with three other fellows who are also interested in playing poker?"

A man disgusted with modern art entered a blank canvas at an art exhibit. "What's that?" the first browser asked. "A contented cow eating lovely green grass," the man explained. "Where's the grass?" the bewildered viewer asked. "The cow ate it all," the man smiled. "Then where's the cow?" the browser pressed. "If you were a cow and you ate all the grass," the man sneered, "would you be hanging around?"

The news coverage with clear vivid pictures is terrific. We very much appreciate the schedule of events section. No reason for not knowing what is going on in our community! The sports coverage and photos are great.

The story of Adrian Wiseth was very touching and effective. Your paper brings out the compassion of the community for a neighbor. Terrific!

Also the story of Keefe's Kennels—great! And so on and so on — we could enumerate many more good and exciting features of your paper.

Everyone should get a raise in pay and another week's vacation!

Keep up the good work.

To the Editor:

Has anyone noticed the new Thief River Falls Times? Since it came under new management, more news coverage on local events in our community and in the surrounding area. More photos of all kinds of events, either in town or out-of-town, and for only a nickel more we have a great newspaper. Keep up the good work.

To Our Friends in Minnesota:

On behalf of the farmers of Alabama, I would like to express our deepest gratitude to all of those in Minnesota who worked to bring the hay harvest gifts to us in our time of need. We would like also to thank Governor Pecch and his office and Commissioner Nichols and his staff at the Minnesota department of agriculture and its division, the Minnesota trade office, for their official assistance with this special relief project and ongoing efforts to keep us informed of everyone's participation in it.

The quickness with which your people responded to our farmers' need for help and the swiftness with which you mobilized such a massive relief campaign showed a compassion that is overwhelming.

This hay has helped our farmers feed their cattle during one of the worst droughts Alabama has ever known. The extraordinary cooperative effort behind your haylift will stand as one of the most remarkable acts of unity this country has every seen and will serve to remind all Americans of the strength that lies in a neighbor's helping hand.

All those who gave of themselves in this great community-spirited endeavor are to be commended for exemplifying the true meaning of the words, "to love your neighbor as yourself." Your caring has given Alabama's farmers a special gift of strength, we can call on again and again, when we need help, and when others need ours.

One of our farmers put it best: "It's hard to believe that people from so far away with their own problems would care enough to try to help us down here. I want them to know it's made us willing to try hard to hang on and to help our neighbors hang on, too... may they be blessed for having shown us such kindness."

Sincerely,
-s- Albert McDonald

Farm Bureau To Promote Ethanol As Fuel Enhancer

Minnesota Farm Bureau federation is launching effort to point out the benefits of using ethanol to key persons in the automotive and petroleum industries.

The effort is directed at automobile mechanics, service station owners, petroleum distributors and auto mechanics students, according to Merlyn Lokensgard, Minnesota Farm Bureau president.

"The auto mechanics and petroleum jobbers are two very important groups who can either promote or jeopardize the use of ethanol," Lokensgard said. "We hope that these people will promote ethanol with as much enthusiasm as we in Farm Bureau are."

Information which points out why ethanol is an enhancer and not a detriment to gas-burning engines has been distributed to organizations representing petroleum distributors, service station owners and mechanics. The farm organization has also contacted mechanics instructors at 85 high schools and 25 AVTIs in Minnesota, urging their support for and understanding of ethanol.

The group hopes to impress upon the mechanics and petroleum industry representatives that ethanol is tested and approved as a gasoline blend, and has been unfairly blamed for causing damage to carburetors and other car parts. Produced from corn and other agricultural products, ethanol is an effective octane-enhancer and an ideal replacement for lead in gasoline, the Farm Bureau says.

Ethanol also creates another domestic market for agricultural products, which eventually results in savings to taxpayers and improves the value of those products, Lokensgard added.

"We hope to promote the fact that ethanol-enriched gasoline is safe to use and good for America, and we hope that the petroleum jobbers and gasoline engine mechanics will join us in this effort," he concluded.

Producer Groups Call For Senate Credit Amendment

National Pork Producers council (NPPC), in concert with other leading agricultural commodity groups, has endorsed a proposed U.S. Senate amendment that would allow the Farm Credit system to reduce the cost of its borrowings by purchasing its own obligations and issuing new debt, in order to reduce its interest expense. The $2.8 billion cost of the proposed refinancing would be amortized over 20 years.

Benefits of the proposal, an amendment to the Farm Credit system borrower interest rate relief act of 1986, would be provided to farm borrowers in the form of lower interest rates.

Currently, the Federal Land banks are holding some $30.8 billion in bonds that have an interest rate of nine percent or higher compared to other current bond rates of approximately six per cent. As a result, the Federal Land banks are not providing competitive interest rates to member borrowers.

NPPC, and the other agricultural commodity groups who endorse the concept, say it would substantially reduce the possibility that federal financial assistance will be required to bail out the Farm Credit system. It would also reduce the need for transfer of capital between Farm Credit system institutions.

The other agricultural commodity groups calling for passage of the Senate amendment, in addition to the National Pork Producers council, are the National Soybean association, the National Cattlemen's association, the National Cotton council, the National Milk Producers federation, the National Association of Wheat Growers, the National Corn Growers association and the National Grange.

Unlimited Shapes Theme For UMC's Fall Style Show

"Unlimited Shapes" is the theme for the fall quarter fashion show to be presented at 7:30 p.m Tuesday, October 21, in Kiehle auditorium at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

The show, which is open to the public, will feature the new casual look, the new denim look, update on career wear and new shapes for evening, according to Professor Ella Strand, fashion merchandising instructor in UMC's business division.

Although all students in the fashion merchandising department are involved with the show, the planning and coordinating are handled by second-year students as a class experience in fashion show coordination. Students are also involved in publicity, stage arrangements, script writing, selection of music and plans for the reception following the show.

Fashion merchandising at UMC is designed to provide students with a knowledge of the fashion field as well as a business background in marketing, sales, merchandising and management. Study includes design, production and distribution of apparel, and accessories.

Graduating with a business major, UMC students in the fashion merchandising program are prepared for careers as salespersons, managers, buyers, fashion coordinators, store managers, editors and bridal consultants, according to Strand.

Tickets for the fashion show are $2 and may be purchased at the door. Refreshments will be served following the show.

AN END-AROUND run by Thief River Falls wide receiver Chris Nelson (96) lost 12 yards in the first quarter of Friday's high school football game against Fergus Falls at Prowler Field. Defensive tackle Rich Steidl (76) of the Otters gave chase on the play. Fergus Falls shut out Thief River Falls 33-0. The Prowlers close out their regular season schedule Wednesday by hosting East Grand Forks.

Fergus Falls 33, Thief River Falls 0 . . .

Otters Blank Prowlers

A week earlier Thief River Falls dominated Grafton in winning a 22-' homecoming game. But the tables were turned Friday night when the Prowlers were overwhelmed by Fergus Falls 33-0 in a one-sided Section 8A high school football game played at chilly Prowler Field.

In beating Grafton, Thief River Falls had a 19-7 edge in first downs and a 298-12 advantage in rushing yardage. Those figures were reversed in the loss to Fergus Falls as the Otters accumulated a 14-4 edge in first downs and had a 282-59 advantage in rushing yardage.

Fergus Falls' big front lines dominated play on both sides of the ball. The Otters never attempted a pass, running the ball, effectively, 54 times. People like 253-pound Rich Steidl and 225-pounders John Rose, Scott Thelen and Tony Swendsrud stopped Thief River Falls cold when the Prowlers tried to move the ball, and opened up holes big enough so that a Fergus Falls offensive backfield obviously lacking any real breakaway threat still averaged 5.2 yards per carry. Rob Starkey, a 175-pound junior, carried 21 times for 132 yards. Eric Gaustad, a 165-pound senior, scored three touchdowns.

"They're not the best football team we've seen this year," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "I honestly thought we could beat them. But they beat us in every phase of the game. Maybe they are that good of a football team to whip us like that."

Fergus Falls started scoring in the first quarter after Rose recovered a fumble by Thief River Falls wingback Jim Hahn at the Thief River Falls 33-yard line. Eight plays later Gaustad went into the end zone standing up off the left side from two yards out with 1:44 remaining. Daryl Muchow made it 7-0 with the conversion kick.

Early in the second quarter, a 27-yard Rick Rosetta punt and a 9-yard Matt Abramson return set the Otters up at the Thief River Falls 49-yard line. They scored in seven plays as Starkey cut through the middle on an 11-yard touchdown run with 7:54 remaining in the first half. Big play on the drive was a 20-yard gain on a fourth-and-eight fake punt run by Chad Stueve, despite repeated directions shouted from the Thief River Falls coaches to watch for that exact play as the Otters lined up to punt at the Prowlers' 43-yard line.

It became 20-0 before halftime when Gaustad bounced into the end zone off the right side from a yard out with 1:12 left. It was a 35-yard Rosetta punt and a 13-yard Abramson return that set up the 40-yard, 10-play drive. A pass interference call on Brian Kertz, when he inadvertantly tripped receiver Jeff Hess as he went for the ball, gave Fergus Falls a first down at the Thief River Falls 9-yard line.

Fergus Falls' blockers blew away Thief River Falls defenders with ease on a 10-play, 67-yard touchdown sprint that made it 26-0 with 1:28 remaining in the third quarter. Gaustad went inside for the touchdown on a 15-yard run.

A Fergus Falls second unit looked just as impressive as the first bunch when they put together an 11-play, 57-yard touchdown drive in the fourth quarter following a Joel Knight interception of a Chris Bjorgaard pass at the Fergus Falls 43-yard line. Ed Leabo, a 165-pound junior, used his second effort to get through the middle on a 5-yard touchdown run with 4:08 to play for the 33-0 final.

Thief River Falls crossed midfield only twice all night — both times in the fourth quarter, the second time only after a Dale Nelson fumble recovery at the Otters' 44-yard line in the final minute of play.

"Our first three plays of the game (on offense) were decent," said Mumm, "but after that. . ."

Thief River Falls, 2-5, will close out its 1986 regular season schedule Wednesday by hosting East Grand Forks in an MEA mid-week encounter.

Hibbing 29, Northland 6 . . .

Pioneers Lose To Cards

Rick Nelson didn't pull any punches. His Northland Community College football team lost a 29-6 Thursday night game at Hibbing, and the Pioneers played poorly in the process. Very poorly, he said.

"We just stunk up the field," fumed Nelson. "We had a very poor practice Wednesday and it carried over into the game. It wasn't one thing in particular, but we didn't even do a very good job with the basic fundamentals of blocking and tackling. Hibbing dominated the line of scrimmage. They out-played us."

Mike Lando scored four touchdowns for the winners. He scored on runs of 30 and 69 yards, caught a 30-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Mark Spry and returned a kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown.

The Cardinals led 15-0 at halftime thanks to the Spry-to-Lando fle-flicker near the end of the first half.

Northland scored on a 10-yard Scott Willoughby touchdown pass to Scott Groven in the third quarter, but Hibbing answered with a pair of fourth quarter scores to beat the Pioneers for the first time since 1977.

Hibbing rushed for 265 yards and added 71 more in the air. Northland netted 183 yards on the ground and just 30 passing on a 5-for-30 night in the air. Steve Ristau carried the ball 16 times for 76 yards for the Pioneers, and Anthony McCullough, a fixture at defensive tackle who was making his first appearance of the year in the offensive backfield, had 12 carries for 50 yards. McCullough played in place of Deon Schmidt, sidelined with a concussion. Lando carried 18 times for 184 yards.

While Nelson charged most of his team with "complancy" after the loss, he did cite a few individuals who turned in solid efforts, including Darrin Johnson, who filled in at a couple of spots in the offensive backfield, defensive tackle Jeff Johnson and McCullough, who did well as a runningback and again excelled on defense with two quarterback sacks, seven unassisted tackles, six assisted stops and two passes that we batted down.

Northland, dropping to 2-3, will play its first Northwest Division foe Saturday in a 1:30 p.m. game at Fergus Falls. The Pioneers will close the year at home with Thursday night games October 23 and 30 vs University of Minnesota-Crookston and Brainerd.

TRF Tennis Players Advance Into Region 8AA Tournament

Thief River Falls girls won three of the top four places Wednesday in the 1986 North Sub-Region 8AA individual high school tennis tournament at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

The Prowlers' Kelly Cornell won the singles title, while Thief River Falls' Kristy Maidment-Vicki Grovum and Sharon Dosser-Kaye Dondelinger combinations went 1-2, respectively, in doubles.

Top four singles and doubles finishers will join South Sub-Region 8AA qualifiers at the 1986 Region 8AA tournament Tuesday back at the Grand Forks Tennis Center beginning at 9 a.m.

Apollo and Bemidji will meet in the Region 8AA team finals today (Monday) in Grand Forks. Bemidji beat Thief River Falls 5-2 in the North Sub-Region 8AA title match, and Apollo stopped Little Falls by the same score in the South Sub-Region 8AA finals.

The No. 2-seeded Prowlers beat Moorhead 5-2 in the semifinals of the five-team tournament in Grand Forks, but lost a series of close matches to the aggressive Lumberjacks in the finals, two of them in three sets. No. 1-seeded Bemidji stopped Detroit Lakes 6-1 in the semifinals. The Lakers advanced with a 4-3 opening round win over Fergus Falls.

"We played well," said Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson about the loss to Bemidji, "but we could never get that big point when we needed it."

The victory by Cornell in singles Wednesday was anticipated, acknowledged Olson, because the No. 1-seeded junior is the reigning Region 8AA champion. But the performances of the Prowlers in doubles was a pleasant surprise, especially with the runner-up showing by Dosser, a junior, and Dondelinger, a freshman, who stunned No. 1-seeded Anne Schwegman and Carrie Lucca of Bemidji 6-3, 4-6, 6-0 in the quarterfinals.

Maidment, a senior, and Grovum, a junior, were seeded No. 2 coming into the tournament. They beat their Thief River Falls teammates 6-4, 6-3 for the title.

Cornell stopped Bemidji's Dana Erickson 6-2, 6-3 in the singles finals.

South Sub-Region 8AA qualifiers for this week's Region 8AA individual competition include girls from St. Cloud Tech, Brainerd, Little Falls and St. Cloud Apollo.

In singles, the top four finishers were — 1. Nikki Lavoi, Tech; 2. Carrie Williams, Brainerd; 3. Annie Keller, Little Falls; 4. Ann Carlson, Little Falls.

Top four doubles finishers were — 1. Tina Och-Susan Larson, Apollo; 2. Sara Provinzino-Lynn Fredrich, Apollo; 3. Chris Jackson-Wendy Sandberg, Little Falls; 4. Penny Desanto-Julie Sundby, Tech.

FERGUS FALLS quarterback Pete Snustad (10) was stopped for a five-yard loss on this busted play in the first quarter of Friday's high school football game against Thief River Falls at Prowler Field. Thief River Falls linebacker Rick Rosetta (41) went after Snustad. Thief River Falls' Elliot Baker (64), along with Fergus Falls' Rich Steidl (76) and Rob Starkey (25) are also in the picture. The Otters shut out the Prowlers 33-0.

Lincoln High School principal Terry Soine, in a letter to the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club members last week, announced that a special ticket policy will be implemented for the rest of the 1986-87 school year in which Sports Boosters Club members will be admitted to Prowler home athletic events for half of the ordinary admission cost.

It's a way, said Soine, for school officials to acknowledge the contributions the club and its members have made to the Thief River Falls athletic programs over the years.

Sports Boosters Club members will be able to purchase admission for half-price to all of the Prowlers' regular season football, basketball, volleyball, swimming and hockey games played in Thief River Falls by showing a current club membership card at the ticket booths of the various events.

While the school shows its appreciation to the club in this extraordinary fashion, the club itself will likely benefit from the new ticket policy with an expected increase in membership. It costs just $2 to join, and the membership card will result in a sizeable savings over the course of the school year if you take in a number of sporting events. The club continues to operate and perform support duties for the sports programs, but at admittedly lower numbers than in the past. An increase in memberships will help revive the club, and in turn, add additional support to the sports programs.

Those interested in joining the Sports Boosters Club can contact Al [illegible] at 681-3373, or attend the next club meeting — Thursday, October 23, at 12-noon in the basement of the Ross Cafe. Guest speaker that day will be Thief River Falls volleyball coach Helen Anderson.

Playoffs Near

This is the final week of regular season high school football games, with post-season sectional playoffs scheduled to start Tuesday, October 21.

Area nine-man teams are divided into Section 6 and Section 8 groupings this fall.

Section 8 teams include Argyle, Marshall County Central, Goodridge-Grygla, Hallock, Stephen and Tri-County from the Top of the State Conference, plus Badger, Kennedy, Kittson County North and Middle River from the Northern Lights Conference. Oslo-Alvarado is a Northern Lights Conference member, but will not be involved in the playoff picture.

Eight of those ten teams will make up the Section 8 nine-man quarterfinal playoff field. Coaches meet Wednesday in Thief River Falls to determine the pairings.

Section 6 teams include Clearbrook, Fisher-Climax, Gary, Gonvick-Trail, Oklee, Plummer and Redlake from the North Tri-County Conference plus Norman County West, Twin Valley and Ulen-Hitterdahl. Six of the ten teams will participate in the playoffs — the top three finishers in the North Tri-County Conference, two out of the three from the Twin Valley, Ulen-Hitterdahl and Norman County West trio, plus one at-large team. The playoff pairings, which will be announced Thursday, will find the top two seeded teams receiving first round byes.

In Section 8A, Fergus Falls probably secured the No. 1 berth in the North Half with a convincing 33-0 victory over Thief River Falls Friday to go 3-1 against sectional foes. East Grand Forks surprised Crookston 15-14 Friday, putting the Green Wave in position to pick up the No. 2 seed in the North Half if they beat Thief River Falls in a regular season-ending game Wednesday. East Grand Forks is 1-1 in Section 8A play, Crookston finished 2-2 and Thief River Falls is 1-2.

Staples blanked Park Rapids 18-0 in a match-up of the top two teams in the Section 8A South Half Friday. The Cardinals will take a 2-0 Section 8 record into a Wednesday game against Detroit Lakes. Park Rapids fell to 3-1 against sectional competition, while Detroit Lakes is 1-3 and Wadena 0-3. The Lakers beat the Indians 23-0 Friday.

In post-season Section 8A play, the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the North and South will have the home field site for the opening round quarterfinals against the No. 3 and No. 4 teams. That will put Thief River Falls in either Staples or Park Rapids next Tuesday.

Volleyball Record 13-3

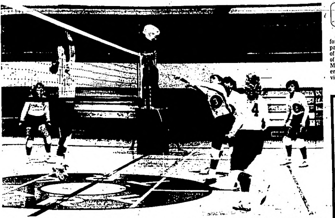
There are some people who might criticize Thief River Falls' 1986 high school volleyball schedule, figuring the Prowlers have padded their 13-3 record against mostly smaller Class A schools while playing only three matches against other North Sub-Region 8AA opponents.

While it's true a bulk of the Prowlers' schedule is made up of area small schools, the wins are not at all tainted. In fact, Class A volleyball programs at places like Plummer, Marshall County Central, Warren, Fisher and Alvarado provide the Prowlers with better competition than they face against North Sub-Region 8AA foes Bemidji, Fergus Falls and Detroit Lakes.

The Prowlers faced the Lumberjacks, Otters and Lakers just once each during the year, and beat them all. Thief River Falls and Moorhead do not play each other during the regular season. It's unfortunate Thief River Falls doesn't have a home-and-home arrangement each fall with all four North Sub-Region 8AA rivals, but for a variety of reasons the schedule for a lone Class AA team in this part of the state must be filled by smaller schools. And of those Class A teams on the Thief River Falls schedule, four of the matches are against former Class AA members East Grand Forks and Crookston.

Thief River Falls has a good volleyball team. The Prowlers haven't been as consistent as coach Helen Anderson would like them to be, but they've shown flashes of outstanding volleyball. The 13-3 record reflects more on their ability than it does on the caliber of competition they've faced.

Anderson figures the Prowlers have a shot at finishing 17-3, but that will take some doing. They finish the year against Fosston, Alvarado, Crookston and East Grand Forks, and that's a tougher draw than Bemidji, Fergus Falls and Detroit Lakes, in spite of the difference in class sizes.



A BUMP by Thief River Falls' Bekah Bortnem (3) sent the ball over the net against Plummer during Thursday's high school volleyball match in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers' Jodi Anderson (4) and Cheri Bjorgaard (2) looked on. The Cardinals' Janelle Konickson tried to come up with a block as teammate Vicki Walter (4) watched.

See-Saw Thursday Night Volleyball Match . . .

Prowlers Outlast Plummer 3-2

Somebody was messing around with Thief River Falls' on-and-off switch again Thursday night as the Prowlers repeated their season-long problem of inconsistency in a 3-2 high school volleyball win over Plummer.

Thief River Falls was "off" most of the night with a variety of mistakes on defense, in setting, hitting and at the service line. But the Prowlers were "on" in Game 5 when they played their best volleyball of the night to close out a 4-15, 15-7, 4-15, 15-7, 15-7 win over the visiting Cardinals.

The Prowlers are like that little girl with a curl in the nursery rhyme, said Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "When we play well, we play really well," she noted, "but when we play bad. . ."

Plummer coach Dean Miller said as much. His team probably deserved a better fate after turning in such a crowd-pleasing defensive effort, but the absence of hard-hitting Robin Brantl, who remains sidelined with an ankle injury, takes a big part out of the Cardinals' offense. The early-season District 31A favorites challenged the Class AA Prowlers with their point-saving digs on defense and well-placed shots on offense, losing only because Thief River Falls put together a complete-game package at the end.

"We can dig the ball out — dig it out and put it in play," acknowledged Miller. "I thought it was a good game. The swing of momentum in Game 4 beat us. We were a little shaky at the end, but they (TRF) started hitting in that final game, and that got them going."

The win put Thief River Falls at 13-3 for the year. The Prowlers visit Fosston Tuesday in their only outing this week. Plummer fell to 11-4.

Plummer spotted Thief River Falls a 4-2 headstart in Game 1, then rattled off 13 straight points for the match-opening 15-4 win. The Prowlers spent most of the game hitting spikes long, and when they did put them in play, the Cardinals were digging them off the floor.

Midway through Game 2, Plummer led 7-6, but several violation whistles at the net went against the Cardinals as the Prowlers scored the final nine points for the 15-7 win. Bekah Bortnem had back-to-back ace serves for points 13 and 14, and the game-ending 15th point came on yet another Plummer violation.

It was all Plummer in Game 3. Renae Walter, who had an outstanding match as a setter, expanded a 3-2 Plummer lead into a 9-2 cushion at the service line as the Cardinals won in a breeze.

Plummer appeared ready to close out a 3-1 match victory in Game 4 when sophomore Nicole Kruse served up a 4-0 lead. But that's when the momentum swung around in the see-saw match as Thief River Falls bolted to a 9-4 advantage, thanks to consecutive aces by Stephanie Benson. The Cardinals pulled within 9-7, but Jill Olson rebuilt the Thief River Falls edge by placing back-to-back ace serves into opposite corners. Bortnem, just inserted into the game, and Benson, who succeeded Bortnem as setter during the match, had aces for the final two points.

Unable to come up with a clean bump on a number of Thief River Falls serves in Game 5, Plummer quickly found itself trailing 9-2. The Cardinals got back in it at 9-6, but Thief River Falls hitter Vikki Weigand took charge at the net to secure the win, twice breaking Plummer service with defensive plays and then serving up a 14-7 cushion. She out-muscled a Plummer defender at the net upon her rotation back to the front row for the final point in the 15-7 decision.

For her efforts, Weigand, a 5-10 senior, was named the Prowlers' varsity Player of the Night award winner. Anderson said the senior Bobbi Thompson also had a strong performance defensively.

Weigand finished with a team-high 15 service points. Bortnem had 10.

Plummer won the junior varsity match 9-15, 15-5, 15-6 and took the C squad match 15-7, 15-10. Thief River Falls junior varsity is 9-2 for the year and the C squad record is 0-4.

Kari Torkelson was named junior varsity Player of the Night and Liesl Steidel earned similar honors with the C squad.

The varsity match, featuring a number of exceptionally long volleys, took 1-hour, 45-minutes to complete

MEA Week Scheduling . . .

Area Nine-Man Football Teams Play Early Games This Week

Area nine-man high school football teams will be playing early games this week because of the Minnesota Education Association (MEA) break Thursday and Friday across the state.

In Tuesday North Tri-County Conference play, Fisher-Climax (5-2) will be at Redlake (0-6), Plummer (3-3) will visit Gary (3-3) and Clearbrook (1-6) drives to Oklee (3-4). Already-crowned conference champion Gonvick-Trail (7-0) draws a bye.

Friday, Gonvick-Trail beat Plummer 28-8, Oklee shut out Redlake 34-0, Gary out-scored Clearbrook 36-20 and Fisher-Climax picked up a 38-14 nonconference win against Hatton, ND.

In Tuesday Top of the State Conference action, already-crowned league winner Argyle (7-0) will play Tri-County (3-4) in Karlstad, Stephen (4-3) will meet Goodridge-Grygla (0-7) in Goodridge and Hallock (5-2) faces Marshall County Central (2-5) in Newfolden.

Friday, Hallock beat Goodridge-Grygla 28-12, Argyle handled Marshall County Central 54-20 and Stephen got by Tri-County 33-22.

Northern Lights Conference games this week will have Middle River (2-5) at already-crowned league champion Kennedy (7-0) Tuesday, and Badger (1-6) at Kittson County North (4-3) Wednesday. Oslo-Alvarado (4-4) draws a bye.

Friday, Kennedy belted Badger 51-14 and Kittson County North defeated Oslo-Alvarado 26-14, while Middl River drew a bye.

Oklee . . . 34
Redlake . . . 0

Oklee packed all of the scoring into the second and third quarters Friday en route to a 34-0 homecoming win over Redlake.

Greg Bishop, a 5-7, 170-pound senior, scored three times and carried the ball 21 times for 155 yards — almost all of it in the first half. He scored on runs of 13 and 6 yards as Oklee took a 16-0 halftime lead, then closed out an 18-point third quarter for the Bobcats on a 55-yard punt return for a touchdown.

Quarterback Todd Bergeron, a 5-5, 125-pound senior, threw two touchdown passes in the third quarter, hitting Chris Lindquist on a 28-yarder and finding Kyle Cantwell on a 42-yarder.

Oklee collected 322 yards worth of offense for the night, 296 of it on the ground. Jeff Hamm, 5-9, 150-pound senior, had 98 yards on 15 carries.

Bishop and Hamm were also the Bobcats' leaders in tackles, but nearly everyone contributed defensively to the shutout, pointed out Oklee coach Dale Svaren.

Gonvick-Trail . . . 28
Plummer . . . 8

Plummer did what nobody else has been able to do this fall — score against the No. 1 defensive unit of Gonvick-Trail, but it wasn't enough to stop the unbeaten Bulldogs from beating the visiting Cardinals 28-8.

John Fisher broke off a 63-yard touchdown run with just 1:35 gone in the first quarter, and Shane Freyholtz pulled in the two-point conversion pass from Wade Grinde for a quick 8-0 Plummer lead.

But on the first Gonvick-Trail snap from scrimmage, Kerry Hopperstad went 52 yards for a touchdown.

A 37-yard Mark Anderson touchdown pass to Keith Haugen later in the quarter gave Gonvick-Trail a 14-8 lead. The Bulldogs doubled the edge with two second quarter scores as Anderson went in from a yard out with 5:42 remaining in the first half and Haugen followed by blocking a punt and recovering the ball in the end zone with 2:26 left.

There was no scoring after intermission.

Plummer played a relatively mistake-free game and stopped the Gonvick-Trail offense most of the night, but gave up a handful of big plays that cost the Cardinals dearly. "They (Bulldogs) had just one drive all night," pointed out Plummer coach Gary Brantl. "Defensively I was pretty happy, except for the big plays."

Offensively, a passing attack that had been a big part of the Plummer offense earlier this year, sputtered because of overthrown passes and dropped balls, pointed out Brantl. "Gonvick has a big, tough line," he said, "I thought we ran the ball well enough to keep them honest (24 carries, 122 yards), but I wasn't happy with our passing game."

Fisher finished with 80 yards on 11 carries and Wayne Erickson had 38 yards on 12 carries. Grinde was 9-for-27 passing for 91 yards. Freyholtz caught four passes for 32 yards and Craig Brantl had three catches for 44 yards.

Defensively, Neil Huotari led the way with 12 unassisted tackles and six assisted stops, while Tom Hesse was credited with 13 tackles and five assists. Freyholtz and Steve Pahlen were both in on nine tackles.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

A 20-minute color film, available for use without charge from the Department of Natural Resources, offers "beautiful close-up photography of all five species of grebes found in Minnesota," according to Carrol Henderson, DNR Nongame Wildlife Supervisor.

Grebes are waterbirds that frequent Minnesota lakes and marshes. Those found in the state include the western, red-necked, pied-billed, eared and horned. Probably best known is the western grebe because of its spectacular courtship ritual in which it runs across the surface of the water.

To obtain use of the film, contact Jeanne Bertram, Film Librarian, DNR, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4046. Ask for film No. 199 (16-millimeter film) or videotape V-199 (VHS ½-inch). Be sure to specify either the film or the videotape.

The film was purchased by the Department's Nongame Wildlife Program, using funds provided through the checkoff on Minnesota tax forms.

Northland Volleyball . . .

Pioneers Split Pair Of Division Matches

Northland Community College split a pair of 3-2 decisions against Brainerd and Fergus Falls to begin 1986 Northwest Division volleyball action last week.

It was a come-from-behind win for the Pioneers Wednesday at Brainerd as Northland triumphed 6-15, 17-19, 15-8, 15-3, 15-3. "It was probably the comeback of the year," pointed out Northland coach Deb Jacobson, noting the Pioneers rallied from an 11-3 fifth-game deficit to get the win.

Northland was at Fergus Falls Friday, where the highly-regarded Spartans prevailed 15-8, 9-15, 12-15, 15-13, 15-10 against the surprising Pioneers.

The Concordia College junior varsity was also on hand at Fergus Falls, and the Cobbers beat the Pioneers 13-15, 15-12, 15-9.

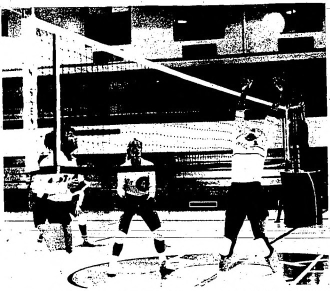
Northland had a busy day in the Moorhead State University junior varsity Invitational Saturday, where the Pioneers won just one of six matches.

Beating the Pioneers Saturday was the Bismarck junior varsity 15-3, 15-7; University of Minnesota-Crookston 15-3, 15-13; Moorhead State University junior varsity 15-8, 15-12; University of Minnesota-Morris junior varsity 15-6, 15-6; and the Concordia College junior varsity 15-3, 15-1.

Northland beat Rainy River 2-15, 15-7, 15-4.

The Pioneers made the weekend trip without Jacobson, who was involved in a family wedding.

Northland has a pair of Northwest Division matches in Thief River Falls next week, hosting UMC Wednesday, October 22, and entertaining Fergus Falls Friday, October 24. The Pioneers are idle this week.



PLUMMER JUNIOR Renee Walter set the ball for a teammate as Thief River Falls defenders Stephanie Benson and Jodi Anderson (4) looked on during Thursday's high school volleyball match.

Nordics Rally For 3-2 Win Over Bears

Out-played at the start, Marshall County Central rallied to beat Lake of the Woods 3-2 Thursday in a North Border Conference high school volleyball match at Newfolden.

The 12-2 Nordics won 3-15, 17-15, 15-8, 16-18, 15-0.

A fired-up Lake of the Woods squad, led by hitting star Kathy Mans, won in a breeze in Game 1, and appeared headed for a 2-0 lead in Game 2 when the Bears had a 14-6 cushion. But the Nordics turned things around for the 17-15 come-from-behind decision, split the next two games, then won going-away in Game 5.

"That was the turning point when we came back in the second game," explained Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We didn't quit. We really worked hard.'

Lake of the Woods, after blowing that early edge, folded up shop and went home early in the fifth game, hinted Mjelde. "They just died," he said.

Although Mjelde said Mans is one of the Best hitters in District 32A, he was more than satisfied with the Nordics' attack that saw Andrea Kragness hit 40 spikes, Jodi Foss and Natalie Ueland 32 each and Kelli Anderson 26.

The Nordics also did well at the service line, he said, where Anderson and Foss were both 21-for-21 on the night.

Marshall County Central visits Middle River tonight (Monday) and hosts Badger Tuesday.

Grygla - Badger

Grygla won its fourth straight match Thursday with a 15-3, 15-13, 15-12 sweep at Badger.

"We played well," offered Grygla coach Mike Gast. "Michelle Jelle played real well all-around, and Wendy Lawrence had a good game at the net."

Grygla, 9-5, visits Greenbush tonight (Monday) in the Eagles' only outing of the week.

Oklee - Fertile-Beltrami

Oklee lost a key District 30A decision at Fertile-Beltrami Thursday as the Falcons swept the Bobcats 15-12, 15-6, 17-15 in a battle for the No. 2 post-season tournament seed behind powerful Win-E-Mac.

"The match was actually closer than the 3-0 score would indicate," reported Oklee coach Brad Borene, "but we just didn't pass the ball very well. We beat ourselves. We couldn't get the ball to our setters."

Oklee, 12-6 for the year, will be at Twin Valley tonight (Monday), the Bobcats' only match this week.

Hides For Habitat Program Promoted By Deer Hunters

Minnesota Deer Hunters Association (MDHA) 1986 Hides For Habitat Project (HFHP) is once again in full swing, said co-committee chairmen Don Sievek and Daryl Bahma who have laid the groundwork for what is hoped to be a very successful second year.

Printing of posters and handouts has been completed. Distribution of materials is now beginning. A vigorous advertising campaign has been initiated through radio, T.V., newspapers, magazines and the use of highway billboards.

In 1985, the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association initiated the Hides for Habitat Program. Even though the first year was of minimal success, MDHA raised $5,625. The money was used for habitat improvement throughout the state of Minnesota.

The 1986 season is expected to be a much larger success with 20 or more local chapters participating.

This year, the MDHA has set a goal of 25,000 hides. Depending on the price, the organization could realize more than $175,000 in funds to be used solely for the purpose of whitetail deer habitat.

Here's how it works:

'Minnesota deer hunters are asked to donate their deer hides to the nearest MDHA chapter. In turn, the chapter will use the proceeds for habitat improvement in that particular area.

Hides should be dropped off at collection points as soon as possible. Most chapters around the state will have collection points. To find out where they're located, either check with your chapter or watch for advertising in local papers and radio stations.

Again, it is very important for you to drop off your hides as soon after skinning as possible, note MDHA officials. Clean as much of the meat and fat off the hide as possible. When you drop off your hides, you'll receive a receipt for $6. The amount is tax deductible as a contribution.

Never before in the history of deer hunting has a program had the "potential" of our Hides for Habitat Program right here in Minnesota, say officials, who note that state hunters take well over 100,000 whitetail deer per year.

Habitat is the key.

Habitat improvement projects will vary depending on the section of the state. For instance in Northern Minnesota projects might be in the form of timber shearing, trail seeding, forest openings and winter deer feeding when needed. In the south, improvement for deer would include food plots, deer yarding areas, land purchased and, among other things, winter feeding. Your local area wildlife manager will be consulted before any proposed project would be carried out.

Here is a chance to positively impact the sport that we all love by a project that will effect deer hunting not only in the next year or two, but for generations to come. The success of the Hides for Habitat Program rests solely on the shoulders of our organization and you, the individual hunter. Tell your friends about the program. Volunteers are needed to participate at collection points. For more information or any questions, contact your nearest MDHA chapter or call Daryl Bahma at 218-829-0839, or Don Sievek at 218-828-2312.

The deer hide has been overlooked as a renewable source of funds for the betterment of deer. But, it can be the cornerstone of investment in a long time Minnesota hunting tradition.

DNR NEWS

Lakeshore Violations

Eight persons have plead guilty in Crow Wing County Court to violations of state water laws and Department of Natural Resources regulations following an investigation which began in the summer of 1985.

The violations occurred at Blue Lake and involved approximately 825 feet of shoreline on six lots of undeveloped property in a recently platted subdivision.

Charges included filling, grading and excavation for beach development and access roads without a permit to work in protected waters, and removing of aquatic vegetation without a permit.

Following the investigation, complaints were issued against the eight persons in April of this year.

Fines ranging from $200 to $500 were levied by the court. In addition, two contractors and five landowners received 30 day suspended jail sentences. Two of those charged were also required to replant bulrush plants destroyed in the course of illegal work in the lake bed.

DNR officials said it was the first time that a landowner has been required to replant aquatic vegetation illegally removed.

All five landowners involved were given after-the-fact permits by the DNR for a portion of the lake bed alteration, but were ordered to restore the remaining areas.

Officials said the matter required considerable expenditure of time and expense by the landowners and the Department, which could have been avoided if the lakeshore owners had taken the trouble to check on the regulations.

They said the case emphasizes the need for persons who are considering the purchase of lakeshore, particularly undeveloped property, not to assume they can make desired improvements without first checking into exactly what work can be allowed.

They added that in most cases Department regulations allow a reasonable amount of improvement work so the landowner can utilize and enjoy lakeshore property, but that the Department is charged by law with the responsibility of protecting the public's interest in the state's water resources and must control indescriminate alterations.

Fire Damages Levies

A South St. Paul man has paid $9,163 in fines and damages for causing a wildfire near Malmo in Aitkin County this spring that burned over several hundred acres and destroyed a machine shed.

Dale E. Patrick was convicted of allowing the fire to spread. He paid a fine of $55, another $508 to the Department of Natural Resources for fire suppression costs and $8,600 to the owner of the machine shed.

Responsibility for the fire was determined by arson investigators Al Sharp and Donald Slinger of the Department of Natural Resources.

Heavy Fines Levies

Two Grand Marais men, convicted of illegally placing gill nets in Lake Superior, have paid fines, public defender fees and other costs totalling more than $3,000.

Anthony Wayne Smith and Keith Timothy Anderson, both 22, were arrested in April by DNR conservation officers and Cook County deputy sheriffs while the two men were pulling their net near the mouth of Kadunce Creek.

The 200-foot net contained 12 steelhead, a lake trout, one coho salmon and a sucker, with a collective weight of 76 pounds. The fish, net and a 12-foot boat were confiscated by officers.

In addition to the fines and other charges, the two men received suspended jail sentences and their fishing privileges were revoked for three years.

The arrest resulted from a tip through the Turn In Poachers program. The investigation also has led to charges being filed against a third person for gill netting.

Officers reported that citizens in Grand Marais have been "positive and supportive" of efforts to curtain illegal gill netting in the lake.

Rare Hawk Found

A rare species of hawk, seldom found east of the Dakota Badlands, was discovered with an injured wing near Lastrup in Morrison County last month.

Richard and Rose Seppelt came upon the bird, that was unable to fly, and notified DNR conservation officer Donald Slinger of Pierz. Slinger took the immature ferruginous hawk to the Raptor Rehabilitation Center at St. Cloud University.

He said the dark phase of the hawk, found near Lastrup, is very rare. The bird is the largest of the Buteo (soaring) hawks and resembles a small golden eagle.

blitzed the visiting Nordics 54-20.

"They have a good team, but we helped make them look good, too," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "We made a lot of mistakes and we didn't play very well defensively, either. We had a lot of poor tackling."

Five turnovers (one fumble, four interceptions) didn't halp the Nordics, either.

Preston Stoltman scored three touchdowns for the winners, who had a 24-0 halftime lead. Tommy Durrand and Bill Rivard both scored twice, with the Eagles pulling away tb a 48-8 third quarter cushion.

Darin Rokke threw three touchdown passes for the Nordics, completing 12 of 26 attempts for 215 yards. He came in as a relief pitcher when starting quarterback Danni Halvorson was switched to tailback following a first quarter injury suffered by Lee Pemberton. Halvorson was 3-for-6 passing for 15 yards as the Nordics came up with their highest offensive figures of the season. But their 95 yards on the ground paled in comparison to the Eagles' huge total. Tom Bolstad caught five passes for 132 yards for the Nordics.

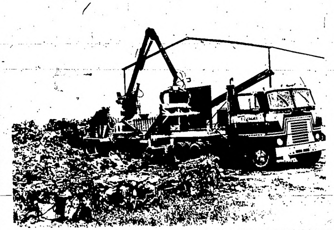
Hotline On Basic Skills Can Offer Help On Literacy

"Minnesota adults who have problems reading or writing may contact the basic skills hotline for information or programs designed to help them improve their literacy skills," says State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer. The hotline's toll free telephone number is 1-800-222-1990.

The hotline is operated by the Minnesota adult literacy campaign and provides information related to basic reading, writing, math and oral language training," Peter Pearson, executive director of the adult literacy campaign, told the Minnesota senate adult literacy subcommittee last week.

"The hotline makes referrals to programs operated by six different provider systems," Pearson said. The six include adult basic and continuing education programs operated by school districts, refugee programs, volunteer tutoring programs coordinated through the Minnesota literacy council, remedial and developmental programs, volunteer tutoring programs coordinated through the Minnesota literacy council, remedial and developmental programs at community college and area vocational technical schools, and programs operated by private non-profit organizations.

Sen. Stumpf, a subcommittee member, said the hotline is one way to put adults who need literacy training and services in touch with programs that can help them.



E-Z CRUSHER, R.M. Johnson Co. of Annandale, MN, demonstrated the capabilities of its metal crushing equipment at Future Fuel Inc. in Thief River Falls. The E-Z crusher was compacting cans and all kinds of metal into bales weighing up to 1,000 pounds each. The bales were then sent to Winnipeg where they were cut up and recycled. The R.M. Johnson co. also builds crushers used for crushing cars. Each E-Z crusher, like the one pictured above, costs around $90,000.

Opponents Of OTH-B Site Gain Area Support

mental in attracting the air force to this area.

Opponents to the site are concerned, like Dyrdal, with the possible tax burden and the devaluation of surrounding land, however. Land owned by the government is not taxable. Residents in the area fear that taxes will be shifted onto those who choose to remain in the area. The possible tax loss they fear may also exist even if the land is leased and not purchased.

Land surrounding a receiver site could be devalued because of restrictions on farming, hunting and transportation, the loss of wooded areas and wetlands, health hazards, erosion of agricultural economic base and future use of the land, opponents say. Restrictions on activities near the site could be necessitated because of the type of equipment used at the site and the sensitivity of the technology.

Dyrdal and area residents wonder how much wooded area and wetlands would be lost either to the land being used or restrictions placed on activities such as hunting. Roads may be removed and restrictions placed on the use of certain farming equipment which creates radio waves or would possibly interfere with the receiver.

Most concerns at the meeting were for health hazards not addressed in the environmental impact study, or possibly uses made of the land once the radar site is decommissioned, which could be within 20 years.

Area residents wondered whether brief or continual exposure to the type of radio frequency radiation emitted from the transmit site will affect the health of people near the receive sites. Dyrdal said the environmental impact study dismissed discussion of this question because the receive antenna arrays do not emit radio frequency radiation. Nevertheless, data on the effects near transmit sites indicate some possible health hazards. It stops short of making this a conclusion because not enough information seems to be available, he said.

Decommissioning the site in 20 years or so, could open the way for nuclear waste repository at that location. "If you think the issue of a nuclear waste repository here is dead, it is far from it," Dyrdal said.

Mrs. John (Connie) Omdahl, rural Warren, said research on nuclear waste storage near Winnipeg is continuing, and continuing with economic support of the United States. "The issue is not dead, just taking the path of least resistance," she said.

She openly questioned whether the fact that the proposed area for a nuclear waste repository and the OTH-B radar site located on much of the same land is just coincidence. She also pointed out that Minnesota may be open as a possible location for a low level radioactive waste repository. She said hearings will begin in November and she wondered how certain the same region would be considered, especially since it was considered for a higher level of hazardous waste. She said hearings for the low level radioactive waste site under the Midwest regional compact will begin in November.

Faith Rud, rural Warren, concluded that the people in this area must be expendable. After all, she said, we are rural and economically depressed, and we keep getting these sites.

Rud said residents in the area should fight location of the OTH-B radar site near Thief River Falls. She said, even if it were discovered that there would be no ill effects from the type of radiation, they have a moral obligation to fight it for the sake of the people in the transmitter site area. "If the shoe were on the other foot," she said, "we would fight it. As I see it, if it's wrong, it's wrong, and we have a moral obligation to oppose it."

She said it was a time to take action. Action should begin, she said, with letters to editors of local newspapers and to city anc county officials. "We should all ask why Jobs Incorporated and the city of Thief River Falls actively went out and recruited for this project without consulting the people most affected by it," she said.

Letters to the governor and legislators, she said, should include a question asking why rural people must constantly live under the threat of displacement.

In an interview the following day, Don Stewart said he takes strong exception to the claim that Jobs Incorporated did nothing to inform the public.

Stewart said nobody knows what land or whose land would be taken and for all he knew the land could all be nonagricultural and unusable for agriculture. Jobs Incorporated has not changed its position and as far as he is concerned the environmental impact statement couldn't have been clearer, especially on health related issues. He said he could understand a person's concern that it might increase competition for available land to rent for farming purposes. "As always," Stewart said, "we are willing to sit down and discuss any concerns with anyone if invited."

Dyrdal would not comment on how many people have signed a petition that is being passed around the rural community, but the statement on the petition reads: "We, concerned citizens, strongly oppose the location of the OTH-B radar project in the Thief River Falls area."

NFO And Other Groups Support Family Farm Act

In a news conference held in Washington, D.C. recently, the National Farmers organization joined with other farm organizations, labor groups, consumers and small businessmen in supporting the family farm act — a new piece of farm legislation introduced into Congress by Sen. Tom Harkin (D-Iowa) and Cong. Richard Gephardt (D-Mo.).

"The family farm act offers a viable alternative to farmers," NFO's Washington director Charles Frazier commented. "It must be recognized that the 1985 farm act is not working well for farmers and time is running out. Other exporting nations are not going to give up markets just because we have lowered our prices to go-broke levels. If we are going to save independent, mid-range producers in our rural communities, there must be a new approach. The family farm act would be an excellent place to start."

Frazier pointed out that he believed the new proposal would reduce the high cost of the current farm program, help producers get supply into balance with market demand, improve prices immediately and offer farmers an opportunity to reschedule farm debt on family-sized farms. But, most important of all, the new legislation permits all producers of major commodities to vote in referenda and control their own futures.

"Producers have shown they are willing to manage America's abundance in return for a fair price," Robert Mullins, National Farmers Union legislative director, added. "They want to earn their living in a market that pays for commodities based on the cost of production and a return on management. Consumers are willing to pay for quality food and fiber, if they can be assured that payment will reach producers instead of being raked off by middlemen. This bill accomplishes these goals, in sharp contrast to current policies that force prices lower and farmers off their land."

The bill, designed by Harkin and Gephardt in conjunction with farm leaders and other sincerely interested rural advocates, proposes action on the twin problems of farm income and farm debt. It contains provisions for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, rye, upland cotton, rice, soybeans, livestock and dairy.

For grain, it contains a transition program with voluntary compliance for 1987 crops and then requires a binding referendum on mandatory supply management for 1988 through 2000. In a straw poll, a majority of wheat producers favored mandatory controls.

A credit section of the bill calls for debt mediation, write-downs, manageable interest rates and restructuring of existing loans.

"Some will undoubtedly question the costs of this legislation," Gephardt pointed out to the press, "but the costs are comparatively modest. Because federal funds would be provided to the states as block loans, the federal government is assured of full repayment. The costs are limited to the cost of funds — something on the order of $600 million per year if every eligible farmer participates. It is time to reverse the 500 per cent cost growth in farm payments that the administration has incurred while cutting back so many other needed efforts."

"We cannot wait any longer," Harkin added. "Rural America is under siege by the policies of our own government and it's time we end those policies and get on with a farm program which provides farmers with a fair price based on parity, not artificially low world market prices. And it won't cost $35 billion next year, either."

Specific provisions of the bill include producer referenda for each commodity, elimination of deficiency and diversion payments, loan rates set at 70 per cent of parity for 1987, increasing one per cent per year thereafter; established marketing quotas for each commodity based on projected demand; use of a progressive targeting mechanism to determine acreage set asides; use of marketing certificates; and a family farm debt restructuring and mediation program.

CLEARWATER NATIONAL FOREST in northern Idaho provided two bull elk and a memorable hunting experience for these Thief River Falls men. Omer Olson (left) bagged his bull the second day of the hunt and Ron Broten hunted a week before collecting his trophy. The two men saw only four elk on the trip, the two they shot plus a cow and spike bull. They took two of Ron's horses for packing back into the mountains and had to pack one of the elk out four miles from where it was killed. They were 80 miles from the nearest town but had to bring Omer's bull there to hang in a cooler when weather turned warm. The success this year was especially gratifying for the men who had hunted four years in Montana without sighting a bull elk.

FIRE HALL VISIT with his kindergarten class from Knox elementary school gave Joshua Cornellie an extra thrill Thursday when fireman Rick Jensen helped him try on a real fireman's helmet. Jensen explained equipment used by firemen and conducted tours of the fire hall for kindergarten pupils at all Thief River Falls schools as part of the observance locally of fire prevention week.

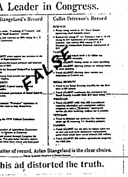
IT'S TIME TO SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT



Arlan Stangeland
A Friend at Home…
A Leader in Congress.

Arlan Stangeland's Record | Collin Peterson's Record

FALSE

It's a matter of record. Arlan Stangeland is the clear choice.

This ad distorted the truth.

What Arlan Stangeland didn't say about Collin Peterson's record

- o Led fight to insure that senior citizens making less than $32,000/year pay NO tax on social security.
- o Led fight to lower state income taxes over $1 billion in 1984 and 1985
- o Led fight to lower farm property taxes 17% in 1985
- o Led fight to eliminate sales tax on farm machinery parts in 1985
- o Led fight to keep hazardous and nuclear waste out of our drinking water
- o Endorsed by ALL major environmental groups

The Real Issue is the Disastrous Stangeland Farm Policy

Stangeland supports:

- o Lower prices caused by lowered loan rates
- o $35 billion/year farm program
- o Continued over-production
- o Whole herd dairy buyout
- o So-called "market-oriented" approach to increase exports

Collin Peterson supports a NEW Farm Policy:

- o Raise loan rates to at least 70% parity
- o Eliminate target prices to reduce government cost
- o Supply management
- o Dairy quotas system
- o Direct export subsidies like every other country
- o The Harkin Farm Bill

Local Schools Join Nation To Celebrate School Lunch Week

by Sharon LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Remember when school hot lunch meant hamburger gravy over mashed potatoes, chipped beef on toast or tuna hot dish? Not any more. How about tacos, pizza, chicken nuggets or a California burger with fries and a shake?

Those are the favorite hot lunches of School District 564 kids, according to hot lunch supervisor Kathryn Kinsman. And what's more, the lunches offered in schools today are lower in salts, sugars and fats than ever before, and meet all nutritional standards set by the U.S. department of agriculture.

Schools in Thief River Falls, along with schools across the nation, are celebrating National School Lunch Week October 12 through 18. Theme is "School Lunch: America's No. 1 Energy Source. It Makes A World of Differnce."

The school lunch program is the oldest and largest of child nutrition programs operated by the department of agriculture, celebrating its 40th birthday this year. The program was begun by president Harry S. Truman in 1946 to safeguard health and well-being of the nation's children and to encourage domestic consumption of agricultureal commodities and other foods. Since then, schools have served more than 115 billion lunches.

Thief River Falls schools serve about 1,500 children each day. The greatest rise in consumption of hot lunch has been at Lincoln high school. From 140 students served five years ago, the Lincoln cafeteria now serves as many as 500 students each day.

Kinsman attributes much of the increase to the implementation of a burger bar there last year, which offers a large hamburger with choice of cheese, tomatoe, lettuce, onion, pickles, ketchup and mustard; a bag of French fries more than comparable with any served at the fast food places in town; and a choice of vanilla, strawberry or chocolate shake, all for a $1 lunch ticket.

But she says many of the students also choose from the daily menu (especially on taco, pizza or chicken nugget days) or from the a la carte table, which features soup, two kinds of sandwiches, salad with several different toppings, fruit, chips and cheese.

This week local school children will be served three ethnic menus to elaborate upon the theme of "a world of difference." Thursday and Friday are vacation days as teachers conventions being conducted. Parents are invited to have lunch with their children Monday through Wednesday in area schools, so choose a day that appeals to you and join the kids in a nourishing, tasty meal. You'll be surprised.

Monday's menu will feature an Italian theme of the favorite, Italian sausage pizza, combination salad, bread, butter, peaches and milk. Tuesday is British Day: fish and chips, peas and carrots, blueberry dessert and milk. Spain furnishes the theme for Wednesday with taco tubs, lettuce and cheese, orange wedges, Zingers and milk. See you at the school.

LINE FORMS TO THE LEFT for the burger bar at Lincoln, featuring a large burger with choice of condiments, bag of fries, and vanilla, strawberry or chocolate shake for a $1.00 lunch ticket. At its peak, the burger bar alone serves 480 to 500 students.

KATHRYN KINSMAN, school lunch supervisor for school district 564, zips from school to school keeping a watchful eye on hot lunch programs in all six schools in the district, serving approximately 1,500 students and teachers each day.

Masons To Open Doors To Public At Open Houses

For the first time in their over 250-year American history, Masonic Lodges throughout Minnesota will open their doors to the public, as part of the fraternal organization's "Minnesota Masonic Family Day," it was announced today by Grand Master of Minnesota Masons, Donald W. Sether. There are over 41,000 Masons in Minnesota.

All of Minnesota's 229 Masonic lodges are expected to participate in the statewide open house, which will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, October 19.

Purpose of the open house, according to Sether, is to promote goodwill between the general public and Masonic organizations, and to "salute Freemasonry, whose existence has been and continues to be a positive, dynamic and constructive force in our society."

Plans for the open house include lectures, brochures and educational displays designed to inform visitors of both the history and current activities of the Masonry. Free refreshments will be served.

Masonry is the oldest and largest fraternal order in the world, with over 5.5 million members worldwide. It began as a type of building craft union, dating back to the early Middle Ages. In fact, Masons constructed the cathedrals and stately structures which still stand throughout Europe and England. Until the 17th Century, Masonic membership was strictly for craftsmen of the building trades.

Gradually, men from business and professional ranks were admitted, including such famous Americans as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Paul Revere, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and most recently President Gerald R. Ford. In all, 13 U.S. Presidents have been Masons. Today, Masonic members hold prominent positions in government, science, sports, entertainment and even space exploration. Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin, the second man to set foot on the moon, is a Mason.

Active in charitable concerns, the over three million Masons nationwide contribute over $350 million annually to various charities.

Most recently, Minnesota Masons have been actively involved in donating blood glucose monitors to schools throughout the state. These machines enable diabetic students to check their blood sugar levels daily. Minnesota Masons also contribute nearly $40,000 to the Statue of Liberty restoration campaign.

Open house at Northern Lodge in Thief River Falls will be held Sunday, October 19, from 1 to 4 p.m. The lodge hall is located at 219 Fifth st. W. in Thief River Falls.

1987 Tax Levy Set . . .

City Council Raises Water, Sewer Rates

Thief River Falls city council adopted the 1987 tax levy Tuesday night. The new tax levy is a 12.3 per cent increase over last year and will raise an estimated total of $1,229,982.

By comparison to this year's tax levy, in 1984 the tax levy raised to $994,250 and was an 11.2 per cent increase over the previous year, in 1985 the tax levy raised $1,062,246 and was a nine and eight tenths per cent increase over 1984, in 1986 the tax levy raised to $1,095,088 and was a three and one tenth per cent increase over the previous year.

According to Roger DeLap, assistant Thief River Falls city clerk, the levy limit calculation formula takes into account inflation of five per cent and the amount of local government aid received. The levy limit increased by $12,044 while local government aid increased by $42,511.

DeLap projects the 1987 local collection rate at 92 per cent, and added to the state homestead credit represents an overall levy collection in 1987 of about 94 per cent.

From the levy, approximately 25 per cent of the amount levied to the county for collection each year is forwarded to the state to be returned in the form of Homestead credit. The proposed 1987 tax levy works out to be an estimated $922,486 collected locally and $307,495 to be reimbursed from the state.

The main reason for the increase, according to DeLap, are an increase in liability insurance costs, bond indebtedness increase, and an increase in the costs of the shade tree program.

Last night's action only set the levy, difficult decisions on where to cut $1[illegible],000 deficit estimated after passage of water and sewer increases still remain. Efforts to cut the deficit projected from early [illegible] proposals are underway. But the biggest difficulty, according to several city councilmen, will be the $188,000 projected deficit in the general fund. Mayor Bob Carlson pointed out that many cities are cutting the number of city employees and non-essential services in an effort to balance budgets. He also pointed out that the projected deficit does not take into account any increase in employee wages.

Suggestions for reducing the $188,243 general fund deficit offered by DeLap include establishing a capital outlay and equipment revolving loan fund to spread the cost of expensive equipment over a five year period, reduce projected liability insurance increases from 10 per cent to five per cent or less for 1987, use an estimated $15,000 left in revenue sharing funds, and the proposed electric and liquor dispensory transfers are $56,000 less in 1987 than 1985 and 1986.

First readings and the adoption of ordinances effectively increasing water rates and sewer rates were passed by the city council Tuesday night also.

The utilities committee and the finance committee jointly recommended to the city council that the rate increase for both water and sewer go into effect for the January 1, 1987 billing. Seventy per cent of the DAM CONSTRUCTION repair has begun at the Red Lake river dam in Thief River Falls. Tons of rock to be dumped in a scoured out hole below the dam are being collected along the side of the river. A one-inch cable will be stretched across the river and a trolley filled with rock will ride the cable to where the rock is needed and the load of rock tripped. During the next month to two months, while construction work is underway, residents along the river should notice fluctuating water levels. The water level will be raised and lowered to help contractors complete repair work on the dam.

Telephone Rates Topic Of Hearing In TRF Tonight

Minnesota Public Utilities commission has set public hearings on proposals that may result in significant rate increases for local telephone service in Minnesota. In one proposal, the access charges for Minnesota local telephone customers would range from 50 cents to $4 per month. These charges would be in addition to all other current telephone charges.

One of the 10 hearings is being held tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the council rooms of the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

The proposals are aimed at finding a new way to compensate local telephone companies for beginning or completing long distance calls in Minnesota now that the commission has authorized competition in the Minnesota long distance market.

The existing intercompany revenue sharing system doesn't work well when more than one company provides long distance service to a community. One of the possible compensation plans proposed by telephone companies is access charges. In proposals that have been filed with the commission, both long distance carriers and local telephone customers would pay access charges.

As a part of its investigation the commission is holding the public hearings. The public is encouraged to attend. Representatives from the commission, participating state agencies and telephone companies will be present at the hearings to answer questions and listen to comments.

Additionally, all of the proposed compensation plans and other recommendations that have been submitted to the commission in this investigation are on file and open to public inspection during normal business hours at the office of the Minnesota Department of Public Service, 790 American Center Building, 160 East Kellogg Boulevard, St. Paul, Minnesota. A copy of each local telephone company's proposal is also available for public inspection at the company's business office.

The public utilities commission notes that there are three basic types of long distance calls: interstate, intrastate interLATA and intrastate intraLATA calls. The Federal Communications commission (FCC) regulates interstate long distance calls

Blood Drive Set October 30 For Grygla-Gatzke

Grygla-Gatzke-Skime blood drive will be held Thursday, October 30, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. at the Grygla community center.

Ralph Rundell, blood drive coordinator, hopes to have 74 donors signed up with appointments two days before the drive.

This year United Blood Services is placing an even greater emphasis on precise inventory control to avoid wasting any of this precious fluid. More O Positive and O Ngeative blood is needed to meet increasing patient demand for these blood types. At the same time, the patient need for AB Positive blood is extremely low and persons with AB Positive blood are not being recruited to donate at the upcoming blood drive.

Since blood is only good for 35 days and patient need for AB Positive blood so rare, UBS doesn't want to draw an AB Positive donor now and risk wasting the blood in 35 days.

"Generally, most healthy people who are 17 to 65 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds may donate," Rundell explained. "There are quite a few people who do not realize they are qualified to donate. People who are taking vitamins, hormones, birth control pills, diet pills, high blood pressure medication or antibiotics for acne may donate.

"We also suggest that donors eat a meal before donating," Rundell continued.

Anyone interested in more information or in scheduling an appointment may contact Mildred Klamar, 459-3436; Virginia Dahl, 425-7442, Karol Byklum, 294-6352, Loren Lusignan, 294-6155; or Ralph Rundell, 294-6177 or 294-6144.

OTH-B Opponents Ask County To Withdraw Support

Opponents of the Over the Horizon Backscatter-radar (OTH-B) site near Thief River Falls asked Pennington county commissioners Tuesday to withdraw their support for the proposed radar site.

The commissioners did not withdraw their support but later passed a resolution to write a letter to Lt. V.G. Brown requesting that he answer the questions posed by the group in a similar letter to Brown. Eight people, LaVern Hamre, Jens Bach, Curtis Swanson, Warren, Mosbeck, Larry Rud, Bill Hogan, Marshall Vagle and Don Dyrdal, presented the request and copy of the letter they sent to Lt. V.G. Brown.

The following questions were presented in the letter: (1) Exactly how does the Air Force plan to offset the shift in tax burden to local residents, (2) if the offset will include offering services, such as plowing snow and maintenance of roads, which would have to have been done by the township or county, please give me a breakdown of the employee time that the local government unit would be saving, (3) what restrictions will be made on recreational hunting of use of firearms in the area; (4) for how many miles surrounding the radar site; (5) what restrictions will be made on the use of high tech farming practices, such as closed circuit television, radio-controlled equipment, laser beams or other electronic monitoring devices, (6) how would these restrictions be related to the relative conductivity of the soil, (7) what is the maximum number of miles for which these restrictions might be made surrounding the radar site.

Also, (8) what protection will local landowners have against any devaluation of land adjacent to the site caused by this project, such as the creation of replacement wetland areas, (9) will a tort claim for damages be available to owners of devalued land or businesses, (10) if the Thief River Falls site was chosen, which present roads would be destroyed, (11) would there be any compensation for farmers for additional transportation expense if they farm land on both sides of the radar site, (12) what assurance can the Air Force give that the site would not be

VIOLIN MAKERS are supposed to be small, quiet men with heavy European accents who work secretively in tiny shops surrounded by an aura of mystery. So what is Warroad high school graduate Bob Wenzel — a guitar-picking, hockey-loving, non-traditionalist — doing in the business of making fine stringed instruments? He's having the time of his life. "If I had known what I was getting into, I probably wouldn't have done it," Wenzel said in the walkout basement shop in the home he had built for himself outside Warroad. Rev Melvyn Budke officiated at the ceremony with Mrs. Elaine Idso as organist. Friends of the couple, Kate Kuhlman and Tom Eckstein, sang "Longer," "The Wedding Song" and "Just You and I."

White bows and exotic flowers decorated the pews and candelabra. Two large floral arrangements of calla lilies, exotic flowers and greenery graced the altar area.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by her father. For her wedding she chose a gown of white crystallette and satin, featuring a beaded, off-the-shoulder, fitted bodice with silk floss-embroidered organza medallions and sweetheart neckline, and full, hand-tucked ballroom sleeves. The full, bouffant skirt was trimmed with medallions and lace, with wire hemmed ruffles accenting the front and cascading down the back to flow to a cathedral-length train.

Honored guests were. Lola Row, grandmother of the groom from Devils Lake, ND, and Eva Klingbeil, great-aunt of the groom from Fargo, ND.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. George Broadwell, friends of the couple; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baisch, friends of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Row, uncle and aunt of the groom. Dancing was to "After the Fact."

The wedding cake was a three-tiered creation with a flowing pink fountain at the base, decorated with pink roses and greenery. Colleen Johnson, Minot, ND, and Dorothy Eaton, Grand Forks, ND, both aunts of the groom, cut and served the cake. Ruth Poissant, Buxton, ND, also an aunt of the groom, poured.

Virginia Liden-Harlan Stendel Wed In Battle Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan O. Stendel are at home in Plymouth following their July 19 exchange of wedding vows at Our Lady of the Lake Catholic church in Battle Lake. The bride, the former Virginia Marie Liden, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane L. Liden of Battle Lake, formerly of Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Stendel of St. Louis Park.

Rev. David Maciej officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony, with the bride's sister, Debi Anderson, Thief River Falls, serving as reader for the service. As prelude, Debi Anderson and Jeff Liden, Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, sang "Sunrise, Sunset." Before the processional, Jeff sang a solo of "Suddenly," and "Longer" as the couple lit the unity candle. Wedding march was "Trumpet Tune in D. Major." After the exchange of vows, the guests joined the wedding party in singing, "Let There Be Peace on Earth." Lisa Anderson of this city, niece of the bride, served as pianist for the ceremony. Recessional was "Wedding March" from A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Two matching arrangements of mixed flowers of orange and yellow tiger lilies, daisies, babies' breath and carnations graced the altar.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her parents, was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin-knit, featuring long, fitted lace sleeves and a lace ruffled bodice. A double-tiered chapel-length veil of bridal illusion edged with scalloped lace was held in place by a halo headpiece covered with satin and lace. The gown and veil were designed and fashioned by Paula Lendobeja of Eden Prairie, formerly of this city.

To compliment her gown, the bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums and roses, white gardenias, stephanotis and babies' breath, with white satin ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Susan Alstrom of International Falls, friend of the couple. She wore a tea-length gown of pale yellow crepe featuring full sleeves, and a drop waist and low V-back, with accessories of pearl earrings and necklace. Her bouquet was composed of yellow mums and gardenias accented with orange forget-me-nots and white satin ribbon streamers.

The bride's personal attendants were her sisters, Debi Anderson of Thief River Falls, and Mary Williamson, Greenbush.

Serving as his brother's best man was Todd Stendel of St. Louis Park. Ushers were John V. Anderson, Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the bride, and Tom Halvorson, Fergus Falls, cousin of the groom. All wore brown tuxedos with satin lapels and pale yellow pleated shirts with winged collars and yellow rose boutonnieres. The groom wore a brown tuxedo with white pleated shirt and boutonniere of single yellow rose and white stephanotis.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a yellow street-length gown with tulip sleeves, accented with yellow and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a peach blouson dress with pleated skirt and white accessories. Matching corsages were of white gardenias.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Virginia Houle, Red Lake Falls, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Ida Reinke, Blue Earth, and Mrs. Mary Stendel, Waseca, grandmothers of the groom; and Mr. and Mrs. Aurel Tougas, Wadena, godparents of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception and dinner in the church parlors, with Mr. and Mrs. Tim R. Hanson, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, as host and hostess. Ms. Kim Anderson, cousin of the groom, presided at the guest book and punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Larson, Owatonna, cousins of the groom.

The square, three-tiered, vanilla wedding cake was iced in white with fresh flowers surrounding the base and separating the tiers. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Ruby Hanneman, Fergus Falls, friend of the bride. The cake top, hand-made by Madonna Rombach, Portland, OR, aunt of the bride, featured a crocheted heart and bells with silk flowers and ribbons. Gloria Liden, Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Patricia Anderson, St. Peter, aunt of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake.

All flowers for the wedding were fashioned by Julie Lendobeja of Eden Prairie, formerly of Thief River Falls.

After a wedding trip to Eagle Lake, Ontario, the couple is at home at 2334 Jonquil Lane, Plymouth, MN. The bride is employed with the U.S. Postal service in Hopkins, and the groom with the City of St. Louis Park water department.

Legion To Survey Veterans About VA Hospital Care

American Legion national commander James P. Dean has announced a nationwide health care user survey by the Legion to find out about the care veterans are receiving in VA hospitals, their perception of the VA system and about problems, if any, they encountered in seeking the medical care they required.

"Because of the constant chipping away at VA benefits, I am announcing today in Minneapolis the start of an intensive program over the next 90 days of a survey of patients at every VA hospital and outpatient clinic in the U.S.," Dean said. "It is my hope that by the end of January, I can tell Congress, the President and the administrator of the VA that we have found no serious problems. But I do not believe that will be the case. I believe we will be able to provide cold, hard facts about the human impact of the budget-cutting efforts being made on America's most deserving citizens."

National commander Dean made his comments at the Minnesota Press club in Minneapolis while he was in Minnesota for the homecoming celebration of the new national president of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Evelyn Starr of Cambridge.

"In the final analysis, the American Legion believes it is time to provide facts and figures to back up what we have been saying for years. The VA medical system is not being abused by rich veterans. Rather, it is being used by veterans who have nowhere else to turn. A veteran needing medical care and unable to provide for his or her own care, must go somewhere, if not the VA, then another medical facility. The money for that care will have to come from some public budget. . .and Americans will still have to pay the medical bill for those Veterans."

The National Commander also said the Veterans of Minnesota are especially proud, "and rightfully so, of their unending efforts to see the new Veterans Administration medical center constructed. . .the new $189 million VA medical center which will open next fall in Minneapolis.

"It was a long, hard-fought battle, but the victory has almost been realized. That VA medical center will provide a modern facility to care for the many veterans who have nowhere else to turn for medical care."

Dean said he recently met with President and Mrs. Reagan about the "war on drugs."

I pledge support of the American Legion's 2.7 million members, and I pointed out to the President that the American Legion has been providing drug and alcohol education materials to schools and communities for several years. We saw the problem long ago and we will continue to do what we can to protect the next generation's leaders from the dangers of drug abuse."

Dean said the Legion also will conitnue to work "with all our might to protect our children. As a parent, I am alarmed at the almost daily stories in the media about abused or missing children. Every child in the United States has the right to grow up in freedom without fear. Only adults can guarantee this right. We must do all we can to shore up the family in America."

Mrs. Evelyn Starr has indicated that the American Legion auxiliary will be making the child abuse problem in the United States one of its primary programs this year including distribution of 500,000 comic books to children dealing with the problem of child abuse.

Teen Distress Topic Of Meeting Set At Bemidji

A one-day satellite video teleconference "Teens In Distress: Responding To High Risk Youth" designed to teach skills and provide information to adults who work with youth experiencing stress or depression will be offered at nine locations across Minnesota on October 28. One of the sites will be at Bemidji.

Identification of youth considered to be at high risk for depression or suicide, intervention strategies and a community based model for providing a support system will be explored. Dr. Barry Garfinkle, director, child and adolescent psychiatry, University of Minnesota medical school, who is internationally known for his expertise on teen suicide and depression, will be a featured presenter.

"Adults must recognize enormous anguish that some of our adolescents experience. Too many turn to permanent solutions for temporary crisis without looking for help. We have a responsibility to provide help in a sensitive manner," Dr. Garfinkle said.

Features of the conference include:

- Interviews with Minnesota youth about stress and how they cope.
- Interviews with adults who have had experience with a depressed or suicidal adolescent.
- Factors to consider in identification of a youth who is at risk.
- Steps in crisis intervention.
- Suggestions for working together to provide an effective support system.
- Interviews with those involved in programs where there are youths at risk.

This conference will be presented live via a satellite videoteleconference (two-way audio and one-way video) and local speakers and activities. Participants will have the opportunity to ask questions by phone to the presenters.

This program is sponsored by the Minnesota extension service; the state board of vocational technical education (area vocational technical institutes); the Minnesota department of education learners support systems; University of Minnesota medical school — adolescent psychiatry; and the education cooperative service units.

"The combined efforts of the agencies involved in this program are essential to provide greater impact on the problem in this state. The task of helping young people is greater than what one group can handle alone," said Florence K. Stater, consumer and family education specialist with the state board of vocational technical education.

Preregistration is required due to space limitation. To register, call Phyllis Jenks, at the office of special programs, Minnesota extension service, at 1-800-367-5363.

Board Certifies $3,463,601 Levy For 1987 Taxes

Acceptance of the 1985-86 audit report and certification of the 1986 tax levy payable in 1987 took place when the School District 564 board of education met Monday evening in the school district service center.

Prior to the business meeting a certificate of membership was presented by board chairman Hank Hallstrom on behalf of the Minnesota Music Educators association to Mark Olson, Lincoln band student, for his participation in the MEA all-state band this past summer.

Bob Poissant of Anderson, Poissant, Kays and Company presented the audit report. Total levy for 1987 of $3,463,601 was certified and includes: General fund, $2,170,621; transportation fund, $198,666; community education fund, $89,774; capital fund, $609,993; debt fund, $250,211; AVTI general fund, $36,872; and AVTI debt fund, $107,463. Excess fund balance of $10,548 in the AVTI debt service fund was declared.

Proposed reorganization plan for AVTI administration was presented for discussion and will be presented for formal approval at the next regular board meeting October 27. It was noted that final approval had been given to offering an accredited AAS degree in the aviation maintenance technology program and an update was given on cooperative planning with the Bemidji AVTI.

Formal resolution was adopted calling the annual school election on November 4 in conjunction with the county, state and federal election. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 21 precincts in Pennington county, three in Red Lake county and five in Marshall county. Candidates include Frank Womack, Greg Pribula, Ron Martin, Dennis Kiesow, Jack Boyer, Paul Bortnem and Jay Borchert.

Membership list was approved and a mission and goal statement presented for an ExCEL program task force. Board members on the membership list are Greg Pribula and Maryel Anderson. Buildings and grounds supervisor Jerry Prickett updated the board on work of his department and was commended by the board for his efforts. Commendation was also given to the school district staff for open houses conducted this fall.

Resignations were accepted from Clayton Restad, mathematics instructor at Lincoln, effective November 15 and Bonnie Denly, regular route bus driver, effective October 15.

Hired were Mariann Stark, temporary teacher aide at the AVTI through November 21; Lawrence Carlson, part-time fifth grade band instructor; Jeff Wilkens, long-term substitute bus driver; and Curt Philipp and Alan Walker, regular route bus drivers.

Extra-curricular assignments approved were: Jeff Rosetta, part-time girls diving coach; Tracey Wensloff, head high school baseball coach; Clay Houselog, head middle school boys track coach; Sue Froiland, Mark Twain school pattol; and Marsha Boldt, Knox school patrol.

Meet and confer session was scheduled for October 27 at 7 p.m., followed by the regular meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Protection From Utility Shutoff Effective Today

Protection against winter season heat shutoffs starts today (Wednesday) according to the Minnesota Public Utilities commission.

The cold weather rule ensures gas and electric service to low income customers who cannot pay high monthly bills during the winter if they agree to a schedule or partial and deferred payments with their local utilities. Customers who refuse to pay or do not comply with payment schedules can be shut off.

"Customers with payment problems should contact their utilities immediately to determine eligibility and work out a payment plan. The company also can refer them for financial assistance under several programs," said commission chairman Harry Seymour Crump. "If the customer and the utility company cannot agree, the matter is automatically appealed to the public utilities commission."

Low income households qualify for special assistance but all utility customers ar entitled to a payment schedule regardless of their income. Although municipal utilities and cooperatives are not under the commission's authority, many of them have voluntarily adopted policies similar to the cold weather rule.

"The rule helped protect 56,000 consumers from the threat of disconnection during last winter's season," Crump said.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter concerning the "Pumpkin Fest Pageant." I disagree with the person who wrote the letter when she stated that the pageant does not build self-esteem. It is true that only one girl in each age category can wear a crown, but each girl is a winner by participating; there are no losers.

My daughter entered the pageant last fall, and much to her surprise and mine, she was chosen "Miss Pumpkin Fest." I thought any one of the girls entered in that category could have won.

It is a local pageant for the girls to have fun. By the smiles I saw last year, I am sure each one of these girls from three years to 11 years old was having a good time.

My daughter participated in the "Miss Minnesota Pre-Teen" pageant this past summer along with 100 other girls from eight years old to 12 years old. She did not place in the top finalists, but she did gain self confidence by playing her piano solo and modeling her evening gown in front of an auditorium filled with people. She also made a number of new friends. She felt that the pageant was a great experience.

My daughter, Courtney, will be crowning the new "Miss Pumpkin Fest" on Thursday, October 16. I hope to see a number of smiling faces eager to have a good time.

Clarice Torgerson

To The Editor:

The question of the OTH-B site has ignored several possibilities in the whole issue. Rather than having the people in the affected site plan have to sell their land to the air force, have the air force rent the land in five-year terms, pay an indemnity for the lost wildlife management areas and guarantee at least 75 per cent local employment for all phases of the project.

By renting the land, area residents can get a better cash value for the use of their land and have the option of renewing the contract based on reviews of the situation. The indemnity can help develop new wildlife management areas or help maintain existing management areas. Finally, the guarantee of employing such a percentage of local employees might help the area's present economic status. I realize this is not a complete analysis of all the issues concerning the OTH-B project and I didn't mean it as such.

The air force probably wouldn't accept such a plan because it would take too much control out of their hands and cost too much for them. But what is going to be the cost for us locally if we give up too much?

Karlstad Forms New Christian Singles Group

Organizational meeting of the "new", Christian singles fellowship will be conducted Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the Heritage Christian school in Karlstad. Those attending will provide help in determining how the group will operate in the future.

In addition to organizational business, those in attendance will be invited to participate in volleyball, basketball and table games and a lunch to be served. Widowed, divorced or never married singles of all ages are encouraged to participate and those from any religious denomination or who are not members of any church are invited.

Efforts by the Karlstad ministerial association to start a singles group with two picnics this summer met with only modest attendance. The fall season is expected to result in a larger turnout. Persons who have questions may contact Seth Borsvold at 436-2729, Jim Carlson at 436-2321 or any of the pastors in Karlstad churches.

Mesaba To Offer Charter Service To Small Groups

Mesaba Aviation, Inc., has established an aircraft charter division within its corporate aviation structure to market and sell group charter services with Mesaba's fleet of 19 and 48-passenger aircraft.

Robert D. Swenson, president and CEO of Mesaba, said that, "For years we have been making charter aircraft arrangements for smaller groups that have expressed an interest in travelling with us. Finally we have capacity available in our fleet to actively market what we know is a growing demand of aircraft charter needs in the 19 to 50 passenger group size."

He went on to say that chartering has become a practical option for many groups because of its flexibility and in many cases lower cost structure. With Mesaba's new service, small groups that have had difficulty in finding charter service in the past will now have one available.

City Council Raises Water And Sewer Rates, Sets Levy

water increase will come from the service charge and thirty per cent will come from the usage charge. One hundred per cent of the wastewater increase will come from the service charge.

The sewer service rate increase will raise an estimated $28,000. Basically, rates for both general service (unmetered) and multiple users, the increase will be about 35 cents over the amount they already pay.

For the general service rate, which is available to customers discharging only domestic sewage into the sanitary sewer system and applied to only single-family residential and small commercial customers (6,000 gallon usage basically), the rate will increase from $4.60 each month to $4.95.

For the multiple user meters, mobile home courts, apartment houses and other facilities, the monthly billing shall basically increase from $2.50 to $2.85 multiplied by the number of units whichever is greater.

The 1987 water rate increase will raise approximately $107,000, most of which will be used for 1987 projects. The consumption rate for all water supplied through each meter or through combined or paralleled meters fed from a single independent service from a water main in accordance with the following schedule of rates are: For a five-eighths or three-quarter inch water meter, $7.60; one inch, $23.10; one and one-quarter inch water meter, $32.10; one and one-half inch water meter, $46.05; two inch water meter, $79.40; three inch, $164.40; four inch, $296.65; and six inch $637.90.

The commodity charge, the second part of the schedule, which is based upon the amount of water used, is to recover operation and maintenance expense and is as follows: $1.21 per thousand gallons for the first 10,000 gallons used each month; and $1.31 per thousand gallons for the amount of water used after the first 10,000 gallons per month.

Morris Howick and Jon Metusalem of the Pennington county council on aging for Heritage community center, appeared before the city council to ask that they pay the cost of one of several yet unpaid-for items at the nearly completed Heritage community center. The city council agreed to pay for the cost of putting in a sidewalk around the center at an estimated cost of $2,200.

Thief River Falls has accepted a bid by Mud Cat division, National Car Rental System, Inc., to undertake a field evaluation study of the Red Lake and Thief Lake Rivers for the purpose of a possible dredging operation. The field evaluation study outline includes: material sampling and identification; scope of project defined; equipment recommended; methodology of equipment; estimated productivity; cost of equipment itemized; cost of accessories itemized; anticipated contractors bid range; and assembled and presented in report form. The study will cost $830 of which the city will pay half.

In other business: the vacation of an easement on Gunderson's second addition in exchange for an easement located on a different section of the property was approved; the resignation of Fifth ward Alderman Clayton Restad was accepted and a public notice for a one-year replacement from the fifth ward, which is the area in Thief River Falls bordered on the west by Crocker avenue and by the river on the North and East, posted; also status reports on the separate case filed of Arlen Merill, Doyle Thompson and Melvin Stenberg were given.

In items for information presented at the end of the council meeting, which was adjourned until next Tuesday, Alderman Dale Wennberg announced that Annie park ice skating rink will not have a warming hut this year and will probably not be flooded; Alderman Kenneth Murphy informed the council that the search of water lines in Thief River Falls did not yield as many leaks as anticipated, leaving the loss of 100,000 gallons of water speculatory. John T. Anderson, superintendant of utilities, said further research by his department will continue. The original contract set a cop on the cost of the study at around $13,000, but the final cost was estimated at $6,000.

County commissioners passed a motion to draft a letter to arealegislators and the state charitable gambling board requesting that the Pennington county fair board become eligible to participate in charitable gambling. The fair board used to operate pull tabs at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls, but when the state took over charitable gambling licensing, it was declared ineligible.

Pennington county sheriff Chuck Richards appeared before the commissioners representing Lifestar ambulance in requesting that the Law enforcement center be given permission to answer calls for the ambulance service when the ambulance is on call and unable to answer the phone. The commissioners asked county attorney Dave Olin to draft an agreement between Lifestar ambulance and the Law Enforcement center.

In other business: Tri-Valley transportation presented its 1987 budget request of $3,639.66 to the council, which was down from the previous year's request of $3,755.50; and Northwest Regional library presented information about its budget problems to the commissioners.

The Minnesota Public Utilities commission regulates intrastate long distance.

Prior to the break-up of AT&T, long distance toll revenues were collected by local telephone companies and pooled into a "pot" administered by the Bell System. Revenues out of the "pot" were distributed back to the local telephone companies based on their cost of providing the services and facilities required to begin and complete long distance calls. This method of compensation worked well when AT&T was the only long distance telephone service provider.

The break-up of AT&T increased the competition in the long distance market. The FCC replaced the partnership-like arrangement with a system of access charges for interstate calls. Interstate access charges were established for both long distance carriers and local telephone customers. For local customers, this access charge is the $2 charge added to their monthly telephone bills. This charge is for calls between states only.

In Minnesota, there are two types of long distance calls: interLATA and intraLATA calls. LATA stands for Local Access and Transport Area. Minnesota has five LATAs which generally follow telephone area code boundaries. LATAs were developed as a part of the break-up of AT&T. The Bell telephone companies, such as Northwestern Bell, can only provide telephone service within a LATA (intraLATA). Long distance telephone companies provide service for calls between LATAs (interLATA).

Similar to the FCC's action, in 1984 the Minnesota commission adopted intrastate access charges as the replacement to the partnership-like long distance revenue pooling arrangement for interLATA long distance. Local customers were not charged for the intrastate access charges, but a few local telephone companies were authorized to increase their local telephone rates by no more than $2 per customer to recover a certain portion of their access costs.

Today intraLATA toll calls are generally provided by Northwestern Bell in a partnership-like arrangement with other local telephone companies. The hearings affect costs for these calls. The commission recently authorized long distance telephone service competition for intraLATA toll calls. This means that long distance companies, as well as other local telephone companies which have the ability to provide long distance telephone service, will be competing with Northwestern Bell to provide intraLATA toll calling.

The LATAs are area code 612-Twin Cities; area code 612-St. Cloud; area code 507; area code 218-Fargo-Brainerd and area code 218-Duluth.

CHAMBER AMBASSADORS. Ambassadors to the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce toured the Land O'Lakes turkey processing facility Tuesday morning. Harvey Hanson (left), plant manager, gave the tour which included the area containing the new refrigerating process. The new refrigerator can store 1.5 million pounds or 40 semi-loads of processed turkey. Land O'Lakes in Thief River Falls processes turkeys for as many as 12 different companies.

Restaurants To Note Appreciation For Customers

"It's the person who walks through the door of my restaurant who signs the paycheck of each and every employee in this restaurant," said Tom Hovde, owner of a supper club in Albert Lea.

The Minnesota Restaurant association is encouraging restaurateurs like Hovde to realize the importance of the customer and express their gratitude to them. For the second year, Customer Appreciation Week will convey the message, "We're Glad You're Here!" to restaurant customers.

Customer appreciation is something that most restaurateurs practice year-round, but during the week of October 13-19 the association is encouraging its members to do something extra special for its customers.

Association members will be receiving buttons, posters, staff training materials and special promotion ideas to aid them in preparing for the week-long promotion.

Just one of the returns for the state's increased emphasis on customer appreciation will come in the form of attracting more customers, travelers and tourists to the state's restaurants. According to Arnold Hewes, executive vice president for the restaurant association, "Members are encouraged to make each customer feel that he or she is the most important person in the place."

Kindness, enthusiasm and genuine interest are important commodities in customer appreciation, Hewes said. He emphasized that consumers are the driving force in the foodservice industry. Customers may endure bad service once, but that tolerance won't last long. According to Hewes, great service and attentive waiters and waitresses can greatly enhance the dining experience. He indicated great restaurants require attention to food, presentation and service. If any of these essential qualities are missing, the customer is not being fully appreciated.

Municipal And County Engineers To Talk Roads

Statewide municipal and county engineers screening boards will hold their annual fall meetings October 28, 29 and 30 at Ruttgers Bay Lake Lodge near Brainerd, according to Gordon Fay, state aid engineer with the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT).

Main purpose of these meetings is to establish municipal and county state aid system mileages and money needs. This information will be used by the commissioner of transportation to establish the 1987 municipal and county state aid allotments.

Total apportionment to the municipal state aid street (MSAS) system is nine per cent of the highway users tax distribution fund which accrues from the state motor fuel tax and vehicle license fees. Total apportionment to the county state aid highway (CSAH) system is 29 per cent of the highway users tax distribution fund.

Currently, the MSAS system covers about 2,210 miles and has been allotted more than $59 million for 1986. The CSAH system covers more than 30,095 miles, including more than 775 miles of trunk highways returned to the counties and has been allotted more than $176 million in 1986.

Gary Sanders of East Grand Forks is a member of the municipal engineers screening board while Dave Olsonawski of Kittson county and Lee Amundson of Mahnomen county are members of the county engineers screening board.

Lobbying Group Warns Public On Nuclear Subject

Clean Water Action Project, a national environmental organization which lobbies for legislation to make this country's waters swimmable, fishable and drinkable, is conducting a door to door membership drive in northwestern Minnesota

A nonprofit organization established in 1971, Clean Water Action Project has played a role in passage of the Clean Water Act in 1972, the Safe Drinking Water Act in 1976 and has, for the past three years, worked to re-authorize and strengthen the federal Superfund program. The group seeks to generate grass roots citizen support, lobby in St. Paul and Washington and provide research and education to the public on important environmental issues.

Clean Water Action is currently working to generate support for changes in the Department of Energy's (DOE) high level nuclear waste siting program. The group charges that DOE is trying to fool Minnesota and other second round states into thinking that they are no longer under consideration for a nuclear waste repository.

In a position paper entitled, "High Level Nuclear Waste Program Changes Needed", the project charges that because the nuclear waste policy act (NWPA) has not been changed and because DOE is continuing research on Minnesota-style granite, there is still a very real possibility Minnesota will one day be chosen to store the wastes. Some of these wastes are dangerous for 10,000 years or more.

Clean Water staff members are seeking support for a comprehensive solution to the problem of nuclear waste storage including, at a minimum, the following four changes:

(1) Changing timelines in the NWPA so adequate research can be done before a site is sought; (2) creating an independent agency whose only job is safe siting of the high level repository; (3) developing a national energy conservation and renewable resource program (4) funding the governor's nuclear waste council so Minnesota will have its own technical team to monitor federal activity.

"We're concerned," said Jody Thomas, Clean Water organizer, "that people are lulled into a false sense of security by the DOE's so-called suspension. We think there is a very real possibility DOE will come back to Minnesota after the 1988 elections, after completing the Canadian studies on cyrstalline rock and after having shut people out of the process."

In addition to collecting petition signatures, Clean Water Action Project is circulating the position paper to other environmental and citizen groups to ask for their support "Its been our experience," Thomas said, "that when people are actively involved in public policy and hold policy makers accountable for their actions, programs are developed which protect the health and safety of the people."

Clean Water Action Project has a short-range goal of making sure people know the real status of the DOE's siting program, and a longer-range goal of winning real changes in the NWPA so that the siting program will be as safe as possible.

MFT Campaign To Provide Material Teaching Reading

Minnesota Federation of Teachers has launched a statewide campaign to make available to parents materials that will help them help their children at home with reading and homework.

"The MFT is promoting these materials because we think it's vital for parents to join with teachers to create the kind of positive attitudes toward education that keep kids productive and in school until they graduate," MFT president Richard Mans said.

Mans explained that the MFT also is interested in helping to carry out the theme "Year of the Reader," as proclaimed earlier by Gov. Rudy Perpich.

The MFT is offering single copies of the book, "Your Child Can Be A Super Reader," to parents for a charge of $1 (list price is $5.95). The book outlines reading programs for children ages 7-15 designed to make reading an easy, exciting and rewarding experience at home. It shows parents how to help youngsters become eager and accomplished readers.

Author and New York City school teacher Len Kusnetz suggests ways parents can help build vocabulary. "Many printed materials come into your home on a daily basis. These common household items, such as cereal boxes, mail-order catalogs, television listings, record album covers, newspapers and magazines, all contain new words that your child can learn. Encourage your child to read these materials and discuss the new words that he finds with you," Kusnetz writes in "Super Reader."

The MFT also will distribute free of charge brochures that detail more than 60 home learning tips. "Home Team Learning Activities" describes ways parents can reinforce and reward what children learn in school. For example, one math activity suggests that children can learn about weights and measures at the grocery store. "Let them weigh a pound of apples. How many apples are in one pound? In two? You could also have your children estimate the cost of the grocery list by tallying prices in food ads."

The Home Team brochure stresses that parents and children can work together in practicing the three basic concepts of learning -- read and research, reinforce and reward, and review and reapply.

Mans said he is pleased ith the positive response from the Minnesota PTA and its willingness to help promote these materials among parents. "The cooperative effort between our two organizations demonstrates the kind of commitment we're talking about -- parents and teachers working together to provide the best education, both at school and at home, for our youngsters," he said.

Barbara Zohn, president-elect of the Minnesota PTA, said, "I am very impressed with the kinds of suggestions the book 'Super Reader' and the 'Home Team' brochure make about ways parents can continue the education process at home. I particularly like the extensive list of good books, magazines and free materials that is part of 'Super Reader'," Zhon said the PTA board of directors will discuss ways to encourage the MFT's efforts at its November meeting.

Parents and other interested individuals who would like a single copy of "Super Reader" should send $1 along with their name and address to "Super Reader," Minnesota Federation of Teachers, 168 Aurora Ave., St. Paul, MN 55103. Those who order "Super Reader" also will get a free copy of the Home Team learning tips. Those who only want a free copy of the Home Team brochure should write the "Home Team," at the same address.

IRS Suggests Its Time To Consider Tax Advantages

As the end of the year approaches, so does the time, January 1 to April 15, when taxpayers will again have to make their annual accounting to the Internal Revenue service. With this in mind, and with only a couple of months to go in 1986, now is a good time for taxpayers who itemize to take a look at their financial picture to see if they might be able to legitimately shave off a few tax dollars. This is particularly important now with the pending implementation of the 1986 tax reform act.

According to the IRS, it's not too late to start doing some 1986 tax planning. The IRS gives as an example a taxpayer who anitipates making a major purchase, such as an automobile. This person might want to consider making the purchase by the end of the year in order to take advantage of the sales tax deduction, which is scheduled for repeal starting Jan. 1, 1987.

According to the IRS, the only way a person is going to be able to make sound tax decisions by the end of the year is to start doing some serious tax planning. This means you will have to start assimilating your records. Cancelled checks, receipts, bills and other statements should be organized in order to form a financial picture. Based on your findings, you may want to take action now on certain financial transactions you have been putting off. However, IRS cautions, if your financial picture seems too complex, it might be a good--idea to seek professional tax counseling.

To help taxpayers get off on the right foot in their tax planning, the IRS offers several free publications. A good one to start with is Publication 552, Record Keeping Requirements and List of IRS Publications. This publication along with all appropriate tax forms and schedules can be ordered by calling IRS toll-free 800-424-FORM.

State Community Colleges Record Peak Enrollment

Fall quarter enrollment in the Minnesota community college system is at record high levels, according to figures released by Chancellor Gerald W. Christenson.

There are 41,747 students enrolled in Minnesota's 18 community colleges this fall, an increase of 6.3 per cent over 1985-86. This figure is an increase of 2,460 over the previous all-time high enrollment recorded in fall quarter 1985-86 and is calculated on a headcount basis, including all students enrolled at the community colleges this fall.

"Many experts were predicting that college enrollments in Minnesota would decline throughout the 1980's because the number of high school graduates declined by 27 per cent between 1978 and 1985," said Chancellor Christenson. "The enrollment records achieved by Minnesota's community colleges this fall demonstrate that these colleges are meeting a tremendous educational need throughout the state."

Fall quarter full-time equivalent (FTE) enrollment for the community college system is also at a record level. Full-time equivalent enrollment for fall quarter is 25,864, a 5.4 per cent increase over fall quarter 1985-86.

Full-time equivalency is calculated on the basis of a student carrying 15 credits per quarter. Community colleges, like other public post-secondary institutions in Minnesota, are funded by the legislature on the basis of full-time equivalency.

Chancellor Christenson explained that the difference in enrollment figures reported on the headcount and full-time equivalent basis is due to the large number of adult part-time, working students enrolled at the community colleges.

Fifty-five per cent of the students enrolled in community colleges this fall are attending college part-time; 60 per cent of the student body is female; and approximately 40 per cent of the students are over age 25.

Individual community colleges also report peak enrollments this fall. Record high enrollments on both a headcount and FTE basis were reported by Anoka-Ramsey, Brainerd, Fergus Falls, Inver Hills, Minneapolis, Rainy River and Willmar community colleges.

Record headcount enrollments were also set at Hibbing, Lakewood, and Normandale community colleges. Itasca community college recorded a record FTE for fall quarter.

Northland community college in Thief River Falls, part of the Clearwater community college region, had a drop in headcount of 34 (804 to 770) for 4.2 per cent and a drop in FTE of 10 (508 to 498) for 2.0 per cent.

Halloween Safety Reminder Issued Due To Fatalities

With Minnesota's pedestrian fatality rate up approximately 21 per cent from a year ago (38 to 48 as of September 30), Halloween safety should be a concern of Minnesota motorists.

Halloween is on Friday, October 31. Prior to that time and during that evening, the Minnesota department of public safety has these safety suggestions:

+Children are reminded to cross streets at corners only and to walk, not run, on sidewalks, facing traffic.

+Children should stay in their immediate neighborhood and away from strangers and stray animals.

+Trick or treating should be done in groups with at least one parent accompanying children.

+Children should wear light colored costumes or costumes accented by reflectorized tape. A flashlight, light stick or battery powered lantern can also make the difference between being seen and not being seen.

+Costumes should be tried on before Halloween. Avoid loose, flowing costumes that might tangle and cause a fall while crossing a street. Masks should not interfere with vision.

+All parts of the costume should be fire resistant. If the costume is homemade, soak the garment in a solution of seven ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid and two quarts of warm water.

+Have youngsters refrain from eating treats until they return home, allowing parents a chance to inspect everything.

+If a jack o'lantern is carried, it should be lit with a flashlight instead of a candle.

+Motorists should be especially cautious during the prime Halloween hours.

A final reminder: Daylight savings time ends in Minnesota the Sunday prior to Halloween. Parents should encourage youngsters to make their rounds early because darkness will occur earlier.

The public is invited to attend this official observance of Veterans day along with representatives of the various veterans organizations in the state.

Governor Perpich has issued a proclamation declaring Veterans day in Minnesota, as well as a proclamation that has been issued by President Reagan for the observation of this official national holiday.

Fall Enrollment At UND Shows Drop From 1985

Fall semester enrollment at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks is 11,006, exceeding the 11,000 level for the fourth consecutive year.

The number is down 100 students from the record 1985 fall enrollment of 11,106, said UND president Thomas J. Clifford, who noted that the decline was less than the one per cent projected by the university for the second year of the 1985-87 biennium.

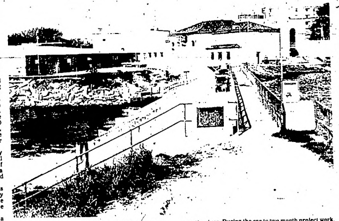
According to Monty Nielsen, director of admissions and records at UND, the 1986 student body is made up of 9,438 undergraduates, 1,148 graduate students, and 420 graduate professional students in law and medicine. Women account for 48.8 per cent of the total, compared to 49.2 per cent last year.

Enrollment by class, with last year's totals in parentheses, is: freshmen, 2,354 (2,346); sophomores, 2,592 (2,608); juniors, 1,853 (1,806); seniors, 2,617 (2,707); undergraduate specials, 7 (7); professional (law and medicine), 420 (439); on-campus graduates, 982 (1,006); extended graduate degree programs, 166 (166); and extended undergraduate degree programs, 15 (21).

Enrollment by academic division is listed, with last year's totals in parentheses: Center for aerospace sciences, 345 (223); college of arts and sciences, 1,957 (1,966); college of business and public administration, 1,421 (1,470); center for teaching and learning, 703 (668); school of engineering and mines, 569 (649); college of fine arts, 82 (77); graduate school (including 166 (166) students in graduate extended degree programs), 1,148 (1,172); college for human resources development, 695 (700); school of law, 210 (233); school of medicine-professional, 210 (206; school of medicine-undergraduate, 234 (247); college of nursing, 368 (402); and extended undergraduate degree programs, 15 (21). Students who have not declared a field of study for a degree are included in the enrollment of university college, 3,049 (3,072).

The decline in enrollment is relfected in the on-campus undergraduate enrollment (down 51 students); extended undergraduate degree programs (down six students); graduate enrollment (down 24 students); and graduate professional enrollment (down 19 students).

Increases were recorded in the number of transfer students to UND from schools in North Dakota, 332 (291), and from schools in Minnesota, 197 (141). Total number of transfer students is 776 (811). The number of beginning freshmen is 1,636 (1,677).



RED LAKE RIVER DAM in Thief River Falls is presently undergoing renovation to repair a deep scour below the dam. Rock is being collected on the east side of the river now. The rock will be dumped into the middle of the river by a trolly car rigged to a one inch steel cable that will span the river. During the one to two month project work, residents along the river will notice fluctuating levels of water in the river. At times the dam will be closed and opened to help construction crews trying to complete the project.

Among the major industry groups, the transportation, communications, and public utilities industry had the highest proportion of union membership — 37 per cent, or 2.1 million members out of 5.7 million workers, according to the May issue of Monthly Labor Review, a publication of the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

About 32.7 million children — well over half of all children under age 18 — had a mother in the labor force in March 1984. More than 9 million of these children were under 6, and 14.7 million were 6 to 13, age groups requiring either full-day care or after-school care, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Labor Department.

U of M Regents Ask Legislature To Bond For Improvements

University of Minnesota board of regents voted Friday to ask the legislature to approve $136.7 million in bond sales for capital improvements.

Projects include $16.3 million for recreational sports and physical education facilities on the Twin Cities campus. University president Kenneth H. Keller has called the recreational sports facilities on the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses among the worst in the country.

"The situation on the Twin Cities campus . . . is critical in terms of providing a good student experience," Keller told regents, who met in Waseca.

Student fees and private donations also would be used to fund the project, which is divided into three phases spread over 10 to 15 years.

The first phase of the recreational sports project would involve building new facilities in the north wing of Memorial stadium. A university swim center also would be built, and pools in Cooke hall, which houses most recreational sports facilities on the Minneapolis campus, would be renovated.

The proposed swim center has been tied to a task force's bid to bring the 1989 U.S. Olympic Festival to the Twin Cities. Swimming and diving events in the festival, which serves as competition for Olympic-caliber athletes, would have to be scheduled in Rochester if facilities weren't available in the Twin Cities, task force members have said.

Other projects in the 1987-89 capital request include $14.7 million for renovating and adding on to the architecture building and $700,000 for outdoor lighting and telephones on the Twin Cities campus; $6 million for continued cleanup at the Rosemount research center; and about $9.8 million in construction and remodeling on the university's coordinate campuses.

Regents also heard an annual investment report including information about investments in companies that do business in South Africa. As of early October, the university owned $10.8 million in stock of 10 such companies, said Roger Paschke, investments director.

In the quarter that ended June 30, the return on investments free of South Africa stock increased 4.9 per cent, according to Paschke's report. That was better than the average of all university-owned stocks, and there is no indication the university's South Africa policy has had a negative effect on investment returns, he told regents.

Paschke also said that $52,000 was contributed to a scholarship fund for black South Africans in the year since the last policy change in the summer of 1985. The total amount in the fund is $110,000, he said.

Regents voted last summer to sell by June of 1987 all stock in companies that do business in South Africa.

Regents also approved Friday a plan for $1 million in self-insurance against property and liability [illegible]. University administrators are trying to deal with increasing insurance premiums and cutbacks in coverage by some companies.

The university will rely more on limits to liability claims set by state law, according to the plan, which would cover $1 million per claim.

The program "should allow the university to maintain its current practice of reasonably compensating claimants while concurrently relying on statutory limits to [illegible] catastrophic limits," a report by David Lally, vice president for finance and operations, said.

Keller told regents of a plan to decentralize administration, giving more autonomy in managing day-to-day affairs to the four coordinate campuses. The plan gives coordinate campuses in Crookston, Duluth, Morris and Waseca more leeway in student affairs, hiring civil service employees, budgeting and planning, recordkeeping and setting student fees, Keller said.

"This ushers in an era of looking to the coordinate campuses to run their own shows more," he said.

Keller also is working with vice presidents on the Twin Cities campus in reorganizing and refining administrative jobs.

TRF Hosts Green Wave Tonight . . .

Prowlers Finish With EGF

Thief River Falls, after dreaming in terms of a 6-2 finish this fall, will settle for 3-5 tonight (Wednesday) when the Prowlers host East Grand Forks in a 7:30 p.m. regular season-ending high school football game at Prowler Field.

While 3-5 isn't what preseason dreams are made of, it's better than 2-6, and that's what the Prowlers would be looking at if they lose to the Green Wave.

East Grand Forks is sitting at 5-2, with wins over Cavalier 16-8, Grand Forks Central 19-12, Barnesville 23-22 in two overtimes, Bagley 31-0 and Crookston 15-14 last week — probably the most impressive victory in the Green Wave win column this fall. The losses came at the hands of Breckenridge 14-0 and Fergus Falls 13-7.

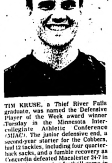
Unlike East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls did not have a strong outing last week. The Prowlers were dominated by Fergus Falls to the tune of 33-0, and coach Jeff Mumm didn't hide his disappointment in the Thief River Falls performance against the Otters.

"I was embarrassed by the way we played," he said. "I don't care how many more years I coach, or where I coach, I'll never have a team play like that again. I knew they weren't ready to play before the game, but I thought they would get themselves ready once the game started. But we never showed up. I don't know what I have to do, but they're going to be ready to play from now on."

East Grand Forks presents a rivalry for the Prowlers that they don't experience against Fergus Falls, and that should help prepare the team for the game, acknowledged Mumm. "The kids are more enthused about this ball game than Fergus Falls," he said.

An aggressive East Grand Forks defense presents a challenge to an inconsistent Thief River Falls offense. "Defensively, they're the most aggressive team we'll see all year," warned Mumm.

Thief River Falls' defense, meanwhile, will be without tackle Bill Dicken. The 6-1, 200-pound junior is sidelined by a shoulder injury suffered in the 22-0 homecoming win over Grafton two weeks ago. He was kept out of contact during the week prior to the Fergus Falls game, started against the Otters, but lasted just one play. Todd Hornseth, a 6-3 184-pound junior, stepped in for Dicken, but that spot may be filled by Rod Hinrichs tonight. Hinrichs, a 5-9, 187-pound senior, has been used at noseguard in recent weeks. He may be switched to tackle, with 5-10, 185-pound senior Blair Lund moving to nose guard. Lund played that spot earlier this fall, but has been at linebacker recently.



TIM KRUSE, a Thief River Falls graduate, was named the Defensive Player of the Week award winner Tuesday in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (MIAC). The junior defensive end, a second-year starter for the Cobbers, had 12 tackles, including four quarterback sacks, and a fumble recovery as Concordia defeated Macalester 24-7 in its 1986 homecoming football game in Moorhead.

Volleyball Team Tips Fosston 3-1

A 3-1 high school volleyball victory at Fosston Tuesday lifted Thief River Falls' record to 14-3 for the year.

The Prowlers beat the Greyhounds 15-11, 15-7, 11-15, 15-12.

"We were in control most of the night," said Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "They (Prowlers) worked hard. They worked as a team. It was fun to watch."

Anderson had words of praise for the setting job turned in by Bekah Bortnem, aggressive play by Bobbi Thompson and the play at the net by Vikki Weigand. Bortnem and Thompson shared Player of the Night honors, reported Anderson.

Fosston won the junior varsity match 14-16, 15-5, 15-11, dropping Thief River Falls to 9-3 for the year. Michele Fletcher was named Thief River Falls junior varsity Player of the Night.

Because of the large number of girls on hand, there were two C squad matches played. Fosston won the first one 15-10, 12-15, 15-9, while Thief River Falls won the second one 16-14, 6-15, 18-16. Nicole Knutson and Christy Holthusen were named Thief River Falls C squad Player of the Night award winners.

Thief River Falls will host Alvarado Monday. A change in the Thief River Falls schedule will then find the Prowlers hosting East Grand Forks Thursday, October 23, before finishing the regular season at Crookston Friday, October 24. The Prowlers were scheduled to be in Crookston Tuesday, but the date was switched because of conflict with the Section 8A football playoffs.

TRF Junior Earns State Tennis Meet Berth . . .

Cornell Second At 8AA Meet

Kelly Cornell surrendered her Region 8AA singles title to Niki LaVoy of St. Cloud Tech Tuesday, but the Thief River Falls junior still landed a state tournament berth with a runner-up finish in the 1986 Region 8AA individual high school tennis tournament matches played at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

Cornell and LaVoy were the winners in North and South Sub-Region 8AA finals by beating Anne Carlson of Little Falls 6-3, 6-1 and Carrie Williams of Brainerd 6-4, 6-2. LaVoy reached the finals with wins over Beth Stone of Moorhead 6-1, 6-0 and Annie Keller of Little Falls 6-1, 6-0.

LaVoy, a senior, edged Cornell for the title 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

"The championship match was outstanding tennis," reported Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "Both girls played very well. It could have gone either way."

LaVoy's victory ended a two-year Thief River Falls hold on the Region 8AA singles title. Michelle Olson won the prize as a senior in 1984 and Cornell won it as a sophomore in 1985.

Top two Region 8AA finishers were guaranteed state tournament berths October 22-23 at the Nicollet Tennis Club in Minneapolis.

First and second place doubles teams also advance to the state meet. In an all-St. Cloud final, Apollo's Susan Larson and Tina Och beat Tech's Penny Desanto and Julie Sundberg 6-2, 6-3, for the Region 8AA doubles title.

Thief River Falls had a pair of entries in Tuesday's doubles competition. Kristy Maidment and Vicki Grovum, the North Sub-Region 8AA winners, lost a 6-4, 6-2 opening round decision to Desanto and Sundby, while Sharon Dosser and Kaye Dondelinger, the North Sub-Region 8AA runner-up, lost to Kris Jackson and Wendy Sandberg of Little Falls 6-0, 6-0.

Olson said both Thief River Falls doubles team did all right for themselves.

"Our kids (Maidment-Grovum) played very well. They played a good tennis match. Their first set was probably the best tennis they've played all year," he explained.

For Dosser and Dondelinger, "The experience was important," said Olson. "They did okay."

Apollo defeated Bemidji 6-1 Monday in the Region 8AA team title match, also played in Grand Forks.

Pioneers Start Divisional Schedule At Fergus Falls

Three weeks of regular season-ending Northwest Division play starts Saturday, and all four teams — Northland, Fergus Falls, University of Minnesota-Crookston, Brainerd — have a shot at a divisional title and a post-season Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state playoff berth.

It starts with Northland at Fergus Falls and the University of Minnesota-Crookston at Brainerd. Both have 1:30 p.m. kickoffs.

Past four weeks have been spent with Northwest vs. Northeast Divisional match-ups that were worth one point in the MCCC standings. Games within your own division are worth two points.

Fergus Falls is the current Northwest Division leader with a 3-1 record against Northeast Division foes, while Brainerd is 2-2, Northland 1-3 and University of Minnesota-Crookston 1-3.

"Everything is a toss-up," said Northland coach Rick Nelson as he looked at the Northwest Division race. "If any one of the teams goes unbeaten in the division, they're in the playoffs."

In the Northeast, Vermilion is 4-0 after its swing through the Northwest, while Itasca is 2-2, Hibbing 2-2 and Mesabi 1-3.

Northwest and Northeast Division winners will meet in the opening round MCCC state playoff semifinals Nov. 8.

After visiting Fergus Falls, Northland will close out the 1986 schedule at home with Thursday night games Oct. 23 vs. University of Minnesota-Crookston and Oct. 30 vs. Brainerd.

Northland has a legitimate playoff shot, said Nelson, if the Pioneers can rebound from a poor performance in a [illegible] loss last Thursday at Hibbing. They started the year in fine fashion by beating the Moorhead State University junior varsity 14-13 and Mesabi 20-0. Northland still played well even though the Pioneers lost a 16-13 home-opener to Itasca, but they blew an early lead in a 40-20 defeat at the hands of Vermilion and hit the bottom at Hibbing.

"If the (Northland) team that played the first three games of the year shows up, we have a chance to win all three," explained Nelson, "but if the team that played Hibbing shows up, we'll lose all three. We have a chance to be either 5-3 or 2-6."

To show just how poorly the Pioneers played at Hibbing, the coaching staff did not hand out any Player of the Week awards, a fixture in the Northland schedule since the start of the year.

"We just haven't made any improvements in our last six quarters of football," said Nelson. "We've stood still. Andy any time you stand still, you're going to lose. You have to make improvements week after week to be a winner."

Both the players and the coaching staff are to blame, admit Nelson. "Our incentive now is to start making those improvements again, like we did early in the year," he said.

It should help when Deon Schmidt of Fargo returns to the line-up at fullback. He missed the Hibbing game because of a consussion. Linebacker Mike Stennes of Erskine suffered a hand-wrist injury against the Cardinals, and his status is uncertain this week.

Fergus Falls suffered its first loss last week in a 49-19 defeat at the hands of Vermilion.

"Defensively, we've got to stop Fergus Falls' passing game," pointed out Nelson. "They like to throw the football, they have good receivers and they have a good offensive line. Offensively, we have to have better execution from our skill people like quarterback and receivers."

Elsewhere last week, Brainerd shut out Itasca 12-0 and University of Minnesota-Crookston beat Mesabi 33-7.

Northeast Division games will be played Thursday this week, with Vermilion at Hibbing and Mesabi at Itasca.

Oklee Wins 3-0 At Twin Valley

Oklee wasted little time in beating Twin Valley 15-1, 15-10, 15-3 in a Monday night high school volleyball sweep.

"It was a quick game," acknowledged Oklee coach Brad Borene. "The kids played well. They were loose."

CiCi Olson, the team's top server all year, was 20-for-20 at the service line, and the Bobcats were successful on 94 per cent of their serves for the night.

Julie Murack and Nancy Osbjornson led the Bobcats' attack at the net, said Borene, who watched his team improve its record to 13-6.

Oklee will close out the 1986 regular season schedule at home, hosting Clearbrook Tuesday and powerful Win-E-Mac Thursday, October 23.

Grygla — Greenbush

Grygla was an easy 15-3, 15-3, 15-10 winner over shorthanded Greenbush Monday.

The Eagles' starters served 94-10-95 per cent in winning the first two games before reserves took over for Game 3 against the Tigers, who were missing personnel because of rules violations.

Grygla, 10-5, will complete its 1986 regular season schedule next week, hosting Middle River Monday and visiting Warroad Tuesday.

Middle River — MCC

Underdog Middle River challenged Marshall County Central Monday, but the Nordics pulled out a 3-2 victory by winning 3-15, 15-10, 15-5, 12-15, 15-8.

"I thought we could have won," said Middle River coach Steve Holmes, "but we missed some crucial serves. I don't either team really played as well as they're capable of playing."

Tied at two games-apiece, the Nordics owned a narrow 10-8 lead over the Skippers in Game 5 when Middle River lost service and Jodi Foss of Marshall County Central served out the win.

Middle River ends the year with matches Monday at Grygla and Thursday, October 23, at home against Kittson County North.

MCC — Badger

Marshall County Central played a full five-game match for the fourth straight time Tuesday before coming up with a 15-3, 16-14, 13-15, 13-15, 16-14 North Border Conference win over visiting Badger.

The 14-2 Nordics lost a 3-2 decision to Warroad Oct. 7 to start their current string of five-game matches, then beat Lake of the Woods, Middle River and Badger by that score.

"We started real strong, but then we kind of let up," admitted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "But it wasn't that we did anything wrong. Badger played well, and I thought it was probably one of the better games we've played recently."

Junior Denae Mjelde, the coaches' daughter, had an 18-point night at the service line on a 25-for-26 night serving. She lifted the Nordics from a 14-10 deficit in Game 5 with match-ending stint at the service line that included a game-ending ace.

Denae Mjelde, Nikki Leach (25-for-25) and Andrea Kragness (18-for-18) gave the Nordics a strong serving performance. Kragness and Natalie Ueland were the winner's top hitters at the net.

Marshall County Central will close out the schedule Tuesday at Roseau and Thursday at home against Tri-County.

Section 8 Nine-Man Football Playoff Pairings Are Announced

Pairings were announced today for the 1986 Section 8 nine-man high school football playoffs, scheduled to get underway Tuesday at four different sites.

Quarterfinal match-ups will have Middle River at Argyle and Stephen vs. Kittson County North at Lancaster in the Upper Bracket; with Marshall County Central visiting Kennedy and Tri-County going to Hallock in the Bottom Bracket. Games start at 7:30 p.m., with the exception of the game at Lancaster, which is scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m.

Semifinals will be played Saturday, October 25. Championship game will be played Saturday, November 1, with the winner advancing into the 1986 Minnesota State High School League state football playoff quarterfinal field in nine-man play.

Badger and Goodridge-Grygla were the two members of the ten-team Section 8 grouping not seeded into the eight-team post-season playoff field.

Red River 42-14 Winner Over TRF

Grand Forks Red River defeated visiting Thief River Falls 42-14 Monday in junior varsity high school football action.

Thief River Falls, after falling behind 28-0 at halftime, pulled within 28-14 in the fourth quarter on a pair of Jeff Brouse touchdowns — a 48-yard pass from Rick Looker and a 36-yard run. Brouse also added a two-point conversion.

But Red River expanded the difference down the stretch, including the use of a time-out with just eight seconds left.

Thief River Falls will close out its 1986 junior varsity schedule Monday at Grand Forks Central.

Crookston Defeats TRF Freshmen By 44-12 On Tuesday

Crookston jumped out to a 28-0 first quarter lead and went on to beat Thief River Falls 44-12 in a freshman high school football game played under the lights in Crookston Tuesday.

It was 36-12 at halftime. Thief River Falls scoring came on a 70-yard kickoff return by Jason Kempert and a 50-yard touchdown pass from Kurt Kainz to Kempert.

Thief River Falls, 3-2-1 for the year, will close out the 1986 schedule Thursday, October 23, with a 4:15 p.m. game against East Grand Forks at Prowler Field.

Miscellaneous

+Jim Carrington of the Bemidji Pioneer figures wingback Tim Knudson might have set a Bemidji school record for longest touchdown run in history when he broke off a [illegible]-yard scoring sprint Friday in the Lumberjacks' 35-6 high school football win over Duluth Central. The victory assured Bemidji of a spot in the four-team Section 7AA playoffs. Bemidji is 3-1 against Section 7AA foes, losing an error-plagued 19-14 decision to Grand Rapids two weeks ago. The Indians lead the sectional standings with a 4-0 record, followed by Moorhead at 3-0 and Bemidji 3-1.

+Hibbing, announced recently as an addition to the 1987 and 1988 Thief River Falls high school football schedule, has lost 24 straight games. The Bluejackets were scheduled to face Bemidji tonight (Wednesday).

+Thief River Falls, scheduled to close out the 1986 regular season high school football season tonight (Wednesday) against East Grand Forks, has beaten the Green Wave just once in the past seven years — a 46-6 romp in 1983. East Grand Forks beat Thief River Falls 14-0 a year ago. The Green Wave beat the Prowlers in back-to-back 1984 games, registering a 42-0 rout to close out the regular season schedule, then winning 28-9 when they were paired up in a Section 8A playoff game the following week.

+Thief River Falls and Fergus Falls are scheduled to meet Tuesday in a 5 p.m. high school dual meet swimming encounter at the Franklin Middle School pool in a long-awaited confrontation between highly-regarded Section 8 teams. Alexandria is the undisputed Section 8 leader. The Prowlers, 7-0 in dual meet competition, would like to be able to challenge Fergus Falls and Moorhead for the No. 2 spot. Thief River Falls beat Moorhead for the first time in six years by a 90-81 margin earlier this month, and will now take aim at the Otters. It'll be a major test for the Prowlers, who close out their 1986 regular season schedule by participating in the Fargo South Invitational Oct. 25 and at Detroit Lakes for a dual meet Oct. 31. The Section 8 meet will be held Nov. 7-8 at the University of North Dakota, a change in sites from the Bemidji State University pool used for a number of years.

TRF Runners End Schedule

Bemidji Invitational Tuesday was the final stop on the 1986 Thief River Falls regular season cross country schedule. The Prowlers will compete in the Region 8AA boys and girls races Thursday, October 23, at Detroit Lakes.

It was a double triumph for Bemidji yesterday as the Lumberjacks won varsity races for both the boys and the girls. Bemidji had a 40-55 victory margin over the runner-up Detroit Lakes boys and finished with a 37-76 point spread over the runner-up Moorhead girls.

Thief River Falls fielded incomplete teams for both races. The Prowlers' Lynn Mueller was fourth among the girls and Thief River Falls' Shayne Anderson was 13th among the boys. Heather Aubol of Crookston was the first girl across the finish line and Leif Larson of Bemidji was the first boy to finish the race.

Swimmers Beat Bemidji 102-70

Thief River Falls won 10 of 11 events Tuesday en route to a 102-70 high school swimming win over Bemidji at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Brenda Russell and Christy Puetz were double-event winners for the Prowlers as they ran their dual meet season record to 7-0. Russell took the 200-yard freestyle in 2:14.28 and won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:01.05. Puetz captured the 50-yard freestyle in 27.41 and paced the 100-yard butterfly in 1:06.85.

Elsewhere, the Prowlers received wins from Laura Belto with a 6:04.21 in the 500-yard freestyle; Marci Turenne with a 1:13.65 in the 100-yard backstroke; Jenny Ness with a 1:15.50 in the 100-yard breaststroke; and Jenny Nelson with 171.5 points in the diving competition.

Thief River Falls also won the 200-yard medley relay (Marci Turenne, Puetz, Ness, Heidi Tofte) in 2:04.96, and took the 400-yard freestyle relay (Pete Kuyath, Russell, Belto, Tofte) in 4:09.21.

Michelle Turenne was a Section 8 qualifier during the meet in the 200-yard individual medley. The Prowlers, pointed out coach Jay Forney, turned in 12 career-best performances during the day and 10 seasonal-best times.

Forney said the Prowlers received good efforts from Nelson and Colleen Belmont in diving; Kuyath in the 500; Marci Turenne and Heidi Gunderson in the backstroke; Ness in the breaststroke; and Puetz in the butterfly, where her time is approaching the team record held by older sister Michelle, who graduated last spring with a flock of Thief River Falls records.

Thief River Falls will host Fergus Falls Tuesday in a 5 p.m. dual meeting between top Section 8 rivals. "This sets the stage for next Tuesday's match-up with Fergus Falls," said Forney after the win over Bemidji. "Win, lose or draw, it will be a very exciting meet. Two years ago we tied."

Safety Pamphlet Available

A pamphlet providing duck hunters with practical tips and information that can prevent drowning accidents is available without charge from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Produced by waterfowl hunters and water safety specialists, the brochure notes the special needs and problems of duck hunters in pursuing their sport and explains how they can avoid trouble and take emergency actions that can save their lives.

To obtain a copy, contact the Boat and Water Safety Section, DNR Bureau of Information and Education, Box 46, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4046, or call toll free 1-800-652-9747.

Lake Rehabilitation

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Fisheries Section, is continuing its program of lake rehabilitation this fall, chemically treating eight lakes and restocking them with game fish.

Projects involve eradicting the fish populations, comprised mostly of roughfish or stunted panfish, and restocking with trout, walleye and other desirable species.

The chemical rotenone will be used in all of the lake projects. A powdered form of rotenone has been used for years for agricultural use as an insecticide on vegetable crops. It has been approved for lake treatments by the Environmental Protection Agency and registered with the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Since the start of the rehabilitation program in 1951, the Department has treated 220 lakes. DNR Fisheries Chief Richard Hassinger said, "The usual result has been a healthier lake environment with increased use by fishermen and other recreationists. Approximately two-thirds of the lakes treated have not required re-treatment. The lakes remaining in good condition stay that way for three to 15 years."

Lakes scheduled for chemical treatment and trout stocking this year are Carl (59 acres), Jake (28 acres), Lux (47 acres) and Morgan (82 acres) all in Cook County.

Lakes to be treated and stocked with combinations of bass, walleye, panfish and northern pike are Moore (110 acres), Anoka County; Mission (27 acres), Beltrami County; Alden (21 acres), Freeborn County; and Florian (50 acres), Marshall County.

Costs of the projects to the DNR are reimbursed 75 per cent from the Dingell-Johnson Federal Aid in Fish Restoration Act. These funds are derived from the federal tax on fishing equipment and administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Persons with questions concerning the program or requiring more information should call or visit their local area or regional fisheries offices or the DNR Central Headquarters Fisheries Office, 2nd Floor, 500 Lafayette Rd., St. Paul.

Sportsmens Club Donates

A state and federal program of wild rice planting for waterfowl in Lake county will more than double over previous years, thanks to a donation from the Isabella Sportsmens Club.

Fred Thunhorst, area wildlife manager in Ely for the Department of Natural Resources, said the club recently made a contribution of $500 for the purchase of wild rice seed.

He said the seed will be planted by DNR and U.S. Forest Service workers in shallow [illegible] Lake County to improve feeding and resting sites.

"The Club's generosity will enable us to more than double the number of acres that we can plant this year," said Thunhorst.

He added that this is the second year that the club has provided money for wild rice seed.

Thunhorst said the Isabella Sportsmens Club "has long been an active supporter of wildlife management programs, hunter education and young hunter training programs."

Seek Common Goals

How can the Great Lakes states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan cooperate to capitalize on the region's 47 million acres of forest lands to achieve common economic and conservation objectives?

Raymond B. Hitchcock, director of the Minnesota Division of Forestry, Department of Natural Resources, says opportunities for regional cooperation in forestry policies and programs will be considered next spring at a three-state conference in Minneapolis.

With the theme "The Lake States Forests: a Resource Renaissance," the conference is scheduled for April 9 to 11, 1987, at the Hyatt Hotel.

"By working together toward common goals, the three states can realize benefits greater than if each acts alone," said Hitchcock, a member of the conference steering committee.

The conference is a follow-up to the Governor's conferences on forestry that have been held in each of the three states.

"They looked at what each state could do for itself; now it's time we look at what we can do together," Hitchcock said.

Blandin Foundation of Grand Rapids has provided a grant for conference planning. According to Hitchcock, the conference has three objectives:

1) To promote a better understanding of the forests and their potential for contributing to the regional economy while enhancing their scenic and recreation values,

2) to develop a consensus on regional forest policies and programs; and

3) To develop an action program for regional cooperation.

John Suffron, executive director of the Minnesota Forestry Association is co-chairman of the conference planning committee. He said the conference will convene leaders in the forestry community in the three states, as well as agencies and organizations that affect or benefit from the forests.

The conference is part of the Lake States Forestry Initiative, a two-year old effort aimed at improving and diversifying the region's economy through use of its timber resources while improving the scenic, recreation, and environmental values of the forests.

Cooperating in the Initiative are Hitchcock, his state forestry agency counterparts in Wisconsin and Michigan, Robert Hann, director of the U.S. Forest Service's North Central Forest Experiment Station, St. Paul; other regional Forest Service officials, the Minnesota Forestry Association, and the Conservation Foundation, a non-profit environmental policy research and communications organization based in Washington, DC.

Flood Insurance Available

Citing the example of property destruction on lakes in Wright, Douglas, Stearns, Pope, Chisago, Sherburne and other counties affected in recent years by high water levels, the Department of Natural Resources is urging persons in flood-prone areas to purchase flood insurance under the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

"The benefits of the National Flood Insurance Program have been illustrated by the recent flooding that has affected approximately 100 Minnesota lakes," said Tom Luigen of the Division of Waters. "On Lake Pulaski alone in Wright County, the NFIP has paid in excess of $750,000 on approximately 70 flood claims.

"The lake Pulaski situation, and others, proves that the NFIP covers losses in situations other than just river or stream flooding. Generally any person subject to a flood loss from surface water should contact the NFIP or a qualified insurance agent to discuss the benefits of the National Flood Insurance Program."

He said the Department of Natural Resources, acting as the State Coordinating Agency for the NFIP, is often asked who can purchase flood insurance . . .

Any property owner or renter can purchase flood insurance, provided the insured property is located in a community that has established eligibility in the NFIP. Community eligibility is established by municipal governments for incorporated areas (cities) and by county government for all of the unincorporated areas in the county.

Flood insurance can be purchased through any insurance agent or broker licensed to sell property insurance in Minnesota. A licensed insurance agent or broker can secure the application forms from the NFIP and then send the completed forms and premiums back to the NFIP. A toll-free number is available (1-800-638-6620) for all inquiries concerning the NFIP and community eligibility.

Luigen said anyone having questions about the NFIP can call the above NFIP toll-free number or the Department of Natural Resource's toll-free number, 1-800-652-9747 (ask the state operator to dial 297-2405).

Cardinals Lose 50-43 Shoot-Out . . .

Plummer Out-Scored By Gary

Plummer, after starting the 1986 high school football season with three straight wins, lost its fourth game in a row Tuesday when Gary out-scored the visiting Cardinals 50-43 in North Tri-County Conference nine-man action.

"Offensively it was great," acknowledged Plummer coach Gary Brantl. "We did everything we wanted to do. But defensively we were like a sieve. We just couldn't stop them. It was very frustrating."

Gary won it when quarterback Mark Pederson scored on a 13-yard run with just 12 seconds left.

The loss took the luster off some impressive offensive statistics the Cardinals accumulated. John Fisher scored four touchdowns, including a two-yard run with 1:37 remaing that gave Plummer a 43-42 lead. Fisher carried the ball 20 times for 81 yards and the Cardinals rushed 43 times for 190 yards as a team.

Quarterback Wade Grinde was 15-for-32 for 223 yards and three touchdowns in a losing cause. Shane Freyholtz caught six passes for 69 yards and Fisher caught five for 88.

Plummer led 15-14 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 22-21 at halftime and trailed 28-27 after three quarters.

"We're disappointed," admitted Brantl. "We just didn't seem to improve on defense."

Plummer will await Thursday's Section 6 nine-man playoff vote to see if the Cardinals will be among the six-team post-season field. Gonvick-Trail, Norman County West, Fisher-Climax, Twin Valley and Gary will probably collect the top five spots, with Ulen-Hitterdahl, Oklee, Plummer and Clearbrook — all with losing records — tossed together for the sixth spot. If the Cardinals are not picked for the Section 6 playoffs, they will complete their 1986 season with a regular season game Friday, October 24, vs. Central Valley, ND, a 3 p.m. game at the University of North Dakota.

— Outdoor News —

This year's waterfowl hunting season features a continuation of restrictive hunting regulations to protect limited increases in waterfowl populations and an expansion of nontoxic shot zones, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Director Frank Dunkle announced.

While this year's fall flight index of ducks is estimated to number approximately 73 million — up from last year's index of 62 million — restrictive regulations remain in order to protect the modest gain. This year's index still represents the second lowest forecast on record.

In addition, all but six states have areas where nontoxic shot will be required for waterfowl hunting this season.

"The increase in this year's fall flight forecast is good news, but we are not out of the woods just yet," Dunkle said. "I am confident that hunters will support this year's regulations as measures that must be taken to protect waterfowl.

"In general, these regulations are aimed at restoring breeding duck populations with special emphasis on species such as mallards and pintails that have been hard hit by several years of drought in their northern nesting grounds," Dunkle noted. "We also decided to close the canvasback season in the Atlantic, Mississippi, and Central flyways. The eastern breeding population of this bird is estimated at 303,000, which is below the minimum figure of 360,000 for hunting this species."

Highlights of the final duck season frameworks for 1986-87 are as follows:

- Atlantic Flyway — a 40-day season beginning no earlier than October 4 and ending no later than January 18, 1987, with a conventional daily bag limit of four ducks, including no more than three mallards (only one may be a hen), two pintails; and one black duck. There are bonus scaup and bonus teal options for states under the conventional regulations selected by all States but one.
- Mississippi Flyway — a 40-day season using the same framework dates as the Atlantic Flyway with a daily bag limit of four ducks including no more than two mallards (no more than one may be a hen), one black duck, two pintails, and one redhead. In the Mississippi Flyway, 12 of 14 states selected the point system with a potential maximum bag limit of five ducks per day.
- Central Flyway — the season framework extends from October 4, 1986, through January 18, 1987, with 51 hunting days allowed in the Low Plains Unit and 65 days in the High Plains Unit. The conventional limit is four ducks daily, including no more than three mallards (of which no more than one may be a hen), three pintails, one redhead, one hooded merganser, and two wood ducks.
- Pacific Flyway — the season framework extends from October 4 through January 11, with 79 hunting days allowed except in the Columbia Basin where the season may last 86 days. The conventional daily bag limit is five ducks, including no more than four mallards (of which only one may be a hen), four pintails (of which only one may be a hen), and either two canvasbacks or two redheads or one of each.

In general, the frameworks pertaining to goose hunting regulations are much the same as last year.

These final "framework" regulations established by the FWS represent guidelines within which states may select various regulatory options. States may be more restrictive — but not more liberal — than the federal frameworks.

Nontoxic Shot Zones

Effective September 3, 1986, the Service expanded the number of zones in which nontoxic shot is required for the hunting of waterfowl and coots during the 1986-87 season. These regulations are designed on a "zone" basis similar to nontoxic shot regulations in effect for previous years. The current bald eagle — and waterfowl based zone approach will be replaced by one that is based solely on waterfowl harvest intensity during the 1987-88 hunting season when implementation of a five-year phase-out of lead shot for waterfowl hunting begins. The Service first required nontoxic shot for waterfowl hunting in certain areas of the Atlantic Flyway in 1976. In following years, the program was expanded to include portions of all four flyways in respose to the concern over lead poisoning in waterfowl.

In 1985, the Service first required nontoxic shot in certain areas to prevent lead poisoning in bald eagles, which are listed as an "endangered" or "threatened" species throughout the lower 48 states. Bald eagles can develop lead poisoning from eating waterfowl carcasses containing lead shot. These "bald eagle protection zones" were established in areas having a high waterfowl harvest and large numbers of wintering bald eagles. During the 1985 waterfowl season, eight states had one or more of these zones.

Nontoxic shot regulations for this fall's waterfowl season were appended to the final environmental impact statement concerning the use of nontoxic shot for migratory bird hunting and subsequently published in the Federal Register for comments. They represent a composite of areas based on the lead poisoning threat to waterfowl and or eagles.

Zones were identified on a county-wide basis since information on waterfowl harvest and eagle populations is gathered by county. The Service included counties that had an average annual waterfowl harvest of over 5,000 ducks and geese from 1971 to 1980 coupled with a winter count of 25 or more bald eagles in one or more years between 1978 and 1984.

Since eagles do not recognize political boundaries during their feeding flights, a number of areas considered geographically or ecologically contiguous were added to the list.

Final list of nontoxic shot zones 1986-87 season was published in the September 3, 1986, Federal Register and includes a total of approximately 180 zones in 44 states. The only states not having nontoxic shot zones are Alaska, Hawaii, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Virginia and West Virginia. The nontoxic shot zones were identified with concurrence from the respective state wildlife agencies and will be reflected in the hunting regulations issued by the states.

Lead Shot Phase-out

In late June of this year, a proposal to phase out use of lead shot for waterfowl hunting in the United States by the 1991-92 season was announced by Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks Bill Horn.

In general terms, the phase-out would begin with the 1987-88 hunting season and offer a gradual phase-in of nontoxic shot in certain additional areas each subsequent year until use of lead shot is eliminated in 1991. The ban on lead shot would begin in counties having the highest number of harvested waterfowl per square mile and expand to include counties having lower harvests during the subsequent years.

Nontoxic shot zones for the 1986-87 season are considered part of the phase-in strategy.

Concern over the impact of lead poisoning has been in evidence for decades. During the summer of 1984, the Interior Department called a meeting of concerned conservation groups and state representatives to discuss the situation. A supplemental environmental impact statement concerning the use of lead shot was prepared later. The final document examined nine alternatives for eliminating lead poisoning caused by the ingestion of spent lead shot as a significant cause of waterfowl losses. The phase-out approach had been suggested in March 1986 by the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies and was an alternative in the impact statement.

Conversion to nontoxic shot could be deferred if states carry out monitoring studies that show lead poisoning is not a problem in areas that otherwise would be affected by the conversion schedule. In no case, however, could the requirement for nontoxic shot be deferred beyond 1991.

Under this alternative, boroughs (counties) in Alaska would not be required to employ the gradual implementation schedule, but the state must convert totally to nontoxic shot by 1991 along with the rest of the country.

Old adage "Clothes make the man" apparently applies to birds' plumage as well, reports National Wildlife magazine. Research on chickadees and several species of sparrows has shown that the width of colored bands on the birds' heads and chests determine their social rank within the flock.

Municipal Liquor Stores In County Net Only $146,317

Pennington county's three municipal liquor stores in 1985 had net operating income of only $146,317 on total sales of $1,515,446, according to information released by the office of Arne Carlson, state auditor.

Thief River Falls municipal liquor store had total sales of $1,136,125 with cost of goods sold totaling $867,987, leaving a gross profit of $268,138 or 23.60 per cent of sales. Operating expenses of $135,876 reduced the operating income to $132,876. Non-operating revenue, which includes interest earnings, amounted to $32,853 and non-operating expenses were $8,344, leaving overall net income of $157,385.

At St. Hilaire the total sales were $221,218 with cost of goods sold totaling $129,924, leaving a gross profit on sales of $91,294 or 41.27 per cent of sales. Operating expenses of $88,533 left an operating income of only $2,761. Non-operating revenue was $7,753 and there was no non-revenue expense, creating total net income of $10,514.

Goodridge municipal liquor store had sales of $158,103 with cost of goods sold totaling $79,025, leaving a gross profit of $79,078 or 50.02 per cent of sales. Operating expenses were $68,398, leaving an operating income of $10,680. Non-operating income of $14,522 and non-operating expenses of $3,895 left a net income for the year of $21,307.

Auditor Carlson said that statewide city liquor profit margins decreased in 1985 while sales remained constant. He said that liquor store income continued to be squeezed by competitive market forces.

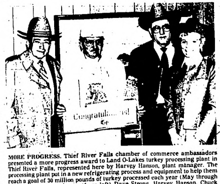
"With profitability declining, cities are increasingly forced to evaluate liquor store operations," Carlson said. Of the 325 cities which operate municipal liquor stores, 47 had net losses in 1985. Ten cities closed their stores in 1985, following 13 which closed in 1984. Nineteen of the 325 cities realized $100,000 or more of revenue for their general funds from municipal liquor operations.

"The survivors among these stores will be those that can compete successfully with the private sector," Carlson said. He noted some municipal liquor stores are converting to low-margin "off-sale" only operations. They are dropping the "on-sale" or liquor-by-the-drink operation, which has higher operating costs. The 10 stores closed in 1985 and 13 stores in 1984 were primarily on-sale operations.

Operating expense continued to rise, to 25.9 per cent of sales in 1985 as compared to 25.8 per cent in 1984. Net income for all stores totaled $9.2 million, down $1.02 million from a year earlier, and down from $13.9 million in 1981. Contributions of net income to governmental funds totaled $9.2 million, as compared to $9.1 million a year earlier.

One-hundred-two stores made no contribution to other municipal funds in 1985, and seven of those required contributions from governmental funds.

According to a 1981 law, liquor stores having a net loss in any two of three consecutive years, or any liquor store not making a contribution to the city in any two of three consecutive years, must hold a public hearing to decide whether the city shall continue to operate a municipal liquor store.



MORE PROGRESS. Thief River Falls chamber of commerce ambassadors presented a more progress award to Land O-Lakes turkey processing plant in Thief River Falls, represented here by Harvey Hanson, plant manager. The processing plant put in a new refrigerating process and equipment to help them reach a goal of 30 million pounds of turkey processed each year (May through November). Book Scribblers Are Actually Annotators

by Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian News Service

You remember the first time. There you were, sitting in geography class, pencil in hand, and before you realized it you had circled all the state capitals on the map in the textbook. Or perhaps it was in algebra. The teacher was explaining a particularly thorny equation and you followed right along in the book with your felt tip marker. But most likely it was at home, while you were reading Thomas Hardy's "The Return of the Native." After all, how could you be expected to follow Hardy's themes without underlining the key passages?

Your teachers, parents and friends called it scribbling or doodling, but scholars call it annotation and find it fascinating. In fact, annotation probably has been going on since the first book came off Johannes Gutenberg's press in 1455.

"Everybody writes in books," acknowledges Ellen Wells, chief of the Special Collections Branch of the Smithsonian Institution Libraries in Washington, D.C. "It's a way of creating an image so the reader will catch some important point.

"Annotated books represent hard evidence of a book having been read," she says. "Someone handled the volume, read its author's words, reacted to them and responded by marking passages or writing in between the lines or in the margins. An annotated volume teaches you something about the learning process."

At the Smithsonian's Dibner Library, "Nota Bene," a new exhibition of annotated rare books, gives a glimpse of that process. The exhibition of 29 books spans 443 years, ranging from a magnificent first printed edition of the great encyclopedia "Naturalis Historia" by Pliny the Elder, printed in Venice in 1469, to a proof copy of an 18th-century French textbook by Jean Baptiste Joseph Delambre that remained in manuscript form until it was printed in Paris in 1912.

The exhibition takes its name from the annotator's practice of writing "NB" or "nota bene" (Latin for "note well") in the margins. Readers also often used sketches of little pointing hands to highlight a passage or dots in the margin to guide readers to a section of interest.

While such markings are the most common, annotations take a variety of forms. Printed errata sheets, slips, or pages, bound into books from at least the early 16th century, suggest to readers that they make corrections missed by the author and the printer's typesetter. "Corrections to the typos are penned or penciled in," Wells explains. "Also, corrections to typos missed even after the errata were printed are found and remedied independently by eagle-eyed readers."

But there is more to annotation than meets the eye. "Readers have disagreed with authoris," Wells notes, "and marginalia often take the form of a reader's corrections to the writer's assertions or rude or laudatory comments in response to the text."

Bibliophiles will love "Nota Bene," but no matter how you spend your leisure time, you are certain to admire the exhibit's beautiful and sometimes curious volumes printed in Latin, Italian, French, German and English. The exhibition includes rare textbooks and treatises on subjects ranging from anatomy, alchemy and astronomy to geology, physics and mathematics. Some of the books are in mint condition with beautiful leather bindings and marbled endpapers. Others show the wear and tear of generations of use and misuse.

The Smithsonian's Wells chose a variety of books — some for their historical interest, some for the unusual nature of the annotation. Thus, there is a 1718 edition of famed British scientist Isaac Newton's Opticks, or a Treatise of the Reflections, Refractions, Inflections and Colours of Light. The book was previously owned and extensively annotated by Robert Smith, an 18th-century Cambridge University astronomy professor. In the exhibition, the book is open to an extensive observation by Smith on the effect of atmosphere in producing "halos" around the moon. "In his own work on optics, published in 1738," Wells explains, "Smith included the data from this observation in his section on appearances of the sun and moon."

Another historical treatise, this a work in German by Heinrich Rudolf Hertz printed in Berlin in 1888, was heavily annotated by British physicist Oliver Heaviside, who predicted the existence of the ionosphere, an electrically conductive layer in the upper atmosphere.

Heaviside's annotations show notes between the lines made while he was translating and reading the paper together with marginal calculations. At the end of the paper, Heaviside wrote in pencil, "This is a splendid paper. O.H."

Of course, not all comments are words of praise. In a 1513 volume, a commentary by Matthias Qualle on Aristotle's "Physica" and other books, one of the work's many annotators wrote "Om(n)i homo mendax" — "Every man (is a) thief."

All the books in the "Nota Bene" exhibition were selected from the Burndy Library donation, presented to the Smithsonian Insitution in 1974. The gift, totaling 10,000 volumes — including 300 books printed prior to 1501 — was collected originally by Dr. Bern Dibner, a Connecticut industrialist and inventor who began acquiring rare books in 1936. The Dibner Library of the History of Science and Technology opened in October 1976 and has become a resource for scholars and students around the world.

Dibner, now 89 and actively collecting books from his Norwalk, Conn., home, has his own favorite annotated volumes. One, an especially rare volume in the Smithsonian's Dibner Library, is the first announcement of the Copernican doctrine of the universe in the form of a pamphlet in 1540 by Georg Joachim Rhaeticus. Rhaeticus stayed with the noted scientist for three months in 1539 and received Copernicus' permission to issue a 76-page abstract in the form of a letter to another scientist. "That book reconstructed the universe as no man or force has since," Dibner says. The book is inscribed with the author's name in the hand of a 16th-century contemporary.

His most impressively annotated book, Dibner says, "shows how unappreciative the world was in those days." Dibner refers to an 1837 volume, "History and Progress of the Steam Engine," by civil engineer Elijah Galloway. Printed in London, the thick treatise on the invention that proved to be the key to the Industrial Revolution is lavishly illustrated with beautifully detailed woodcut illustrations.

Bound inside the flyleaf is a poignant handwirtten letter from Galloway to one Charles Manby, Esquire, a wealthy Englishman and prominent engineer:

Dear Sir, I am just on the eve of completing a new work on "The Mechanic Powers and Their Application to Machinery." But literary work is only paid for when the Manuscript is completed and what with ill health and the all absorbing nature of this kind of labor I am in the awful predicament of wanting a bit of bread! I have by me an old copy of my well known "History of the Steam Engine," which Mrs. Galloway will herewith hand you. Will you in charity purchase it of her? This is the only legitimate source by which I can avert the horror of hunger and cold for we have neither food, fire, nor a penny in the world! I am, Dear Sir, Your ever Obliged E. Galloway.

Dibner attempted to learn what happened to the Galloways, but failed.

Sadly, Wells and Dibner say, book collecting today emphasizes the pristine volume at the expense of the annotated copy, unless the annotator is recognized to be a person of such importance that his or her comments on the book might be interesting. "It may be that many copies of books have not survived because they were perceived as damaged or imperfect or ruined because of their sullied pages," Wells says. "Marginal notes were so little valued after the 15th and 16th centuries that they were often cut through when trimming a book for rebinding, regardless of their content."

Still, although Wells does not advocate writing in books, she says, "I fully expect that someday we will have a rare book library with a future Einstein's textbook, marked with yellow highlighter, and it will tell us something special about what that person was thinking when the book was read."

Until that day, we may have to be content with such charmingly annotated volumes as "An Elementary Treatise on Astronomy" by William A. Norton, printed in New York in 1839, and featured in the exhibition. Although lightly annotated, this textbook owned by C.B. Hoffman, a Columbia College junior classman of 1845, contains an admonitory poem from a fellow student:

My dear Mr. Hoffman, you should not leave
Your books in class, or else you'll grieve,
To find them scribbled, scribblers
  are all fools,
Without comprehension, feelings,
  nought but rules
In future I'd advise you to take your book
Or else you'll find it scribbled, by me
  Mr. Cook.

Serious Crime Rises 8 Per Cent Across Nation

Number of serious crimes nationwide rose eight per cent during the first half of 1986 as compared to the same period in 1985, according to statistics released by FBI director William H. Webster. The figure was included in the FBI's semiannual uniform crime report which shows data based on an index of selected offenses used to measure changes in the level of crimes reported to law enforcement agencies across the country.

"Overall increases were recorded universally throughout the nation," Webster commented. "Upswings were evident in each of the nation's geographic regions, as well as in cities of all sizes and counties, both suburban and rural."

Crime index upturns among the geographic regions were 13 per cent in the Southern states, six per cent in the Western states, five per cent in the Northeastern states, and four per cent in the Midwestern states.

When grouped according to the population size, the nation's cities showed Crime Index increases ranging from four per cent in those with over one million inhabitants to 12 per cent in those with populations from 250,000 to 499,999. Law enforcement agencies in rural counties registered the smallest increase, three per cent. Suburban county law enforcement agencies experienced a nine per cent rise.

The crime index is comprised of violent and property crime categories. Nationally, both categories showed increases, with violent crime up 12 per cent and property crime rising seven per cent.

All offenses within the index showed increases for the six-month period. Among the violent crimes, murder was up eight per cent; forcible rape, two per cent; robbery, 11 per cent; and aggravated assault, 14 per cent.

In the property crime category, burglary increased eight per cent; larceny-theft, six per cent; motor vehicle theft, 11 per cent; and arson, one per cent.

MN Congressmen Share Views On Pollution Grants

U.S. Reps. James L. Oberstar and Arlan Stangeland have hailed an agreement by House and Senate conferees meeting on the Clean Water Act, which restores almost $7 million in pollution control grants to Minnesota.

"We believe the agreement is fair, will preserve the quality of the Great Lakes, and enable Minnesota to continue to assist communities in building vitally necessary pollution control plants," the two Congressmen said.

They worked to develop the formula which preserves the state's share of the $2.4 billion annual authorization for construction of wastewater treatment plants under the Environmental Protection agency's grants program.

House conferees held firm in opposition to a Senate-proposed formula change which the congressmen said would have deprived Minnesota of almost $7 million per year in treatment plant construction funds under EPA's construction grants formula, and would have disadvantaged all Great Lakes states.

Minnesota currently receives $44.9 million each year. Under the Senate formula, which was opposed in committee by Sen. Dave Durenberger, Minnesota would have received only $38.2 million.

Under the final formula, worked out in intense discussions, Minnesota will receive $44.6 million each year for the next four years.

The Congressmen noted that the effect of the conference agreement is to hold Great Lakes states harmless against an effort by high-growth areas to claim a larger share of funding, in an attempt to overturn a five-year-old agreement that Congress would not fund growth in sewage treatment plant capacity.

AGRI-GROWTH REPORT!

by RUSS SCHWANDT

Is it any wonder that our international trading partners are confused about U.S. agricultural policy? Just look at the debacle surrounding the Reagan Administration decision to sell subsidized wheat to Russia. Every facet of that spectacle indicates indecision, uncertainty and political apprehension about our agricultural policies.

First, you have a major disagreement within the highest councils of this government. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Senate Majority Leader, Senator Bob Dole (R-Kansas) are both taking courageous leadership positions, urging the President to approve including Russia in the subsidy program. While on the other side, the powerful Secretary of State George Schultz, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger and the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations, Senator Richard Lugar (R-Indiana) all line up opposing any such action by Reagan.

Into this, you have to mix the added ingredient of election year politics. Everybody knows that the Administration desired to help Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate in some close races in Midwest farm states.

All of this was played out on the international public stage, indicating not only disagreement, but intense indecision. It has become apparent to the world community that anything this government does in the way of an agricultural policy decision is capable of being challenged and changed. These are not matters that give a sense of deep commitment by the U.S. policymakers.

This element of indecision was underscored when it became apparent that the Soviets were not going to buy at the $13-a-ton subsidy that the President announced on August 1, 1986. That price still made the per-ton cost higher than the existing world price, and immediately talk began to circulate about raising the subsidy.

Then, at the start of the Labor Day weekend, the Administration did what many of us were predicting from the start. They increased the subsidy a little more than 15 percent, to $15 per ton. Personally, judging from the level of the world price on wheat at the start of August, it was apparent that the original $13 per ton subsidy was not high enough to encourage large-scale purchases by the Russian grain traders.

However, the subsidy level is really of little importance in the bigger picture. What is lasting in the minds of the international trading community and the farmers of this country is that this entire subsidy episode points up the total absence of a coherent U.S. farm policy regarding agricultural exports.

If the farmers elevator in various parts of rural Minnesota cannot figure out what direction U.S. farm policy will take in the coming weeks, can you imagine the problem they're having in the capitals of the world?

Russ Schwandt is a farmer, agribusinessman, former Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture in the 1960's, board member of the Seaway Port Authority of Duluth and President of the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council, which was created to speak out for all groups, associations and companies in the state's agriculture industry.

Crop Production Estimates For State Revised

First three weeks of September saw below-normal temperatures and above-normal rainfall, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Frost arrived in the northern part of the state in the second week of September but held off in the rest of the state during the month, allowing crops to develop toward maturity.

Corn yield and production are both down from last month's forecast. Yield is pegged at 120 bushels per acre and production should total 684 million bushels.

Soybeans are also holding to the September forecast. Yields should come in at 36 bushels per acre, making for a production of 174.6 million bushels.

Minnesota's sunflower crop is forecast at 202.5 million pounds, a two per cent increase from last year. The projected yield of 1,350 pounds per acre would be up 447 pounds from last year's frost-damaged crop. The 150,000 acres for harvest are down 69,000 from a year ago.

Minnesota's dry bean production of 915,000 hundredweight remains the same as earlier forecasts.

The state's sugarbeet output is forecast at 5.46 million tons, down 17,000 tons from the September forecast. The change in anticipated production resulted from a 1,000-acre decline in acres for harvest, now slated at 312,000 acres. Expected yields of 17.5 tons/acre remain unchanged.

Spring wheat production in Minnesota is estimated at 102.7 million bushels, down from last month's 109.2 million. Yield at 37 bushels per acre is down two bushels per acre.

Durum yield at 38 bushels is down three bushels from the September 1 forecast. Production is slated at 1,292,000 bushels.

Yield for winter wheat at 33 bushels is down seven from the July forecast, dropping the production to 4.3 million bushels.

Oat yield at 47 bushels is down two bushels from September and production is now estimated at 40 million bushels.

Production of barley at 53 million bushels is down two million bushels from a month ago. Yield at 53 bushels is down two bushels from September.

Freedom Week Is Observed By Women Of Today

In cooperation with the Women of Today organization, Gov. Rudy Perpich has proclaimed Freedom Week statewide for October 12-18, according to Mary Kotta, district program manager for governmental affairs from the Thief River Falls Women of Today chapter.

Freedom Week project was originated by the Jaycee Women organization during the Iranian hostage crisis and the observance is being continued by the successor Women of Today organization. During the week chapters involve their members in various patriotic activities.

Kotta encourages all people to fly and display American flags in observance of this week and the national independence of the people.

Gov. Perpich notes in his proclamation that the Women of Today is an organization of young women who "believe in the brotherhood of mankind and that government should be of laws rather than of men. In their fight for independence," Gov. Perpich said, "communities in the United States have established a heritage of freedom by patriotic service.

"The Women of Today are committed to a patriotic recognition of the discovery of America and the founding freedoms of the United States," he concluded.

Safe Costumes Add To Fun

One of the most frightening parts of Halloween is the increased potential for automobile accidents involving young pedestrians. Minnesota AAA offers some precautions that parents should take with their children's costumes.

Barbara Mittelstadt, traffic safety coordinator, cautioned that, first and foremost, children should be dressed in highly visible costumes.

"If possible, utilize retro-reflective materials, as they are visible at nearly twice the distance of white cloth," Mittelstadt said. "Strips of the material are easy to use, effective and inexpensive. They are easily affixed to costumes, and it's a way that parents can make certain their trick-or-treaters are easily seen."

Parents should remind their youngsters of basic safety rules. Minnesota AAA advises parents or older siblings to accompany younger children on their trick-or-treat rounds. A parent can keep track of the homes visited, guide the children across streets, and make certain they don't wander from the immediate neighborhood.

"Older children usually prefer to travel with friends, but safety rules should be discussed before leaving home," Mittelstadt added.

Among the rules Minnesota AAA recommends are to trick-or-treat in familiar neighborhoods only, telling the parent which route area will be visited. Pick streets that are well-lighted, and stop only at homes where outside lights are on. Walk on the sidewalk and not in the street. If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic. A return time should be aggreeable to both parent and child.

Costumed children should be able to see clearly without any visual obstructions. Face makeup and a properly worn hat will not obstruct a child's vision. If a mask is worn, enlarge the eyeholes so a youngster can see clearly in all directions.

Keep costumes short enough so that a child won't trip while walking. High heels and trailing capes are dangerous. A simple, comfortable, light-colored costume is a safer one. And don't forget a flashlight to illuminate a trick-or-treater's way.

Parents should also advise their youngsters to sort and check candy and treats at home before eating them.

"The best advice for drivers on Halloween night is to be aware of the unexpected," Mittelstadt said. "Headlights should be clean and turned on at the first sign of dusk. Drive carefully, limit speeds on residential streets to no more than 15 miles per hour between 5 and 9 p.m.

In addition, motorists should be on the lookout for children darting out from between parked cars. Their thoughts are on the fun of the evening, not safety. A right turn on red after stopping is especially dangerous, as excited ghosts and witches might run excitedly across the intersection.

MN Highway Patrol Displays Mobile Communications Unit

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Getting information to law enforcement and or emergency personnel during an emergency situation can be a life-saving task. Since 1976 the Minnesota state patrol has operated a mobile communications unit designed to do just that.

Minnesota state patrol officers were in Thief River Falls Monday with the mobile communications unit, demonstrating its capabilities and informing law enforcement agencies, emergency agencies and the public in Thief River Falls that it is available for use in a natural or man-made disaster.

Only one unit operates in Minnesota. It does not require a staff to travel with it and radio personnel throughout the state can operate the unit. It will be traveling to other area state patrol offices, such as Bemidji and Roseau, to acquaint civil defense directors, sheriff departments, highway patrol offices and other emergency personnel with its operation.

Ray Paulson, supervisor of communications in Thief River Falls, said the unit can replace or enhance a communication system that is either down or needs to be extended into an area without sufficient communications.

Paulson cited floods in East Grand Forks and fires in the eastern part of the state as examples of when the system becomes particularly helpful. The unit has responded to downed communications in the Grand Forks and East Grand Forks area frequently during floods. During the power line dispute in Minnesota a few years ago it became a command center and communications center for an area of the state without a communications system that could handle the particular difficulties involved, he noted.

The unit is completely self-contained. It can operate on its own generator or be connected to an electrical source. The unit is a converted mobile home which was once used by the health department. It has its own tower and antenna, but can also be connected to an existing tower.

Taking over the duties of a wayward or non-existent communications center isn't difficult for the mobile communications center. In some cases, Paulson said, it may offer a better system than the one it replaces. The mobile unit has an effective range, without being connected to an outside antenna, of 50 miles.

The modern-looking console can store as many as 96 different frequencies. The console doesn't take into account what is stored in a not-so modern closet, however. Different emergency mobile radios for different emergency services are all connected to the console by a patch-work of wires and connections in a closet next to the console. All the different radios make it possible to communicate with different emergency or law enforcement agencies on different frequencies.

In many cases with this mobile unit, talking to different law enforcement or emergency agencies is as simple as touching a button and picking up the microphone.

The mobile communications unit can be used for just about anything, Paulson said. When the international 500 cross-country snowmobile race from Winnipeg to St. Paul was being conducted the communications unit was used. It has also been used by different offices of the state patrol when communications are down because of repair or replacement.

It is the only one in the state and has been stationed in the Twin Cities for the most part, but has recently been stationed in Grand Rapids. The itinerant unit is now traveling throughout the state to inform district offices of its existence and capabilities. Open houses are scheduled in several cities in each of the 11 districts in Minnesota.

RAY PAULSON, communications supervisor for the Minnesota state patrol in Thief River Falls, gave an open house tour of the state's mobile communications unit. The mobile unit is used during emergencies and anytime communications have broken down in an area in the state. It is the only unit the state has.

Horse Futurity Show October 18 At Crookston

A prize fund of $10,000 is one of the incentives attracting exhibitors to the Red River Valley International select sire futurity show to be held on Saturday, October 18, beginning at 7 a.m. as part of the annual Great Midwest international horse show at the Red River Valley winter shows building in Crookston.

Twelve classes for quarter horses and 12 for Appaloosas will be featured in the futurity show, which will be followed by the RRV select sire service auction.

"The auction is early this year, due to the elimination of the February horse show in Crookston," said show secretary Tove Altepeter of Crookston. "I contacted most of the stallion owners from the 1986 spring auction, and the majority of them were very much in favor of having the auction at the Great Midwest show. Their horses are now in peak show shape and the get-of-sire from the futurity show will be shown in the ring with the stallions at the time of the auction."

"Since we've changed the time of the auction, we've also devised a new payment schedule," Altepeter added. "Fees can be paid in full at the time of the auction or pro-rated until February 1 of the following year."

Approximately 50 stallions have been consigned to the auction, representing some of the finest bloodlines of quarter horses and Appaloosas in the Midwest and Canada, according to Altepeter.

To be eligible for the futurity show itself, horses must be the offspring of stallion services purchased at the previous select sire service auction. Foal owners must make an initial payment, or nomination fee, on or before June 1 of the year the foal is born, making it eligible for the futurity through the next three years. To enter the horse in any succeeding futurities, the owner must pay a sustaining fee on June 1 and September 1, prior to the show.

Land O'Lakes Looks At Joint Venture

Twin Cities-based Land O'Lakes and Cenex cooperatives are considering a consolidation of farm supply operations through joint ventures that could achieve annual operational savings of $10 million, according to the chairmen of the two organizations.

The chairmen, Claire Sandness of Land O'Lakes and Edward Melby of Cenex, said committees of both boards have recently endorsed a plan, "that will enable both cooperatives to build upon their combined financial strengths and market presence."

"The plan is designed to generate operational savings, increase production efficiency and provide both companies a stronger position in the farm supply market," Melby said. "Its provisions concentrate the focus of each company's market strengths."

The plan must still be approved by Cenex and Land O'Lakes full boards and respective shareholders. It calls for asset lease agreements involving petroleum; feed and seed operations, plant food and ag chemicals.

"The joint venture approach would allow our two cooperatives to share in the benefits of combined economic activity and streamline the cooperative supply system," said Sandness, a North Dakota dairy and feed grains farmer. "It really is an exercise in what cooperatives should be best at: cooperation."

Sandness and Melby emphasized service to farmers was a priority consideration in the deliberations.

"The potential benefits from this plan relate directly to our shared commitment to serving agriculture through cooperatives," said Melby, a Montana farmer. "The standard used to judge the proposal was its ultimate impact on our members — cooperatives and farmers."

The cooperative chairmen said the plan would be considered by both boards later this month.

TRF Mental Health Unit

Mental health division at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls is shedding some old misconceptions about mental health. Once known as the Day-Night unit because of the title of federal funding, it is seeking to dispel misconceptions about the care it provides and the people who seek its services.

During national mental health week, well over 200 people attended an open house on third floor to view some of the changes. Most of the changes appear cosmetic at first glance, but the changes do much more.

"Just like some organizations use tools, we use design and room atmosphere. With the changes we have made up here on the third floor of the hospital, we can handle greater numbers of people and also do a better job," said Mary McEnelly of the division staff.

An information pamphlet provided at the open house Thursday by Dr. Steve Levinson, director of the mental health division, describes the services available since 1969 at the mental health division as including a variety of psychological services that fall outside the realm of mental health.

McEnelly wasn't sure what problems they see most but said they see many depression and coping problems. But, she added, most people they see are not mentally ill.

Indeed, the mental health division assists people with many problems. It helps people handle depression and provides assistance for mental illness, stress, troublesome habits like overeating and smoking, handling grief, pain and family crises to name a few. It also provides consultation and educational needs, placing heavy emphasis on tailoring services to the unique needs of each patient.

The mental health division does provide rooms and care for patients who need around-the-clock care. Rooms for patients dangerous to themselves or others are unique in design and considered by other hospitals as model rooms. The small rooms are sparse and barren of anything a patient might use to injure himself or others. The walls are impact resistant and the windows are of thick plexiglass which cannot be seen through from the outside of the building. The floors are barren and the beds also of special design.

Other rooms on third floor are designed for different patients but all have one thing in common – they are not meant to be hiding holes but sleeping quarters. McEnelly explained the purpose is to encourage patients to do less thinking and more activities.

Cosmetic design and purpose are combined to assist that goal in other rooms of the department also. Large rooms on third floor allow patients access to an information center, recreation, physical therapy and conference rooms. Patients and staff wear their own street clothing and not hospital garb or uniforms. It is all part of an effort to encourage patients to be active, feel comfortable, and overcome some of their problems.

The mental health division serves around 7,500 patients in after-care each year, and 2,000 emergencies per year. It is staffed by several doctoral level psychologists, a consulting psychiatrist, mental health nursing personnel, occupational therapists and other mental health specialists — all dedicated people like Mary McEnelly and Dr. Steve Levinson, director of the division.

For more information or to make an appointment or referral, call the mental health division at (218) 681-4240, extension 351 or 352, or write: Mental Health Division, Northwest Medical Center, 120 LaBree av. S., Thief River Falls, MN 56701. All patient information is held in the strictest confidence.

We're always here

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE Ambassadors Dick Spyhalski and Cookie Ault presented a more progress award for the mental health division of Northwest Medical center at an open house for the department which recently completed some renovation. Dr. Steve Levinson, director of the mental health division, received the award for the department.

PLUMMER FIRE DEPARTMENT demonstrated how to put out a garbage can fire and how to handle many other types of emergencies last week during national fire prevention week. Keith Demarais and Jim DuChamp of the Plummer fire department gave the demonstration to elementary school students at Plummer public school.

MAN MUST LEARN!

A flight of geese heads south to their winter habitat. Going forward together—the leader unafraid to lead—the followers not ashamed to follow. And no one doubts they'll reach their destination—all flying as one.

The one thing we really know about these beautiful creatures is that they are using capabilities which God gave them.

This man must learn! To seek, to discover, to start using together capabilities which God has given us—the ones we call spiritual.

List Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) As One Restless Child Problem

Ask any teacher to describe the most difficult child in the classroom, and the response probably would be: "The restless child who disrupts the entire class."

The child's restless, impulsive behavior is usually just one symptom of a broader problem: Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD). Besides being restless, the child most likely has trouble paying attention, is easily distracted, does sloppy work, makes careless, impulsive errors and fails to follow through on teachers' and parents' requests.

A child with ADD can't cope with multiple stimuli, a problem often encountered for the first time in school. Bram Drew, a psychologist in St. Paul, described ADD this way: "We all have this gatekeeper that allows us to decide what's important. Children with ADD don't seem to have that. There's nothing in their head that can sort out what's important and what's extraneous."

Approximately three to five per cent of schoo-age children have ADD; it's five times more common among boys than girls. Drew, who sees both preschool and school-age children, said that the activity level of children with ADD varies. Some ADD children show no signs of hyperactive behavior.

"The American Psychiatric association determined in 1980 that a child can have a significant attentional problem and not be hyperactive. Then, people were able to say 'Aha — this is the kid in my class whose mind is always somewhere else, interrupts in the middle of a sentence, jumps up and does things when he should be doing something else, even though he doesn't look hyperactive,'" Drew said.

Most people believe that ADD children who are hyperactive should be given sedatives to calm them down. That's not the case at all. ADD children are actually underaroused and underalert. The restless child's moving around and foot stamping is an unconscious attempt to artificially stimulate the brain. Unfortunately, it doesn't help very much.

One of the most effective treatments for ADD is a stimulant, like Ritalin or Dexedrine. A stimulant helps the child's brain to focus and concentrate, and as a result, the child is less restless. Ritalin is the stimulant used most often. Drew said an ADD child should stay on Ritalin until it's no longer needed. "It's very important that every year the child's need for medication is evaluated in a controlled classroom situation. The child should be rated before he goes off Ritalin and again in a week or two after he has been off to see whether or not it makes any difference in his work completion or ability to pay attention."

For parents of an ADD child, family life isn't always easy. Drew gives this advice: "Expectations on the parents' part have to be a little different for these kids. For important things, like running in the street, being nice to brothers and sisters and other things you really have high values for, you must clamp down pretty firmly. But some things are beyond the child's control. You have to find ways to work with your child.

"For example, an ADD child who is hyperactive is the perfect kid to be the errand child. It's really hard for them, even if the stimulant works, to sit still at the dinner table. So have them be the one to go get the salt, take the plates and bring this and that. That way they can feel they're a productive part of the family."

Joe Meyer, a clinical social worker, leads a support group for parents of ADD children. Meyer, who has a child with ADD, advises parents not to give the child too many directions at once. He also suggests that parents have the child repeat the directions back to them.

Meyer found that it's better to tell a child what you want rather than what you don't want. For example, tell the child "Please walk" instead of "Stop running." An ADD child often picks up just one or two words from a command. If the child remembers the word running, he will run. An ADD child also responds better to lower pitch voices and slow, deliberate speech.

Parents of hyperactive children often wonder whether certain foods, such as sugar, affect a child's activity level. Psychologist Drew said that it never has been proven that sugar makes a child more hyperactive. In fact, there is no clear evidence that any particular food or additive affects a significant percentage of children. However, if parents find that the same food has affected their child's activity level four or five different times, the food should be eliminated from the child's diet.

Drew, who works with teachers in the St. Paul school district, discussed how teachers can help ADD children in the classroom. "If the other kids get a 25 problem worksheet to work on, this child should get 10 problems and be allowed to come back, check with the teacher just briefly, then go back and do another 10. Because if you give him 25 problems, he's going to lose it on problem four, and 40 minutes later, have nothing done. And put the ADD child at the end of the row and in the front, so you only have one child that is distracting him instead of three or four."

If you think your child may have ADD, see your pediatrician or family practitioner. The doctor will need a detailed history of the child's behavior, including teachers' notes and comments. Sometimes the doctor will request psychological testing. Other times the family history and teachers' evaluations will lead to a fairly conclusive diagnosis.

The death remains under investigation by the Bagley police department and the state fire marshall's office.

RLF Jaycee Award

Red Lake Falls—Lyle Longtin of Red Lake Falls was awarded the highest honor a Jaycee can receive at the fall convention held recently in Bemidji. He was presented with the Ambassador's Award and a gold lifetime membership card, making him a permanent member of the organization. The only way a Jaycee may receive the award is to be nominated for the honor by his or her own chapter. Longtin has held nearly every office at the local Jaycee level, and several state offices. He has been a member of the Jaycees since 1975.

Lucky Buck

Red Lake Falls—As part of a new housing project in the city of Red Lake Falls, a house in the city will be sold to an eligible applicant for $1. A homesteader must agree to rehabilitate the home and bring it up to city code compliance standards while living in it for five years. Applicants must be 18 years of age and must not already own a home. Priority will be given individuals or families of low to moderate income, although there are no income or asset limitations. The program is a part of a rebirth of the Homestead Act of 1862 encouraging growth and development of cities.

Several businesses plan to relocate in the new business district.

Fire Hall Ball

Roseau—The Firefighters Barbecue and Ball will begin at 5 p.m. October 17 at the Roseau city auditorium. If you plan to partake of the barbecue, get there early, as Dan Hayes, chairman, says, "We don't know how many people to expect, so when the food is gone, the barbecue will be over." There is no set price for the dance, and donations in any amount will be accepted. There will be a charge for the barbecue, however, and tickets are available at the door. The affair is to be a family event, intended to raise money for a new fire hall. The ball will begin at 9 p.m. and last until 1 a.m. with music by "Last Resort."

Roseau—Latest figures released from the office of state demographer show that the population of the city of Roseau has increased by only five people in five years. Population in 1980 was 2,272, and the 1985 census shows a population of 2,277. Warroad, Hallock and Thief River Falls have gained in population, and Roseau and Kittson counties have also shown an increase in population. Populations of Pennington, Polk, Marshall, Norman and Red Lake counties have dropped in the same five year period.

Lieutenant General Truman Spangrud graduated from Karlstad high school in 1952, and is married to the former Inez Carlson of Stephen.

DOT Asks Contact Before Working On Right Of Way

Minnesota Department of Transportation is asking landowners to notify their local Mn-DOT maintenance office before doing any work on trunk highway right of way.

According to area maintenance engineer Marv Bates in Crookston, many landowners work on trunk highway right of way to improve drainage from their property or for other reasons. Sometimes these areas are not properly replanted and the resulting erosion damages ditches and requires additional work.

Since the department of transportation is responsible for the maintenance of highway right of way and the drainage that takes place in highway ditches, department personnel would like to be informed of any work taking place.

Bates said that permits for this type of work are required by law and are available, free of charge, from the permit office in the Mn-DOT maintenance office in Crookston (218) 281-3503. These permits are almost always granted.

According to Bates, Mn-DOT is mainly interested in knowing what work is taking place on the right of way and seeing that the work is done properly. The permit system also allows Mn-DOT to monitor changes and to incorporate them into future road improvements.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I'm employed by a large company but I also have my own business I operate in the evenings and on weekends. Do I have to pay social security taxes on the money I make from my business as well as on wages from my regular job?

A. If you have wages as well as earnings from self-employment, the wages count first for social security purposes. If your wages are less than the social security maximum, you must pay the self-employment tax on the difference between your wages and the maximum or on your net earnings, whichever is less.

Q. I read an advertisement offering to get me information on my social security record for free. Does it cost money to get this direct from social security?

A. Absolutely not. There is never any charge by social security for any of our services. For a fee, some legitimate firms use your authorization to obtain social security information about you which you can obtain yourself for free. As an example, this information can include changing your name on a social security card, checking your earnings record or providing a benefit estimate.

Q. Must one be a United States citizen to get social security?

A. No. A person need not be a United States citizen to receive social security but they must be eligible based on either their own or someone else's work record. Social security checks are mailed to people in many different countries. The supplemental security income program is different and has requirements about citizenship or residency.

Q. I have been receiving social security checks for some time and will be 65 in January. I received a Medicare card recently and I don't understand what I am to do with it.

A. People receiving checks automatically get a Medicare card as they approach age 65. If they choose the full coverage all they should do is detach the perforated card and use it as it becomes effective. Those people who do not want Part B of Medicare should sign the back of the card and return it to the address shown.

Q. Why do my social security checks show that they are for the previous month?

A. A person must be entitled (meeting all eligibility requirements) throughout the entire month. This is why, for example, your December social security check is for November.

Q. I just hired a cleaning lady one day a week. Do I have to deduct social security taxes from her wages?

A. If you pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages during a calendar quarter, you must deduct social security taxes and report the wages. You must count any cash you pay to cover the cost of bus fare, meals or a room. If you don't report the wages on time you may have to pay a penalty in addition to the overdue taxes. A calendar quarter is a three-month period that ends on March 31, June 30, September 30 or December 31. Remember, even if wages average only $4 a week, they would add up to at least $50 for the quarter.

Q. I get supplemental security income (SSI) checks. If I change my address, do I have to report that to social security even though checks are deposited directly in my bank?

A. Yes. You must report a new address even if you have direct deposit. Social security needs to have your correct address because it must be able to contact you to make sure you're still eligible for SSI. Those receiving any social security by direct deposit should let us know of address changes because of other, non check, material sometimes mailed.

Q. A friend of mine told me the retirement age is being increased to age 67 from 65. Is this true?

A. Yes, but not until after the year 2000. The full retirement age will gradually increase from 65 to 67 between years 2000 and 2022. Early benefits at age 62 will still be available but at a lesser amount. Those wanting more information should call their nearest office.

Letters to the Editor

An Open Letter to President Reagan
Mr. President:

Are you as insensitive as you appear to be? Why won't you listen to all the farm groups that come to appeal to you instead of just the Farm Bureau? You seem to have time to scratch the backs of big business and foreign countries, but there seems to be no time for the rural people.

This government was set up to represent all the people, not just those with big bucks! The rural farming community hasn't seen much intelligent legislation under your administration.

Why can't the farm family live on what they produce for sale? The farm should be able to support the family and the business. The farmer has never had it easy, gambling with the elements. Suddenly, though, we find ourselves between a rock and a hard place and no way to wiggle. Now we find that there is a new menace to this American Dream — our own government!

Why is our own President and his administration setting policy that the farm can't operate under? We always thought that of all places to turn to for financial help our government and its officials would be the one place that would work with us, someone we could trust. After all, it's hard work running a government, something the farmer can identify with.

When we worked up our loan applications they were made with intelligence, honest intentions and trust. The money was there, we were encouraged to make use of it. But somebody was holding one end of the carpet and it has been pulled out from under our feet!

We want to farm! We thought our government was in the best position to help us market our product. It seems we were wrong again!

We wonder if this frightens you as much as it does the rural people? Who can the farmer trust if he can't trust his government in the United States of America?

Mr President — What has happened to our American Dream?

An American Farmer,
Zeann Lander

(Editor's Note: Intention of the writer of the above letter and other people is to have the original circulated and signed by as many as possible attending the President's appearance in Grand Forks Friday, and then presenting it to him or as close to him as possible through available channels.)

Judging The Judges

When voters go to the polls November 4 they will again be confronted with a ballot which includes Ninth Judicial District judge candidates. For the most part, these judges are known only locally or to a minute portion of the people who will be voting. In general they do not campaign for their positions and it does seem that vigorous campaigning would be a bit improper or at least undignified.

All of which leaves the voter hanging when it comes to marking the ballot. Adding to the dilemma is the fact that all voters in the 17-county district can vote for any of the judges which may serve only a portion of the district on a regular basis.

What most voters are likely to do is vote for the incumbent (judges are the only candidates who can be identified on the ballot as incumbent office holders) unless they have compelling personal reasons to do otherwise. As a result, judges who have been appointed and for some reason have proved to be incompetent, biased, prejudiced, inconsistent, moody or otherwise ineffective are not easy to replace.

There is a fairly active contest over in the Clearwater county area between incumbent judge F. R. Weddel and challenger James R. Wilson. Wilson supporters, including several law enforcement officers, have claimed publicly that Judge Weddel is inconsistent and should be replaced. Supporters of Judge Weddel, including attorneys who have had cases tried before him, vouch for his competency.

Within the area where the judge normally serves, there may be a consensus as to his abilities or lack thereof, but we would be surprised if that is the case. Most voters are rarely in district court for any reason and would have no experience on which to pass judgment. Those of us in other areas of the district are totally in the dark.

It seems like there should be a better system to put the best qualified people on the bench in Minnesota's district courts, and to remove them if they don't live up to expectations. Admittedly, we don't really know what that would be. Practicing attorneys are the most familiar with the judges, but election of judges by attorneys would leave too much room for professional prejudice or jealousies.

Appointment of judges by the governor — such as appointment of Supreme Court justices by the President (subject to ratification by the Congress) — certainly brings politics into the judicial field.

Perhaps it would be best to limit the judges to a small district and conduct the election by the people who live within that district. At least in that fashion the people would get the type of judges they want and deserve.

Another View On Education

The following article was written by Tom Ebele in "The Dakota Student", a publication of the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, following an appearance by yet one more person who has strong views about education in America. It is offered for public consideration and discussion.

The American public school system uses a teaching method that creates more than one million functionally illiterate children every year, according to author and educator Samuel Blumenfeld.

Blumenfeld, a critic of the National Education Association, spoke to a crowd of about 190 people at the Westward Ho Monday.

Blumenfeld blames the founders of the present system, whom he calls progressives, of a conspiracy to "dumb down" the American people by installing a teaching system that they knew would not work, in order to create a socialist society here.

"The progressives decided to apply principles of behavioral psychology to American public education," Blumenfeld said. "A human being was to them nothing more than a high-order animal. Apply the right stimulus, and you would elicit the desired response."

"At the same time, they sought to change American education from an art to a science with the predictability of a mathematical formula," he said. "Learning and behavior were regarded as synonymous. The human nervous system would learn whatever the teacher wished if the correct stimulus was applied."

The progressives, he said, knowingly embarked on a mission to change the United States to a collectivist, socialist, atheist society. They figured they would have to work on the children, and if they could make the children into socialists they could change America.

"John Dewey, the chief of the progressives, said in his book "School in Society," that academic skills must be played down and the emphasis should be put on social skills, activities, group behavior, and games," Blumenfeld said.

The progressives accomplished the changeover by infiltrating the National Education Association in the early 1900's, using the organization for their own purposes.

He said that the United States had a high rate of literacy in 1776, but the progressives knew that high literacy was an obstacle to socialism. The system of education then produced individuals of high intelligence who could think for themselves; but in socialism, one person at the top does all the thinking for everyone else.

The progressives introduced a system of teaching called the look-say method, replacing the phonics method. The look-say method teaches children to read as if English was Chinese, by looking at the whole word instead of the individual letters and sounds that they make.

"This teaching system causes children to exhibit symptoms of dyslexia, such as reaching words backwards, because if you look at a picture it doesn't matter which way you look at it, so you can look at it from right to left and it has the same meaning, but that doesn't work with English," Blumenfeld said.

"When you teach someone to read by the phonics method you first teach them the symbols, then you teach them the sounds they stand for, then you form associations from letter to sound.

"The popular press says that the reason for illiteracy is dyslexic children. The learning disabled is becoming the largest growing group in the United States — but the blind and the deaf aren't growing. There is nothing wrong with these kids, they just don't have the photographic memory necessary to learn by the look-say method."

Blumenfeld said the only solution is to teach children at home, or get the children out of the public schools and into private or church schools.

He also said children are at risk physically, morally, and spiritually when they are sent to public schools.

Spiritually they are at risk because of what he calls a rising amount of devil worshipping in schools today. "Putting a child in school today is like playing Russian roulette. Do you know that they have devil worshippers in school? There are teachers playing Dungeons and Dragons in the classrooms," he said.

Physically they are at risk because of the rising violence in schools today, Blumenfeld said. Morally they are at risk because of the profusion of drug pushers, prostitutes, atheists and "users of foul language" in schools.

Blumenfeld said when the schools teach values clarification and death education they are driving the kids to committing suicide.

"The schools don't teach children how to read, but instead teach them about bowel movements and feces," he said.

Borrowed Nonsense

The pastor had been in the same congregation for 20 years when he announced during the morning announcements that Jesus had called him to serve another parish. Immediately following the announcements, the choir stood and sang, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus."

Second-graders who were asked to provide the endings to some American proverbs provided their teacher with the following gems: "A penny saved . . . isn't much." "You can lead a horse to water . . . but they always want something else." "Two heads . . . are worse than two feet." "Don't count your chickens . . . before you wash your hands." "Early to bed . . . stinks." "A bird in the hand . . . is liable to go to the bathroom." "You can't teach an old dog . . . because he can't see very well."

The psychiatrist attributed his patient's trouble to excessive worry over money matters. "Just relax," he said. "Just two weeks ago I had a fellow in here all in a dither because he was having trouble paying his contractor's bill. I counseled him to forget about the obligation and now he feels great.

"I know," the patient said glumly. "I'm his contractor."

From 1980 to 1984, the number of persons in poverty in families maintained by women increased 17 per cent, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

When Mark Twain was in London, he heard of reports back in the United States that he had passed away. He sent a cable back to New York stating, "The report of my death is greatly exaggerated."

To those who suggest the United States is a failing industrial power, I offer a like response. Industrial production has grown more rapidly in this country during the 1980s than in any other nation. The reports of our industrial demise are premature, to say the least.

It is true that total employment is declining in many of our industries, such as steel, apparel, metal working and auto manufacturing. In fact, employment in manufacturing is almost one million less than in 1980, a reduction of about five per cent.

At the same time, however, industrial output has risen an astounding 25 per cent. The simple fact is that our industries are producing more with fewer employees.

To be sure, the loss of a million manufacturing jobs is no small matter. It has meant disruption and hardship in the lives of many good people.

But the picture isn't all that bleak. Many of those jobs didn't actually disappear at all. They were simply transferred to the services sector as more manufacturing companies contract out various services functions that they used to perform inhouse.

And although some jobs have disappeared, their loss was more than offset by new opportunities. We have created more than 10 million new jobs at a time when job creation in other countries has been relatively stagnant.

We live in an age of dramatic technological progress, when every aspect of the way we work and live is undergoing rapid change. Just as our ancestors endured the rigorous transformation from an agricultural society into an industrial one, so are we embarked upon another period of transition.

No one can say with certainty what this next stage of our economic development will be like, but one thing is certain — it will not witness erosion of our manufacturing base any more than industrialization did our agricultural sector. We are simply learning to apply our labor more efficiently and effectively in more productive ways.

Those who demand government subsidies and protectionism to prop up employment in manufacturing are barking up the wrong tree. The world abounds with nations that have taken that approach and their economic performance is dismal.

The roots of our nation's prosperity lie within our free market economy and our ability to accept and respond to change. These qualities have always served us well, and never more so than in times like these.

Lots of miscellaneous advertisements in the October 17, 1946 Times. Tom Mehegan at the Evelyn hotel wanted a ride to Grand Forks Friday afternoon or Saturday morning; someone wanted to repair automobiles at a bargain price at a shop six blocks east of old Steel Bridge, and four blocks south at 528 So. Crocker Avenue; N.K.E. Dahl stated he bought a shop to clean fur coats at 315 No. Knight Avenue; Jim Thorstad on West Nora street would do fall garden plowing; call 995 to have your storm windows put on at a very reasonable price; John Gillespie, 218 So. Duluth, would tune your piano; and the Times would run your ad for one cent a word, one insertion.

Real estate taxes are now due; pay A.R. Johnsrud, Pennington county treasurer, before November 1 to avoid penalty.

"She used to pay $15 for a permanent — now she gives herself a Toni wave at home" for $1.25.

Herbert E. Olson, Heman J. Day, Fred D. Lorentson, Thora Skomedal, Eric Friberg, John E. Isaacson, Edwin K. Rokke, Sofus H. Bjertness, John Pearson, Ervin R. Vansickle, C.S. McReynolds ("The Honey Man") Any of those names ring a bell? All were running for election to something or another in the area.

Ah ha, finally! Lutefisk was selling in one area supermarket. Johnson's Food Market ("We Deliver—Prompt, Courteous Service—Phone 109") was catering to pre-holiday Norwegian cravings by offering lutefisk for 19 cents a pound—and imported fish balls at 39 cents a can.

Common Science

by Joe Jeffers, Ph.D.

Expectant parents are usually somewhat anxious. Will baby have all its fingers and toes? Will it be healthy? What will we do if it is malformed? These are reasonable concerns when one considers that approximately one baby of every 100 born will have a serious birth defect. These defects range from missing body parts to body chemicals that are made incorrectly. They can be caused by defective genes (DNA) passed on by the parents, incorrect numbers of chromosomes, improper nutrition during pregnancy or prenatal "poisons" (teratogens) that interfere with normal development.

Twenty-five years ago and before, most parents had no option but to wait for the birth of their child to see if it would be okay. In fact most parents do that today. But for parents whose families have histories of birth defects or for older mothers who are at greater risks for certain disorders, there are now procedures to allow them to check their unborn child (fetus) for certain abnormalities.

Ultrasound utilizes high frequency low intensity sound waves to produce a fuzzy image of the fetus. Details cannot be seen well, but structural abnormalities like skeletal defects show up very well. Importantly ultrasound is non-invasive; it doesn't require any surgical procedure or needles. While there seems to be no risk of damage to the fetus from ultrasound, there are warnings from the medical establishment against the frivolous use of ultrasound since its long term risks are not well known.

A technique that allows direct viewing of the fetus is called fetoscopy. A needle-like insertion of a fiber-optics device right into the womb allows a physician to look at the fetus. It is useful where a small external defect is suspected. It can be used so that blood tests can be performed on the fetus. It is also useful in allowing surgery to be performed directly on the fetus.

The prenatal diagnosis technique most familiar to the public is probably amniocentesis. It is typically performed between weeks 14 and 16 of pregnancy. Ultrasound is used to locate the fetus in the amniotic sac, the fluid-filled membrane surrounding the fetus. A needle is inserted through the mother's abdomen into the amniotic sac and some of the fluid is withdrawn. Biochemical tests for some abnormalities can be done directly on the fluid. Most, however, require that fetal cells present in the fluid be cultured, that is placed in special fluids so that the cells will grow and increase in number. It takes about two weeks to have enough cells to analyze for many birth defects. While this technique is relatively safe, it has been blamed for occasional miscarriages, and there have been cases where the fetus has been punctured by the inserted needle. While more than 200 birth defects can be detected by amniocentesis, only a few are actually tested for in each case, depending on family history and age of the mother. Amniocentesis can also be used to tell the sex of the unborn child. Because of the risks of the technique, however, it is rarely done solely to determine the sex.

A new technique, called villus biopsy, can be done between weeks 8 and 10 of pregnancy. Suction is used to remove small bits of the "finger-like" extensions of the membranes that surround the fetus. These villi are the fetus' connection to the mother's womb. They are composed of the same genetic material as the fetus, so they can be analyzed in the same way as cells from anmiocentesis. Also there are enough cells for use immediately without waiting two weeks for them to culture.

Each of the procedures discussed here has its advantages and disadvantages. None of them is completely accurate. No diagnosis procedure can guarantee a perfect baby.

Russian Art Depicts Its Land And People

by David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian News Service

The flowering fall weeds are depicted so precisely that the artist's canvas resembles a photograph. The light-dappled stalks of goutweed tower over a dense growth of dried grasses, ordinary plants taking on unusual beauty in a viewer's eyes.

The scene looks familiar — maybe something out of the American landscape, perhaps a setting recorded by one of the Wyeths. It is not. It is Russian.

A second painting is unmistakably Slavic. In this scene, a Russian family moves diagonally across a frozen landscape, its members wrapped snugly in great, fur-lined cloaks or in colorful shawls layered over heavy, protective capes.

These and 60 other paintings presented this season in an exchange exhibit at the Renwick Gallery in Washington, D.C., and later at the University of Chicago and Harvard's Fogg museum, were created by Rusian artists known as the Itinerants.

Young, independent, from Moscow and St. Petersburg, they expressed many of the same concerns about life in czarist Russia as did their far more universally known contemporaries, writers Tolstoy, Chekhov and Dostoevsky and composers Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff. The Itinerants came together in 1871 and showed their work in traveling exhibitions until well after the Russian Revolution of 1917.

Appropriately, the paintings are being presented in the United States under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibition service. "We were really lucky to get what we did," says Donald R. McClelland, who flew to the Soviet Union to organize the show. "The base is only 600 or so works, and the Soviets look upon these as far more important than the great foreign artists in their museums."

In mid-19th century, adventurous Russian artists found the styles endorsed by official academies of art stifling and irrelevant to the realities of rigorous life in Russia. The painters were dissatisfied with overworked themes based on classical or European history, mythology and Greek or Italian landscapes, a feeling shared by like-minded artists in the United States and Europe.

The Itinerants believed intensely in Russia and felt that the land and customs — the lives of ordinary people — were subjects they should portray. "Like Americans at the time, there was a sense of discovery of their own country," McClelland says.

Thwarted, denounced and routinely put under police surveillance, the Itinerants, nevertheless, found a number of patrons among the growing merchant class and intellectual sets who were willing to take risks in the cause of recording Slavic traditions. One of them was Pavel Tretyakov, founder of the art gallery in Moscow that bears his name and is the source, along with the State Russian Museum, Leningrad, of the paintings in the Smithsonian exhibition.

The Itinerants, for all their interest in Russian issues, did not ignore studying the best of the Old Masters and the work of innovative but controversial contemporary European realists. In fact, the Russians often visited the great museums of France and other nations, attended world exhibitions and stopped by the studios and salons of foreign artists, among them Americans working in Paris.

Art historians point to an intriguing resemblance between many 19th-century Russian canvases and those by Americans that will be sent to the Soviet Union as part of the cultural exchange agreement signed by the two powers in 1985 in Geneva. George Catlin's fascination with the American Indian of the far West is reminiscent of the Russian fascination with dervishes in Siberia. And Thomas Eakins' probing portraits that penetrated character are paralleled by a similar Slavic psychological focus.

Stylistically, the Russians worked in a form of realism that often resembled photography, then just a few decades old but fast gaining in popular and aesthetic appeal. Later in the century, undoubtedly taking a cue from French painters, the Itinerants moved away from the meticulous style to impressionistic, broken brush strokes and moved their subjects from studios into the revealing outdoor light.

But it was content that the Russians had most on their minds. Although the servile system of serfdom was abolished in 1861, czarist rule continued, the arbitrary powers of the nobility still reigned and peasants were at the mercy of the landowners.

According to Robert Rosenblum, an authority on 19th-century painting, the native subjects of the new art became an instrument "to sharpen the social consciousness of the Russian people to the evils of the despotic, czarist traditions...." By their "insistent truth to the facts of history, setting, costume and even psychology," Rosenblum adds, the Itinerants' work would "find further function in official styles of post-Revolutionary Russia" that pivoted on scenes of working men and women.

Some of the new paintings, especially landscapes, undoubtedly could be read two ways — as lovely pictures, or as something more ominous. Views of winding country roads, lush pine forests and tiny, colorful villages spoke of Russia and its endless expanse, attributes long common in literature but fresh to Russian painting.

And yet such an idyllic canvas as the goutweed and grasses might be viewed as a visual metaphor for the plight of Russia and its people. A short distance from the lovely weeded hillside rises a dark, wooden fence that screens out curious eyes and, symbolically, Russian aspirations. "Even when the landscapes do not actually include people, human presence is felt in them," sayd L.I. Iovleva, curator of the State Tretyakov Gallery, in an essay for the catalog accompanying the painting exhibit.

Genre paintings of everyday life were favored by the Itinerants above all other subjects because these were so well suited to portraying the era's social issues. During the freeing of serfs, genre painters often sacrificed the beauties of painting for the sake of grim truth, Iovleva writes, citing as an example a morbid yet moving work of 1867, "A Drowned Woman." Here, a black-garbed figure lies still on the damp ground as a uniformed man wistfully looks on in the misty setting.

Later, in the 1870s, new issues of reform unfolded, and the artists' range of themes broadened to encompass profound and exceptionally witty and often poetic motifs from the lives of peasants and urban dwellers. To many, one of the greatest of all Russian genre paintings is Ilya Repin's 1883 "Religious Procession in Kursk Province."

Depicted in the canvas is a provincial procession moving down a dust-choked road on a hot summer day. A noblewoman, swollen with proposity, carries a shining icon; groups of other men and women bear other relics, and in the center are priests and local administrative and commercial leaders. Village police on horseback use sticks and switches to keep the crowd from coming too close to the relics. A mounted officer towers over the entire scene. From Repin's brush came a symbolic picture of Russia in 1883, one of deep despair.

Vasilii Maksimov's "It's All in the Past" (1889) touched on the theme of the crumbling world of the nobility and the gentry. In contrast to Repin's brutality-charged canvas, Maksimov paints an almost surreal portrait, one of tragic serenity. Here, two elderly women sit sadly in front of a small log cottage. At their side is a table set elegantly for coffee, and in the distance looms the haze-shrouded outline of a large, columned house.

Portraiture was the leading genre theme in the last 1870s and '80s. Likenesses of the great figures of Russian literature, art and music now exist due in no small part to the inspiration and collecting of Tretyakov and to the thinking of Ivan Kramskoi. Guiding light of the Itinerants and by profession a portrait painter, Kramskoi believed a portrait must characterize the sitter's inner character as well as capture the modern man's growing confidence in his abilities and his time. This thinking applied to public personalities and private individuals alike.

Official portraits were filled with elaborate accessories, but the Itinerants favored neutral backgrounds to highlight their subjects. In Repin's assured but haunting portrait of a barefoot Tolstoy in the exhibit, one critic observes, "Repin on an artistic level connected the image of Tolstoy with that of Russia itself. And thus...expressed his attitude to the historical fate of the country and its people."

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

I was attending a wedding. The bride was beautiful. The groom was handsome. I had heard the service and sermon many times. When the ceremony ended, and I had a chance to meet the other "witnesses," I found that the bridegroom's "happy" parents had been divorced for almost two decades, never speaking for that whole time, and their happiness and togetherness charade this day was in response to a request from the newlyweds.

I discovered that the bride's parents had a squabble about a half decade back, divorced and then remarried. As I looked around the room where the wedding dinner-dance was occurring, I wondered what chance a 1986 marriage had for success. I was concerned because one of my daughters had just called to let me know that she was engaged to be married in September, and wanted Mom to plan a wedding at our home.

Responding to a phone call, I had to walk past a table occupied by a young couple. They were speaking so loudly that anyone within 20 feet could hear their conversation. The woman asked a question, "Do you want me or don't you? I owe my husband an explanation if I leave him, and I think you owe your live-in girl friend some answers, too!" I couldn't help looking at this couple as I passed by. While I don't watch TV soaps, this sure sounded like what I anticipated.

I usually don't see sexually loaded best sellers, but a distended storm and nothing else to read gave me an opportunity to skim Judith Krantz's "I'll Take Manhattan," where the heroine will have had four marriages by age 30, at which point the book ends.

Something appears to be wrong in this mixed up world in which we live. It isn't the external environment that seems to bother me, knowing that it is carefully surveyed by the EPA, OSHA, NRC and so many other experts intent on making life more attractive and safe. There are the police and fire people serving and protecting. The SEC, FTC, BBB and more are trying hard to help. But no one seems to be working on the preservation of the family unit, the basis for everything, which appears to be in real trouble.

There are about two and a half million marriages each year. There are about half that number of divorces each year. Two marriages for every divorce appears to be the national average. There are regional differences. California, Florida, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and the District of Columbia all exceed the national family breakup average. Some of our states have lower divorce rates than that average including Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, New York, South Carolina, South Dakota, Virginia and Washington.

The family has always been a basis for strength and support. I listened to two men discussing marriage and lifestyles. One was a grandfather, with kids married and surviving. The othe believed in something he called an "open marriage," where he and his wife both had the right to "run around" with others, sometimes more than one "others" at a time. The open marriage exponent seemed unsatisfied with life, feeling that something was missing in spite of his related experiences that sounded more like a novel than happiness and achievement.

With another daughter getting married, I was wondering about this mixed up world where individuals lack commitment, talk a lot about relationships, but seem to miss that simple four letter word, love. My dictionary defines love as a profoundly tender, passionate affection and a feeling of warm personal attachment. It doesn't put "love" into a time frame. It doesn't define the responsibilities and obligations of the parties "in love." It overlooks an explanation that true love, sharing and caring, develops with time, and is tolerant, even on "bad days," in sickness and in health, for richer or poorer. These are all simple unsophisticated concepts. Maybe with some explanation, training, tolerance and good examples, plus love, the family unit will survive and the family members will even experience happiness.

It makes you wonder!

That's Straight Talk!

Remember the war protest song, "When will they ever learn?" The song writer felt that intelligent folks should learn from experience, just as a youngster who sticks a hand in a flame learns not to do that again. I had hoped that our labor union movement leaders would have learned something from the experiences of the past two decades. Comments from the auto workers union president, Owen Bieber, and others, indicate that they haven't learned or understood what has happened. These leaders intend to conduct a "war" against employers. The term, war, is a direct quote from Bieber.

The auto workers union has labor contracts that impose rates that are more than double the direct and indirect labor rates of their world-wide and non-union domestic competition, including benefits and job work rules. End result is that American cars have labor costs that could be three to five times greater than the foreign and non-union competition. If the UAW's Mr. Bieber, doesn't think cost is important, assuming that his members are doing a quality production job, let him drive past auto factories and observe UAW union member parking lots loaded with foreign cars.

The auto union supported imposing duties on foreign cars to equalize that labor cost. They also supported import restrictions to force Americans to pay higher prices. Duties and import restrictions don't make us competitive so that American cars can sell around the world. Car prices have almost doubled in the past 15 years. Auto industry wages have almost tripled in that same 15-year period. Auto exports, our test of how our cars compete overseas, are a third of what they were in 1979. The number of production workers is down 20 per cent. In spite of the facts, Mr. Bieber and the UAW keep demanding more money and costly work rules.

FORBES magazine had a two sentence cover description that tells the auto industry story. Honda has a car production plant in Marsville, Ohio, with 2,400 workers producing 875 cars a day in their non-union shop! AMC has a car production plant in Toledo, Ohio, with 5,400 UAW workers producing 750 cars per day in their union shop!

Eastern Airlines had been profitable. As its union workers negotiated new contracts for higher wages and benefits, in an era regulation and minimal competition, each wage increase boosted ticket prices. When ticket prices became so expensive that customers could no longer fly, the airline had to change. Deregulation and competition have brought ticket prices down to an affordable level for more passengers. Competition meant that costs had to be controlled. Airlines can no longer afford $40,000-plus flight attendants and $150,000-plus pilots who work part-time.

Frank Borman, former astronaut and Eastern president, created employee stock ownership, employee board membership, plus employee informational and educational programs so that they would understand and cooperate to keep Eastern and their jobs alive. Earlier this year, Eastern almost sank into bankruptcy. Mr. Borman quit the good fight and said, "I think the American labor movement in general doesn't understand that they're a part of the competitive picture. They remind me of people who keep denying reality." Reality for Mr. Borman was $415 million in losses over six years due to union contracts that imposed excessive labor costs.

The AT&T strike illustrates the same problem. The union leaders wanted higher wages and benefits, claiming that the company was making big profits. AT&T now competes with MCI, Sprint and others in its long distance business. Higher rates were costing AT&T customers. To survive and compete, AT&T cut rates by more than its total profit, and needed union employee help and understanding. Instead, it got a strike.

Business survival today means retaining the ability to compete in costs and prices, as well as quality and service. Hostile language by union leaders who either don't understand, or don't want to understand, that we live in a competitive world, will not save jobs or our standard of living. Union leaders truly interested in their members must learn that understanding and cooperation, not political hot air, offer the only solid alternative.

"When will they ever learn?"

SOCIAL SECURITY TAXED

Minnesotans' Social Security benefits had never been taxed before. Yet in 1985 LeRoy Stumpf voted to extend Minnesota's taxes to take from Social Security benefits. (Senate Journal, 1985, page 2450).

WELFARE SPENDING SKYROCKETING

Minnesota's welfare growth needs to be controlled. Since 1974, state spending for major welfare programs increased 594 percent. Yet, LeRoy Stumpf voted to increase state spending to welfare recipients by 38 percent in 1983 and by an additional 17 percent in 1985. (Senate Journal, 1983, pages 4341 through 4342; 1985, pages 2466 - 77).

WORKFARE NOT ALLOWED

Everyone agrees it is necessary to work for your income - even for welfare recipients. Yet in 1985, LeRoy Stumpf voted to penalize counties which require work in return for welfare checks. (Senate Journal 1985, page 2077).

Tuning Car Can Cut Air Pollution And Help Health

Exhaust from automobiles and trucks is a major source of air pollution, says the American Lung association in its new brochure, "Car Care And Clean Air." The brochure is available free of charge, along with a bumper sticker which says "Tuned Engines Mean Cleaner Air."

The brochure, which is produced by the American Lung association in cooperation with the American Automobile association and the Manufacturers of Emission Controls association, describes the public health effects of auto and truck emissions and makes recommendations to car owners on how to maintain their cars and keep air pollution to a minimum.

It also warns motorists against tampering with their emission control equipment and warns against fuel switching (using leaded gas when cars call for unleaded).

A copy of the brochure and bumper sticker are available free from the American Lung Association of Minnesota, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102.

Accidents Of Nature Create Beautiful Gems

by Vicki Moeser
Smithsonian News Service

It's about as big as a gem can be and still fit on a ring. The nearly 38-carat Chalk Emerald is said to have the ultimate color for such a gem — a brilliant, transparent green. While this emerald's history may not be as well known as the Hope Diamond's, there is a certain notoriety surrounding it just the same.

The emerald reputedly is one of a set of earrings worn by Cleopatra and was once the property of an Indian maharajah. More recently, it belonged to the wife of a Washington, D.C., financier, Mrs. O. Roy Chalk.

Several years ago, Mrs. Chalk wore her emerald ring to a reception at the White House during a state visit by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II. Afraid her emerald might outshine the Queen's jewels, Mrs. Chalk tactfully twisted the ring around her finger to hide the gem in her palm. Shortly after that episode, the emerald ring was donated to the Smithsonian Institution, where it now sits on display in the hall of gems at the national museum of natural history.

The Chalk Emerald is in good company. The legendary Hope Diamond, an extraordinary blue diamond weighing 45.5 carats, is nearby. So is the Logan Sapphire. Weighing 423 carats, the Logan is about the size of an extra-large hen's egg and one of the largest blue sapphires known to exist. Another neighbor is the Rosser Reeves Ruby, quite likely the world's finest star ruby.

According to John White, curator in charge of the national gem collection, "The Smithsonian's gem collection is probably the best publicly exhibited gem collection in the world." Aside from the crowd-gathering aspect, White says, "it's perfectly reasonable, and in fact traditional, for natural history museums to display gem collections, since gems are cut and polished bits of minerals.

"There are close to 9,000 pieces in the Smithsonian's gem collection," he says, "but they're not all on display. Typically, the most 'important' gems are on exhibition. In our case, that's about two per cent of the collection."

White hastens to note, however, that the national collection of gems is not mainly jewelry. "The vast majority of exhibited gems are unset, faceted pieces that best illustrate the desirable characteristics of each type. Set gems are displayed only if the jewelry is historically important or its beauty is greatly enhanced by the setting."

The National Gem Collection celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1984.

"But it wasn't until 1958 when the new gem and mineral hall opened that the collection experienced spectacular growth," White says.

That was also the year the Smithsonian received the Hope Diamond. The public's imagination was captivated and, shortly afterward, the institution received the Vetlesen collection of carved Chinese jade objects — one of the finest private collections of carved jade in existence. "Over the next few years," White says, "the gem collection grew from being merely a very fine public exhibit to one of great stature."

To Jeff Post, the Smithsonian's associate curator of mineralogy, gems are "the best crystals from different types of minerals. To be useful as a gem, a mineral must have characteristics such as beauty, brilliance, durability and rarity. The harder a gem is, the larger and more perfect the crystal, and the more intense its hue and tint, the more valuable the specimen."

There are about 3,000 different known minerals found in the Earth's crust, each a natural substance having a definite chemical composition and specific physical characteristics by which it can be distinguished from others. "Several hundred kinds of mineral species account for the most familiar minerals," Post says. "Of those, only a couple dozen, including quartz and feldspar, make up the vast majority of the Earth's crust. Fewer than a hundred mineral species are traditionally used as gems." Some gems, such as pearls, coral and amber, technically are not minerals; rather, they are derived from living organisms.

There are a number of reasons why most mineral crystals do not make good gemstones. "Some are too rare," Post explains. "Some minerals don't form nice crystals — they may either be very small or not very clear. Some minerals just aren't attractive. Others may be pretty, shiny and colorful but very soft, or the minerals may not cut easily or polish nicely — unlike the diamond, which has a lot of pizazz."

A fine-quality diamond is widely regarded as a top-of-the-line gemstone, since it possesses — in abundance — the characteristics that determine value. A diamond is the hardest substance known and the highest — a 10 — on the Mohs' scale, which ranks a gemstone's resistance to abrasion or scratching.

An opal, on the other hand, has a hardness between 5.5 and 6.5, making it one of the softest popular gemstones. The opal's chemical composition is similar to quartz, but with a small amount of water mixed in between spheres of silica, and that is what makes it fragile. Despite its brittleness, the opal's value is based on its beauty, rarity and dazzling play of colors.

Quartz, one of Earth's most abundant minerals (and the most common type of beach sand), produces some beautiful and popular gemstones. A simple compound of silicon and oxygen, quartz is colorless unless there are traces of impurities in the crystals. "Due to their atomic structures," Post explains, "these elemental impurities can 'sneak' into the mineral solutions when the crystals are forming."

Depending on the impurities, quartz can be yellow, red-orange or black (onyx). Amethyst, February's birthstone, is the most popular variety of quartz and ranges in color from pale violet to deep purple — the result of traces of iron in the crystal. "The fact that these different impurities contribute to producing beautiful colored gemstones might be called a fortuitous accident of nature," Post states.

Rubies and sapphires — gem varieties of the mineral corundum, an oxide of aluminum — are identical in all characteristics except color. The ruby's color, which ranges from pink-red to a dark, slightly purplish red, is caused by traces of chromium. Chromium impurities also give the mineral beryl its green color, thus producing emerald. All gem corundum that is not red is sapphire. While the name sapphire is usually associated with the color blue, the gems can also be yellow, green and pink, depending on impurities present in the crystal.

Star sapphires and star rubies occur when small, needlelike rutile fibers (impurities) grow in a hexagonal pattern during the formation of the corundum crystal. In properly cut stones, the optical phenomenon is known as asterism.

In 1961, the Smithsonian received, in White's words, "a world-class blue star sapphire." The Star of Asia, one of the biggest sapphires known to exist, was acquired from a California gem and mineral dealer in exchange for two lots of small, faceted diamonds that had been seized by the U.S. Customs Service and given to the museum. The sapphire, from Burma, is believed to have belonged to the Maharajah of Jodhpur.

Many gem-quality minerals are found in pegmatites, igneous rocks formed by the cooling of molten materials far beneath the Earth's surface. "These crystals come in an infinite number of forms," Post says. "Some crystals, such as tourmaline, are nearly as valuable as cut gemstones because of their beauty."

There are plenty of uses for minerals that are not of gem-quality. "If corundum isn't colored, for example, the crystals are usually an unattractive gray," Post points out. "But they're still mined. Corundum is the second hardest mineral, and it works well as an abrasive material, such as sandpaper, and to cut and polish other gemstones.

"Beryllium, found in emerald and aquamarine, is relatively rare, but important. It is lighter than aluminum and very strong. Scientific instruments, such as electron microscopes and some medical equipment, use alloys of beryllium. Quartz crystals are used to tune frequencies in radios," Post explains.

New gems continue to be discovered. For example, the relatively common mineral zoisite — usually an unattractive brown color — has been known to science for nearly 200 years. In the 1960's however, a deposit of gem-quality zoisite was found in Tanzania and almost immediately, the deep sapphire-blue "tanzanite" became a recognized gemstone. Other new gems include a lovely wine-red garnet named "malaya" and an emerald-green garnet called "tsavorite."

"These discoveries are remarkable," White says, "because the gems have been found in relatively large amounts that had escaped detection for a long time. It's unlikely there could be many more major gem deposits awaiting discovery — but one never knows."

HEADSTART PROGRAM participants at the center base in Goodridge were recently shown school bus operation and exposed to rules of conduct when riding on the bus. Driver Jim Mutnansky, who has a child in the group, showed the children the emergency door and explained its use. On Monday fire chief Dale Hanson will show the group the fire truck and explain fire safety and equipment. At the first parent meeting of the group, committees were established for the year. Three North Shore Attractions Done During Summer

Dedication and grand opening ceremonies were conducted recently for Split Rock Lighthouse history center, Split Rock Lighhouse state park recreation facilities, and Baptism River rest area at Tettegouche state park, all on the north shore of Lake Superior.

The three different facilities were completed this summer through cooperative efforts of the Minnesota Historical society (MHS), the Minnesota department of natural resources (DNR), and the Minnesota department of transportation (MnDOT).

The $1.3 million history center will offer a better introduction to Split Rock Lighthouse for its 150,000 visitors each year. A major feature is continuous showing of the new film in a 90-seat theater. The film's main character, lighhouse architect Ralph Russell Tinkham, takes viewers on a historical tour, from the days of skyrocketing iron ore trade and demand for a lighthouse after a tragic storm in 1905, to the construction and operation of the light station and the rush of visitors as the beacon became a popular tourist attraction.

An exhibition on the lighthouse construction, and the geology, navigation, and industry of the lake features many artifacts, including an engine similar to the 12-foot steam hoist engine that hauled construction materials 124 feet up from Lake Superior. The center also houses a museum shop, restrooms, meeting rooms and offices.

Unique in the state is the new "cart-in" campground at Split Rock Lighthouse state park. Campers receive a large cart to carry their gear to secluded sites along Lake Superior. The sites offer privacy and unusual views of the lighthouse and the lake. There also are showers and flush toilets for campers. Other new facilities in the park include a winterized picnic and trail shelter with heated restrooms. Secluded picnic areas along the lake also highlight the park.

Baptism River rest area at Tettegouche state park is a cooperative development by MnDOT and DNR. It features an interpretive and information center on recreation resources located along the North Shore. Of special interest is the computerized outdoor recreation information system available to motorists, which can help locate virtually any public recreation opportunity in the area. Visitors can also enjoy a walk to Shovel Point on the lake or picnicking at sites along the bluff. Free parking is available for all types of vehicles.

All three facilities are open to the public year around. The history center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through October 15, with reduced winter hours. Split Rock Lighthouse state park is open 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, with reduced camping facilities in the winter. The Baptism River rest area is open 24 hours a day. Information services at the rest area are available 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, with reduced hours after October 15.

GULLY . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knutson visited with Henry's cousins, Leonard Olson and Emma Olson, at Goodridge on Saturday.

Art and Arlene Giese from White Bear Lake were Wednesday dinner guests at the Henry Knutson's. Afternoon visitor was Julia Knudson and she had lunch with them.

Gully community club will meet Monday October 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Gully cafe to make final plans for Holloween party.

In 1985, about 905,000 Hispanic families were maintained by women. More than half of these families had incomes in 1984 which placed them below the U.S. poverty level, compared with 35 per cent of all families maintained by women, according to "Women of Hispanic Origin in the United States Labor Force," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Auto Accidents And Theft Reported Over The Weekend

Pennington county sheriff's department reported two vehicle roll-overs Friday evening. The first involved a four-door Chevrolet owned by Mary Cripps of Grand Forks. It rolled over when the driver lost control on a Rocksbury township road in section one. The driver was seen running from the scene of the accident.

The second roll-over happened at 6:39 p.m. on county road 75 one-half mile south of Thief River Falls. The vehicle was owned by Richard Johnson of Thief River Falls, but driven by Rap Appel, also of Thief River Falls. Damages to the 1977 Chevrolet were estimated at $1,500. The sheriff's department reported that the driver lost control while traveling north on the gravel road and rolled through the ditch on the east side of the road.

During the weekend the sheriff's department also reported the theft of a car. Milt Wikstrom of Thief River Falls reported that an inoperative auto valued at $200 was taken from his property in Sanders township Saturday. The car was a two-door blue Chevrolet.

Times Reporter

Voters should not be disappointed about the choices of candidates for the upcoming elections. In fact, it may be difficult to keep all of the names straight and reach a decision before polls open on November 4.

Presented here and in the next issues of the Times will be news articles on the candidates in surrounding communities and counties. Brief personally-written articles from candidates in Pennington county are presented in this issue. Each Pennington county candidate was asked to discuss in a brief article, his or background, qualifications for office and any issues they see as important to the office they seek.

Marshall county voters will select from the following candidate names on the November 4 ballots: Wayne Bendickson and Roy G. Swanson for county auditor-treasurer; Marlon Halvorson and Dwight Peterson for county recorder; Calvin Melgaard for

Warroad Craftsman Is Violin Making Artist

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Good-craftsmen are where you find them, and finding violin maker Bob Wenzel in the woods along the west branch of the Warroad river seems to be an unlikely discovery. A winding road through the trees leads to an arched footbridge which spans the river and brings the visitor to Wenzel's two-story house built of native cedar.

"I seem to function best in peace and quiet," the 36-year-old Wenzel explains. The house which he had built to his own plans features a walk-out basement which serves as his workshop. It is about 1,500 square feet in size and has both electric and wood heat.

A veteran of the Vietnam war in which he believes he was duped by the United States government, Wenzel said he came away from that conflict with feelings of disillusionment and lack of self confidence. "I try to think of myself as a survivor instead of a victim," he said, adding that he considers it best to try and put the bad experience behind him and concentrate on his art.

To those who might ask why a violin maker would practice his trade in the woods of northern Minnesota, Wenzel would simply answer, "why not?" The setting is beautiful, the solitude is conducive to concentration, the materials are easily shipped in without major cost and the finished product can be sent out with minor transportation charges. Besides, Warroad is home for Wenzel who was born there and graduated from high school in 1968.

After 14 months in Vietnam, Wenzel was discharged in 1971 and came back to Warroad. In 1973 he decided he would like to learn about making violins and went to Mexico City to school. There were three Americans and two Mexicans in the class which met four hours per day, but the tuition was right — $8 per year — and Wenzel worked for a guitar maker while attending the school.

"It probably wasn't a very good

Penn. County Candidates Seek Voter Support

Dave Olin
For Pennington County
Attorney

Twelve years ago I had the privilege of running for county attorney and the honor of being elected county attorney. When I ran, I felt the county attorney's chief responsibility was jury trial work. Experience has taught me that while jury trial work is a part of the job, there are other duties that are more time consuming and important.

I have found that one of the chief groups of people you deal with as county attorney are the youth of our county. My office has handled over 1,150 different juveniles on several different matters ranging from truancy to assault with a deadly weapon. These hearings have not been public, by law, but nothing can be more important to our county than how we help youth deal with their problems. I believe that these youth must be dealt with fairly, compassionately and, where necessary, severely.

Another area that is extremely important is collecting child support from parents who are behind in their payments. Every dollar of child support arrearages we collect helps reduce your taxes as it reimburses AFDC payments or assists in keeping someone off AFDC.

Other non-trial work that I have done as county attorney includes attending over 250 county board meetings at which I have often been called upon to give advice. I have been called upon by department heads often to give advice on matters ranging from election laws to recording documents to ditch problems and have promptly assisted them.

A few years ago when the welfare

John Novacek
For Pennington County
Attorney

As an attorney in Thief River Falls for the past 13 years, I have engaged in the general practice of law. This has involved practice in the areas of estates and wills, personal injury, farm law, corporations, family law, juvenile law, real estate, and criminal law.

I enjoy all areas of practice, but I most enjoy going to court and trying jury cases. In my 13 years of practice, I have tried a substantial number of jury cases and am proud of my record as a trial attorney.

I have not only done trial work in Pennington county, I have also been involved in trials in Hallock, Warren, Crookston, Roseau, Bemidji, Anoka and even in Sundance, WY. I have also appeared before the Minnesota court of appeals, and the Minnesota supreme court.

I believe we need a county attorney who will vigorously, competently and personally prosecute cases, even if prosecution requires a jury trial. When this is not the case, the result is that criminals "get off" leniently through improper plea-bargaining.

It is important for the voters of Pennington county to remember that they are voting for the county attorney and not his assistant. I feel that the bulk of the important trial work should be handled by the county attorney and not the assistant as is the case now. That way, if the assistant choses to move on to a higher position, the county will not suffer.

I grew up on a farm in Edmore, ND. My parents, who had very limited educations, convinced me to go to college before making the decision to farm. When I graduated from Mayville State college in 1964, my father

Robert Wold
for Pennington County
Sheriff

I am Robert (Bob) Wold, a candidate for the office of sheriff of Pennington county. A resident of the Pennington county area all my life, I graduated from Lincoln high school, and presently reside in Thief River Falls with my wife, Patti, who is employed as an LPN at the Falls Clinic.

I feel that I am well qualified to assume the office of sheriff of Pennington county. First of all, I have been a deputy sheriff for 12 years, including five years as chief deputy. This has enabled me to become well-acquainted with the people on a county-wide basis. In the absence of the sheriff, I assume his duties, including his responsibilities for the entire department.

Along with being a Minnesota licensed peace office, I have successfully completed numerous specialized courses sponsored by the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension in the areas of criminal investigation, sexual abuse, child abuse, interview techniques, basic supervision and police management.

My duties with the sheriff's department include not only the enforcement of criminal laws, but the equally important responsibilities of collecting civil judgments, enforcing liens through sale of property, and working with neglected and delinquent children on a county wide basis. Supervision of the jail, which has a capacity of 15 inmates, is often one of my duties. This results in late night calls when special problems arise that the jailers need to consult on.

I feel involvement is important in distinguishing the needs of the community. Because of this, I am actively

James Haugen
For Pennington County
Sheriff

My name is James Haugen. My parents are Christ and Louisa Haugen, who were farmers in Wyandotte township until they moved to Thief River Falls in 1942. My father worked for the city street department for 22 years until he retired. I was born in Thief River, attended public school and graduated from Lincoln high. I worked for Sunflower Valley products during my last three years of school, and after graduation worked for Arctic Enterprises until leaving for police training. In 1970 I married Penny VanRooy, daughter of Dr. George and Marvel Grovum VanRooy. Penny and I presently have three children, Jennifer, 14, Amy, 12, and Angela, 8. We now reside in Norden township and live on 80 acres of land where we built our home in 1976.

I attended police school at Alexandria, which was the only two-year school offered in the State of Minnesota at that time. After graduation I worked for the City of Appleton as a patrolman until hired by the Thief River Falls Police department. I was appointed juvenile officer and have served in that capacity for the past 11 years. I was promoted to the rank of sergeant in 1983 and have served as shift commander also during that time.

My qualifications for the office of sheriff are many. Besides the 15 continous years of police work, I have taken numerous courses to enhance my knowledge in the field. The school at Alexandria included specialized courses for holding the office of sheriff. Later, I attended the eight week basic police course, BCA certified, and just in the past two years I

Vicki Bjorgaard
For Pennington County
Treasurer

I would like to thank the Times once again for this opportunity to present myself to the citizens of Pennington county. I would also like to give a sincere thank you to the citizens who supported and voted for me in the primary election. I am trying to meet a lot of you before the election but because of my job as deputy treasurer and this being a busy time at work with taxes, its hard to find enough time to meet everyone.

I have been employed by Pennington county since 1973 and have served you as your deputy county treasurer since January of 1979. I have received a certificate from the treasurer's association for participating in a treasurer's training course.

My position as deputy involves serving the citizens of Pennington county in tax related matters, working on the computer with tax receipts and tax statements, collecting taxes, working with ledgers in accounting, reconciling bank statements, helping the senior citizens with their property tax refund forms and the day to day experiences which one acquires while on the job. Working with Ellsworth Jorgenson these past years has been very rewarding and through this experience, I believe I have the knowledge to serve you as county treasurer.

I was born here in Thief River Falls and am a resident of Pennington county. I am 32 years of age and have lived in this area all my life. I graduated from Marshall county central high school and the Thief River Falls AVTI. I am married to Bruce W. Bjorgaard who is employed at Hydra-Mac, Inc. and is also

Leo Nelson
For Pennington County
Treasurer

I would like to thank the Times for this opportunity to re-acquaint myself and my qualifications to the public.

For those of you who I haven't had the opportunity to meet, I will briefly relate a little of my background. I was born on a farm near Grygla and moved to Thief River Falls as a young boy where I have been a resident and a taxpayer ever since. I served in the United States Navy during the Korean War.

I am married, and my wife Vernice and I have seven children, John, Joel, Jed, Jay, Jared, Jana, and James, who all reside in Thief River Falls. We have lived in Rocksbury township for the last 25 years. I am a member of Zion Lutheran church. Also, I am a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the fraternal Order of Eagles.

My work experience includes working at Consumers Coop for 14 years in the office, parts and sales departments and starting and running my own farm machinery business for the last 16 years. I also attended business college early in my career to enhance my knowledge of accounting and every other aspect of business.

I feel I am qualified for the position of county treasurer because of my years of experience in business and finance. I would like to show the people of Pennington county my dedication and willingness to work hard for them and to prove my ability to carry out the duties of county treasurer.

Lastly, I would like to thank the public for showing their overwhelming support for me in the primary election. I won't dissappoint you if I am elected as your new Pennington county treasurer.

Rita Ann Lancaster Weds Karl Sorenson In Nevada

Rita Ann Lancaster of Bemidji and Karl Jon Sorenson of Roseau were united in marriage August 9 at The Chapel of the Fountain in Las Vegas, NV. Rev. Duane Williams officiated at the ceremony.

The chapel was decorated with royal blue ribbons on each white pew and on the matching pulpit, with royal blue velvet curtains draping the ceiling along with hanging chandeliers. A sparkling water fountain was reflected in wall length mirrors behind the altar area. Shaded blue and white carnation floral arrangements decorated white pillars at the altar area.

The bride wore a traditional white gown of taffeta; Venise lace and Raschel lace. The front illusion net cameo yoke was highlighted with pearls and Schiffli embroidery, with a princess seam bodice trimmed in Venise lace medallions. Full, taffeta melon sleeves were accented with Raschel lace, with the gathered skirt trimmed in symmetrical medallions. Baby ruffles trimmed the skirt hemline, flowing to a semi-cathedral train. To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a matching headpiece of Venise lace, with blusher veil, and flowing fingertip veil trimmed with matching lace appliques.

The bridal bouquet was composed of white flowers interspersed with royal blue satin ribbon and white satin streamers. She also crrried her grandmother's Bible.

The groom was attired in black tails with royal blue cummerbund and bow tie. He wore a white boutonniere and gold pocket watch.

Matron-of-honor, Vanji Unruh, cousin of the bride, Cathedral City, CA, wore a floor-length gown of royal blue and carried a long-stemmed white rose arrangement. Chad Lancaster, the bride's brother from Great Falls, MT, served as best man, wearing a traditional black tuxedo with royal blue cummerbund and bow tie and white rose boutonniere.

The couple spent a few days in Las Vegas and then journeyed to Waikiki, Hawaii. The last evening of their honeymoon was spent on a sunset sail with Windjammer Cruises.

Upon their return to the area, an open house reception was held for the couple at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sorenson of Plummer. Many friends and relatives attended a pig roast picnic followed by a barn dance to the Diversions of Grygla.

The four-tiered wedding cake was baked and decoratred by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Gerald Lancaster of Roseau. Decorations were in white and baby blue, topped with two blue wedding bells, two doves and wedding rings. Mrs. Gerald Lancaster and Mrs. Virgil Sorenson, aunts of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring was Mrs. Art Frolland, great-aunt of the groom.

Honored guests at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lancaster, parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sorenson, parents of the groom; Mrs. Edith Lancaster, special grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Prestegaard, grandparents of the groom; Sigrid Tillman, great-aunt of the groom; John, Orville and Nueben Sorenson, great-uncles of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rosten, godparents of the groom; Karl Sorenson Jr., the groom's son; and Kassandra Lyn Sorenson, daughter of the bride and groom.

The bride is formerly from Roseau graduating in 1985. She continued studies at the Bemidji AVTI, completing courses as an accountant-clerk last spring.

The groom was formerly of Plummer, graduating from Pershing high school in 1981. He studied auto body at the Thief River Falls AVTI, and worked as an auto body technician in two shops in Roseau. He is presently employed at Marvin Windows in Warroad and does hobby auto body at Russell's body shop in Roseau. Mrs. Sorenson is a housewife and mother.

The INSIDE SCOOP

From Lincoln High

by GAYLE BORCHERT

Some of the activities a person can become involved in at Lincoln are clubs. Most of the clubs are already organized but will accept members at any time.

The Library club is a club that will prepare a student for future work in a library or clerical position. Mr. Burger, librarian at Lincoln, is the advisor of the group and has been since 1959, when the group was organized. Students help shelve books and put away pamphlets. The club has nineteen members this year. The officers are Susanne Johnson, president; Robert Anderson, vice president; and Jaki Weleski, secretary. In addition, students work at concession stands a couple of times a year to raise money for their year-end trip and awards. Any overdue money that is collected from students goes into the club fund to help pay for pins. Every senior gets a pin.

The Pride committee is another club that is open to any student at Lincoln. This is one of the newer clubs and was organized last year by Mr. Hamerlinck. Mr. Stock and Mr. Heatherington are the advisors. The object of the committee is to develop school pride. The committee tries to bring more recognition to those groups or activities that are sometimes forgotten. Last year they organized a school-wide talent night. Officers are Heidi Tofte, president; Jill Olson, vice president; and Dana Miller, secretary-treasurer.

New student—Kiko Azama: Kiko moved here from Hiroshima, Japan, and is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duke. Mr. Duke is a science teacher at Lincoln. Kiko enjoys music and the ballet. She is sixteen years old and is currently taking physical education, home economics and English classes to help improve her learning of the English language.

New teacher—Mr. Tracy Wensloff: Mr. Wensloff is a new math teacher at Lincoln. He graduated from Bemidji state college with a major in mathematics. This is his first teaching assignment. He originally came from Roseau, Minnesota, where he grew up with two brothers and a sister. He holds a coaching certificate and is currently coaching football. In the spring he will be the head boys baseball coach.

This week's activities:

Tuesday, October 21 — Girls' swimming (home).

Thursday, October 23 — 9th grade football (home); cross-country reagional; volleyball (home).

Pennington Co. Candidates Seek Voter Support

union was organized, the county board hired an outside negotiator. I suggested that they allow me as county recorder to do the negotiating in order to save tax dollars. Since then, I have been negotiating with both the welfare and law enforcement unions to everyone's satisfaction.

When a trial does appear, my record is one that I am proud of. My office has only lost three trials out of several hundred prosecutions of serious crimes such as burglary, theft or sale of drugs. I am even more proud of my record in the area of drug cases where only one trial has been lost out of over 100 prosecutions. With considerable emphasis on stopping drug sales by law enforcement and myself, I have been called on for search warrants at all hours of the day or night any day of the week and have had to attempt to make sure I, or my assistant, Kevin T. Duffy, have been here every weekend. Good assistance to law enforcement during their investigations is as important to the job of county attorney as trying cases and, in this area I feel I have excelled being available whenever they need me.

My background and schooling are complementary to being county attorney. I was raised on a farm north of Ada and graduated from Ada high school. I am a graduate of Concordia college in Moorhead and the University of Minnesota law school. After this, I came to Thief River Falls and have practiced law here for 14 years, having served as your county attorney for 12 years. I am a member of the Minnesota county attorneys association, Minnesota state bar association, and 14th district bar association.

I have found that you must participate in a community in order to fully understand and appreciate it. For this reason, my wife of 12 years, Muriel, and I have attempted to be as active in the community as time will allow, without interfering with the joy of raising our two children — Jennifer (8) and Andrea (5) — and the responsibilities of our work. Some of the activities I have been involved in the past 14 years include teaching Sunday school at Zion Lutheran, several law related committees at Northland community college, Boy Scout Expo chairman, Jaycee president, Elks exalted ruler, sports boosters, chamber committees and several other organizations.

Throughout my years as county attorney I have strived to help you by making our county a better and safer place to live. I enjoy serving the public and working for you and would like to continue as your county attorney. If re-elected, I will continue to work to make our county safe and happy. Thank you for your vote and support and thank you to the Times for allowing me this opportunity to express some of my views to you.

involved in and a past president of the TRF Kiwanis club. This is my second term on the board of directors of the TRF United Way, and I am presently vice president. I am also serving on the advisory board for the Northern Lights Group Home of Thief River Falls, the swimming pool committee, and the board of directors of the TRF Bowling association. My wife and I are members of Our Saviour's Lutheran church.

The Pennington County Law Enforcement association, which consists of the deputies and dispatcher/jailers of Pennington county, is unanimously endorsing me. This vote of confidence is of particular importance to me, because it emphasizes the good working relationship that has already been established between us.

One question you as a voter must ask is whether you want an individual, such as myself, who has been instrumental in forming and working with current policy within the department as your next sheriff. If so, I would appreciate your support in the upcoming November election.

I am well aware of future changes that will enhance the ability of the sheriff's department to continue to meet the needs of you, the people of Pennington county. Through my chosen profession as deputy with the sheriff's department, I have dedicated my last 12 years to serving you. I would appreciate the opportunity to continue to do so as the next sheriff of Pennington county. With your vote on November 4 this can be a reality.

Novacek . . .

(who had experienced the depression and farm problems) encouraged me to go into teaching, and I took his advice.

I had always been interested in the law and after six years of teaching, my wife Sheryl and I decided to sell our home and one of our cars, and go back to school. She worked full-time and I worked part-time, and after three years at UND, I received by juris doctorate. (My parents were particularly proud when I graduated fifth in my class.)

I have always been proud of my farm background. (Sheryl still finds it amusing that I used to shear sheep.) I am proud of the variety of my work experience: dozer operator, carpenter's helper, truck driver and store clerk, to name a few.

I credit my farm background and my varied job experiences for having taught me values. Among these are an appreciation of hard work, honesty, compassion and common sense.

We would like to meet all of the people in Pennington county, but my law practice and Sheryl's activities as a substitute teacher, yearbook adviser and graduate student at UND, make this difficult. I do, however, welcome your questions and invite you to call me during the day at 681-4956, and at home at 681-6875.

Your vote on Tuesday, November 4th, will be appreciated.

have attended and completed over 102 hours of continuing education. This includes three supervisory courses (Basic Functions of Supervision, Leadership and Motivation, and Personnel Management).

I have also attended three law and legislative update courses, courses in sexual exploitation of children, child abuse, report writing, handling hazardous materials, response to armed robberies, stress management for police, community relations between departments, and also juvenile officer's institutes for the past 11 years. These do not list the various courses over the previous years. I was chosen as runner-up police officer of the year for the State of Minnesota in 1977.

In our area I have taught numerous courses on drug abuse, crime prevention, bicycle safety, school patrol, Halloween safety and babysitting clinics in and outside of the school system, and have worked actively with the VFW and American Legion auxiliaries in their sponsorship of many of these programs. I am on the Pennington county Intake committee, the drug awareness task force, the school discipline policy committee, and active in operation aware and childprint programs. I conduct the police diversion program, participated in career days in the schools, speaker for several college classes. I am a junior youth leader at Redeemer Lutheran church, and Penny and I operated the Northwest juvenile training center's satellite home for four years.

I am a member of the Minnesota peace and police officers association, Red River Valley police officers association, Minnesota crime prevention association, Minnesota and the Northwest Juvenile officers associations, and certified CPR and basic rescue. I am also a member of the Minnesota Deer Hunter's association, Ducks Unlimited, the Prairie Schooners car club, Thief River Falls golf club, and my family is involved in City View 4-H.

It is my feeling that the sheriff's office should be promptly responsive to the safety and needs of the people who have elected him; that any complaints made should get immediate attention and the results of any corrective measure to remedy such complaint be reported back to the complaining party; that the service of civil papers be handled promptly, and that fraudulent checks be given immediate attention.

The sheriff should work on cooperating with the local police department in eliminating duplication of services in regards to records keeping, juvenile court and county attorney time, and thereby get the most out of tax dollars and the use of the fine facility we have in Pennington county. By working in a cooperative manner with the police department and the state patrol, these three agencies should give the entire county good coverage in response to citizen request.

The sheriff should stress PREVENTION as his main objective to criminal activity. That county-wide prevention programs be instituted, such as the block watch program and crime stoppers, which enlist the aid of the citizens to help prevent crime. A support group of county residents might be formed to work on crime prevention safety programs and information gathering, an example of this being the sheriff's posse which has been effective in other areas. A ride-along program could be initiated to show citizens first-hand how the department works.

I would work cooperatively with other departments in an effort to make Pennington county a friendly, safe county in which to live.

Bjorgaard . . .

engaged in farming. We have one daughter, Holly Jo, who is 6½ years of age and is enrolled in first grade at Mark Twain school, Thief River Falls. My activities include being a substitute Sunday school teacher and I'm a member of the Pennington county credit union supervisory committee.

If elected as county treasurer, I would continue to be responsive and accessible to the needs of the people and do my best as county treasurer.

I urge everyone to vote in the general election on November 4th and your continued support and vote will be greatly appreciated.

The first cooperative in the United States was founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1752. It was called the Philadelphia Contributorship for the Insurance of Homes from Loss of Fire and is the oldest continuing cooperative in the United States.

PTA Suggests Preparation For Conferences

The school-year is underway and many parents are already wondering how their children are doing in the classroom. The national PTA suggests that parents stop wondering and ask the teacher.

"Parents and teachers must work together as a team to solve problems and to develop strategies to help children in school," says national PTA president Ann Kahn. "One of the best ways to accomplish this is at an effective parent-teacher meeting," she added.

According to educators Lisbeth Brown and Mary Renck Jalongo, parent-teacher conferences are rated by parents as one of the most effective ways to communicate. Writing in the October issue of PTA - Today, the National PTA's magazine, the authors offer ideas for how parents and teachers can have a successful parent-teacher conference.

Even though teachers have the major responsibility for planning and conducting a parent-teacher conference, parent's preparation and attitude toward the meeting can help to add to its success. Brown and Jalongo's article in TPA Today suggests the following ways parents can have a producitve conference.

— Ask your child questions to determine what he or she likes or dislikes about school this year.

— Prepare a list of questions or concerns, such as "What special talents does my child have?", "What does my child need help with the most?" or "How does my child get along with others?"

— Listen to what the teacher has to say. If the teacher uses unfamiliar terms, ask questions. If you don't understand what the teacher has said repeat it in your own words.

— Use a team approach. If you feel your child's skills, abilities or personal characteristics are being criticized, ask for specific suggestions on how to correct any behavior problems or improve academic progress.

While some parents eagerly await conferences, others may be reluctant to attend. Therefore the authors suggest that teachers find ways to encourage attendance by:

— Using a direct personal contact with the parent such as written notes or telephone conversations to praise the child's academic achievement, special talents, behavior etc.

— Inviting parents to visit the school to have lunch with the children, attend a play or to review an art display, prior to conferences.

— Arranging the seating so the teacher and the parent are face to face on the same side of a table. This creates an open, warm atmosphere and a feeling of cooperative decision making.

Good Candidates

If one thing is apparent following the chamber of commerce "Meet the Candidate" session Thursday noon at the Best Western inn, it is that there is a good group of candidates seeking Pennington County and School District 564 offices this year. They presented themselves well during the brief time given to each for a campaign mini-talk.

Bill Penning, a candidate for fourth district commissioner and one of the rarities of political life — an unopposed candidate for a position in which no incumbent is on the ballot — summed up the group best as the last speaker on the program. "This is an impressive group of candidates," Penning said, "and it makes me wish I could vote for all of them."

Local political candidates have one of the toughest jobs there is — trying to maintain their natural humility while telling their friends, neighbors and other area residents who well qualified they are for elective office. It isn't easy to knock on doors, hand out campaign material at public meetings and initiate conversations with strangers with vote-seeking in mind.

Another thing that voters need to keep in mind is that candidates for office need not be adversaries. Although candidates are considered "opponents" in an election, it is entirely possible for them to be simple candidates FOR an office, not AGAINST another office seeker. Perhaps candidates themselves can understand this better than the general public. Winning the election is the objective, and that means someone else usually has to lose, but campaigning can be positive and opponents need not be enemies.

Once the election is over, candidates also need to keep in mind that there are many, many reasons why they fared as they did. There are so many personal reasons voters vote as they do that qualifications of candidates are not always foremost in consideration. A candidate who loses an election should not feel rejected by the voters, but rather that the combination of circumstances favored his or her opponent in this particular election.

Shortly before the November 4 election we again expect to make our election predictions. They are simply our best guess as to what will happen at the polls, based on general comments we hear and our overview of the candidates and campaigns. We do not editorially endorse candidates. Our selection as winners are not necessarily those who will receive our personal vote. We encourage others to make their own predictions in advance of the election and match them against our own. It's all done in fun and we expect candidates will accept it that way.

In the next couple of weeks there is likely to be a blitz of campaign effort. Bear with the candidates as they give it their best shot. Be thankful there are capable people who are willing to go on the line for jobs in public life. Listen to them, read their materials, study their advertising and make your own choice based on your belief as to who is best for the position. If Thursday's presentations are an example, you can't go too far wrong however you decide.

Myths On Child Molesters

"Everyone is so surprised that a priest is a child molester, or that a school teacher is a child molester. I am flabbergasted that anyone would be surprised. Child molesters select out jobs to access kids. That's why they become pediatricians and child psychiatrists and work in boys camps in the summer."

This is the opinion of Dr. Gene Abel, psychiatrist at Emory University in Atlanta, GA, after conducting one of the most extensive studies of sex abuse cases on record. Dr. Abel studied 571 sex offenders who had committed 67,000 cases of child sex abuse under funding by the National Institute of Mental Health. Findings from his 10 years of research were presented at the annual meeting of the Academy of Behavorial Medicine Research held in July.

Dr. Abel said the study was different from most studies which have usually focused on people in prison. Although promised that their statements will not be used against them, offenders in prison are seldom willing to speak freely about other crimes they may have committed. Offenders in Dr. Abel's study were interviewed at his clinic with federal authorities guaranteeing in writing that the researchers would never be required to testify about the interviews and the offenders identified only by number, not by name.

While in probation offices, the offenders studied usually reported committing one to four sex crimes — figures that agreed with their arrest records. Under interview conditions in Dr. Abel's clinic, the same offenders confessed to committing an average of 75 crimes each.

In summary, the study reveals: (1) The sex offender is nearly always male; (2) he typically begins molesting by age 15, but often starts even younger; (3) he molests an average of 117 youngsters, most of whom do not report the offense; (4) he engages in a variety of deviant behaviors that may include everything from window peeping to rape; and (5) his victims are likely to be boys he knows.

Some of the myths about child molesters are exploded by Dr. Abel's survey as follows:

Myth No. 1 — Sex offenders commit only one type of crime.

Many sex researchers and law enforcement officials have long believed that men who expose themselves or peep into windows are unlikely to rape a woman or attack a child, or that obscene phone callers would not carry out their lewd suggestions. Dr. Abel found that offenders "cross gender, they cross age, they cross familial relationships; they are doing all sorts of things."

In his study, 208 men confessed to molesting young girls from outside their families. Of these, 37 per cent also had histories or were currently molesting boys outside the home, 30 per cent were molesting girls inside the home, 20 per cent were rapists, 28 per cent were exhibitionists and smaller percentages were voyeurs, sadists or committing other sex crimes. Nearly half of the exhibitionists in his study were also molesting children.

Myth No. 2 — Girls more often than boys are the victims of child sexual abuse.

Dr. Abel's study suggests that boys are far more likely to be victims of sex abuse than formerly believed. He estimates two thirds of all victims molested outside the home are boys. Girls are more often victims of exhibitionism and window peeping while boys are more likely victims of physical attacks. "The big sex crime of child molestation is against boys," Dr. Abel said, "and those who molest boys molest in big numbers."

For the 153 offenders studied who had sexually attacked young boys, the average number of molestations was 281. Those who molested girls had committed an average of 23 molestations. By comparison, 126 rapists had raped an average of seven times.

Myth No. 3 — Sex offenders of children don't begin their crimes until later in life.

"We asked all of these individuals how old they were when they started to do whatever they did," Dr. Abel said. "Approximately half began to attack children or engage in window peeping or exhibitionism by age 15. Some said that their deviant behavior began as early as age eight. Sex offenders age 18 and younger reported an average of seven child or teen-age victims. Sex offenders older than 18 reported an average of 380 young victims.

Myth No. 4 — No good treatment exists for sex offenders. They must be put in jail.

"The treatments are already available. They've been tested. They're rather inexpensive. We can treat 10 outpatients for every one incarcerated patient," Dr. Abel states.

Behavior therapy, designed to change how sex offenders think and act, can be successful in treating men with these problems. Success rate in running between 85 and 87 per cent. The real difficulty is getting the public to accept that the majority of sex offenders do not go to jail.

"The people who molest your children are your neighbors," Dr. Abel says. "They didn't fly in from out of state . . . We have to stop getting so emotionally involved in the situation and get concerned about preventing these crimes by helping these individuals control their behavior."

Treating children after they have been molested does nothing to prevent the attack from occurring in the first place, the doctor adds. "There will never be enough money, there will never be enough therapists to do that," he said. "It's not going to work."

Right People — Wrong Answers

Following comments were written by Don Larson in his "Business Newsletter":

Nearly everyone agrees that our income tax laws are too complicated, and that most taxpayers need help in figuring out their returns.

Those who can afford professional help most likely have accurate returns, but how about the millions of people who call the Internal Revenue service with questions about the complex laws?

The federal government's General Accounting Office knows.

The GAO says that during this year's income tax filing season, the IRS answered 18.3 million telephone inquiries from taxpayers who didn't know how to properly fill out the forms.

The GAO also says that a scientific sampling it conducted shows that 37 per cent of the questions asked by taxpayers of IRS officials resulted in incorrect answers.

How about that? Even the people who collect the taxes don't understand the complicated tax laws.

The GAO says that people who had questions about Form 1040A (the short and simple one) received incorrect answers 43 per cent of the time.

The GAO conducted its test by making sample calls to 34 IRS offices around the country, including the one in St. Paul, and pretended to be ordinary taxpayers with ordinary questions.

This year's survey isn't an exceptional one. The GAO says the results were about the same as in similar studies conducted in 1978 and 1982.

If the GAO is upset over the large number of inaccurate answers by the IRS, wait until next year and the years after that if the proposed "tax reform" bill replaces our present income tax laws.

The percentage of incorrect answers probably will soar.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The OTH-B radar receiving site proposed to be located west of Thief River Falls includes part or the entire area of the following townships: Brislet, Angus, Euclid, Helgeland, Brandt, Belgium, Numedal, Bray, Polk Centre, Norden, Sanders and Black River.

The Air Force has compiled an inch-thick environmental study of the effects of the Backscatter radar transmission and reception sites, and that study concludes that "NO RELIABLE SCIENTIFIC evidence" exists of health hazards — to even the most susceptible members of the popluation, such as the unborn, infirm or ages.

This is a ludicrous statement. I attended a meeting at Norden town hall where Dr. Dahlberg was a guest speaker. He is a physics professor from Concordia college who contradicts the health statement made above. Read his 17-page comments on the DEIS for the proposed OTH-B radar system. His theories are supported by a number of researchers around the country. He also quotes the most respected radiologist, Dr. Bjorn Nordenstrom of Stockholm, Sweden.

On page 16, Dr. Dahlberg states: "If one includes the spectrum of RELIABLE SCIENTIFIC WORK, the only conclusion is that the OTH-B system has the potential for causing and contributing to the cause of ADVERSE BIOLOGICAL AND HEALTH effects in both humans and other living systems." Now, who do you believe? Personally, I'll take the word of Dr. Dahlberg.

This is my main reason for opposing the $600 million dollar radar system for health issues. After all, when did we learn of the effects of Agent Orange to our Viet Nam veterans. If you are concerned over the health issue, Dr. Dahlberg will also attend the OTH-B meeting at Black River church, I am told, on Monday evening. You can then receive a copy of his technical report.

My husband and I moved to a small farm west of Thief River Falls a year ago, because I was raised on a family farm also in this area and it has been a way of life for us. But, had we known that we were in an area for this radar system — and nuclear waste site, I must add — we certainly would not be buying.

As a lady from Grandin, ND, stated in her opposition to the OTH-B: "We're very much concerned about the idea of placing this radar system in farmland — they're not making THAT anymore, you know."

To The Editor:

People always say that we can't trust anybody anymore — that there is not an honest person left in this whole world. Well, I'm writing this to tell you that there are a few good people left.

On October 13th, I had left my bookbag along the side of the road and when I returned the bag was gone. I thought for sure that my bag was gone for good. The only contents were the books for my classes at Northland. Well, I was lucky enough to have some honest person find my bag, and return it to Northland.

I would like to say to whoever did return my bag, if they are reading this letter, I give them my heartfelt thanks. It is nice to know that there is some honesty left in the world today.

To The Editor:

I am compelled to write regarding you editorial comments on Mr. Blumenfeld's remarks on teachers and the National Education association.

My first response to it was to assume that someone from "National Lampoon" had arrived in Thief River Falls and taken a job at the Times. However, upon realizing you are, in fact, serious about this nonsense of Mr. Blumenfeld's, I'd like to make a few points by way of rebutal.

First. The far right preys upon people's fears by making all kinds of outlandish statements which, although fantastic in nature, do have a perverse appeal to those who don't examine them closely. If, in fact, America is being "dumbed down" by a "progressive conspiracy", some substantive proof — such as names, dates and specific examples — is in order. But alas, we get only name calling, wild accusations and unfounded generalities designed to create an emotional blacklash against NEA.

Second. NEA is not run by a small and elite group of commies. Contrary to what Blumenfeld would lead you to believe, NEA is run be the directive of a yearly Representative Assembly of roughly 8,000 delegates elected by teachers from thousands of school districts around the nation, including Thief River Falls. You do local teachers a grave injustice by, in essence, calling them subversives and tools of NEA's evil conspiracy when, in fact, they are NEA's boss.

Third. If public schools are failing to do the best possible job it may well be a commentary on public values which call for learning without homework, an expectation that every child who is brought to public school will be educated while bond issues supporting the schools are voted down time and time again. Keep in mind that teachers do not mold society, they mirror it. The problems of the public schools simply reflect the problems of society in general.

Fourth. Your assumption that all political ideas not of an extreme right-wing bent are dangerous is obscene and is itself reflective of an intolerance which, if carried to its logical conclusion, would result in suppression of all ideas not in keeping with a narrow authoritarian viewpoint.

Aside from representing a "dumbing down" of your editorial page, this overt union-bashing drivel seems to signal the arrival of a new Times editorial policy which will unfortunately not be concerned with accuracy, objectivity or fairness. If this continues, a serious disservice will have resulted from the recent change of management and the people of Thief River Falls will be the losers.

In conclusion and in keeping with Mr. Blumenfeld's train of thought, I see that your Times logo uses red ink. Does this mean the commie progressives have got you, too?

FINISHED SCROLL on the viola made by Bob Wenzel of Warroad shows the careful carving and finishing done by the craftsman. About two weeks of work is required to make a violin "in the white," Wenzel said, and another two weeks for the varnishing process, most of which is drying time.

APPLYING VARNISH to one of Bob Wenzel's violins is Bob Wenzel Sr. The elder Wenzel frequently helps out with his son's violin-making business by doing the varnishing and French polish finishing. Some violin makers claim the varnish is the key to producing good sound, but violin maker Wenzel isn't so sure. "You make a good violin by doing good work," he said. He doesn't believe any one factor can make the difference.

Warroad Violin Maker Is Artist As A Craftsman

school," he says in honest retrospect, but it provided basic information and whetted his creative appetite. He went to Salt Lake City, Utah, and studied for three years under lute-maker Anton Smith.

"I'm afraid I'm not much of a romanticist or traditionalist," Wenzel said. "The violin is a mechanical instrument, not some deeply mysterious object. "The goal is to make it thin enough so it will be flexible and vibrate, yet strong enough to resist the pressure of the strings. The violin is the most perfect of instruments and that is probably why I enjoy the challenge of making them."

Despite his studies in Mexico City and Salt Lake City, Wenzel says he is probably more self-taught than formally educated at the craft. "I've made every mistake at least twice," he quips. "If I can make a fiddle I suppose just about anybody can. I'm sure I have all kinds of ideas yet to come. When an idea works, that's what turns me on," he said.

Now having made over 100 violins, cellos and violas, plus about a dozen guitars, Wenzel believes he is doing pretty good work. "The only way you make a good violin is by doing good work," he said. "That sounds overly simplistic, but there really aren't any shortcuts. Believe me, if I could do as good a job in a simpler or easier way, I would be doing it. I don't happen to believe it's taboo to do things in any other way than the way I've been taught."

Wenzel says a knowledge of wood is important but that source of supply is not difficult. He prefers spruce for the top of the violin, maple for the back, sides and neck. He uses some Douglas fir and ebony is used for trim. It takes him about two weeks of work to turn out a violin "in the white" and another two weeks to complete the varnishing and finishing.

"Some of the makers used to say the secret of good sound was in the varnishing," Wenzel said. "I used to make my own varnish until I wised up and started buying it from someone who knows how to make it. How should I know as much about making varnish as people who are in the business of making it?"

So Wenzel has opted for an oil base commercial varnish which he finds is more durable, and it is applied in thin coats with a brush. His father does much of the varnishing and French polishing - the latter an application of shellac and alcohol and oil which is rubbed on by hand.

"There really aren't any secrets," Wenzel says about the violin making craft, "although some makers tend to be secretive about certain things. When the craft has been passed down from generation to generation there are techniques followed by those makers which have worked well for them. That is not to say the methods are the only right ones, they just happen to be what works for those makers. Nobody really knows why the master violin makers had instruments that created the sound they did. No scientific study can reveal the reason."

In the end, it is the sound produced that determines how well the violin making job has been done. Appearance is important, but mostly as it relates to function. A finely made violin should last for generations, but is made so that it can be disassembled for repair.

Virtually all of the bowed instruments made by Wenzel are marketed through the shop of a friend, Jay Ifshin, in Berkley, CA The two men were classmates at the Salt Lake City violin making school, and Ifshin opted for selling the instruments in a retail market. "I would rather make them and sell them for immediate payment at wholesale," Wenzel said. "I get a little less money but I avoid all the hassle of dealing with people."

Wenzel knows that his instruments are used in the San Francisco symphony orchestra and that there are individual owners in China; Ireland, Canada and other countries. Buyers are serious violinists who find in the hand made instruments enough difference to warrant their higher cost in comparision with commercially made instruments.

"You know when a violin sounds good," Wenzel said, but he admitted that no two violinists are likely to agree on what is the best sound. That is another variable in the craft satisfaction with the sound produced by the musician who plays the instrument.

Of the 86 parts of a violin, Wenzel makes all but the strings, pegs, tailpiece and button. He says he derives a great deal of satisfaction from the craft and the appeal of being able to do something better by hand than can be done by machine is attractive to him. As each instrument is completed and sent away for sale there is a bit of a let-down and a feeling that part of him goes with it.

"But that only lasts for a little while," he said. "I'm always eager to get started on the next project and I'm pretty much free to make what I want to make. Most of the time I don't have to make up instruments to order. It's been awhile since I've made a flat top guitar and I kind of think I would like to do that again."

If he does, we'll bet it will be a beauty. Pride shows in all the instruments he produces.

TEDIOUS HAND WORK is required when carving out the scroll for a violin. Bob Wenzel of Warroad has tried using mechanized equipment for this part of the violin-making art but finds he has better success doing the carving by hand. In the top photo he works at the bench in the walk-out basement which is his home workshop. In the bottom photo he shows the uniformity of the scroll carving.

FINISHING WORK is one of the marks of the ability of a craftsman of fine instruments. This close-up of a viola made by Bob Wenzel of Warroad shows some of the inlay and finishing detail. Wenzel has been a violin maker for 13 years and markets nearly all of his instruments through the shop of a friend, Jay Ifshin, in Berkley, CA. Wenzel and Ifshin attended violin making school in Salt Lake City together.

Employment For Future Based On Technical Skills

For up and coming senior high school students, there's an important fact about post-secondary education that may help in making their college decision. According to employment projections for 1995 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 28 million jobs will be created between 1982 and 1995. At least three out of every four jobs can be obtained by having vocational technical training.

"We're trying to get the point across to young people that they can excel and succeed in years ahead with a strong two-year vocational technical diploma," said Jo-Anne Ebensteiner, marketing specialist for the Red River Valley AVTIs (East Grand Forks AVTI, Moorhead AVTI and Thief River Falls AVTI). "In Minnesota, some of the strongest growing industries into the 1990s are in technical fields."

According to Ebensteiner, the need for the AVTI graduate will continue. She points out that of the 28 million jobs that will be created, 13 million will be in 40 occupations such as electrical and electronics, robotics, legal assistants, computer service technicians and office machine technicians.

"Sometimes making a career choice can be difficult for those people who've already graduated from some form of post-secondary school. And if we can help those who are having a rough time making a decision today, we hope we can bring them into a vocational school and point out that they will be extremely "employable" in the upcoming decade."

Ebensteiner urges any individual seeking some assistance in career planning, whether they are young or looking for a new career, to call her at the Moorhead AVTI toll free 1-800-852-0055, extension 138, or at (218) 236-6277, extension 239.

Student Exchange Program Seeks Host Families

Host families are being sought for high school students during the school year 1986-87, in a program sponsored by Open Door student exchange. The students come from 30 countries in Latin America, Europe and Asia.

The students, ages 15-18, arrive in the United States in November, December and January for three or five months during the current school year. They attend the local high school while living with their American host family. All students have been thoroughly screened in their home countries, speak English, and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families may deduct $50 a month for income tax purposes, and families with teenagers, young children or no children at all are welcome to participate.

All participating families with high school age children are automatically eligible for partial scholarship subsidies for Open Door programs abroad for U.S. students. Families interested in participating should call Donna Stauffacher at 712-332-7573 (collect) after 6 p.m.

TIMES AROUND THE REGION

Marry Memories

Stephen—Members of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Althena club of Stephen, chose the theme of "Here Comes the Bride" for their October meeting. They attended the meeting attired in their wedding gowns, carrying wedding picture albums, and spent the evening reminiscing about their own and others' weddings.

Exchange Student Returns

Warren—A foreign exchange student from 1966 returned 20 years later to visit with friends in Warren. Although Mrs. Hans (Marianne Defesche) Rubbrecht could not make it for the 20th reunion this summer, she recently returned to stay at the home of Tressa Kotts, with whom she lived while attending school. She and her husband live in Holland.

Nice Way To Bank

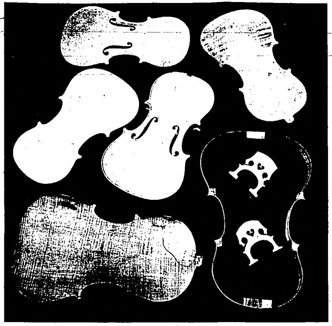
Newfolden—In celebration of National 4-H week, members of the Ringbo Bobcats 4-H club served coffee, juice and cookies at the Marshall County State Bank October 6.

Greenbush Goes Hawaiian

Greenbush—A fourth annual Hawaiian Luau will be held October 25 at 7 p.m. at the South Branch supper club, sponsored by the Greenbush Town and Country. Tickets are available from Greenbush merchants. The event will feature a dinner and dance.

Button, Button . . .

Warroad—Along with their traditional "Moonlight Moadness" celebration, Warroad retail merchants, chamber of commerce and the historical society will celebrate the 85th birthday of the incorporation of the village with a "find the button" treasure hunt for a prize of $500. Clues are to be posted in area businesses from October 21 to 25. A more formal observance of Warroad's early days will be sponsored by the historical society in late November.



SOME OF THE PARTS which will become stringed instruments created by Bob Wenzel of Warroad are included in this grouping. Since Wenzel ships his creations as soon as they are completed for sale in California, he has little in his shop as examples of his work. A violin has 86 parts, he explains, and he makes all of them except the strings, pegs, tailpiece and end button. He considers the violin the world's most perfect instrument and enjoys the challenge of creating instruments which both look and sound good. The art has too many variables to allow it to be done only on the basis of mechanics and technology, he said.

Emergency Food Shelf

Middle River—The new East Marshall county emergency food shelf will open October 20 for residents of the eastern half of the county, including communities of Middle River, Newfolden, Holt, Viking, Strandquist, Gatzke and Grygla. Area residents must be referred to the food shelf by a pastor, doctor, area ag information center, social service or other agency aware of the needs of the recipients. The food shelf is designed to meet needs arising from temporary financial difficulty or emergency and is not a part of a welfare program. Recipients will receive enough food for members of the family for one week, and are allowed only eight such emergencies per year per family, except for cases of extreme emergency such as a fire.

And Baby Makes Three

Warren—All three daughters of Annie and the late Harold Kasprick have been Warren high school homecoming queens. The youngest of the sisters, Jennifer, was crowned 1986 homecoming queen October 2, with her two older sisters present at the coronation. Mrs. Larry (Marlys) Hanson was the 1971 queen, and Mrs. Ron (Patty) Vasek was the 1973 queen.

Burned Beets; Drivers OK

Hallock—Two sugar beet trucks collided October 10 on Kittson county highway 7 two miles north of state highway 11. Neither of the two drivers was injured in the accident, which happened shortly after 1 p.m. They were in the process of hauling sugar beets to the Drayton plant. According to Kittson county sheriff, Pat Overend, one of the trucks, belonging to Langen Farms, Kennedy, and driven by Darrel Nelson of Thief River Falls, apparently tipped over on highway 7 and was struck from behind by a truck driven by Raymond Bresson, which belonged to Charles Swanson, Hallock. According to reports, Nelson was still in the cab of his truck when it was hit and the Swanson truck burst into flames upon impact. Both drivers were taken to Kittson Memorial hospital in Hallock where they were held overnight for observation and released.

Dam Improvement

Lake Bronson—Work on the Lake Bronson dam includes installation of new electrically operated gates, rock berms for flood control, a walkway on the east side, a fishing pier from the north berm, a bicycle path and parking lots at the north end.

National Pork Board Appointed By USDA Secretary

Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng's appointment of the new 15-member national pork board sets the stage for the official start-up of the new national pork producers legislative checkoff November 1.

Secretary Lyng selected the appointees from a list of nominees elected last month by the pork producers delegate body. The 15-member board will have the responsibility of collecting the checkoff and deciding how the money will be spent.

Named to three-year terms on the national pork board were Virgil Rosendale, Augusta, IL; Leroy Vollmer, Boonville, MO; Ritchie Jordan, Suffolk, VA, James McKee, Attica, IN; and Henry Greenebaum, Scarsdale, NY. Greenebaum is an importer.

Appointed to two-year terms were Linden Olson, Worthington, MN; Hilman Schroeder, Sauk City, WI; Gary Simpson, Ault, CO; Roland Mobesky, Wilson, NC; and Harold Trask, Renwick, IA.

Appointed to serve one-year terms were Roy Sharp, Tulare, CA; William Buller, Brookings, SD; Allen Keppy, Wilton, IA; Ron Keller, Monroe, NE; and Sandra Gifford, Onondaga, MI.

"The nation's pork producers are grateful for the expeditious manner in which Secretary Lyng moved to announce the official appointments said Ron Kahle, president of the National Pork Producers council. "It represents recognition on the part of the secretary that the democratic process under which producers nominated prospective board members resulted in quality people who are dedicated to doing a good job for the industry.

"The National Pork Producers council is proud of the role it continues to play in assuring a smooth transition to the new checkoff and pleges to work closely with the members of the national pork board to assure a maximum return on investment of producers checkoff dollars," Kahle concluded.

The national pork board is expected to hold its first meeting in early November.

A LEAPING catch by East Grand Forks receiver Garret Hjelle (15) pulled down a Tom Hagen pass and produced a 25-yard touchdown when he fell into the end zone in the third quarter of Wednesday's high school football game against East Grand Forks. Brian Kertz (83) tried to defend on the play, with Chris Bjorgaard (17) looking on. The third-and-long scoring strike was the first touchdown of the night for the Green Wave, who trailed 9-0 at halftime. They went on to beat the Prowlers 27-9.

EGF Pulls Away For 27-9 Win

Coaches often say the final score was not indicative of the way a game was really played. Close contests can turn into what might look like an easy victory in the next morning's line score with a couple of late touchdowns.

That was never more true Wednesday when Thief River Falls lost a 27-9 regular season-ending high school football game to East Grand Forks.

While the scoreboard says otherwise, it wasn't a 27-9 loss. In fact, the underdog Prowlers came within one yard of maybe upsetting the visiting Green Wave.

Trailing 13-9, Thief River Falls put together an impressive fourth quarter drive that carried the Prowlers from their own 16-yard line to the East Grand Forks 7 in 16 plays, a steady, error-free march that ate up 7 minutes, 10-seconds.

But they needed to reach the East Grand Forks 6-yard line to keep the drive alive. The Prowlers surrendered the ball on downs with 4:46 remaining, and three plays later East Grand Forks' Troy Ausmus took an option pitch to the left on an 88-yard game-clinching touchdown sprint down the sidelines.

Garret Hjelle added the conversion kick for a 20-9 cushion with 3:04 left.

The dramatic turnaround shattered the Prowlers, who handed the Green Wave another touchdown two minutes later. Thief River Falls had three penalties and an interception in the game's final two minutes — mistakes the Prowlers hadn't made all night — to set up a final score-inflating 13-yard touchdown run by Jeff Ransdell with 1:14 on the clock.

"The kids played hard," offered disappointed Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm, who watched a 9-0 halftime lead slip away. "We gave up a couple of cheap touchdowns at the end to make the game look a lot worse than what it really was."

Thief River Falls put together a tremendous first half of football for that 9-0 headstart, checking East Grand Forks' offense to just one first down and 27 net yards in the first 24 minutes. The Prowlers had six first downs, 112 yards, a field goal and a touchdown.

"The first half was by far the best football we've played all year," acknowledged Mumm.

Thief River Falls moved the ball from the Prowlers' 18-yard line to the East Grand Forks 16 in 12 plays to set up a 34-yard Chris Nelson field goal with 7:33 remaing in the first half, snapping a scoreless tie. The drive included an 18-yard run by fullback Mike Bendickson, who made use of an effective stiff-arm; a 15-yard run by halfback Paul Brandt, who used his speed to burst through the middle; and a key 12-yard Chris Bjorgaard roll-out completion to receiver Tim Halling on a fourth-and-six call from the East Grand Forks 31.

It was fourth-and-seven when Nelson made his kick from the 24, his third field goal of the year.

Three plays later Thief River Falls defensive tackle Elliot Baker came up with his second fumble recovery of the first half when East Grand Forks quarterback Tom Hagen lost the ball on a sack at the Green Wave 21-yard line.

Brandt went inside for a 13-yard carry to the East Grand Forks 8-yard line on first down, and three plays later Bjorgaard went in on a quick snap quarterback sneak from the 3.

Mumm elected to try for a two-point conversion instead of going to Nelson for the one-point kick, and Bjorgaard was incomplete on a pass into the corner of the end zone, leaving it 9-0 with 4:43 to play in the first half.

Thief River Falls had a chance to build upon that margin when George Langelett recovered an East Grand Forks fumble on the ensuing kickoff. The Prowlers had the ball at the Green Wave 27, but promptly fumbled away the first down handoff.

A Joel Swanson pass interception at the Thief River Falls with 53 seconds left ended an East Grand Forks scoring threat to end the first half, following an exchange of punts.

But East Grand Forks made quick amends for its unproductive first effort offensively by taking the second half kickoff and going 67 yards in just nine plays to pull within 9-7. A 41-yard run by Ausmus was the big play on the drive, carrying the Green Wave to the Thief River Falls 13. A holding penalty looked like an end to the East Grand Forks scoring threat, but on a third-and-22 play from the 25-yard line, Hagen hit Hjelle as he sprinted through the secondary. He outreached a Thief River Falls defender for the ball and fell into the end zone with 7:39 remaing in the third quarter Hjelle also added the conversion kick.

It stayed 9-7 until East Grand Forks finished off a 13-play, 54-yard drive on a one-yard touchdown drive by Randsell on the first play of the fourth quarter. There was a high snap on the extra point kick attempt, putting the score at 13-9 with 11:56 to play.

That's when Thief River Falls showed some spunk with that beforementioned drive behind the blocking of front-line people like center Jon Erickson, guards Paul Spyhalski and Rod Hinrichs and tackles Joe Drevlow and Dan Richter. The Prowlers converted three third down plays into first downs during the almost-flawless execution of the wing-T offense.

Biggest gainer on the drive was a 15-yard quick-strike pass from Bjorgaard to Halling over the middle for a first down at the East Grand Forks 16-yard line with six minutes remaining.

But East Grand Forks smelled out a reverse by wingback Jim Hahn for a three-yard loss and Brandt was held for no gain on the right side. Brandt came back with a six-yard pick-up on a draw play, but that left the Prowlers looking at a fourth-and-seven from the 13.

A Thief River Falls time-out conference produced a Bjorgaard screen pass to Bendickson over the middle. The play was set up perfectly, but Bendickson ran into a crowd of blockers and defenders and fell at the 6-yard line — a yard short of the first down.

Ausmus then hiked his rushing total to 191 yards on 19 carries with the 88-yarder.

East Grand Forks wound up with 288 yards worth of offense, 257 of it on the ground, and nearly all of it in the second half. Thief Rver Falls finished 100 yards short of the East Grand Forks total in both rushing and total yardage figures.

"They (EGF) came off the ball a lot harder in the second half," pointed out Mumm. "We're still not there, yet. When it's time to dig in a little deeper, the kids start to wonder if they can really do it. Confidence has an awful lot to do with it. But another year of hard work and we'll get there."

Thief River Falls wound up 2-6. East Grand Forks was just the opposite.

CUTTING BEHIND a block. Thief River Falls wingback Jim Hahn (23) picked up a seven-yard gain on this first quarter carry against East Grand Forks during Wednesday's high school football game played at Prowler Field. The Prowlers built a 9-0 halftime lead, but lost a regular season-ending 27-9 decision to the Green Wave.

Section 8A Football Playoffs . . .

Prowlers Matched Against Cardinals

Opening round quarterfinals in the 1986 Section 8A high school football playoffs are scheduled to be played at four different sites Tuesday. The 7:30 p.m. match-ups include Thief River Falls at Staples, Detroit Lakes at Crookston, Wadena at Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks at Park Rapids.

Playoff pairings were determined by a vote of the eight Section 8A head coaches during a Thursday morning meeting at Mahnomen. Seeding positions in the North Half included No. 1 Fergus Falls, No. 2 Crookston, No. 3 East Grand Forks and No. 4 Thief River Falls. Seeding positions in the South Half included No. 1 Staples, No. 2 Park Rapids, No. 3 Detroit Lakes and No. 4 Wadena.

Top two seeded teams in each half received the home field edge for the first round match-ups against the No. 3 and No. 4 seeded teams from the opposite half.

Semifinals will be played Saturday at the sites of the higher-seeded first round sinners, with the Thief River Falls-Staples winner meeting the Detroit Lakes-Crookston winner, while the Wadena-Fergus Falls winner goes against the East Grand Forks-Park Rapids winner.

Championship game will be played Nov. 1, with the winner moving on to the 1986 Minnesota state Class A playoff quarterfinals.

TRF Faces Staples

Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm gives his team a good shot at knocking off Staples Tuesday in the opening round of the 1986 Section 8A high school football playoffs.

Mumm is confident the Prowlers can beat the Cardinals, even though the odds are stacked against them. Staples, on paper, has a definite edge with a 7-1 record, the No. 1 seed in the Section 8A South Half and the home field advantage. Thief River Falls, on the other hand, is just 2-6 and the No. 4 seed in the Section 8A North Half.

Staples, after winning its first Mid-State Conference football title in 22 years in 1985, made it two-in-a-row this fall after beating Detroit Lakes 28-14 in a regular season-ending game last Wednesday.

Quarterback Chad Walthall threw two touchdown passes and fullback Shawn Ward ran for two touchdowns as Staples completed a perfect 5-0 Mid-State Conference season with the win over Detroit Lakes. The Cardinals led 21-0 at halftime. The Lakers lost two starters to injuries during the game — quarterback James Landsem and 210-pound runningback Ron Schroeder. Landsem went out with a separated shoulder on the game's fourth play.

"Staples is not a very big ball club," pointed out Mumm, "but watching films, they look quick."

Staples lost its 1986 season opener to Sauk Centre 14-13, then ran off wins over Perham, Frazee-Vergas, Wadena, Crosby-Ironton, Aitkin, Park Rapids and Detroit Lakes. An 18-0 victory over Park Rapids two weeks ago locked up the Section 8A South Half No. 1 seed for the Cardinals.

Still, Mumm feels the Prowlers can end the Cardinals' winning streak at seven games. "No doubt, if we go down and play like we can, we can come home with a win," he said.

In fact, Mumm wouldn't be surprised by a four-game sweep for the North Half teams Tuesday, figuring Fergus Falls (5-3) should beat Wadena (1-7), Crookston (5-2) over Detroit Lakes (4-4) and East Grand Forks (6-2) can knock off Park Rapids (5-3).

In addition to the Staples win over Detroit Lakes, final regular season results last Wednesday found East Grand Forks beating Thief River Falls, Park Rapids handled Aitkin 22-8, Wadena picked up its first win at the expense of Crosby-Ironton 22-21 and Fergus Falls upset Albany, the No. 1-rated Class A team in the state, 10-7 in overtime. Crookston was idle.

The Prowlers played well enough to beat East Grand Forks, and the playoffs will produce strong incentive to duplicate that kind of effort against Staples, figures Mumm.

None of the first round Section 8A playoff foes have met each other this fall.

Thief River Falls and Staples had a six-game series against each other not too many years ago, and three of those six meetings produced one-point victory margins. They met for the first time in 1976 when Staples triumphed 29-28. The Cardinals also won 15-14 in 1977 before Thief River Falls came up with three straight series wins — 26-12 in 1978, 37-0 in 1979 and 29-7 in 1980. Staples won another 15-14 contest in 1981 before the series came to an end.

+ What ranks as the biggest swimming meet of the 1986 regular season schedule for the Prowlers will take place Tuesday when the Thief River Falls girls host Fergus Falls in a 5 p.m. dual at the Franklin Middle School pool. Thief River Falls is 7-0 in dual meet competition this fall, but Fergus Falls will be the toughest team the Prowlers face. Alexandria is expected to continue its dominance when the Section 8 meet is held Nov. 7-8 in Grand Forks, with Fergus Falls, Thief River Falls and Moorhead figured to be in the running for a runner-up finish behind the Cardinals. The Prowlers will compete at the Fargo South Invitational Saturday, then close out their regular season schedule Friday, October 31, at Detroit Lakes.

Northland Football Team In Division Race . . .

Pioneers Upset Spartans

Northland Community College football team followed its worst performance of the 1986 season with its best effort Saturday as the Pioneers made amends for an embarrassing 29-6 loss at Hibbing the week before with a stunning 26-14 upset victory at Fergus Falls.

"We played very well," reported Northland coach Rick Nelson. "Overall, it was the best team performance we've had in three years."

The Pioneers did it with a ground gobbling running game that netted 246 yards. Sophomore Steve Ristau carried the ball 30 times for 135 yards and two touchdowns, while freshman Deon Schmidt had 17 carries for 86 yards and one touchdown. The Pioneers were just 2-for-10 passing for 21 yards on a windy afternoon.

"The offensive line really did the job," pointed out Nelson. "It was basically Ristau left, Ristau right, Schmidt up the middle most of the day."

Fergus Falls, meanwhile, musted just 42 yards rushing. The Spartans managed to collect 164 yards passing, but it took a 16-for-40 effort to do it, and in the process the losers suffered 10 quarterback sacks — four each by Mark Biganek and Tim Wayne.

"Our defense really played well," noted Nelson, and it was a patch-work defense at that because of numerous injuries and absenteeism that forced a number of position changes. "It was really a gutty performance by the defense," said Nelson.

As a matter of fact, the Northland defense opened the scoring. Winning the coin toss and electing to take the wind to start the game, the Pioneers held the Spartans on their first possession, then came up with a touchdown when Mike Zelinski blocked the fourth down punt and Mike Coffield recovered the ball for the touchdown. Ron Dass made it 7-0 with the conversion kick before the Northland offense even stepped on to the field.

Fergus Falls tied it 7-7 with three minutes left in the first half, capitalizing on a short Northland punt into the wind to set up a quick 32-yard scoring drive that was capped by a 2-yard Todd Bliesle touchdown run.

Northland broke it open with 19 unanswered third quarter points. A 6-play, 53-yard drive, which started with a 25-yard burst by Ristau, concluded with a 5-yard Ristau touchdown run to break the tie.

A 56-yard pass interception return by linebacker Mike Stennes carried the ball to the Fergus Falls 10-yard line, and two carries by Ristau mad it 19-7.

Northland forced another Fergus Falls punt, and put together a drive that produced a 4-yard touchdown run by Schmidt for a 26-7 cushion before the quarter ended.

Fergus Falls struck for a 35-yard touchdown pass play from Jim Strohmeier to Jon Thielen in the fourth quarter, but that's all the Spartans netted. Strohmeier was 13-for-29 for 150 yards before suffering a fourth quarter injury that took him out of the game.

The win snapped a three-game Northland losing streak, putting the Pioneers at 3-3 and in the thick of a Northwest Division pennant race. University of Minnesota-Crookston was also a winner in the first week of Northwest Devision play Saturday, by a similar 23-12 margin over Brainerd, setting the stage for an interesting Thursday night Northland-UMC match-up in Thief River Falls. The winner in the 7:30 p.m. game at Prowler Field will be in position to win a Minnesota Community College Conference state playoff berth in the regular season finale the following week — Northland vs. Brainerd and UMC vs. Fergus Falls.

"We're excited," acknowledged Nelson.

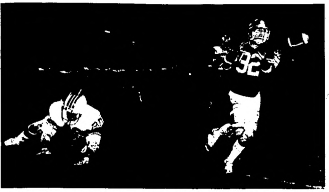
Franklin Middle School

Franklin Middle School seventh and eighth grade volleyball teams closed out their 1986 season Tuesday with 2-0 sweeps over Crookston.

The Spartans' A team won 15-6, 15-2 to finish the year at 5-6, while the Spartans' B team won 15-4, 15-8 to end 6-5.

Peggy Lawrence and JoAnn Fletcher served as coaches.



EAST GRAND FORKS defensive back Todd Innes fell on the play, but the ball eluded Thief River Falls receiver Tim Halling on third quarter pass from quarterback Chris Bjorgaard during Wednesday's Section 8A high school football game at Prowler Field. The Green Wave won the game 27-9.

Volleyball Action Resumes

Volleyball at the high school and college level will be offered on four nights this week in Thief River Falls.

Lincoln High School volleyball squad, 14-3 fo the year, has three regular season-ending matches this week. The Helen Anderson-coached Prowlers host Alvarado tonight (Monday), entertain East Grand Forks Thursday and visit Crookston Friday. Junior varsity matches start at 6:15 p.m. and varsity matches are scheduled for 7:30 each night.

Northland Community College volleyball team, coached by Deb Jacobson, has a pair of Northwest Division matches at home this week. The Pioneers, who beat Brainerd and lost to Fergus Falls by identical 3-2 scores in earlier Northwest Division play, will host University of Minnesota-Crookston Wednesday and entertain Fergus Falls Friday. Both matches start at 6:30 p.m.

Area high school teams will also close out their regular season schedules this week, with Marshall County Central, Grygla, Oklee, Goodridge and Plummer all winding up the season with two matches.

Marshall County Central (14-2) will be at Roseau Tuesday and at home against Tri-County Thursday.

Grygla (10-5) hosts Middle River tonight (Monday) and drives to Warroad Tuesday, with Middle River winding up the season Thursday at home against Kittson County North.

Oklee (13-6) has home matches Tuesday vs. Clearbrook and Thursday vs. Win-E-Mac.

Goodridge finishes on the road, playing Tuesday at Oslo and Thursday at Gonvick-Trail.

Plummer (15-4) will wait until Thursday to host Mahnomen, then finish Friday at Tri-County. The Cardinals wrapped up an unbeaten Polar Conference title-winning season last Tuesday by beating Fisher 15-11, 15-13, 13-15, 15-7.

"It was an excellent match," reported Plummer coach Dean Miller, whose team was led by Angie Delage, credited with 17 last-touch points.

Plummer is also coming off as first place performance in the Cardinals own eight-team invitational recently when the hosts beat Red Lake Falls 15-5, 15-9; Oslo 15-7, 1-15, 15-7, and Climax 15-7, 11-15, 15-11 for the title. Oslo wound up with the third place trophy and Norman County West was consolation champion.

Nine-Man Playoffs Are Set

Northwestern Minnesota nine-man high school football playoffs start Tuesday, with area teams divided into Section 8 and Section 6 groupings.

Pairings for Section 6, which includes members of the North Tri-County Conference, along with the likes of Norman County West, Ulen-Hitterdahl and Twin Valley, were determined Thursday when a six-team field was selected.

Eight-team Section 8 field, which includes teams from the Northern Lights and Top of the State Conferences, was announced Wednesday.

In Section 6, top-seeded Gonvick-Trail and Norman County West drew first round byes. The Tuesday games will find Ulen-Hitterdahl at Fisher-Climax at 7:30 p.m. and Gary at Twin Valley at 8 p.m.

Semifinals will be played Saturday, with Gonvick-Trail hosting the Gary vs. Twin Valley winner at 1:30 p.m., while Norman County West faces the Ulen-Hitterdahl vs. Fisher-Climax winner at 7 p.m. at Halstad.

Championship game is scheduled Saturday, November 1.

North Tri-County Conference members Plummer, Oklee, Clearbrook and Redlake were excluded from the playoff field.

North Tri-County Conference will find Middle River at Argyle, Marshall County Central at Kennedy and Tri-County at Hallock in 7:30 p.m. starts, while Stephen plays Kittson County North in a 3:30 p.m. game at Lancaster.

Semifinals will be played Saturday at sites that will be determined by the opening round results. The match-ups will have the Middle River vs. Argyle winner playing the Stephen vs. Kittson County North winner, while the Marshall County Central vs. Kennedy winner plays the Tri-County vs. Hallock winner.

Championship game will be played Saturday, November 1.

Section 8 playoff field doesn't include Goodridge-Grygla from the Top of the State Conference, nor Badger or Oslo-Alvarado from the Northern Lights Conference. Oslo-Alvarado is not eligible for the Minnesota State High School League nine-man playoffs because the cooperative program surpases the MSHSL enrollment figure guidelines.

Most teams closed out their 1986 regular season schedules last week.

Tuesday results in the Top of the State Conference found Argyle beating Tri-County 42-0, Hallock over Marshall County Central 57-18 and Stephen on top of Goodridge-Grygla 36-22. That left Argyle at 8-0 for the year, Hallock 6-2, Stephen 5-3, Tri-County 3-5, Marshall County Central 2-6 and Goodridge-Grygla 0-8.

North Tri-County Conference results Tuesday saw Clearbrook topping Oklee 12-8, Fisher-Climax belted Redlake 54-14 and Gary outscored Plummer 50-43. Gonvick-Trail, which drew a final-week bye, boasts a 7-0 record, followed by Fisher-Climax at 6-2, Gary 4-3, Plummer 3-4, Oklee 3-5, Clearbrook 2-6 and Redlake 0-7.

Kennedy dumped Middle River 51-12 Tuesday and Kittson County North doubled Badger 16-8 Wednesday in the Northern Lights Conference, with Oslo-Alvarado drawing a bye. The results put Kennedy at 7-0, Kittson County North 5-3, Oslo-Alvarado 4-4, Middle River 2-6 and Badger 1-7.

First-round playoff pairings match top-seeded teams against bottom-seeded opponents, creating difficult situations for coaches like Eldon Sparby at Middle River, where his small, injury-plagued team is coming off that one-sided 51-12 loss to unbeaten Northern Lights Conference champion Kennedy to face undefeated Top of the State Conference champion Argyle Tuesday.

A possible forfeit entered Sparby's mind, he admitted, but a vote taken by the Middle River team members showed a near-unanimous decision to tackle the odds and the powerful Eagles, an overwhelming favorite.

"The kids voted to play," pointed out Sparby. "The attitude is there. They know it's a big challenge, but they want to play."

Sparby knows the odds, but he also knows Argyle coach Warren Keller will do his best to keep the game from getting completely out of hand. "Argyle has a class operation," noted Sparby, "I know they won't try to run the score up on us."

Middle River fell victim to a Kennedy passing attack Tuesday that saw quarterback Jared Hagen throw six touchdown passes — five of them to Tim Rynning.

"We had a lot of people hurt early in the game, and things fell apart in a hurry," explained Sparby.

Most costly injury was to junior quarterback Tom Blazek, who also doubles as a defensive back. Without him, the Skippers' offense sputtered and their defense was ineffective.

Plan Conference On Child Sexual Abuse This Week

Three hundred Minnesota professionals are meeting to begin a two-year process leading to recommendations for statewide guidelines and protocols in dealing with cases of child sexual abuse. Paul Tschida, commissioner of the department of public safety, will open the conference at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Judge Lynn Olson, who presided over inquiries into the conduct of Scott county attorney Kathleen Morris, will deliver the evening keynote. The session is to be held at Breezy Point conference center, Brainerd, October 22-23 and 24.

Following the conference opening, Commissioner Tschida; Judge Olson; Dr. Gene Abel, nationally known researcher in the field of child sexual abuse; Harry Halden, special agent in charge, Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension; and Karen Ray, director of Project IMPACT, will hold a news conference. Also present for questions will be members of the interagency team on child sexual abuse, comprised of representatives of nine state agencies.

Initiated by the interagency team, Project IMPACT won a million dollar federal grant to provide a two-year program for professionals dealing with cases of abuse. The project promotes better communication and cooperation, improved skill levels, and will develop a set of recommendations for a more effective statewide system. Currently, each Minnesota county handles cases of child sexual abuse in its own distinct way.

The need for such a project was underscored in the recently released report of the Minnesota Attorney General's task force on child abuse within the family. Those invited to participate in the project include law enforcement officers, child protection workers, county physicians, public defenders, probation officers and school and public administrators.

Project IMPACT is administered jointly through the state planning agency and government training service.

TRF, Moorhead, EGF AVTIs Form Marketing Group

When students come looking for East Grand Forks AVTI, Moorhead AVTI or Thief River Falls AVTI, they may find the three Minnesota AVTIs blanketed under one collective name, the Red River Valley AVTIs.

The three AVTIs formed a joint marketing group in July and have made plans to do some integrated marketing efforts. While each school will maintain its own individual efforts, a group effort will be made to market the schools in areas outside the immediate market area. Regions such as central and western North Dakota and southern Minnesota will be tapped by the "Red River Valley AVTIs."

The schools' directors and student services staff decided to form the group when each school had made plans to venture into North Dakota. While each school wanted representation at college fairs and career fairs, this appeared to be the most logical way of approaching that western territory.

Heading up the marketing consortium are Jerry Folstrum, director, East Grand Forks AVTI; Oscar Bergos, director, Moorhead AVTI; and Dr. Orley Gunderson, director, Thief River Falls AVTI. Student services coordinators at each school will help launch efforts.

In making plans for the marketing consortium, the three AVTI directors hired a full-time marketing specialist to handle the coordinated effort. JoAnne Evensteiner, marketing specialist for Red River Valley AVTIs, will focus on joint marketing efforts among the three AVTIs as well as any individual needs each school expresses.

Working Parents Invited To Noon Learning Sessions

"Time Out for Working Parents" is the title of a workshop to be conducted by the early childhood family education program in Thief River Falls Thursdays from 12 noon to 1 p.m. beginning this week. The sessions are being offered in cooperation with the Crossroads Center and the Minnesota extension service.

Meetings will be held on Thursdays through November 20 at the Crossroads center in the basement of the former Carnegie public library building.

"Working parents today face challenges that are different than parents faced years ago," states Joyce Brandt of the early childhood family education program.

"Every family has strengths and every family has problems. Those strengths can be used to solve some of the problems. During these meetings we will explore some of the ways to work through the challenges of a working parent."

Program topics and presenters include the following:

October 23 — Balancing working and parenting, Joyce Brandt;

October 30 — Making the most of your child care, Mary Ann Hodge, Discovery Place child care center;

November 6 — It's your time, manage it, Deb Matero Zak, Pennington county extension director;

November 13 — Coping with stress, Lana Sandahl; and

November 20 — Handling your guilt as a working parent, Joyce Brandt.

Participants may register for any or all of the five programs. A "fix your own sandwich" buffet will be provided. Registration fee of $3.50 to be paid at each meeting includes the meal and informational materials. The programs will be informal and persons attending may feel free to arrive late or leave early if necessary.

To register, call 681-2703, extension 231, by 3 p.m. the day before each program.

Sherlock Holmes Material To Be Displayed At NCC

Northland community college has announced the opening of "Investigating Sherlock Holmes" at the NCC art gallery on October 23. This exhibition of first-edition books, original illustrations, photographs and memorabilia explores the universal and timeless appeal of the world's greatest detective.

The exhibition chronicles the development of the Sherlock Holmes stories, and the life and career of their creator, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. The influence of Holmes on other literature and media is also considered as is the significance of the tales as documents of Victorian culture. Objects featured in the exhibition have been drawn from the Mary Dahler and Philip S. Hench collection at the University of Minnesota, one of the largest collections of Holmes material in the country.

Organized by the touring exhibitions program, University Art Museum, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, "Investigating Sherlock Holmes" is sponsored locally by Northland community college. The exhibition will be on view from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. through November 23.

In addition, Randy Cox is scheduled to give a presentation on Tuesday, October 28, at 2 p.m. in the theater at Northland. Cox's slide talk explores the social and literary influences that led to the creation of detective fiction. He argues that its popularity arose during the industrial revolution from the growth of cities, a rise in crime, and an increase in leisure time as well as a highter literacy rate.

In discussing the historical development of detective stories, Cox will highlight Doyle's contributions, while also examining a variety of detective writers from Edgar Allen Poe to Dashiell Hammett and Agatha Christie.

There is no charge for the presentation or viewing the exhibits. Everyone is welcome to attend. For further information call Northland community college, 218-681-2181, extension 65. Contact person is Mike Trudeau.

AMERICA'S SAFE SCHOOL WEEK
OCTOBER 19-25, 1986

FOR THE SECOND YEAR, THIS WEEK HAS BEEN DEDICATED TO RECOGNIZING THOSE EFFORTS THAT ARE MADE TO PREVENT CRIME AND VIOLENCE, TO IMPROVE DISCIPLINE, TO INCREASE AND ASSURE ATTENDANCE, AND TO SUPPRESS DRUG TRAFFIC AND ABUSE IN OUR SCHOOLS.

The Thief River Falls Public Schools is committed to these efforts by providing the following:

1) Drug education is introduced through Project Charlie in the elementary grades and the middle school. This program is provided to teach children to make good choices and to feel good about themselves. Drug education is also a part of the formal health instructional program at the Franklin Middle School.

A Drug Education Coordinator is housed at Lincoln High School and serves the entire district. This past spring a Chemical Awareness Task Force was initiated to assist in improving response to chemical abuse problems in our community.

2) Student attendance is monitored on an hourly basis in all our schools.

3) Halls are supervised by staff and emphasis is placed on individual respect for property.

4) Last year a task force made up of parents, teachers, law enforcement officials, and adminitrators developed an updated Student Discipline Policy which is presently being reviewed for formal adoption by the School Board. The policy addresses the responsibility of all students and staff to maintain an orderly school environment conducive to the instructional mission of the district. Once the policy is adopted by the School Board, each building will be responsible for developing individual building level codes.

The schools are partners with parents, law enforcement officials, and the community as a whole in providing for a safe, secure and productive environment for our children. We must all work together to provide positive guidance and support in order for them to achieve their maximum potential. They're looking for role models and it's our responsibility to show them the benefits of good health and quality education.

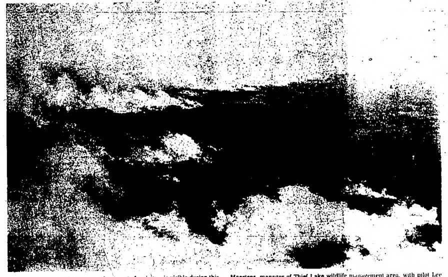
Helicopter And Torch Aid In Controlled Burning



BURNING RING OF FIRE — or at least part of a ring — is visible during this controlled burn on wildlife lands in Beltrami county's Big Grass township northeast of Grygla Tuesday afternoon. This Times photo was taken from the helicopter used to start and observe the fire during an inspection flight by Jerry Maertens, manager of Thief Lake wildlife management area, with pilot Lee Andrews of Brainerd Helicopter. Backfires were started around the downwind perimeter of the burn area helped to secure the area so that larger fires could be started further upwind.

Utilization of a helicopter and unit dispensing gelled gasoline has permitted the Minnesota department of natural resources to conduct controlled burns on approximately 15,000 acres of wildlife habitat in northwestern Minnesota since last Thursday.

Gordon Forester, area wildlife manager for the DNR in Thief River Falls, said that use of the helicopter has allowed wildlife workers to take advantage of the short span of dry and warm weather to conduct large burns which would otherwise require increased manpower and involve greater risk of fire getting out of control.

Forester said that conditions in the past several years have not been conducive to burning and a backlog of project work had been accumulated. In addition, some funds became available this year through the Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) program, primarily for improvement of sharptail grouse habitat.

Burning has long been nature's way of controlling and replenishing prairie species and only man's intervention to prevent wildfires has interrupted that natural process. The controlled burns in specified areas help to set back succession of unwanted plant species such as willow and cattail while permitting grasses and other browse to replenish themselves. The burns will improve waterfowl nesting cover and marsh conditions for wildlife, Forester said.

Some people have expressed concern about wildlife becoming trapped and injured or killed as a result of the fires, the wildlife manager noted. Activity in the burn areas to create firebreaks and the use of smaller backfires to secure areas generally result in wildlife leaving before becoming trapped. He said that neither he nor others working with the controlled burn projects have observed wildlife losses due to the fires.

The project began Thursday in the Roseau River wildlife management area where some 6,000 acres were burned in one large area in several hours, according to Gerald Maertens, manager of the Thief Lake wildlife management area.

On Friday more than 800 acres were burned with use of the helicopter on two sites in the Twin Lakes area between Greenbush and Karlstad.

Saturday the effort moved to the Elm Lake area where the impoundment north of Ditch 200 had been in draw-down during the summer and the 2,500 acre area within the dike was set aflame. Forester said that a good burn was achieved on the eastern two thirds of the area with a less satisfactory burn on the wetter, more heavily vegetative area on the west end. Depending on snow and ice conditions this winter, he said, further work on vegetation in that area could be done this winter or in the early spring. Some 400 acres in the Espelie township area were also burned Saturday.

Forester added that water would be allowed to build up in the impoundment area next spring.

On Sunday the fire crews worked in the Thief Lake area and burned approximately 1,000 acres covering nearly all the area from Haroldson dam to the Moose River access on the east end of the lake and from the north access road to the north shore of the lake itself.

Tuesday's burn in sections 21 and 29 of Big Grass township in Beltrami county, involving over 1,200 acres, virtually completed the large scale burning project for this fall.

Maertens and Forester both emphasized that people should use ex

Pennington County Considers Supporting Tax Disbursement

Pennington county is considering official support of a union of city and county governments in Minnesota in urging the state to preserve the intent of a 1981 committment to disburse Minnesota vehicle excise taxes (MVET) to state, county and local units of government for transportation purposes.

Under the 1981 formula the highway users tax distribution fund (HUTDF) would receive 75 per cent of the MVET monies and the transit assistance fund (TAF) the remaining 25 per cent.

Originally, the law was set to take effect in 1983 and to have been phased in over an eight-year program in increments of 25 per cent every two years. Since that time, the schedule has been changed three times due to general revenue fund shortfalls in state government. The delay in implementing the program this year will cost county and local units of government approximately $30 million — $23 million for counties and $7 million for municipalities.

Wayne Olson, Pennington county engineer, said the county has not officially joined in the effort, but he expects the county probably will.

In 1986 counties and cities received their allotment, including the motor vehicle excise tax. In 1987 the legislature delayed transfer of this tax retroactively to Jan. 1, 1986, thus counties and cities had to take a cut on 1987 allotments to account for the changes figured back over one year.

In Pennington county the total 1986 allotment was $1,184,771 and is $143,632 for 1987. In Red Lake county the total 1986 allotment was $1,035,163 but is $125,496 for 1987. In Marshall county the total 1986 allotment was $2,735,492 but is $331,630 for 1987. Thief River Falls will have 12 per cent less than last year. That total is $27,000 less.

Olson said he agrees that the delay in the transfer of MVET funds has proven to be harmful at local and county levels of government because officials have lost the ability to plan construction projects without knowing how much funding will be available for road work such as repairs and new construction.

The main concern, he said, is that the fund has lost its stability, which was the original purpose of the tax and fund.

Heading the coalition of groups which have expressed concern over the loss of promised funds are the Minnesota Good Roads association, Inc. (MGRA), executive director Robert M. Johnson, and Jim Staebler, vice president of government relations, Minnesota Trucking association.

Northwest Senior Federation Elects Officers In TRF

Seventh annual convention of the Northwest Senior federation was held at the American Legion club in Thief River Falls recently. Mayor Bob Carlson of Thief River Falls welcomed the group, then pointed out that the elimination of federal revenue sharing will reduce senior programs unless seniors contact their local units of government asking that these programs continue with local funds.

Officers elected were David Brown, Goodridge, president; Gene Howes, Thief River Falls, vice president; Victor Johnson, Lake Bronson, vice president; Velma Sonetang, Roseau, secretary; Olga Engevik, Thief River Falls, treasurer. County vice chairpersons elected included: Roseau, Anelia Fikem, Roseau, acting; Pennington, Sam Honebrink, Thief River Falls; Kittson, Victor Johnson, Lake Bronson; and West Marshall, Leonard Olson, Warren.

Killian House-Raising Scheduled This Week

House-raising for the Larry Killian family of Plummer is scheduled for Friday through Sunday with a large amount of materials needed having been donated or provided at cost, according to local volunteers assisting with the program.

Larry and Diane Killian are parents of five-year-old Amy who is the subject of an intensive therapy program involving many area volunteers. Amy was born with brain damage from hydrocephalus (water on the brain) and the therapy program is intended to assist her in recovering physical and mental functions lost through the brain damage.

A house project started by the Killians shortly before Amy was born was halted by the expenses involved with her hospitalization and therapy. The family, which includes five other young children, has been living in a tiny house with a hastily built temporary addition, part of which is used as Amy's therapy center as well as one of the home's bedrooms.

Volunteers from a wide area have joined together under general organization of a Minneapolis based organization called "A Chance To Grow" which provides support and assistance for brain damaged children and their families. These volunteers are providing money and materials for initial costs in building the house which was started five years ago.

Preliminary work has been completed on a septic system, water system and pouring of the basement floor. The foundation and base for the first story floor had been completed five years ago and kept covered until now. On Friday two hired carpenters and a group of volunteers will begin the above ground construction of the house itself.

Roy Jorgenson, director of Inter-County Community council at Oklee, has been working on several areas of the project including some funding through eligible programs handled by the council. He said that $3,000 has been made available from the board's corporate funds realized from the sale of mobile homes which the council had at one time owned.

Penn. County Candidates Seek Voter Support

Eugene Prestegaard
For Pennington County Recorder

I would like to be able to personally call on each of you, but this is not possible for me to do, therefore I am grateful to the Thief River Falls Times for inviting me to address you in this manner.

I will be completing 18 years as your county recorder, formerly register of deeds. I have filed for re-election and want to ask each of you for your vote and support in the general election on November 4th.

I am a lifetime resident of Pennington county, being born and raised in Star township. I attended Lincoln high for two years and graduated from the advanced year at the Northwest School of agriculture at Crookston. My interests and classes were mainly in the commercial group, such as typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, etc.

After graduation I stayed on the farm for some years, later purchasing the farm from my father. I still own the farm and rent out the cropland.

I became employed as Pennington

Ann Pluth-Olson
For Pennington County Recorder

I would like to thank the Times for extending this opportunity to introduce myself to the voters of Pennington county and to express some of my views and qualifications.

I have been a resident and taxpayer of Pennington county for 26 years. My first husband, Harry Pluth, was killed in a plane crash in 1972 along with Gary Forsberg. I married Leonard A. Olson and together we raised our six children. I use the name "Pluth-Olson" because it ties life in Pennington county into a continuous line as my children retain the Pluth name and my old friends remember me by that name — my new friends know me as Ann Olson.

Leonard and I farm in Rocksbury township raising registered quarter-horses and quarter-mules.

I have always been active in community and school activities. I am a member of the Noon Lioness club and the American Legion auxiliary.

I have 17 years of practical experience which I believe qualified me

Kenneth Olson
For Pennington County Auditor

I have served you as your county auditor since September of 1981 and I am seeking re-election on the November 4th general election. I would like to thank the Times for allowing me the opportunity to present myself to the citizens of Pennington county.

The position of county auditor is a very demanding one which involves being the executive secretary to the county board management of county finances, handling of budgets and levies, knowledge of computer processing and responding to the people of Pennington county as a source of information. I believe I have the knowledge and experience which one acquires while on the job to continue serving you as your county auditor.

I am a graduate of Ada high school and the University of Minnesota at Crookston with a degree in computer business systems. My wife Janet and I have two children, Corey 11 and LeAnn 7; both are students at

Don Grabanski
For Pennington County Commissioner

My name is Don Grabanski. This will be my third term as your county commissioner. As your county commissioner I strongly believe in communication within the community. I believe communication is the key to effective leadership.

I am involved in numerous civic activities and will continue to be active. As many people know I am deeply involved in the Future Fuel Inc. project. Our solid wastes are a problem we make and one we can't avoid. Future Fuel is one solution.

I am also a full board commissioner on the Northwest Regional Development commission and a voting commissioner on its transportation committee. My past experience also includes being a Jaycee president.

I have lived in Thief River Falls for 26 years and have raised my family here with my wife Molly. I have four children: Matthew, Michelle, Melanie and Melissa.

Thank you for your help and support over the years. On November 4, I encourage all eligible voters to vote

Bill Penning
For Pennington County 4th District Commissioner

I am interested in representing the citizens of the 4th district as county commissioner because I am convinced local government is important to our neighborhood. I am sure we are facing difficult decisions which will require patience and understanding to resolve. Everyone knows the population base is shrinking and the farm economy is not expanding as it was a few years ago. These factors will have a lot to do with our ability to maintain public services which are needed. I will do my very best to provide the services which are important for a good moral life.

I have had the experience of three terms as alderman on the city council of Thief River Falls. I chose not to run a fourth term because I believe 12 years is a reasonable amount of time to serve. With the support of the voters in the 4th district, I would like to serve as county commissioner.

My wife Melba and I have lived in Thief River Falls since 1954, with the exception of three years when we

Tamie Anderson & Hal Swanson United In Marriage June 21

The Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls was the scene of the June 21 wedding of Tamie Lynn Anderson and Hal Mitchell Swanson. Rev. Sheldon Lorenson and Rev. Dale VanDeusen officiated at the 6 p.m., double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Halward Anderson of Viking, and Mr. and Mrs. Lenord Swanson of Thief River Falls.

Sheila Nelson, cousin of the groom, served as organist playing selections of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "Bridal Chorus." Diane Anderson, sister of the bride, and Kent Hudson, friend of the couple, sang duets of "God, A Woman and A Man" and "To Me," with Diane singing "Doubly Good To You" as a solo, and Kent performing "Flesh of My Flesh."

The church was decorated with pink and white bows along the aisles, candelabra with pink candles and white bows along the sides of the sanctuary, and two large bouquets of pink peonies at the altar in loving memory of grandparents of the couple.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white gown of silesta chiffon with mandarin neckline and short, Victorian sleeves. Hand-pearled Alencon lace accented the bodice. A Schiffli lace ruffle bordered the hemline, flowing to a cathedral-length train. To compliment her gown, she wore a pearl and lace-trimmed bridal hat with fingertip veil flowing from the back, and fingerless gloves with a ruffle accented by tiny pink bows. Her bouquet was of pink and white roses, shaded pink carnations, white starburst mums and babies' breath. Bridal attendants were Lisa Glass and Mary Anderson, friends, from Thief River Falls.

Shelly Anderson, Thief River Falls, sister of the bride, served as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Diane Anderson, Thief River Falls, sister of the bride; Deb Rafteseth, Moorhead, cousin of the bride; and Jani Wiebolt, Breezy Point, and Kathi Arbues, Irvine, CA, both sisters of the groom.

They wore pink taffeta gowns with a peplum-style waist forming a tuxedo tail in back. Wire hemmed ruffles trimmed sweetheart neckline and low back, and a basque waist accented the full skirt. Ballroom sleeves were worn on the shoulders. They wore their gifts from the bride, pearl necklaces, and carried bouquets of shaded pink carnations, white starburst mums and babies' breath.

Deneall Vatthauer, cousin of the bride from Rochester, was the flower girl. She wore a long, white gown with full skirt, accented by small pink bows and a pink sash. In her hair she wore a bridal wreath with tiny pink flowers and satin ribbons. She carried a basket of shaded pink carnations and white starburst mums.

Ring bearer was Matthew Nelson, Newfolden, cousin of the groom. He wore white tails matching the attire of the groom, with a boutonniere of a white rose, pink carnation and babies' breath.

The groom wore white tails with matching bow tie and cummerbund, and a boutonniere of a white rose, two pink carnations and babies' breath.

His best man was friend, Marty Johnson, Thief River Falls. Other attendants were Perry Hamre, Moorhead, Jim Vigness, Grand Forks, ND, and Mike Semanko, Thief River Falls, all friends of the groom; and Mike Wiebolt, Breezy Point, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Dwight Tangquist, uncle of the bride; Charles Erickson, cousin of the bride; and Doug Haven and Kyle Anderson, friends of the couple.

Gentlemen of the wedding party wore silver grey tails with matching bow ties and cummerbunds. Their boutonnieres were three miniature pink carnations centered in babies' breath.

The mother of the bride wore a pink chiffon street-length gown accented with sequin waistband and neckline. The groom's mother also wore pink chiffon. They were presented with corsages of white orchids with miniature pink carnations.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tangquist, Thief River Falls, grandparents of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Elseth, Newfolden and Mrs. Katherine Swanson, Thief River Falls, grandparents of the groom.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tangquist, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Semanko, friends of the couple.

The three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake was baked and decorated by Gloria Ness of Viking. Pink rose-trimmed tiers featured bells and doves, and the cake was topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom. Lylian Richards, aunt of the groom, and Rose Sollid, cousin of the bride, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Deloris Rafteseth, Moorhead, and Betty Gustafson, Warren, aunts of the bride.

Punch was served by Renee Mabey and Keith Rud, with Linda Rafteseth in charge of the guest book. All are cousins of the bride. Gift carriers were Matthew Gustafson and Mark Tangquist, cousins of the bride, with Gloria Anderson, friend of the bride, serving as gift attendant.

Candlelighters for the wedding ceremony were Jason and Blake Tangquist, cousins of the bride. Julie Gustafson and Heidi Tangquist, cousins of the bride, were flower hostesses. Waitresses were Julie Gustafson and Heidi Tangquist, cousins of the bride, and Stephanie LeMoine and Teresa Smith, friends of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, the couple is at home in Brainerd, where the groom is employed with Babe Winkelman Productions. The bride is a 1982 graduate of Marshall County Central high school and a 1986 graduate of Moorhead state university with a degree in elementary education. The groom graduated from Lincoln high school in 1981, Northland community college in 1983, and Moorhead state university in 1986, with a degree in mass communication and advertising.

Kelly and Mary Rachel sang "Wedding Song" and "That's What Friends Are For." Recessional selections were "Trumpet Tune" and "Trumpet Voluntary," both by Jeremiah Clark. Dorothy Larson served as organist, trumpeters were Marty Semanko and Andrea Ault, and Faye Erickson was flutist.

As a part of the ceremony, the couple chose to participate in the lighting of the unity candle and presentation of roses to their parents.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white gown of crystal organza trimmed in sequins, pearls and lace, with a full, cathedral-length train. Her bridal bouquet was composed of roses, carnations, pom poms and babies' breath.

The groom was attired in white tails with matching cummerbund and tie, and wore a pink sweetheart rose boutonniere.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Susan Anderson of West St. Paul. Bridesmaids were Cindy Moser of St. Cloud; Jessica Soine, Thief River Falls; Collette Thune and Michelle Grabanski, both of Minneapolis. All wore soft pink gowns and carried bouquets similar to that of the bride.

Kirsten Nelson, Bismarck, ND, was the flower girl.

Dale Nelson, St. Paul, served as best man. Other attendants were John Anderson Jr., White Bear Lake; Donavon Moser, West Fargo; Tom Ose, Thief River Falls; and Steve Olson of St. Paul. Brad Williamson, Mark Harder, Jim Dillon and Rick Langlie ushered the guests.

All gentlemen of the wedding party, along with fathers of the couple, wore charcoal grey tails and pink sweetheart rose boutonnieres. Mothers of the bride and groom wore wrist corsages of roses and carnations.

Honored guests were Ron and Shirley Osborne, godparents of the bride; and Ron and Marilyn Anderson, godparents of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a dinner reception and dance were held at the Thief River Falls country club. Host couples were Rick and Jean Heinrichs and Terry and Rita Soine. Music was by Senator Collin Peterson and his band.

The couple is presently at home in Roseville following a wedding trip to Marco Island, FL.

Daylight Saving Time Officially Ends On Sunday

Daylight saving time officially comes to an end at 2 a.m. Sunday and Times readers will have to set their clocks back one hour Saturday night to be in step with the rest of the world Sunday morning.

Federal law establishes daylight saving time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October. It has been compared by some to lengthening a blanket by cutting a foot off one end and sewing it on the other end. Few are non-committal about DST, some swear by it and some swear at it.

To avoid confusion about what to do with the clock and thereby avoid being two hours late in the spring and two hours early in the fall, remember the simple suggestion to "spring ahead and fall back."

As of November, 1983 there were 19,000-plus credit unions in the United States, a growth of nearly 16,000 since 1935, with a membership of more than 48,000 people.

Penn. County Candidates Seek Voter Approval

county deputy sheriff April 1, 1957 and continued in that position until Jan. 1, 1969, when I was appointed Pennington county register of deeds. I am still serving in that position, except that the name was changed by Minnesota statute to county recorder. I am thankful for the years that I have been able to serve you. I enjoy my work and care about people. I feel that I can in all honesty say that I have performed the duties of my office courteously, promptly and accurately. I have operated the office efficiently, economically and in accordance with Minnesota statutes. I assure you of this continued service.

I am knowledgeable in my line of work. I have been active in several state associations and am a past president of two. I am a "Certified County Recorder" by the Minnesota county recorder's association under their education program. I am one of 21 recorders in Minnesota who now are distinguished with this certification plaque and title.

My wife, Willia, and I reside in Thief River Falls and both are taxpayers of Pennington county. Our children are all grown. My youngest is 19 and started college last fall. Thank you for taking time to read this letter. I urge you to vote November 4th.

Pluth-Olson . . .

for the office of county recorder. I worked seven years in the mortgage and loan department of Norwest Bank when it was first Northwestern; attended two sessions of real estate schooling in Minneapolis and was a licensed real estate salesperson for five years; and, for the past five years have been serving you as the deputy auditor of Pennington county. These years have given me a working knowledge of the recorder's office; so to speak, I have been on the other side of the counter of the recorder's office for 17 years.

For the past 18 years my opponent has been in office after being appointed by the board of commissioners to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation. The voters of Pennington county have not had the opportunity to choose who will serve them as recorder as there has been no opposition for the office. I believe there should always be a choice in an election. Your right to a choice and a desire to serve the citizens of Pennington county are why I filed for office of recorder.

I would appreciate your support and vote in the election on November 4. When elected I will give you the courteous and economical service that I believe is a requirement of any elected office. Thank you.

I have previously served on the United Way board, United Way allocation committee and as secretary and director of the Thief River Falls Jaycees. As your county auditor I am presently serving as the following: delegate to the association of Minnesota counties, delegate to the Minnesota counties computer cooperative (MCCC), Region No. 1 representative to the MCCC tax advisory board, member of the Minnesota county auditor association legislative committee and the county auditor's game and fish committee.

I feel that all county officials should be accessible and responsive to the needs of their constituents. My office is always open and I will try to be available to listen to your wishes. I would encourage everyone to vote on the November 4th general election. You support for me will be greatly appreciated.

We are members of Zion Lutheran church and I am also a member of the Golden K Kiwanis, curling club, golf club, Elks and Eagles clubs.

I have worked as an area extension agent in farm management from Ada to Baudette for many years. My employer is the University of Minnesota where I hold the rank of associate professor. I graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1951 with a bachelor of science degree in the college of agriculture. I am used to working with the problems of citizens interested in good government and welcome your help. You can visit me at 215 Kendall Ave. So. or contact me by phone at 681-3180. Refugee Program Office Receives Federal Grant

A grant to help Minnesota's non-profit refugee organizations become self-sufficient and effective vehicles for helping Southeast Asians in Minnesota was awarded to the refugee program office of the Minnesota department of human services by the U.S. office of refugee resettlement.

"Minnesota, particularly Ramsey and Hennepin counties, have a large population of Southeast Asian refugees. Over 30 refugee organizations will benefit from the training this money provides," said Gus Avenido, refugee program specialist.

Executives from Laotian, Cambodian, Hmong and Vietnamese self-help groups will be trained in fund-raising and volunteer recruitment. Successful executives from mainstream agencies will work one-on-one to share their expertise.

The grant will provide marketing training to increase public awareness about refugees and will also serve to market the services non-profit groups offer Southeast Asians.

Approximately 30,000 refugees live in Minnesota, with most concentrated in the Twin City metro area and Rochester. Southeast Asians, including Hmong, Vietnamese, Cambodians and Laotians, account for 96 per cent of Minnesota's refugee population, which ranks eighth in the nation."

Stein Completes Traffic Course

Pvt. Scott A. Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stein of rural route 2, Gatzke, has completed the traffic management coordinator course at the U.S. army transportation school, Fort Eustis, VA.

The course was designed to prepare enlisted personnel to supervise, coordinate and control movement of personnel and cargo by air, rail, highway and water.

Senate Approves New Legislation For Clean Water

"Minnesota communities can continue to count on the federal government as a partner in financing wastewater treatment programs," U.S. Senator Dave Durenburger said Thursday.

Durenberger's comments came as the Senate voted to approve an eight-year extension of the clean water act which commits $18 billion to building municipal sewage treatment systems. The legislation includes about $44 million per year in sewage treatment grants for cities in Minnesota.

In addition to the wastewater treatment program, the revised clean water bill includes new provisions to control non-point source pollution resulting from agricultural runoff and storm sewers.

"As a nation, we have made great progress in reducing the pollution of our surface waters," Durenberger said. "Much of this progress has been due to controls on direct and identifiable dumping of pollutants into lakes and streams. The next challenge involves sources of pollution which aren't so easily identified or controlled — the so-called non-point sources."

Non-point sources of water pollution include runoff of chemicals from farmland and from lawns and streets in built-up areas. The specific source of the pollution may not be known and the pollution doesn't enter the water at a specific "point," like a sewer pipe or other discharge site.

According to Durenberger, the non-point source program contained in the Clean Water bill gives states great flexibility in identifying priorities and in disigning ways of curbing pollution from agricultural runoff and storm sewers. It anticipates close cooperation with the U.S. soil and water conservation service programs, for example, to better focus existing programs on improving water quality.

"It's not generally known," Durenberger said, "that about 26 million Americans receive their drinking water from the Great Lakes. All of the demands placed on the Great Lakes — for transportation, recreation, power generation and other uses — have taken their toll. Water quality of lakes has declined sharply."

The legislation appropriates $11 million per year for a series of programs to monitor water quality, reduce or remove toxic pollutants, and do research on both causes and remedies for Great Lakes water pollution. The bill envisions close cooperation between Canada and the states bordering the Great Lakes.

Durenberger noted that much of the earlier controversy over reauthorizing the clean water bill centered on the allocation formula for water treatment grants. He said he had criticized the senate's version of the bill because it shifted funds from Great Lakes and northeast states to the south and west.

"I'm pleased to report that the Senate got beat in conference by the House," Durenberger said Thursday. "And, that means virtually no cut in funding for Minnesota cities which are struggling to keep their wastewater treatment programs intact."

Durenberger cautioned that the wastewater grant program in the clean water bill is scheduled to be converted into a revolving loan program in the later years of the bill's extension.

"We have time to plan for that conversion," Durenberger said, "and state and local officials in Minnesota and elsewhere need to be looking ahead."

Flu Vaccinations Recommended For High Risk Group

Flu season is about to get into high gear, and the American Lung association of Minnesota is warning Minnesotans that this could be a bad year for flu.

"People in a high risk category should get a flu vaccination," stated R. Drew Miller, M.D. of the Mayo clinic, first vice president and chairman of the adult lung disease committee for the American Lung association of Minnesota. Conditions that make a person at high risk include 65 or older, chronic lung disease, heart disease, diabetes, anemia or any disease which affects immunity. In addition, those who come into contact with lots of people may wish to get vaccinated.

Most people think of flu as a routine disease — just an inconvenience for a couple of days — but it can be serious if complications occur.

"Modern technology has improved flu vaccine," Dr. Miller explains. "It is now very effective and reactions are infrequent."

A new strain of Asian flu called "Taiwan Flu" has been identified and may hit this winter. "People in a high risk category who are under 35 years of age should check with their physician about getting a specific Taiwan flu vaccination, in addition to the general vaccination," Dr. Miller said. It is best to get vaccinated early, by mid-November if possible.

An informational brochure on flu is available free from the American Lung Association of Minnesota, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul 55102.

SUPER FIRE STARTER is this combination of a helicopter and drip torch used during the past several days for controlled burning of approximately 15,000 acres of wildlife lands in northwestern Minnesota. The unit shown in the photo at right consists of a 55-gallon drum of gelled gasoline, a pump system and propane torch which can be fired remotely by the helicopter pilot, allowing him to dispense the burning gel at flight speed along pre-determined fire lines or wherever additional fire is needed. A torch unit has been purchased by the Minnesota department of natural resources and the helicopter is leased from Brainerd Helicopter service. Using the unit above, pilot Lee Andrews could lay a line of fire across a section of land in about a minute.

Helicopter Aids In Torching Areas In Planned Burn

treme caution for outdoor burning because it is easy to have fires very quickly get out of control. Forester said that action by the department was needed a couple of times during the weekend to extinguish fires which had been started by others and burned into wildlife land where they could have been a threat to buildings or other property.

The helicopter used in the burning operation was leased from Brainerd Helicopter service and operated by Lee Andrews. Ground crew assistance included DNR personnel mixing gelled gasoline, changing tanks on the fire-starting unit and working with firebreaks and perimeter control of fire around the designated burn areas.

Ground crews prepared the fire starting material by mixing four pounds of a gel powder with 55 gallons of gasoline. In about 20 minutes the mixture developed a thickened gel state which stabilized volatility of the gasoline. Peter Tentinger of the DNR forestry division at Bemidji served as the helotech foreman. Also assisting were Rick Olson, district forester at Wannaska, and Kip Nelson, forester at Grygla, along with other forestry and wildlife personnel. Tentinger said the gel material costs about $4 per pound and that the DNR had purchased a torch unit for an amount between $3,000 and $3,500.

Wildlife officials considered the use of helicopter and torch to be quite cost effective as well as allowing a better job to be done in a shorter time while burning conditions permitted. Depending on the size of the burn area, manpower required for fire security and type of material to be burned, costs were estimated to vary from about 50 cents to $2 per acre.

Of the total burning conducted during the past several days, some 8,000 to 10,000 acres are expected to improve sharptail habitat and were burned with that purpose in mind. Some of the funding received under the RIM program was specifically designated for sharptail assistance. Maertens said he hoped the funding would be the first of many appropriations made for such wildlife projects and he complimented sportsmen and others who supported legislation which resulted in the RIM bill being passed at the last legislative session.

Pennington Co. Considers Support Of Tax Sharing

"Minnesota needs a stable resource for highway construction funds," Johnson said, "and the intent of the law change in 1981 was to provide that resource." The delay in the distribution of the funds has created the havoc that the law was originally intended to alleviate.

Prior to 1981, vehicle excise taxes went directly to the general revenue fund. The legislature felt at that time that taxes derived from the sale of motor vehicles was no different than revenue derived from the sale of gasoline products and that the dollars should be earmarked to preserve and update our state's road system.

"Because of fluctuating resources of petroleum products in the early 1980s and the instability of gasoline taxes at that time, the legislature felt that a more stable revenue base should be found," Staebler said. "It was for that reason that the law was originally changed and excise taxes on motor vehicles were placed into the highway fund.

"We realize that Minnesota has been under some extreme financial pressures in recent years," Staebler said, "and that the money which was originally intended for highway programs was left in the general fund to pay for other things. We realize that hard decisions had to be made and road projects had to take a back seat to other programs in state governments."

"But," Johnson added, "we also think that enough time has passed and other remedies must be found to the problems of state government financing and that a good and viable road construction program is extremely important to future generations of Minnesotans."

Johnson said the group has begun an extensive education campaign before this year's elections take place so that all candidates will understand the complexities of the situation before the legislative session begins in January of 1987.

The largest group health cooperative in the United States, Group Health of Puget Sound, Seattle, Washington, has more than 280,000 members. Group Health, Inc. of St. Paul, Minnesota has more than 215,000 members.

House-Raising For Killians To Begin This Week

River Falls, comprised almost entirely of retired persons, has several of its members working as volunteers with Amy's therapy program. The group also conducted a collection of funds from among its members and today presented Diane Killian with a check for $1,489 to apply toward the housing project. Making the presentation were club president Harold Horn and project chairman Kenneth Halldin.

A radiothon was conducted by local volunteers on KTRF radio last week and raised more than $400 with additional contributions expected to result from the event. Persons interested in contributing may contact Halldin or send them directly to the Amy Killian Fund, in care of Larry Killian, Rural Route, Plummer, MN 56748.

Materials for the house construction will be arriving this week, much of it coming from the Twin Cities area. Rafters are being pre-assembled and donated by Littsin, Inc., of Winstead, a picture window donated by Peterson Lumber company and other windows provided by Marvin Windows of Warroad. Exterior wall studdings and nails are being donated by Oklee Lumber company, felt paper by GAF, Inc., and shingles by Jemstar, Inc. Chimney material came from Northwest Concrete of Thief River Falls and concrete blocks from Mahnomen Concrete.

One day a motor home drove into the Killian yard and the driver informed Diane Killian that he was Wolfgang Hoberg of Plywood Industries, Inc., of Minneapolis and that his firm would be installing all of the countertops in the new house. Dr. Ralph Helm of Thief River Falls has offered to provide assistance in cupboard finishing and St. Hilaire Supply company has assisted with plumbing supplies and materials.

The individuals and firms named comprise only a partial list of those who have offered or are providing assistance. An effort will be made to prepare a complete list as the project is completed.

TRF Ranked 18th In Retail Sales For 1985 Year

State auditor Arne Carlson has announced that Thief River Falls (population 8,152) had retail sales of $13,088 per capita for 1985, resulting in a ranking of 18th out of 176 largest Minnesota cities. "Retail sales are a barometer of local economic activity," Carlson said.

Using data collected by the department of revenue, Carlson released his analysis of 1985 per capita retail sales for cities with populations of 2,500 or more (based on 1980 census data) and more than four businesses.

In 1985, the top five cities in retail sales per capita were Wayzata (No. 1 at $53,645), Osseo (No. 2 at $25,381), Excelsior (No. 3 at $22,574), Grand Rapids (No. 4 at $19,780), and Mora (No. 5 at $18,321). "It should be noted," said Carlson, "that not all communities compete for retail sales. However, it is a good index for those who do.

"When looking at the per capita rankings," Carlson said, "it is interesting to see that the cities that people typically think would be the leaders fall further down the list." Examples are: Minneapolis (No. 17 at $13,225), Rochester (No. 30 at $11,011), Bloomington (No. 47 at $9,423), Duluth (No. 62 at $8,289), and St. Paul (No. 63 at $8,274).

"The positive effect of tourism really shows up when looking at per capita retail sales," Carlson said, citing Park Rapids (No. 6), Brainerd (No. 7), Alexandria (No. 9), Detroit Lakes (No. 10) and Bemidji (No. 13) as examples. Crookston ranked 41 and East Grand Forks 99.

"Another picture emerges when we look at total volume of retail sales," Carlson said. "Here, as expected, the leaders are the largest cities in the state — Minneapolis, St. Paul, Bloomington, Duluth and Rochester.

"We know that many cities in Minnesota have done a superb job of restoring and promoting their shopping areas," Carlson noted. "Although tourism is important, year round basic employment also helps keep retail trade strong."

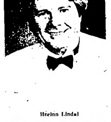
Hreinn Lindal In Concert Monday At LHS Auditorium



Hreinn Lindal

Thief River Falls concert association members will hear Hreinn Lindal, a favorite operatic tenor on the stages of Europe, perform one of his first concerts in the United States on Monday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Lindal's career began 30 years ago at the age of 17 when Maria Markan, one of Iceland's best-known singers and a soprano with the Metropolitan opera in New York, heard him sing with a choir in Reykjavik, Iceland. He began singing publicly in 1957, studied with Markan until 1960 and received his diploma in singing from the Conservatorio of St. Cecilia, Rome, Italy, in 1965.

Lindal sang in many of Italy's opera houses, including such roles as Alfredo in "La Traviata" and Rodolfo in "La Boheme." He gave concerts, had a part in an Italian movie, and frequently sang solo parts with church choirs at the Vatican.

After spending 11 years in Italy, Lindal traveled throughout Europe for several years performing in concert and on radio in Denmark and his native Iceland. He sang operatic roles in Germany, Switzerland and Austria where he spent three years with the Austria opera in Vienna. In addition, Lindal has performed on Italian and American television.

Lindal's repertoire includes over 30 roles and he sings in English, German, Italian, French, Spanish and Scandinavian. He has performed with many operatic artists including Anna Moffo, Rita Talarico, James Loois and Angelo Mori.

St. Paul is now his home, and he performed in February of 1985 to a sold-out house at the new Ordway Music theatre there. His versatility and clear, rich voice make him a favorite with a wide range of audiences.

Concert association members only will be admitted. For season ticket information contact Diane Freeman at 681-7129.

BSU Professor Conducting Study On Deer Ticks

It's small, it's common, and it may be moving north.

Dr. Harold Borchers, Bemidji state university biology professor, is convinced it is moving and has begun a search for the deer tick (Ixodes dammini) in the Bemidji area.

The deer tick has increased its distribution westward from the east coast into most of Wisconsin and parts of east central Minnesota. It is slightly smaller than the tick most area natives consider a by-product of trips into the woods.

Most commonly seen in the adult stage on deer but also found on bear and occasionally on dogs, this tick will feed on humans.

When it attaches itself to people, however, it may become more than a nuisance. The deer tick is the principal carrier of Lyme disease which has become a problem in some areas where the tick occurs.

Lyme disease is a bacterial disorder which causes serious health problems, such as arthritis and heart dysfunction in humans. A number of cases are reported in Minnesota each year. Dogs may also exhibit arthritic problems as a result of the infection.

To determine if the tick has extended its influence into northwest Minnesota, Borchers is asking residents to submit any tick they find on themselves or any animal. He especially encourages hunters who are successful in bagging deer or bear during the season to save any ticks from their game.

Borchers, whose interests in invertebrate biology, entomology and parasitology led to a study of the deer tick last summer at Ohio state university, expects that the search will provide positive results in the near future.

"So far, no deer ticks have been identified in this area, but I feel it is just a matter of time," he commented. "Our habitat is similar to that in Wisconsin where the deer tick is commonly found. If it is discovered, people need to be aware of the possible health impact. For now, there is no reason for anyone to become overly cautious or concerned."

With the onset of the big game season, Borchers is confident he'll receive sufficient ticks to survey.

Most ticks are found on the head and neck area of animals, but they may attach anywhere on the game. Ticks may be easily removed by pulling firmly with a pair of tweezers. Anyone participating in the survey is encouraged to wash their hands thoroughly after handling all ticks.

The ticks should be placed in a small jar containing 70 per cent rubbing alcohol or ethyl alcohol along with information on the species of game, date of collection, location where the animal was hunted as well as hunter's name, address and phone number.

A "tick kit" consisting of a vial containing the proper liquids and information pertaining to collection are being made available through the science program at Bemidji state university.

Borchers is requesting that any ticks found on humans or dogs in the fall and winter be sent in for study. Borchers will sort through the submitted ticks to determine if any fit the general characteristics of the deer tick.

Anyone interested in obtaining a tick collection kit can contact the Division of Science and Mathematics, Sattgast Hall, Bemidji University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699, phone (218-755-2920).

BIRD'S EYE VIEW of the backfire started for the controlled burn of 1,280 acres of wildlife land in sections 21 and 29 of Big Grass township in Beltrami county is afforded by the helicopter leased by the Minnesota department of natural resources. The helicopter used a torch dripping ignited gelled gasoline to start the fires, working back against the wind for greater control and avoidance of smoke. A fire break is visible across the upper portion of this Times photo. The entire burn was accomplished in several hours Tuesday afternoon, part of an extensive controlled burning operation in northwestern Minnesota over the past several days.

Task Force Deals With Drug Abuse Problem

by Sharon LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

A March, 1985 survey of ninth graders at Lincoln high school revealed the use of the following chemicals at least once by students: 90 per cent had used alcohol; 79 per cent, cigarettes; 37.5 per cent, marijuana; 14.6 per cent, amphetamines; 6.5 per cent barbiturates; 5.5 per cent, cocaine; and 1.8 per cent, LSD. Of those same ninth graders, 16.5 per cent had used alcohol or marijuana during school hours.

Do we really have a chemical use or abuse problem in Thief River Falls?

Last winter, acting upon comments and advice from school officials, students and parents, a Community Chemical Awareness task force was set up in the school district, with Bill Stock as coordinator. The task force is composed of volunteers representing a cross section of the community: school personnel, parents and other interested citizens. Purpose of the task force is to bring school system, students, parents and community together in a new, positive program of combatting and preventing chemical dependency in the community as well as the school system.

And what's so different about this program? Most of all, it is the new, positive approach to student drug prevention, as opposed to negative, scare tactics. Positive programs are aimed at elementary school students, with chemical awareness sessions taught in middle school and high school. Driver's education students are learning an anti-driving and drinking program from their high school peers, and classmates are also utilized in the Captain's club, which encourages varsity athletic team captains to be aware of their leadership roles in school activities and help them to promote positive attitudes among team members and schoolmates.

Project Charlie has been utilized in the school district elementary schools for over two years. Students in grades one to five participate in the program, the goal of which is to build self-confidence and promote respect, acceptance and concern for others, in an attempt to prevent chemical abuse in later years.

Activities in Project Charlie can be divided into three basic units: self-awareness, which teaches each child to respect his or her own individuality; relationships, focusing on the importance of family relationships and friendships outside of the family; and decision-making, teaching what a decision is and how to carry through with it. Fifth graders are also taught a fourth unit which discusses chemical use in our society. In addition, there is a smoking prevention program presented to pupils in kindergarten through grade five by "Arnie the Aardvark."

The positive, preventative approach is being used in educational activities throughout the community. Workshops and speakers are taking on an upbeat outlook instead of the "I-was-addicted-and-see-what-happened-to-me" type.

This fall, guest speaker at Chemical Awareness Night was Keith Nord, former defensive back of the Minnesota Vikings, who spoke about goal setting and self-confidence. Every Lincoln student involved in a high school activity is expected to attend Chemical Awareness Night, along with his or her parents. Nord did not speak on drug abuse, nor has he ever taken drugs. Instead, he told the audience how to believe in themselves, urging them to press beyond self-imposed limits to achieve their goals.

Future speakers will also have the positive approach. This spring the committee plans to sponsor Dick Schaefer from Fargo, ND, with a "Touch Love" series. It is hoped that he will be able to speak to civic and community groups during a three-day, two evening engagement, as well as to students, teachers and parents. His program is based on good parenting techniques and parent-child relationships, utilizing a program that originated in alcoholic treatment centers.

A family-parent support group was started in September. Members of the group are available every Monday evening at 8 p.m. in rooms B, 1 and 2 of Northwest Medical center. The group was formed in response to a need for a support group for families in the area, whether the family is going through a crisis, such as divorce or death, or a single member of a family is experiencing a problem that affects the whole family unit.

Anyone is welcome to stop in to meet a member of the group Monday evenings, whether they have a large problem or just need to talk to someone about a small problem. As of yet, the support group has had little response, so, in order to keep the group going, the public is urged to stop by and just tell them they are needed.

Bill Stock, as chemical awareness coordinator, is available to discuss chemical use or abuse with anyone desiring to learn more. He works with various community agencies, treatment centers and support groups to determine a plan of action for each individual with a problem. All student tobacco, alcohol and drug violations are referred to him. He can be reached by calling the school district at 681-2700.

The task force is in need of members: "The kind of people who want to do some work and are interested in families," Stock said. How many clubs and activities in which you are involved are family-oriented? The logo of the Community Chemical Awareness task force says, "Families Helping Families." The task force usually meets at 7 a.m. at the school district service center. Interested parents or other community members may feel free to call Bill Stock at the school district number to learn more about the group.

During this week — America's Safe School Week, October 19 through 25 — consideration should be given to the ways our school system creates a safe, caring, productive environment for our children. Parents and schools must work together to continue these efforts in our community. Consider becoming a member of the Chemical Awareness task force — it can be a positive step in the right direction for your family.

MDA Researchers Discover Gene Causing Dystrophy

A Muscular Dystrophy association (MDA)-supported research team has discovered the hereditary unit, or gene, which, when defective, causes Duchenne muscular dystrophy — the most severe form of the disease.

MDA national chairman Jerry Lewis hailed the discovery as "a landmark event that opens a new era in our effort to find a cure for this vicious killer." The discovery of the gene was made by an MDA-supported investigative team at Children's hospital in Boston and is reported in the prestigiuous international scientific journal "Nature".

Louis M. Kunkel, Ph.D., who headed the successful research team, emphasized that discovering the gene for Duchenne muscular dystrophy is not the same as finding a cure for the disease. "Much work remains to be done," he said. "With the discovery of the Duchenne gene, we move on to the next step — to determine how the defective gene brings about the devastation of apparently healthy muscle." MDA-supported researchers have already uncovered important clues to understanding this destructive process.

The Duchenne muscular dystrophy gene, like all genes, contains trhe instructions for making a protein. All celles, including muscle cells, need many different proteins to survive and function. Faulty instructions resulting from a gene defect could cause a nonfunctioning or even harmful protein to be made. Or the instructions could be scrambled enough that no protein is produced.

"The discovery of the Duchenne gene," explained MDA President S. Mouchly Small, M.D., "brings us to the brink of identifying the affected protein and understanding in detail how an abnormality in the protein causes the diease."

Duchenne muscular dystrophy is the most common form of the disease, as well as the most common disease caused by a gene on the X chromosome, one of the two chromosomes that determine sex. The disorder, which strikes boys almost exclusively, is marked by a relentless progressive destruction of the muscles. Most patients are confined to wheelchairs by age 12, and few survive beyond their early twenties. While measures have been developed to improve the quality of life and prolong the survival of people with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, as yet there is no specific treatment for the disease.

MDA is a national voluntary health agency dedicated to seeking treatments and cures for 40 neuromuscular diseases, including Duchenne and other types of muscular dystrophy, myasthenia gravs and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. The association currently supports some 500 individual projects worldwide, as well as a network of 240 hospital-affiliated clinics where people with disorders covered by MDA's program receive medical care, orthopedic aids, and counseling.

Northland, UMC Have Playoff Berth At Stake Thursday

A natural Northland Community College and University of Minnesota-Crookston rivalry, which has heated up over the years, will be fueled by an added post-season playoff berth incentive Thursday when the Pioneers and Trojans clash in what promises to be a spirited Northwest Division football game in Thief River Falls.

Kickoff time at Prowler Field will be 7:30 p.m.

The winner will be in position to collect a Minnesota Community College Conference playoff spot the following week when regular season-ending match-ups will have Northland hosting Brainerd and UMC entertaining Fergus Falls.

Regular season Northwest and Northeast Division winners will meet in an MCCC state playoff semifinal game Nov. 8. The Southern and Central Division winners will be paired off in the other semifinal encounter. State title game is planned Nov. 16.

Northland and UMC put themselves into playoff contention Saturday when the Pioneers surprised Northwest Division-leading Fergus Falls 26-14 on the road and the Trojans knocked off Brainerd 22-12 at home. The results left Fergus Falls 3-3 in Northwest Division-counting MCCC play, while Northland, UMC and Brainerd are all 2-3. Two season-ending wins by the Pioneers or Trojans will give them the playoff berth vs. the Northeast Division winner — Vermilion.

UMC and Northlasnd are both 3-3 overall. The Trojans collected a season-opening forfeit win over the Mayville State junior varsity when the Comets backed out of a scheduled meeting, lost to Northeast Division teams Itasca 38-20, Vermilion 50-24 and Hibbing 22-21, but rebounded to beat Mesabi 33-7 and Brainerd. The Pioneers opened with a 14-13 non-conference win over the Moorhead State University junior varsity and shut out Mesabi 20-0 before losing to Itasca 16-13, Vermilion 40-20 and Hibbing 29-6.

Northland coach Rick Nelson said the win over Fergus Falls might have been the Pioneers' best performance in his three years at the school. The loss at Hibbing the week before was one of the worst.

"I think the kids showed a lot of character by beating Fergus Falls," said Nelson, who admitted the poor performance against Hibbing had put serious doubts into the minds of the players and coaches about their ability to come back and finish off what had started out to be a promising 1986 season. Just to stay close to Fergus Falls, confessed Nelson, was a Northland objective last week.

Now the Pioneers are suddenly in the thick of a pennant race. "We control our own destiny," noted Nelson. "This is the first time we've played them (UMC) in 11 meetings where the game has meant something for both teams. It should make the game interesting."

That's not to say those last 10 meetings were played without something at stake — pride. The rivalry is real, and even though UMC has won eight of the 10 previous meetings, the series has always been intense. The Pioneers have played with emotion, even in losing like they did last year, 50-0.

Controlling those emotions will be a big concern for Nelson and his coaching staff, he said. "We have to play under control," he pointed out. "We have to make our emotions work for us and not against us."

On the field, the Pioneers will be concerned about Crookston's option offense, led by Crookston graduate Jeff Bigger, probably the premiere option quarterback in northern Minnesota. Another effective UMC offensive weapon is short Bigger passes over the middle to tight end Dan Upham, a sophomore from Thief River Falls who earned post-season honors last fall when he led the Trojans with 19 catches for 315 yards. He also set team records for extra point kicks and field goals.

"We have to stop their quarterback," explained Nelson. "We have to stop the option. That's the key for us. If we can control the option and stop the dump pass, we'll be in good shape defensively."

Northland's defense stopped Fergus Falls' ground game in its tracks last week, despite the use of a make-shift line-up because of missing personnel. Linebackers Curt Chaffee (Fargo) and Henry Collier (Orlando, FL), plus cornerback Bill Neuschwander (Grygla) are expected to be back this week after missing the Fergus Falls game due to injuries.

Tim Wayne (Goodridge) and Mark Bieganek (Kelliher) were named Northland defensive Player of the Game award winners. Mike Zelinski (Fargo North) earned similar honors for his play on the specialty teams.

Offensively, the Pioneers hope their ground game works as well as it did against Fergus Falls when they rushed for 246 yards. Northland has quality back in Steve Ristau (East Grand Forks), Deon Schmidt (Fargo North) and Darrin Johnson (Kennedy), and last week they received an outstanding performance from the offensive line. That unit was collectively cited as winner of the Pioneers' weekly Player of the Game award.

"We have to establish the running game," confirmed Nelson. "In the three games we've won, we've been effective running Ristau to the outside and sending Schmidt and Johnson up the middle."

Nelson will be looking for another strong performance from the blockers — tackles Regie Berger (Dilworth) and Eric Hegna (Detroit Lakes), guards Greg Bieganek (Kelliher) and Tom McGlynn (Mentor) and center David Koehmstedt (Middle River). The group also includes people like Steve Porter (Lancaster), Mike Bush (Erskine), Rodney Gill (Inkster, MI) and Chad Swendseid (Grand Forks Central) who spell the starters.

With the rivalry, the playoff berth at stake and a nice night weather-wise, Nelson is hoping the contest draws a good-size crowd. "It should be a heck of a game," he promises.

Fergus Falls will be at Brainerd in a 1:30 p.m. Saturday Northwest Division match-up. The Spartans are 3-5 overall and the Red Raiders are 2-4.

Thursday night Northeast Division games will find Itasca at Hibbing and Mesabi at Vermilion. Last Week, Vermilion beat Hibbing 34-19 and Mesabi stopped Itasca 30-20. Vermilion, at 5-0, has a lock on the Northeast Division title. The others are all 2-3 in the MCCC. Overall, Vermilion is 6-0, Itasca and Hibbing 3-3 and Mesabi 2-4.

Staples Beats TRF 24-9

Staples struck early, including a 51-yard touchdown run by quarterback Chad Walthall on the game's second play, en route to a 24-9 Section 8A high school football playoff win over visiting Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Moments later fullback Shawn Ward broke off a 62-yard touchdown run for a quick 14-0 Staples lead that was never threatened.

The loss ended the 1986 Thief River Falls football season at 2-7. Staples moves into the Section 8A semifinals with a 8-1 record, including an eight-game winning streak.

Elsewhere in Tuesday's opening round Section 8A quarterfinals, East Grand Forks shaded Park Rapids 21-14 in overtime, Crookston defeated Detroit Lakes 29-8 and Fergus Falls shut out Wadena 42-0.

Saturday semifinals will have Crookston (6-2) at Staples (8-1) and East Grand Forks (7-2) at Fergus Falls (6-3).

Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm, despite the differences in the team's records, felt the Prowlers had a legitimate shot at knocking off the favored Cardinals. But the results left little doubt who had the better team, he admitted.

"They're better," confirmed Mumm. "They're the quickest ball club we've seen all year. All 11 spots were quick kids. Their runningbacks were outstanding. They'd get through the line and cut back. They're fun to watch."

Thief River Falls tried to recover from the early deficit, picking up three points on a 25-yard Chris Nelson field goal in the second quarter, but the comeback was short-lived when Staples' Ron Opheim scored on a 21-yard run, making it 21-3 at halftime.

Only scoring in the second half came on a 25-yard field goal by Walthall, who also converted all three extra point kicks, and a 1-yard run by the visitor's Paul Brandt.

"We didn't seem very intense at the beginning of the game," acknowledged Mumm, "but I thought we played a good second half. Our kids played hard. I couldn't ask for anything more."

Prowlers Have Tennis Banquet

Eleven athletic letters were awarded Monday at the annual Thief River Falls girls tennis banquet.

Head coach Whitey Olson of the Prowlers presented letters to seniors Kristy Maidment, Cari Offerdahl and Karen Schmitz; juniors Kelly Cornell, Sharon Dosser and Vicki Grovum; sophomore Amy Isaacson; and freshmen Stacy Breuer, Kaye Dondelinger, Monica Haapoja and Rachael Hanson.

Olson and work-study assistant Connie Grovum, a senior on last year's team, worked with 17 girls in grades 9-12 this fall. Jeanne Olson served as coach of the 10 girls in grades 6-8.

Participation certificates were presented to juniors Ann Gobell and Dawn Numedahl; sophomores Brenda Konickson and Jodi Finke; freshman Missy Gould and Shelly Vedbraaten; eighth graders Kim Maidment and Jodi Harder; seventh graders Kari DeLap, Amy Haugen, Tarik Kovisto, Kim Peters, Melanie Stewart, Tasha Swanson and Sara Tweet; and sixth grader Andrea Campbell.

DRIVING THROUGH the water, Thief River Falls' Christy Puetz swam the butterfly leg of the 200-yard medley relay Tuesday during the Prowlers' dual swimming meet against Fergus Falls in the Franklin Middle School pool. The Otters snapped the Prowlers' unbeaten dual meet status with a 95-77 victory.

TRF Unbeaten Swim Mark Ends . . .

Prowlers Fall To Otters 95-77

Unbeaten status of the Thief River Falls swim team ended Tuesday in a 95-77 dual meet loss to Fergus Falls, but Prowlers coach Jay Forney wasn't disappointed with the outcome. Instead, he was happy just to have the opportunity to face the quality of competition the Otters have to offer.

It was billed as a match-up of teams expected to compete for second place behind heavily favored Alexandria in the post-season Section 8 meet next month. Forney conceded Fergus Falls a win in matching pre-meet performances, figuring the Prowlers would do well to stay within eight points of the Otters. They fell short of that goal, but Forney was still satisfied.

"The meet was everything we thought it would be," said Forney. "Many excellent performances were turned in. The overall quality of the meet was outstanding. It gives us a taste of the level of competition we will face at the section meet."

Fergus Falls' depth proved to be the difference in the meet, said Forney.

Thief River Falls won four races. Brenda Russell took the 200-yard freestyle in 2:12.37; Marci Turenne claimed the 100-yard butterfly in 1:10.67; Marci Turenne, Jenny Ness, Christy Puetz and Heidi Tofte won the meet-opening 200-yard medley relay in 2:04.65; while Laura Beito, Russell, Michelle Turenne and Pete Kuyath captured the meet-ending 400-yard freestyle relay in 4:12.23.

Forney said Russell (200 freestyle), Marci Turenne (butterfly) and Jenny Nelson (diving) all turned in good efforts, along with eighth grader Jenny Ness, who checked a team-record 1:14.97 in a second place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke. She broke a one-year-old record held by graduated Michelle Puetz.

Thief River Falls will see Fergus Falls again Saturday at the Fargo South Invitational, a meet that has a 12-noon starting time.

Tuesday's meet, which dropped the Prowlers to 7-1 for the year, was the final home appearance of the 1986 season for Thief River Falls. The Prowlers, after appearing at the Fargo South Invitational, will close out the regular season schedule with an Oct. 31 dual at Detroit Lakes.

1986 State Tennis Tournament . . .

Cornell Enters State Meet

Thief River Falls junior Kelly Cornell will be competing in the Class AA singles competition this week at the 1986 Minnesota state high school girls state tennis tournament in the Twin Cities.

Cornell will be making her second state meet appearance. She's making the trip this year as the Region 8AA runner-up after advancing as the Region 8AA champion as a sophomore in 1985.

Name of Cornell's first round opponent hasn't been announced, said Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson, but she will be playing the Region 3AA winner in her first state meet match. Only "ranked" player in Cornell's quarterfinal bracket is No. 11-ranked Laura Molhen of Burnsville, a potential second round foe.

Olson figures Cornell will be competitive with the rest of the state tournament field. "We look for her to go down there and play hard," he said. "Of course, Kelly always plays hard."

Class AA tournament matches in both individual and team competition will take place at the new Highway 100 North France Racquet Club in Brooklyn Center. The Class A event returns to the Nicollet Indoor Tennis Club in Minneapolis. Team play is scheduled for today (Wednesday) and Thursday, while singles and doubles matches will follow on Friday and Saturday.

Defending state champions Edina (AA) and Blue Earth (A) and seven other schools which comprised last year's field of 16 teams are among the returnees to the 13th annual tournament which begins a four-day run at sites in Brooklyn Center and Minneapolis today, points out Larry Larson of the Minnesota State High School League.

Edina is joined in the Class AA field by returnees Blake, Willmar and Duluth East. Newcomers include St. Cloud Apollo, Burnsville, Coon Rapids and Henry Sibley of Mendota Heights.

Class A field returns Madison, Long Prairie, St. Paul Academy and last year's runner-up, Rochester Lourdes, in addition to 1985 titlist Blue Earth. New entrants are Breck, Crookston and Eveleth-Gilbert.

Edina, winner of the past eight state titles, is a heavy favorite to win for the ninth straight year in Class AA, while the Class A title appears up for grabs, according to Larson.

Opening round quarterfinal match-ups in Class AA today featured Region 6AA Edina vs. Region 7AA Duluth East, Region 5AA vs. Blake vs. Region 8AA St. Cloud Apollo, Region 1AA Burnsville vs. Region 4AA Coon Rapids and Region 2AA Willmar vs. Region 3AA Henry Sibley. Semifinals will be played Thursday morning, with the title match planned Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

Class A quarterfinals today had Region 2A Blue Earth vs. Region 5A, Region 3A Madison vs. Region 4A St. Paul Academy, Region 7A Eveleth-Gilbert vs. Region 8A Crookston and Region 1A Rochester Lourdes vs. Region 6A Long Prairie. Semifinals will be played Thursday morning, and the championship match will be played Thursday at 1 p.m.

When singles and doubles play begins Friday at the two indoor facilities, one defending state champion will be on hand, pointed out Larson — 1985 Class A titlist Kira Gregerson, a sophomore from St. Paul Academy, who hopes to become the first girl to win four state titles should she continue her success story during her career.

A new singles champion will be named in Class AA as three-time winner Ginger Helgeson of Edina, who is playing collegiately this year at Pepperdine in California, concluded her prep career last spring, reported Larson. This year's favorite is No. 1-rated Jenny Moe, a junior from Edina, who was runner-up to Helgeson last year.

New champions are certain in doubles since last year's winners had at least one player graduate from the two duos.

Singles play in both classes begins Friday at 8:30 a.m. and runs through 5 p.m. Saturday's semifinal matches in both classes are set for 9 a.m., with championship matches set to start at 1 p.m.

Doubles competition in both classes begins at 10:30 a.m. Friday and runs until 5 p.m. Saturday's semifinal matches in both classes are set for 9 a.m., with the title matches slated for 1 p.m.

More than 3,000 girls participated in the sport this fall, mentioned Larson, who said there were 171 schools registered with the MSHSL.

Prowlers Add Runner

Shortage of numbers has plagued the Thief River Falls cross country program this fall, but the Prowlers will be fielding complete teams in both the boys and girls portions of the Region 8AA meet Thursday at Detroit Lakes — thanks to the Thief River Falls swimming team.

Cross country coach Lynn Dyer has kept a number of promising younger runners at the junior varsity level during the regular season, but he'll have people like freshmen Lucas Soine and Mike Howe, plus eighth grader Bryan Cloutier, joining varsity regulars Shayne Anderson, Jeremy Sisler, Ryanell Johnson and Shoan Nelson for a full seven-member Region 8AA boys team.

The girls present a different problem. There are only four of them in grades 9-12 out for the sport this fall — Lynn Mueller, Peggy Cruz, Rhonda Rothschadl and Cindy Kruta.

You need five runners to qualify as a complete team.

The Prowlers solved the problem by borrowing a swimmer — junior Christy Puetz — for the meet. After talking with swim coach Jay Forney, and her parents, Dyer added Puetz to the cross country roster for the Region 8AA meet.

Thief River Falls isn't the first school to borrow an athlete from another sport to come up with a five-member cross country team, said Dyer. The Prowlers are doing it as a favor to the rest of the region.

To qualify two teams for the state cross country meet a week later, a regional field must have 12 complete teams. The Prowlers, by adding Puetz, will make it a 12-team field for the girls.

Bemidji and St. Cloud Tech figure to be the top two teams for the boys, while Bemidji and Alexandria probably go 1-2 among girls, figure Dyer.

In addition to the top two teams, the top five individuals also earn state meet spots. The Prowlers aren't going to challenge for team honors, but Dyer figures Mueller, a freshman, has a shot at a top five finish individually.

"I'd like to think Lynn could finish in the top five if she runs a good race," said Dyer. "She certainly has a good shot at it."

Sandy Serbus of Bemidji, Snuffy Alto and Sheila Pexia of Alexandria, Heather Doyle of Moorhead and Mueller look like top five candidates, said Dyer.

He figured the boys had a wide open field for those top five places. Leif Larson of Bemidji, he said, has a good shot at No. 1.

Anderson, a junior, has been the Prowlers' No. 1 runner all fall, but he'll be hard-pressed to crack a talented top five at the regional level.

"We just want our boys to go down and improve upon their times and try to do better than last year," explained Dyer, whose Prowlers were No. 11 in a field of 12 in 1985.

Thief River Falls' girls could fare better, but that will depend on how Puetz, a top-notch swimmer and a point-producing track performer in the spring, will do on a cross country course. "We could be looking at a top seventh or eighth place finish," said Dyer.

Meet time is 3 p.m.

State cross country meet will be held Nov. 1 on the University of Minnesota golf course in Falcon Heights.

REACHING OUT, Thief River Falls' Brenda Russell did the 200-yard freestyle stroke Tuesday as the Prowlers faced Fergus Falls in a dual meeting between Section 8 leaders in the Franklin Middle School pool. The Otters defeated the previously unbeaten Prowlers 96-77 in front of a Thief River Falls parent's night crowd.

Nine-Man Playoffs Underway

Semifinal games will be played Saturday in area nine-man sectional high school football playoffs.

Opening round quarterfinals Tuesday in Section 8 found Argyle beating Middle River 35-14, Kittson County North shut out Stephen 34-0, Kennedy defeated Marshall County Central 44-18 and Hallock blanked Tri-County 46-0.

Saturday semifinals will find Kittson County North (6-3) at Argyle (9-0), and Hallock (7-2) at Kennedy (9-0).

A pair of first round games were played Tuesday in the six-team Section 6 playoffs, with Twin Valley beating Gary 29-8 and Fisher-Climax drilling Ulen-Hitterdahl 50-7.

Saturday semifinals will have Twin Valley (6-3) at Gonvick-Trail (7-0), and Fisher-Climax (7-2) playing Norman-County West (7-1) at Halstad.

Meanwhile, a couple of area nine-man teams who were not selected to participate in the playoffs will close out regular season play Friday. Plummer (3-4) will meet Central Valley, ND in a 3 p.m. game at the University of North Dakota's Memorial Stadium, while Oklee (3-5) picked up a game against Badger at 7:30 that night at Oklee.

Argyle 35
Middle River 14

Underdog Middle River surrendered 35 first quarter points, but then turned in three solid quarters of football, said Skippers head coach Eldon Sparby in a 35-14 Section 8 nine-man football playoff loss to unbeaten Argyle Tuesday.

"We're not a bit happy with our first quarter," mentioned Sparby, "but after that, we played some decent football. We were pleased with the effort, especially defensively. That's probably as good as we can play against a team like Argyle."

Kelly Durand and Bill Rivard scored twice in that first quarter Argyle attack, and Tommy Durand scored once.

That was all the scoring until the fourth quarter when Middle River came up with a pair of touchdowns — a 28-yard fumble return by Tony Gullikson and a 15-yard run by Brad Kilen.

Middle River, finishing with a 2-7 record, played with a make-shift line-up, said Sparby, because of injuries and illness. Gullikson, a sophomore, started at quarterback in place of Tom Blazek, who suffered a broken jaw in a regualr season-ending 51-12 loss to Kennedy a week earlier. The Skippers were also missing a lineman and two cornerbacks on defense.

Kennedy 44
MCC 18

Kennedy broke open a close game with 21 unanswered fourth quarter points for a 44-18 Section 8 nine-man football playoff win over visiting Marshall County Central Tuesday.

Marshall County Central trailed just 21-18 through three quarters.

"It was a tough ball game until they got those fourth quarter points," said Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart.

Turning point in the contest, said Gebhart, came in the late stages of the first half when the Nordics, trailing 16-12, failed to get into the end zone on a fourth-and-goal snap. Kennedy, in turn came right back to score on a 63-yard run by Brian Dahl to open up a 23-12 halftime cushion.

"That was the key right there," explained Gebhart. "We were looking at being ahead at halftime, but instead we were down by 11. That really turned things around."

It was a frustating defeat for the Nordics, who racked up 384 yards worth of offense — 201 rushing and 183 passing. "It was our best offensive game of the year," noted Gebhart. Tom Bolstad carried the ball 31 times for 150 yards, Danni Halvorson was 4-for-15 passing for 168 yards and Lee Pemberton caught four passes for 157 yards.

But the Nordics also surrendered a bunch of yards, as Kennedy rushed for 297 yards behind Dahl and passed for 197 yards. Three of the Rockets' touchdowns were scored from 42 yards or longer.

"They made the big plays all night," said Gebhart. "We just couldn't stop them."

Halvorson led the Marshall County Central defense with 9 unassisted tackles and 5 assisted stops. Darin Rokke had 6 unassisted tackles, 2 assisted stops and a pair of interceptions, while Pemberton was credited with 6 unassisted tackles, 4 assisted stops and an interception. Tackle Ryan Knutson came off the bench and played well defensively, too, according to Gebhart.

Marshall County Central finished the year at 2-7.

Sponsors are hoping that recent warm weather conditions will help create added enthusiasm for the third annual Thief River Falls Turkey Trot, scheduled to be held Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. at Northwest Medical Center.

Participants are invited to walk, jog or run the 5-kilometer (3.1 mile) loop course, which starts in front of Northwest Medical Center and ends behind the building.

In addition, each participant will be asked to predict their time before the race, and the one with a finishing time closest to their predicted time in each of the same age categories will also win a turkey certificate. No watches will be allowed on the course.

Refreshments will be served at the finish line.

Entry fee is $3 before Friday, $5 the day of the race. Entry forms can be sent to Gail Holland, P.R. Coordinator, Northwest Medical Center, 120 South LaBree, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Grygla Girls Beat Middle River 3-0

Grygla defeated Middle River 15-12, 18-16, 15-6 in a high school volleyball match Monday, but it was a costly victory for the host Eagles, who lost the services of senior Michelle Jelle due to an ankle injury suffered early in Game 2.

The loss of Jelle "definitely hurts," acknowledged Grygla coach Mike Gast. "She's pretty much the general out there."

But the Eagles, after suffering a letdown when Jelle left the match, bounced back with a strong effort in Game 3 behind the strong net work by Niki Lian.

"I was happy with the way the girls came back and played after Michelle got hurt," noted Gust.

The win boosted the Eagles to 11-5 going into a regular season-ending match against Warroad. Middle River closes out its schedule Thursday by hosting Kittson County North.

MCC - Roseau

Marshall County Central and Tri-County, expected to be the top two teams in the upcoming 1986 District 32A tournament, will close out the 1986 season against each other Thursday at Newfolden.

The Nordics ran their record to 15-2 Tuesday with a 15-5, 15-5, 11-15, 15-6 victory at Roseau.

"Overall, it was the best we've played in over a month," reported Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "It was a real good tea effort."

Denae Mjelde had an outstandi match for the winners, going 17 for at the service line, collecting assists and closing out the match the line with an ace serve.

Natalie Ueland and Andrea Kra ness both had strong spiking game while Kelly Anderson had 14 serv points on a 21-for-22 serving night.

District 32A play starts Monday.

Oklee - Clearbrook

Oklee pushed its record to 14-6 Tu day with a 15-11, 15-5, 9-15, 15-5 w over visiting Clearbrook, but the Bo cats have a tough regular season e ing assignment Thursday when th host unbeaten Win-E-Mac.

A strong serving performance hig lighted the Bobcats' win over Cle brook, pointed out Oklee coach Br Borene, whose team was 84-for-8 the line — 96 per cent. Lisa Chap was 20-for-20 serving, Cori Olson w 17-for-17 and Michelle Skallet was for-13. "Those three have been ou best servers all year, and they did real nice job," said Borene, who als cited the net play by Joelle Enerso and Julie Murack.

With 10 kill spikes, Murack aga held her role as the team's top hitte but Enerson played her best match the season, said Borene, with eigh kills and two kill blocks.

Volleyball Team Beats Alvarado . . .

Prowlers Play EGF, Crookston

A pair of matches against East Grand Forks and Crookston this week will close out the 1986 Thief River Falls regular season high school volleyball schedule.

The Prowlers host the Green Wave Thursday and will visit the Pirates Friday. Varsity matches are scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. both nights.

Thief River Falls ran its record to 15-3 Monday with its fourth straight win, a 15-12, 12-15, 15-8, 15-10 home court victory over Alvarado.

"It was a pretty up-and-down volleyball match," reported Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "We like to win, but we're going to have to play more consistent volleyball if we want to be a contender for sub-region."

Vikki Weigand led the Prowlers with 15 service points and was named varsity Player of the Night. Jill Olson added nine service points.

North Sub-Region 8AA tournament matches start Tuesday when the No. 5-seeded team visits the No. 4-seeded team. Semifinals and finals will be played Thursday, October 30, at the site of the No. 1-seeded team.

Thief River Falls junior varsity beat Alvarado 13-15, 15-11, 15-11 for a 10-3 record, with Kari Torkelson and Julie Novak sharing Player of the Night honors.

Jenny Lindberg earned similar honors at the C squad level as Thief River Falls triumphed 13-15, 15-9, 15-8 for an 8-5 season record.

Do animals play games? National Wildlife magazine reports that animals apparently have more fun than we originally thought. Chimpanzee juveniles, like human children, play follow the leader, hide-and-seek, king of the hill, and tug-o-war. Young right whales playfully butt against their mother and slide off their brows, and river otters repeatedly slide down streambanks.

Feelin' blue? Well if you're a satin bowerbird, that means you're feeling great. Ranger Rick magazine reports that the dove-size Australian bird's favorite color is blue. Male bowerbirds decorate their nests with blue objects to impress female bowerbirds. This means gathering blue flowers, feathers, plastic toys, pens, toothbrushes, and any other blue objects that the bowerbird finds attractive.

In 1871, the first law pertaining in any way to forestry in Minnesota was passed, named the Tree Bounty Law. It provided for paying a bounty for planting trees on the prairies. This resulted in the establishment of many farm woodlots and windbreaks.

In 1876, a small group of forward looking people organized as a group, and called themselves the Minnesota State Forestry Association.

On Sept. 1, 1894, 418 lives were lost in a fire known ever after as the Hinkley fire.

In 1895, the legislature took the first step toward preserving the forests and preventing forest fires by the appointment of the State Auditor as Forest Commissioner. The State Auditor then appointed Gen. C.C. Andrews as the first Chief Fire Warden. In his first annual report he showed an area of 11,890,000 acres of forest lands in the state and nearly 25 billion board feet of timber, of which more than 18 billion were pine and three-fourths of that was white pine.

1903 was the year that Minnesota's first tree nursery was started in the Pillsbury State Forest. The following spring 86 pounds of seed were planted.

On Sept. 4, 1908 a forest fire came roaring out of the woods and destroyed the mining village of Chisholm. At the next legislative session the Forestry Commissioner was authorized to appoint a corps of forest rangers in case of a dangerous fire season. 1908 also saw the establishment of the Chippewa National Forest. The following year the Superior National Forest was established and both have been added to, until they comprise 1,313,656 and 2,873,281 acres respectively.

In 1910, about six weeks after the handful of forest rangers had been layed off because of lack of funds, another forest fire tragedy struck Minnesota. It had been the driest year ever recorded in the state. On Oct. 9, a terrific wind fanned many small fires into a holocaust that cost the lives of 42 people and destroyed the towns of Baudette and Spooner. So spectacular were the fires during that year that railroads advertised travel from Thief River Falls to Warroad and see the forest fires. After this last fire the establishment of the Minnesota Forest Service under the direction of Wm. T. Cox marked the beginning of the state forest protection organization which has evolved into the forestry department of today.

National Award

Harvey K. Nelson, Regional Director for the North Central Region of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has received the U.S. Department of the Interior's Distinguished Service Award.

The award was presented September 26, at the Interior Department's 51st honor awards convocation, Washington, D.C. It is the highest award conferred by the Secretary of the Interior. The Interior Department selects only a few of its most valued employees each year to receive the Distinguished Service Award.

Nelson, a professional wildlife biologist whose career with the Fish and Wildlife Service spans 36 years, has been in his present position for nearly seven years. The region he administers includes Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

A native of Minnesota, he holds a B.S. degree in fish and wildlife management from the University of Minnesota and a M.S. in resources development from Michigan State University.

Nelson is well known among the scientific community for his work in migratory bird research and management programs in North America, especially management techniques developed while he was Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service's Northern Parairie Wildlife Research Center, Jamestown, North Dakota.

Following his work at Northern Prairie he was assigned to executive management positions in Washington, D.C., including that of Associate Director for Fish and Wildlife Resources. During this segment of his career his contributions to national research and management programs continued to be significant.

His assignment to the position of Regional Director for the eight-state North Central Region in 1979 brought new challenges in the form of controversial issues such as management of eastern timber wolves in Minnesota, winter navigation on the Great Lakes, lake trout restoration and sea lamprey control in the Great Lakes, Indian hunting and fishing rights, wetlands preservation, and diversified uses of resources of the Upper Mississippi River. He also administers the national wildlife refuges, national fish hatcheries, law enforcement, technical assistance services and the grant-in-aid to states program in the eight-state region.

Nelson has authorized or co-authored more than 40 significant publications. He received the Department of the Interior's Meritorious Service Award in 1980.

He is well known among private as well as public conservation organizations. He is chairman of the Fish and Wildlife Service Migratory Bird Regulations Committee, one of two Fish and Wildlife Service representatives on the North American Waterfowl Management Plan Committee, and is the Fish and Wildlife Service representative to the National Conservation Committee, Boy Scouts of America.

He also serves as Chairman of the Federal Executive Board of the Twin Cities.

OUTDOOR NOTES......

There may be a giant octopus, 100 feet or more across, lurking in the deep waters off Bermuda, reports International Wildlife magazine. Scientists believe that a Bermuda fisherman attracted a huge predator when he began using special traps to catch foot-long shrimp and two-foot crabs. Damage inflicted upon these traps have led scientists to believe that it may be the work of a giant octopus. Jaws beware!

A meteorite explosion large enough to affect the global climate occurs in the earth's atmosphere about once every 100,000 years, reports International Wildlife magazine. Should a meteorite larger than one-third of a mile in diameter hit the earth, it would send up a great cloud of debris that would alter the climate, possibly producing effects similar to those of a nuclear winter.

MEMBERS OF the 200-yard freestyle relay team, Marci Turenne and Christy Puetz celebrated a meet-opening victory against Fergus Falls during Tuesday's high school swimming encounter at the Franklin Middle School pool. Jenny Ness and Heidi Tofte were also members of the relay team. The Prowlers had an early lead over the Otters, but Fergus Falls emerged with a 95-77 victory.

LEAFING THROUGH YOUR LIBRARY

by Deanna Swanson
Branch Librarian

Are you thinking about making something special for Christmas? Maybe something for a dear friend, your grandchildren, or your favorite aunt and uncle. If you are out of ideas and need some new material, come to the Thief River Falls library as we have a large variety of books on needlework, handcrafts, cooking and woodworking. These are only a few that I found that I highly recommend.

In the "Leathercraft" book written by Fred. W. Zimmerman I noticed safety practices were stressed which are so important when working with tools and machines. It is an excellent book for anyone who is beginning to work with leather. "Leather Decoration" by Herb Genfan and Lyn Taetzsch has more advanced leather details and projects but anyone with experience with leather crafts would enjoy it.

Because we live in the northern Minnesota rural area, we find a lot of natural beauty that we can use to make creative crafts. This is the reason I selected the book "Wild-crafts" by Leslie Linsley. It's surprising what you can find by looking in the woods, in the fields, in the gardens or by the sea. Potpourri, beads, shell wind chimes, dried arrangements or memory pockets are only a few clever crafts put together by using various natural materials.

The next book that I think many of you will have to give a try is "The Art of Making Wooden Toys" by Peter Stevenson. It includes wooden toys, as small as a fishing boat all the way to something large such as an airplane teeter-totter. It has many illustrations and patterns. Fathers have the opportunity to be creative by using a saw and a hammer.

As I looked at the next book," The Complete Book of Babycrafts" by Arco, I realize a lot of people enjoy knitting and crocheting. There are so many unique patterns with directions along with colorful pictures. Also included are a lot of sewing ideas such as bean bag cushions, a baby-carrying sling and many clever pieces of clothing for young children. The fourth section featured such toys as an old fashioned rag doll, felt pony, fur fabric dog and rabbit and knitted lion, soldier, bird or frog.

This last book I want to mention is "Creating with Metal" by L.E. Grandstrom. It illustrates making jewelry, decorations, dishes, candle holders, just to mention a few. The use of various refined metals is explained. The materials and tools are important in creating metal objects. This craft idea could be a challenge for anyone who would like to work with metals.

All of these books have a number of clever ideas. We encourage you to come to the Thief River Falls library to find the books that would be most helpful in creating your own personalized touch. Our hours are Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Friday-Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Weather Assists Fall Crop Harvest

Sunny weather over most of the state helped farmers get a lot of harvesting done during the week, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Activity was slowed only in the southeast.

Harvest of corn silage, sugarbeets, potatoes and dry beans is nearing completion while harvest of other crops is on schedule. Moisture content of grain is still higher than farmers would prefer for storage so another good week or two of dry weather would help.

Other normal fall activities seem to be about on schedule. Rains in the southeast have caused some swelling in soybeans. Corn borer activity in the same area is visible by broken stalks, ears on the ground, and lodging. Topsoil moisture as of October 17 was rated four per cent short, 49 per cent adequate and 47 per cent surplus. Days suitable for fieldwork averaged 4.6 during the week.

Field corn in the mature stage at 96 per cent compares with 92 per cent last year and is equal to the five-year average. Twelve per cent is harvested for grain versus 10 per cent a year ago and 23 per cent for the five-year average. Moisture content of grain at 27 per cent is unchanged from last week and compares with 29 per cent last year and 27 per cent for the five-year average. Corn cut for silage at 82 per cent compares with 80 per cent last year and 88 per cent for the five-year average.

Soybeans in the mature state at 99 per cent compares with 94 per cent a year ago and 98 per cent for the five-year average. At 49 per cent combined, this is ahead of last year's 14 per cent and the five-year average of 42 per cent. Moisture content at 14 per cent is unchanged from last week and compares with 16 per cent last year and 15 per cent for the five-year average.

Flax harvested at 80 per cent compares with 58 per cent last year and 81 per cent for the five-year average. Potatoes harvested at 93 per cent compares with 90 per cent for both last year and the five-year average. Dry edible beans harvested at 90 per cent compares with 67 per cent a year ago and 75 per cent for the five-year average. Sunflowers harvested at 23 per cent compares with eight per cent last year and 29 per cent for the five-year average. Sugarbeets harvested at 94 per cent compares with 77 per cent last year and 55 per cent for the five-year average. Small grain and hay stubble plowed or tilled totals 67 per cent versus 63 per cent last year and 75 per cent for the five-year average.

Johnston Farms Top Red Lake Co. DHIA Report

Johnston Farms of Angus had 11 of the top individual producing cows in the September report of the Red Lake county dairy herd improvement association, according to David Kabes, Red Lake county extension agent.

The top cows had production of more than 22,000 pounds of protein on the official DHIA record. They were ranked according to dollar value of product produced.

Johnston Farms top cow had 27,709 pounds of milk and 1,060 pounds of butterfat with 885 pounds of protein in 305-day test. The Johnstons also had the next three top cows in the association with milk and butterfat production of 24,976 and 883, 20,899 and 946 and 25,626 and 891.

Other top producers came from the herds of Don and Karen Konickson (five cows in the top group, led by an individual with 24,528 pounds of milk and 870 pounds of butterfat), Roger Odegaard, Gary and Grant Gullekson, Leiser Brothers, Wayne Nelson and Jon Benesh.

FFA In TRF To Hold Grain Drive For Camp Courage

Thief River Falls Chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) will hold a grain drive for Camp Courage on Friday. Ned C. Blodgett, Lincoln high school's vocational agriculture instructor and FFA advisor, who announced the project, said members of the FFA would stop at farms in the area, pick up grain that farmers contribute, and then sell it to the local elevator.

Grain drives help sponsor rural youth with physical disabilities at Camp Courage, a residential camp near Maple Lake. This year more than 1,000 children and adults with physical disabilities participated in camp programs.

Since 1953, all of the money collected has been used to provide needed buildings, equipment and camperships as well as support special programs of speech therapy, amateur radio training, horticulture programs, deaf leadership programs at Camp Courage and Courage North.

Blodgett said 24 of his FFA chapter members will take part in the project. These members are Todd Carlson, John Weets, Tracy Wahl, Lisa Grisanti, Kim Moyer, Brian Moyer, Jason Erickson, Chad Homme, Wade Forsberg, Jared Ellingson, Craig Erickson, Roger Dyrdal, Brian Naplin, Steve Senum, Daryl Opdahl, Brian Geske, Jason Weets, Tim Carlson, Brian Johnson, Deanna Hermreck, Leon Lundstrom, Troy Peterson, Troy Hoglo and Terry Hunt.

Trucks for picking up the grain are being furnished by Todd Carlson, John Weets, Lisa Grisanti, Brian Moyer, Wade Forsberg, Roger Dyrdal, Leon Lundstrom, Troy Peterson and Troy Hoglo.

Camp Courage is one of the many services of Courage center, a rehabilitation center in the Twin Cities suburb of Golden Valley.

Farm Scholarship Has Free Tuition At Universities

Family farm operators who can demonstrate a debt to equity ratio of at least 50 per cent or an annual farm income of no more than $15,000 may qualify for the free tuition and fee program available at Minnesota's state universities, according to system chancellor Robert L. Carothers.

The scholarship program is available to Minnesota family farm operators, their spouses and dependent children who can demonstrate severe financial need as a result of farm foreclosure, repossession or debt restructuring. Applicants should apply at the university financial aid office by providing a letter from a lender or a balance sheet of their farm operation, showing evidence of the 50 per cent debt to equity ratio. The 1040 tax form may also be used to verify annual income derived from farming.

Noting that the program becomes effective winter quarter, Chancellor Carothers said that "our universities want to provide distressed farmers and their families with an option to pursue other career possibilities.

"Because our state universities are located throughout rural Minnesota, they are in a position to assist farmers who are suffering economic displacement."

The free tuition offer extends for up to six credits per quarter for a maximum of 18 hours over a two-year period. Individuals who enroll for more than six credits during a term are not eligible. In addition to the tuition and fee waiver, career counseling services will also be available.

The new program was adopted by the Minnesota state university board at its meeting in September.

Hejduk Succeeds Hedlund As Exec For Wheat Groups

Fred Hejduk, assistant regional director for European operations for U.S. Wheat associates, has been named the new executive director of the Minnesota Wheat research and promotion council and the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers. He will replace Merle Hedland who is resigning as director of the Minnesota Wheat organizations the end of October.

According to John Oberg, chairman of the Minnesota Wheat council from Ulen, Hejduk (pronounced Hay-duke) has broad experience in the wheat market development industry including work at the state, national and international levels. An Oklahoma native, Hejduk started working for wheat producers as the assistant director of the Oklahoma Wheat commission. He later moved to Washington, D.C. to become the market analyst for Great Plains Wheat, Inc., one of two regional market development organizations supported by the state wheat producer check-off program, which merged in 1980 to form the current U.S. Wheat Associates.

Following the merger, Hejduk became the assistant director for market development program. He has been the assistant director for U.S. Wheat associates based in Rotterdam, The Netherlands for the past three and one-half years.

"We were fortunate to find a person that not only has a long history in the wheat market development field, but also has experience working Capitol Hill in Washington," stated Gordon Sonstelie, president of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers from Winger. According to Sonstelie, prior to accepting the job in Rotterdam, Hejduk worked for several years as a Washington representative for the National Corn Growers association.

Hejduk, 33 and his wife Sandy, have two daughters age 13 and 8. They will be moving to Minnesota in December.

Hejduk's career track almost mirrors that of Hedlund. A native of Kindred, ND, Hedland began in the wheat industry as the assistant administrator of the North Dakota Wheat commission, then moved to Washington, D.C., where the was program coordinator for Great Plains Wheat, Inc. and later vice president for foreign operations for Great Plains Wheat and U.S. Wheat associates. Hedland and Hejduk worked together in Washington for several years before Hedland resigned to accept the directorship in Minnesota.

Hedland, who has been with the Minnesota Wheat organizations since 1980, advised the two boards in August that he would be leaving Minnesota the end of October to accept a job with a large medical association based in Chicago. The search for a new director has been underway since then.

According to Sonstelie and Oberg, there will be a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the food service building at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, to honor Hedland and to introduce Hejduk as the new executive director. The public is invited to attend.

Swimming Pool Committee Fund Is Over $30,000

Thief River Falls swimming pool committee has swelled its total collections to more than $30,000 with the receipt of $237 this week from the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company of Thief River Falls. The donation came from a sales promotion during September at local supermarkets.

According to Charlie Oakes, chairman of the committee, total pool costs are estimated at $434,000, including parking lot and buildings for changing and concessions. He said the committee hopes to raise at least half that amount over the next two years before approaching the voters for bond financing.

In loving memory of Richard Ellason
Though his smile is gone forever
And his hands we cannot touch
Still we have so many memories

We have him in our heart.

UNCLE SAM STILL TAKES GOOD CARE OF HOMEOWNERS

Although interest deductions on car loans, credit cards and other types of borrowing will be phased out, the mortgage interest you pay on up to two personal residences will continue to be deductible under the new tax law. This interest deductibility — even on today's much lower interest rates — is of major importance to homeowners.

A survey by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology/Harvard University Joint Center for Housing Studies shows just how important being able to deduct housing interest has become. Of the 4,267 homeowners that responded, more than 21 per cent said they would not have bought their home if mortgage interest was not deductible. Eighteen months ago, when the same question was asked of homeowners, only 12 per cent said they wouldn't buy.

Be they ever so humble, our homes are our castles — and they continue to be our tax deductions. Our legislators know that a high proportion of homeowners in the population brings added stability to our country.

Then It's Too Late

Why is it? A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised bed, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, have a breakfast of advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in an advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes and glance at his advertised watch.

He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk, smoke advertised cigarettes and write with an advertised pen. Yet this man hesitates to advertise, saying that advertising does not pay. Finally, when his unadvertised business goes under, he will advertise it for sale.

University Gives Award To Alumnus For Achievement

Guanren Xu, who set up China's first laboratory to investigate peaceful uses of atomic energy, has received the Outstanding Achievement award from the University of Minnesota board of regents. The highest award given to alumni, it recognizes unusual accomplishments in the recipient's field.

Xu and his colleagues trained hundreds of scientists to use radioisotopes and ionizing radiation in agricultural research. Using these methods, the scientists improved more than 100 crop varieties; increased silk production with low-dose irradiation of silkworms; improved insect control through induced sterility; improved animal vaccines; and developed more efficient and economical uses of fertilizers.

After graduating from China's National Central university with a degree in agronomy in 1934, Xu stayed on as a research assistant, research fellow and assistant professor. He received a doctorate in plant genetics from the University of Minnesota in 1950 and spent the next six years there as a research fellow. During this time he found a way to induce a mutuation for resistance to a virulent race of wheat stem rust, an achievement that led to an invitation from the Chinese government to set up an atomic energy laboratory.

Among his many honors and awards are recognition by the Chinese government in 1944 and 1946 for contributions in rice genetics; honorary membership in the Academic Sinica, the Chinese equivalent of fellowship in the National Academy of Sciences; and invitations to lecture to the premier, ministers and other high Chinese officials in Zhong-nan-hai, the state council headquarters.

THIEF RIVER FALLS voters should follow the above map to determine which ward they live in and where they should vote. Who Is Eligible To Vote?

Eligible voters in Pennington county total 9,059 as of the last election. In Marshall county an estimated 7,566 voters are eligible to vote. Based on the numbers of voters that turned out for the primary elections, county auditors in both counties are expecting a moderately heavy turnout.

Relatively heavy turnouts during the primary are expected to be repeated during the upcoming general election because of high interest and the number of candidates running for election.

Included in this article is information provided by the election division of the secretary of state that might help answer questions and encourage citizens and residents to vote.

Minnesota voters are qualified to vote if they are 18 years of age, citizens of the United States, have lived in Minnesota for 20 days immediately preceding the election, and are registered to vote.

Those Minnesota voters not qualified to vote include: individuals who have been convicted of treason or a felony and have not yet had their civil rights restored; or are under a guardianship of their person; or are found by a court of law to be legally incompetent; or are not registered to vote.

On election day proof of citizenship must be provided to be eligible to vote. Accepted proofs of citizenship include: a valid Minnesota driver's license or learners permit; valid Minnesota identification card or receipt which shows correct address in precinct; oath of a voter registered in the precinct, who is not a poll challenger, signed in the presence of a judge who also signs the oath; a current registration in the same precinct indicating a previous address; a mailed notice received from the registration office indicating an insufficient registration.

Students may vote from either school address or home address depending upon which address the student considers to be the place of residence. As proofs of citizenship and residence students may use one or more of the above or a current student registration card. But these proofs of residence and citizenship must list the student's current address in the precinct.

Absentee ballots must be received by an election judge on the day of election if they are to be counted. Voters can vote by absentee ballot if: they are going to be absent from the precinct on election day; they have an illness or physical disability which will prevent them from going to the polling place; it is a religious holiday or discipline prohibits attendance at the polling place; they are an election judge serving in another precinct.

To apply for an absentee application write to the county auditor or municipal clerk or stop into the office and give the following information: name and address; reason for being away from the polling place on election day; date; address to which the ballot should be sent; and signature.

All polling places are also required by law to be handicapped accessible

Polling Places For Penn. Co. Listed

Polls will open Tuesday, November 4, for local, state and county general elections. Generally the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., but voters are advised to check the schedules and locations of polls in their area in this article or with city and county clerks. All polls will be open until 8 p.m. as required by law.

All Thief River Falls polls, wards one through five, will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. But there have been some changes in locations: First ward will vote at Northrop school; second ware, Zion Lutheran church at 505 Main avenue north; third ward, Skylite apartments at 415 South Arnold; fourth ward, Knox school; and fifth ward, Redeemer Lutheran church, 1300 Nora street.

Pennington county polling places for the primary will be at the following townships and times: Black

Candidates For Pennington SWCD Also On Ballots

Pennington county voters will also vote on two supervisor positions with the Pennington county soil and water conservation district. Only incumbents filed for the positions.

Raymond S. Olson filed for the office of supervisor of the Pennington soil and conservation district, first district; and, Clair C. Larson filed for the office of supervisor of the Pennington soil and water conservation district, fifth district.

According to a job description from the soil and water conservation district, "a soil and water conservation district supervisor is vested with all the powers of the district. This responsibility and status as an elected public official places the supervisor in a unique position. Because they work with the entire tax base through private landowners, the supervisors are in a position to make key resource decisions which will ultimately affect the welfare, health, and safety of the people of this state."

The purpose of the district as described by Minnesota statutes, chapter 40 as originally organized, were to offer assistance in rural areas only. In 1972, the Minnesota legislature recognized the valuable role districts could play in urban areas and amended chapter 40 to bring all land areas of the state under the authority of district. The purpose of the district is to assist land occupiers in applying proper practices for the conservation of the soil and water resources. This includes: prevention and control of soil erosion; land resource planning and development; reduction of siltation; and flood prevention. Also included is the conservation development, utilization and management of the waters of the state, preserving natural areas and the fish and wildlife which inhabit them. The districts also have authority to guide and assist in the wise use of public lands."

State Ballots Match Penn. County Choices

Area voters will be helping to select who they want to represent them on the state level during the general election on November 4.

The following candidates will be running for office on the state and national ballot:

United States representative, District 7 (vote for one), Collin C. Peterson (DFL), Arlan Stangeland (IR) and Jon Hall (Citizens party).

State Senator, District 1 (vote for one), LeRoy Stumpf (DFL) and Jim Butler (IR).

State Representative, District 1B (vote for one), Wally Sparby (DFL).

Governor and Lieutenant Governor (vote for one team), Rudy Perpich and Marlene Johnson (DFL), Cal R. Ludeman and Dennis W. Schulstad (IR), W Z (Bill) Brust and Cory R. Johnson (Workers League), Tom Jaax and August Nimtz (Socialist Workers party) and Joseph A. Rohner III and Edwin Mudge (Libertarian party).

Secretary of State (vote for one), Joan Anderson Growe (DFL) and Don Koenig (IR).

State Auditor (vote for one), John Dooley (DFL) and Arne Carlson (IR).

State Treasurer (vote for one), Michael A. McGrath (DFL), John Drew (IR) and Helen Kruth (Communist party).

Attorney General (vote for one), Hubert H. Humphrey III (DFL), Lew Freeman (IR) and Derrick P. Gimmer (Grassroots party).

In the September 9 primary election, voters in Pennington county matched their voting preference to the rest of the state fairly equally except for the secretary of state race in which results from across the state gave the IR choice to Don Koenig instead of Myron Nysether, who Pennington county voters chose. Also, in the state auditor race the rest of the state chose Michael McGrath (DFL) and John Drew (IR) while Pennington county voters chose Robert Mattson (DFL) and Jual C. Carlson (IR).

The NBC polling precinct in Thief River Falls is 4C. This downtown Thief River Falls location is bound by Gulf street and Pennington avenue in the south and Crocker avenue on the east with Red Lake River as the western and northern boundaries. Primary results there, when compared to the choices made by the rest of the state, are remarkably close. The only differences again are in the secretary of state race and state auditor race. In the secretary of state race 4C voters chose Myron Nysether (IR) over the state's choice of Don Koenig (IR). In the state auditor race 4C voters chose Al Hanson (DFL) over the state's choice of John Dooley (DFL).

School District 564 To Hold Election For 3 On Board

School district 564 will also hold elections during the general election on November 4. The seven candidates running for three board member positions will have personality written articles providing voters with background information and issues they believe important to the office they seek in Monday's issue of the Times.

Politicians Should Avoid Placing Signs On Right Of Ways

Minnesota department of transportation reminds 1986 candidates and their workers that political signs should not be placed on the state highway right of way. According to Ron Studer, Minnesota department of transportation land management engineer in Bemidji, signs should be posted on private land and only with owner's consent.

"Several state and federal laws govern roadside signing and the Minnesota department of transportation is required to enforce these regulations in an impartial manner. Political signs are treated on an equal basis with signs that are placed by businesses, realtors, churches, private citizens and service organizations," Studer said.

City Elections To Call For Write-Ins

Citizens of area towns will elect mayors and city councilmen during the November 4 general election. For the most part, no one has filed for many of those posts, leaving it wide open for write-in ballots.

Following is a listing of candidates for area city elections:

GOODRIDGE: Dr. David Brown (incumbent) and John Cullen are running for mayor; Robert Manderud and Carl Elg (incumbents) and Irvin Hamm and Paulette Kassa are running for two open positions on the city council. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Goodridge senior citizens building.

GRYGLA: No one has officially filed for the postitions of mayor and two city council seats. The present mayor is Ralph Klein. The two city council seats up for grabs are held by Karl Sundberg and DelRay Ruud. The city clerk said the lack of filings was nothing unusual. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the civic building.

MIDDLE RIVER: No one has officially filed for the positions of mayor and two city council seats. The present mayor is Sully Gentry and two city council members ar Ed Johnson and Mary Hanson. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Spruce Valley community center.

NEWFOLDEN: Only incumbents have filed to fill the mayoral position and three city council seats. The present mayor is Vern Gustafson. Dave Kragness, Marlin Lee and Ernie Johnson, incumbent city councilmen, are running for the council positions. Ernie Johnson is running to fill a one-year appointment made last year. His term will be for two years and the other council positions for four-year terms. The Newfolden poll is at the community center which will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

PLUMMER: In Plummer, current Mayor Russell Pahlen filed and is unopposed. But for the city council, the two incumbent council members whose term will expire have not filed. The only candidate to file for a city council seat is James Schiefert. The polling place in Plummer will be the community hall basement from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

VIKING: In Viking, positions up for election include the clerk position, mayor and one citycouncil seat. Amy Hjelle (incumbent) is the only candidate for city clerk. Current mayor Lloyd Ranum has not filed and there are no other candidates. For the one city council position Ardelle Anderson has filed. The polling place will be the Viking community center from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Political Signs Must Come Down After Five Days

With the large number of political signs popping up all over Thief River Falls, politicians should be aware of the restrictions placed on them.

Political campaign signs cannot exceed six square feet in all residential districts or 12 square feet in all other districts. Every campaign sign must contain the name and address of persons responsible for the sign, and those persons shall be responsible for its removal.

Signs erected shall remain in place for no longer than five days after the election for which they were intended. If they aren't down within that period the city has the right to remove and destroy them and assess a fine of $1 per sign to the responsible person.

Vote On Judges Difficult

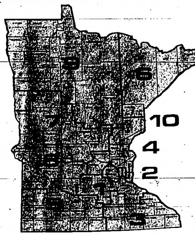
When voters pick up ballots on November 4 they may be surprised and even confused to see the large number of judges from which they are asked to select. When district nine, the upper 17 northwest Minnesota counties, merged district court and county court, all of the judges in the district became eligible to all of the voters of district nine.

Under that merger all judges in the district are now district court judges and can in theory sit on the bench in any of the 17 counties in district nine. Because all of the judges, and in fact in all of Minnesota, (except Keith L. Kraft who is the only county court judge left because he is not a trained lawyer) are now district judges, they must be voted into office by the entire district.

This year only two incumbents of the six ninth district, district court judges face opposition. F.R. Weddel (incumbent) and James R. Wilson are running for the same ninth district seat which will primarily be served in Beltrami and Clearwater counties. John Remington Graham and Clinton W. Wyant (incumbent) are running for the same ninth district seat which will primarily be served in Crow, Aiken and Itasca counties.

None of the other judges in the ninth district generally serve on the bench in Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake or Roseau counties. But other ninth district judges running and the location of their courts are: Robert S. Graff serving Hubbard, Cass, and Itasca; James E. Preece serving Beltrami, Hubbard, Clearwater, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, and Cass; Robert J. Ryan serving in Crow Wing and Aitkin counties; W.J. Spooner serving in Itasca; and Keith L. Kraft, the only judge without formal training as an attorney and listed as the only county judge left in Minnesota, serving Hubbard, Cass and Itasca counties.

Other judges on the ballot which voters will be asked to vote for are: George H. Scott (incumbent) for associate justice to the supreme court; Lawrence R. Yetka (incumbent) for associate justice to the supreme court; Gary L. Crippen (incumbent) for court of appeals judge; Thomas Forsberg (incumbent) for court of appeals judge, Doris R. Leslie (incumbent) for court of appeals judge, Robert J. Nierengarten (incumbent) for court of appeals judge; R.A. Randall (incumbent) for court of appeals judge.



VOTERS in district nine will vote for several judges. Merger of county and district judges permits voters to vote on many judges even though their work assignments may not bring them into the voters' area of residence. All of these judges are considered district court judges now unless they don't have any formal training as an attorney.

Turn Your Heart Toward Home

TURN YOUR HEART TOWARD HOME is a six part film series

Dr. James Dobson is, unquestionably, one of the uniquely gifted communicators of our time. He and his wife, Shirley, have consistently demonstrated their commitment to the preservation of the family. We support the Dobsons in their ministry and are pleased to present their new film series entitled "Turn Your Heart Toward Home."

This film series, which is the result of months of planning and scheduling, is an impelling call for Americans to return to traditional values. Dr. and Mrs. Dobson share their lives and insights in a very personal and moving message. They will inspire you and encourage you with their deep commitment to turning hearts toward home.

All About Short-Cuts

They say he brushed his teeth twice a day with a nationally advertised tooth paste. The doctor examined him twice a year. He wore his overshoes when it rained; slept with the windows open, and stuck to a diet with plenty of fresh vegetables.

He relinquished his tonsils and traded in several wornout glands. And he golfed, but never more than 18 holes at a time.

Each night he slept at least eight hours. He never smoked, drank, nor lost his temper. He did his daily dozen daily. He was set to live to 100.

His funeral will be next Wednesday. He is survived by 18 specialists, 4 health institutes, 6 gyms, and numerous companies of health foods.

He had forgotten about trains at level crossings. Why? He was in a hurry taking short-cuts!

Life has few if any short-cuts. There are certain roads and processes which cannot be avoided. Success and fulfillment in life offer no short-cuts. Even God takes ten years to grow a ten-year-old oak tree.

And Jesus reminded us about short-cuts: "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way, which leads to life . . ."

Trip To Winnipeg

The Overland Travel Mystery trip announced in this column several weeks ago resutled in a trip to Winnipeg the weekend of October 11-12. The weather was nice and sunny and the 25 adults who made the trip had a fun two days. They checked in at the Marlborough Inn Saturday forenoon and then went to tour the Man and Nature Museum which proved very interesting. In the evening the group had reservations on the Lord Selkirk II, including a cruise up Lake Winnipeg for seven miles and back and a delicious dinner on board. During the cruise a limbo dancer entertained the group, limboing a foot off the floor, which no one had seen before. Sunday morning they all enjoyed a brunch of fifty various dishes to choose from at the Marlborough inn which satisfied everyone's appetite for the rest of the day. Following this meal they all boarded the Carpenter Charter bus again and attended the thoroughbred race at the Assiniboia Downs. This was the last weekend for the thoroughbred races this season. After the races the group motored back to Thief River Falls. Besides the driver and his wife, Randy and Jeannie Carpenter, and the tour guides, Eldon and Evonne Moe, those who enjoyed the very enjoyable weekend trip were Ellen Peterson, Gote and Erling Anderson, Violet Bendickson, Elda Knutson, Irwin and Margie Jarshaw, Kim and Darlene Muzzy, Ray and Maybelle Soiney, Richard and Myrna Olson and Maude Walberg, all from Thief River Falls, Russell Gustafson of Plummer, Paul and Harriet Grandbois of Red Lake Falls, Roger and Audrey Anderson of Viking, and Melvin and Harriet Capistran of Stephen. The next trip sponsored by the Overland Travel club with the Randy Carpenter bus will be to the Norsk Host Fest at Minot, ND, the weekend of October 24-26. No more reservations are available.

VIOLENT CRIMES INCREASING

Violent crimes against Minnesotans is drastically increasing. The number of violent crimes per 100,000 people has increased 46 percent since 1974, and 9.7 percent in the first six months of this year. Yet in 1984, LeRoy Stumpf was against giving the responsibility to fight crime to the legislature. Instead he voted to leave that to a bureaucratic commission which is not accountable to the voters (Senate Journal 1984, page 5495).

Trial Lawyers Hold Places In History

by Vicki Moeser
Smithsonian News Service

Clarence Darrow, perhaps the foremost American attorney to plead for the defense, was a plain man whose brooding eyes indicated he knew well the pain and suffering of others.

Best known for his defense of John Scopes, a Tennessee high school teacher who broke a state law in 1925 by presenting the Darwinian theory of evolution, Darrow thrived on controversial cases. He won the acquittal of a radical labor leader for the assassination of a former Idaho governor, and he saved two convicted murderers from the death penalty.

"I may hate sin but never a sinner," Darrow once said — a statement that to Boyce Holleman, a Gulfport, MS, attorney, "just about sums up our legal system, which affords everyone a fair trial, and it may well be the trial lawyer's creed."

Darrow was a superb debater and his courtroom skills made him both a folk hero and a legend. Yet all trial lawyers — the attorneys who regularly do battle before juries in courtrooms — are the inheritors of a great tradition of oral rhetoric, and for the most part they are accomplished storytellers.

Like the traditional raconteur, the trail lawyer must be able to construct a basic plot, present the scenes with style, authority and credibility and, most importantly, appeal to audiences to believe in the tales they tell. Indeed, trial lawyers are probably the only professionals in the United States today who make their living telling stories, face to face, to a dozen people.

While students learn jurisprudence in law school, trial lawyers often learn their craft in the courtroom observing the more proficient practitioners firsthand. Novices also attend trial advocacy programs and workshops, which simulate trial settings. As a sign of professional responsibility, many eminent attorneys donate time to such programs, demonstrating their distinct approaches to the craft. It's this on-the-job training that allows the folk tradition of trial law, that is, storytelling, to be passed along from generation to generation.

The skills and lore of trial lawyers were a major focus of the Smithsonian Institution's 20th annual Festival of American Folklife this past summer. Previous festivals have explored the cultural traditions of other varied professions such as plumbing, bartending and stone carving, but to many, featuring the lawyers came as an intriguing surprise.

At least one out of 10 attorneys in this country is a trial lawyer. According to the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, there are about 600,000 lawyers in the United States and 68,000 are members of the association.

For attorneys who regularly venture before juries, developing and refining a distinctive, personal courtroom manner is critical. There is no single image of stylistic excellence within the profession. One Folklife Festival participant, Judge Charles Becton of Raleigh, N.C. — considered by many to be the best trial lawyer in North Carolina and a magnificant performer — offers this advice to would-be trial lawyers: "Don't mimic another's style. But borrow or steal every good technique or style of delivery and adapt it to your own style."

Many trial lawyers direct their delivery and style not only toward the juries, but to their opponents as well. Diana Marshall, a Houston defense attorney, has developed a guileful manner in dealing with male attorneys who choose to underestimate her. She admits she's "won a few cases by planting the notion that little old me wouldn't really take a case all the way to trial" without first trying to settle out of court. Then, she confesses, she'll spend an entire weekend preparing for trial while opposing counsel goes to the golf course.

Style may impress a jury, but it's been known to backfire. New York City prosecutor Jo Ann Harris tells about one of her cases in which a man had been accused of stealing social security checks and "compelling" the recipients to endorse the checks so he could cash them. The defense counsel was "from the old school. He was rambunctious, loud and emotional in his cross-examination of government witnesses and during his opening and closing statements to the jury." The jury convicted his client.

Ironically, after the trial, the jurors surrounded the defense attorney and lavished him with praise. Harris even overheard one juror say, "If I ever get into trouble for anything serious, I'll be sure to call you." Harris explains that while everyone likes to be entertained, the jurors in this particular case had no difficulty making the distinction between "flash" and the facts.

Like the storytellers in traditional folk societies, trial lawyers size up their audiences to determine a likely reaction. But there's considerable sensitivity within the profession that juries may feel lawyers are merely "acting." So the trial lawyer attempts to present to the jurors an image with which they can identify.

Appealing to regional pride is one tactic. Take criminal lawyer Bobby Lee Cook from the northwest Georgia hill country. New prosecutors from outside Cook's territory are warned that Cook will approach one of them before a trial, brimming with what appears to be good will and curiosity, asking where the newcomer is from and where he went to school. The unwary counselor is likely to hear Cook telling the jury moments later: "Now here we have a young man, all the way from BROOKLYN, a graduate of NYU, come down here to GEORGIA to tell us how to practice law."

Still, at the heart of any trial is the truth. And the way trial lawyers get to the truth is by asking questions — lots of them. This method in particular, according to San Francisco lawyer James Brosnahan, is steeped in rich tradition and lore. Brosnahan cites the Roman rhetorician Quintilian who, early in the first century, wrote four how-two volumes on asking questions.

The way in which the questions are posed is something the trial lawyer learns mainly through practice and observation. The trial lawyer's approach to storytelling, like the storyteller's can take on a number of structures: dramatic, satirical or accusatory. These oral presentations may be lengthy, embroider on the details of the case or include anecdotal tales. And, like a spellbinding narrator, the trial lawyer knows that facial expressions and vocal intonation must sometimes take precedence over content. A raised eyebrow here, a fist pounded there are just two of a number of techniques that allow the lawyer to get a point across to the jury.

Although the traditions of trial law go back centuries — past American trial lawyers include Daniel Webster and Abraham Lincoln — there are some who worry about the demise of the profession's special skills. Kansas City's James Jeans, another participant in the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, laments that the "golden days" of trial law may well be over. While he believes there will always be a number of law students "yearning for combat and eager to enter trial law," he feels that "alternative dispute resolutions (out-of-court settlements) are threatening our jury system."

As an example, Jeans says he gained much experience trying jury cases on such minor accidents as rear-end collisions. But lawyers just starting out don't get such opportunities these days, he says, because those cases are gone — insurance companies settle them without lawyers. Others agree that there are declining opportunities for new lawyers to earn civil trial experience or to go into practice on their own.

Still others, however, are convinced trial lawyers will continue to hold their own. Prosecutor Patrick Williams, of Tulsa, Okla., says there will always be a need for advocacy and, therefore, there will always be trial lawyers. Like Jeans, Williams believes trial lawyers "are more or less born." It is, he says, "innate (for a trial lawyer) to have trustworthiness, charisma, talent" coupled with the "ability to go into battle knowing the chances of losing are big, then getting up and doing it again."

Attorney Michael Tigar of Austin, Texas, encourages trial lawyers to identify role models among their ancestors — and names Clarence Darrow as an example. Indeed, according to Boyce Holleman, Darrow continues to exemplify what all trial lawyers strive to be. "Clarence Darrow was a man of great logic. He was able to combine his ability to communicate his ideas, opinions and humor to the court, jurors and the public along with his strong feelings that even the indefensible were entitled to an unprejudiced, fair trial."

Q: I am a 50-year-old woman beginning menopause. My doctor says I should start taking estrogen to prevent osteoporosis. Hasn't estrogen therapy been shown to cause cancer?

A: Continuous estrogen replacement therapy for menopause has been shown to increase a woman's risk for cancer of the endometrium. It also may increase risks for gallbladder disease, hypertension and blood clots.

On the other hand, estrogen replacement therapy can help protect women from osteoporosis and heart disease while relieving distressing symptoms of menopause.

Many doctors now believe that giving women lower doses of estrogen and combining it with progestin will lower the cancer risk.

Before beginning estrogen replacement therapy, women should have complete physical exams to detect any precancerous conditions that might be activated by estrogen. Women with a personal history of breast cancer or endometrial cancer should not take estrogen. A woman whose uterus has been removed surgically has no risk for cancer of the endometrium.

You can ask your doctor to discuss the risks and benefits estrogen replacement therapy may have for you and any side effects it may cause. You can then make your own decision. You can also ask your doctor if changes in your diet or increased exercise would help you prevent osteoporosis.

If you do choose to take estrogen, you will need to have yearly gynecologic exams.

Q: My next door neighbor has just had surgery. They found that she has cancer. We've been close friends for years, and I want to visit her, but I don't know what to say.

Many people find it difficult to visit friends who have cancer. Remember, this person is still your friend — the same person you've known for years. The only thing that has changed is her health.

The American Cancer society offers these suggestions for visiting a friend or relative who has cancer.

+Let her take the lead. If she wants to talk, be a good listener. Listen to what is said and how it is said as well as what is meant but not said.

+Try to feel comfortable when there is a lull in the conversation. People can sense discomfort in others, and silences can be helpful in putting our thoughts into focus.

+Try to maintain eye contact so your firend will feel you are being straight-forward and open. Touching, smiling, looks that convey affection show that, even though she is ill, she has not changed in your eyes.

+Cancer patients do not want to think about or talk about their disease all the time. It is human and adds to the quality of life to laugh and enjoy the things around you.

+Try to involve your friend in as many shared activities as possible. If you used to play cards — play cards now! If you used to go to the movies together — continue to do so, if your friend is feeling well enough. Use your judgment. Don't underestimate the effects of the illness but don't be overprotective. Continue to visit. Continue to invite and urge your friend to do things with you and with others. Encourage other friends to visit and, if they can't, urge them to write or call on the phone.

Q: I don't smoke, but my husband does and so do some of the people I work with. The smoke makes my eyes itch, and sometimes I get headaches from it. Could I get cancer from breathing other people's smoke?

A: There has been a lot of research on the risks of secondhand smoke. Doctors now know that children whose parents smoke have colds, ear infections, bronchitis and pneumonia more often than children whose parents don't smoke. Mothers who smoke appear to be more likely to affect their children's health than fathers who smoke.

Several research studies have shown that secondhand smoke also affects the health of nonsmoking adults. The symptoms you have noticed, eye irritation and headaches, are common. Exposure to secondhand smoke also causes nasal irritation and coughing. People who have respiratory allergies or asthma are especially susceptible to the effects of smoke in the air they breathe.

A number of studies have been done to learn whether adult nonsmokers who regularly breathe other people's smoke have an increased risk for cancer. The results of these studies have not been consistent. But there is new evidence that exposure to secondhand smoke during both childhood and adulthood may increase a person's risk for cancer.

Q: I'm a tenth grade health education teacher planning a unit on tobacco use and smoking prevention. I have plenty of material on the health effects of tobacco use. Could you give me some statistics on smoking in Minnesota?

A: In Minnesota, where nearly 30 per cent of people 18 or older smoke, there are nearly 5,000 smoking-related deaths per year. In 1983 Minnesotans paid roughly $375 million in direct medical costs and lost $303 million in lifetime personal income because of smoking and its related diseases.

If only one per cent of the state's current and future smokers quit or didn't start, Minnesota could save about $7 million per year. If 10 per cent of Minnesota's smokers quit, we could save up to $68 million per year.

Employees who smoke may also be a burden to their employers. In 1983 an average smoking employee cost his employer an extra $430 to $700 in excess health insurance, workers' compensation costs and excess absenteeism. National studies have shown that smokers are absent from work an average of twice as frequently as nonsmokers.

The Minnesota Coalition for a Smoke-Free Society can provide additional statistics and information. You can write to the Coalition at Suite 400, Health Associations Center, 2221 University Ave., S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55414 or call (612) 378-0902.

FRESHWATER FOCUS

Information And Opinion From The Freshwater Foundation
2500 Shadywood Road — Box 90
Navarre, Minnesota 55392

Picture all the water in all the rivers, lakes and streams throughout the country: the Great Lakes, Mississippi, Colorado and all of the thousands and thousands of large and small lakes and streams in the United States. our entire surface supply of freshwater certainly is a lot of water, right?

Now try to imagine 20 times that much water "in hiding" all over the United States — 20 times the volume of our surface supplies stored away out of sight.

This vast "hidden supply of freshwater is of course groundwater, stored in cracks and crevices of rocks and in the pores of geologic materials that make up the earth's crust. Somewhere between 30 and 60 quadrillion gallons of groundwater are stored within one-half mile of the earth's surface.

Our rivers, lakes and streams represent only five per cent of our freshwater supplies. The other 95 per cent of our freshwater is in the form of groundwater.

We all depend on groundwater. It is a significant element in the day-to-day operation of cities, farms, industries and individual homes. For those of us who live in the country, 95 per cent depend on groundwater.

Fifty-five per cent of the water used for rural livestock is groundwater; 40 per cent of irrigation water throughout the country is groundwater. For 32 states, groundwater is the major source of drinking water. In fact, more than 50 per cent of the population of the United States depends on groundwater for its drinking water supplies.

Groundwater usage in America has more than tripled since 1950, from 30 billion gallons per day "back then" to an estimated 95 billion gallons per day in 1985. Groundwater may be an unseen resource, but is becoming an increasingly critical one.

As our dependence on groundwater grows, we are beginning to realize the need to protect both the quantity and quality of groundwater supplies, just as we have begun to do with our more visible surface water supplies.

As we come to depend increasingly on groundwater, perhaps it's time to grant it more than "out of sight, out of mind" status. No doubt "the other 95 per cent" deserves more than that.

For more information on groundwater, write to the Freshwater Foundation for a brochure entitled 'Groundwater: Understanding Our Hidden Resource.' State Program Offers Compensation For Hazardous Waste Harm

Those who think that exposure to hazardous waste has injured their health or damaged their property may be able to get monetary compensation under a new state program.

Under a law passed last year by the Minnesota Legislature, persons thus damaged may be eligible to file a claim with a newly created hazardous substance injury compensation board. The five-member board was set up to deal with claims resulting from exposure to hazardous substances occurring outside the workplace. A typical claim might involve a problem with drinking water contaminated through the improper disposal of hazardous waste.

The board has the power to investigate claims and award damage payments injured persons for medical expenses, lost income and the value of lost household labor, as well as providing death benefits to survivors. It can also pay for cleaning up or replacing a contaminated water supply.

In hardship cases, compensation can be provided to persons who must sell their homes at less than the appraised value, because of a release of hazardous waste.

The board gives people a chance to recover damages for an injury or loss, while avoiding the costs, delays and uncertainty that can be involved in filing a lawsuit. It also gives them a way to be compensated even if the persons or organizations responsible for the problem are unknown, or are unable to pay any damages.

However, the amount of money the board can award is limited. The maximum amount that can be awarded to one individual, for all types of losses or injuries, is $250,000.

Reimbursement for lost income is limited to $24,000 a year, and the limit is the same for household labor expenses. The limit on reimbursement to homeowners for clean-up or replacement of a contaminated water supply is $25,000 and reimbursement is also limited to $25,000 for losses associated with the sale of a home.

Persons who file claims with the board are restricted from suing for damages at the same time. Persons who have won a previous lawsuit can only file a claim if it's impossible to collect whatever damages were awarded in the suit.

Once the board reaches a decision, and the person making the claim accepts the compensation offered by the board, no lawsuit can be filed involving the same injury or damage problem.

The board is composed of five members, three recruited for their professional expertise and two representing the general public. By law, the professional members must include an attorney, a physician familiar with the field of toxicology, and another health professional familiar with hazardous substance injuries.

Current members include Byron Starns of Minneapolis, attorney member and board chairman; Dr. C. John Hodgson, Rochester, physician member, Dr. Constance Pries, Fridley, physician and health professional member; Richard Mergens, Stillwater and David Miller, White Bear Lake, members from the general public.

For more information about how to file a claim with the board — and to find out about eligibility — call (612) 642-0455, or write to the Hazardous Substance Injury Compensation Board, 2700 University Ave. West, Suite 115, St. Paul, MN 55114.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Legitimate Complaint

Over the past several months we have discarded innumerable "news" releases from political candidates which claimed inappropriate action by opponents or cited other activities as grounds for complaint. For the most part they were simply political gamesmanship and not worthy of comment.

But we are more than a little concerned about a couple of letters we received early this week in the wake of the Minnesota Education association convention conducted last Thursday and Friday in the Twin Cities. One of the complainants was a political candidate, the other a life member of the National Education association and dues-paying member of the Minnesota association.

At issue was the reported refusal of MEA officials to allow Cal Ludeman, Independent-Republican candidate for governor, an opportunity to address the convention or place an advertisement in the MEA newsletter. Gov. Rudy Perpich was the keynote speaker for the convention and had received the MEA endorsement for governor prior to the primary election September 9.

We have no problem with an organization endorsing a candidate for office, nor do we quarrel with an organization inviting the state's chief official to be its convention keynote speaker. But we question the ethics of an organization which deals with education in not allowing opposing viewpoint to be presented. Such a decision is very close to censorship, and an action that the membership should not tolerate from its hierarchy.

Member Robert L. Meffert of Marshall writes that, "As a concerned career teacher, I cannot defend this action. As I moved about the meetings on Thursday and Friday, there was a greater number of educators, parents and students who find this image of the heavy-handed manipulation of information to be repulsive."

The MEA official endorsement is somewhat surprising — as is the governor's keynote address acceptance — considering that Perpich scorned the MEA when it took issue with his open enrollment plan. He said then that he would neither seek nor accept MEA or MFT endorsement. So much for idealism.

We can't say that candidate Ludeman has any more to offer education or educators in Minnesota that the incumbent governor. His ideas are at best only ideas which would require legislative support to implement. That is not at issue in this circumstance. What is at issue is the decision of MEA policy makers to deny freedom of expression at a state-wide forum. The overtones of that action are ominous and we believe Cal Ludeman has a legitimate complaint.

It's Scary . . .

Mary Olson, who ranched with her husband Roy near Rapid City, SD, and recently went through foreclosure on their property, wrote the following letter which was first published in Rapid City's Emmanuel Episcopal newsletter and reprinted in "Communicating for Agriculture":

Dear City Cousin:

It amazes me when I hear our neighbors — some of the most successful and respected people in farming and ranching — say they are going under. This is in addition to the huge number of those I know who have already lost the old home place. Even though this has only recently been recognized as a serious national problem, it has been building for years.

The price ranchers and farmers receive for a product is usually far less than 20 years ago. Yet our costs have increased dramatically: Fuel, 300 per cent; machinery, 400 per cent; repairs even more.

This increasing price-cost spread forced farmers and ranchers to mortgage their property just to get enough money to plant a crop. The main problem is that the farmer can't pass his costs on to you. He can't raise his price. He has to take whatever he can get:

He hauls his stuff to town and asks, "What will you give me, please?" The buyer knows darn well he's not going to load up his cattle or his corn and haul them home again, no matter how confiscatory the price.

America's traditional cheap-food policy has always forced farmers to sell wholesale, buy retail and pay the freight both ways. Somebody else sets the price he gets and the price he pays.

The stress of losing your beloved farm or ranch takes its toll after you've dedicated your life to building a productive place that Grandad, perhaps, carved out of the wilderness. Being on-call, working in all extremes, 365 days and nights, seldom a day off.

Is it worth it? Wouldn't it be so much easier just to go to work after the sun is up and come home at 5 and forget it? Why do we love the Old Home Place so?

It all comes down to ranching and farming being a totality of life. When you put your total being, your love, your plans, all your hopes and dreams and life into something, to lose it is to lose something that is a part of you — a very dear loved-one. It hurts.

In our community of around 20 farms, I know of only two families not in crisis. If everybody would pray hard, it would help a lot. For unless the price structure changes, I can't see any solution until enough farmers are forced out to cause a food shortage and thereby a terrific jump in the price of food. For then the consumer will pay what the corporate producer demands: Cost of production plus a huge profit.

It's scary.

— Love,
Your Country Cousin, Mary Olson

"Mommy . . . Don't"

In a national campaign to prevent birth defects caused by substance abuse during pregnancy, the March of Dimes birth defects foundation points out that the "physical and mental damage done to babies in the womb by mothers who use illicit drugs is devastating."

Charles Massey, March of Dimes president, adds that "no less tragic art the birth defects caused by alcohol, tobacco and even over-the-counter drugs taken by pregnant women without the knowledge of their physicians." Title of the campaign is "Mommy . . . Don't".

Action behind the theme is that pregnant women who are concerned about the welfare of their unborn don't take unprescribed drugs, don't drink and don't smoke. First phase of the campaign will focus on the use of drugs during pregnancy, later phases on harmful effects of alcohol and tobacco.

"People are greatly concerned today with the damage drugs do to our communities in general," Massey said, "but what many people don't know is how serious the consequences can be for the baby in the womb of a mother who uses drugs."

There are many birth defects that are beyond an individual's control, but birth defects caused by substance abuse can, to a great degree, be controlled by a pregnant woman.

The action by the March of Dimes group is commendable and likely may have some effect on some people. The sad commentary on the situation is that for the most part, people who lack concern about their own well-being and physical health are not likely to extend concern to the unborn. Changing that attitude among a significant group of the population would mean a very meaningful change in society today — a definite change for the better.

President's Drug War

Following editorial is from the Fairmont Sentinel:

We were certainly happy to see Congress respond so quickly to President Reagan's declaration of war against drugs, but we're afraid, in awareness of coming elections, the lawmakers were overzealous in taking a hard stance and included some provisions which simply do not make sense.

One of those provisions is the House's demand that the military intercept all drug shipments from abroad, in effect using our military might to seal the U.S. borders to keep out drug smugglers.

We agree with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger who calls this notion "absurd."

We can see the logic of viewing drug smugglers as an insidious enemy which threatens national security, but we cannot agree with the idea of launching a full-scale military operation, which is logistically impossible, to stop the flow of drugs into the country.

Rather than launch a military attack against drug smugglers, we must continue to fight the drug problem on the education front, and increase local and state law enforcement coffers to combat the flow of drugs into the country on a level that is most effective.

Interesting Opinions:

"The bottom line to the (wheat) poll is that it was a waste of time, money and energy that offered slim hopes of pie-in-the-sky returns to a minority of producers who, given their choice, would ruin a large segment of the U.S. economy."

The Department of Natural Resources must be a responsible citizen. Right now the DNR owes more than three quarters of a million dollars in unpaid ditch taxes in five Northwest counties (Roseau, $202,805; Lake of the Woods, $18,474.67; Marshall, $176,448; Beltrami; $379,361; Kittson, 50.) Sheldon Erickson will work to make the DNR more responsible to the people.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Some legislators were talking about their accomplishments as they started their 1986 re-election campaigns. They talked about existing and proposed programs. They discussed their constituent concerns. These were city, county, state and federal legislators, the people we had elected to determine government policy, enact laws, approve programs and their costs, and determine our tax loads.

Not too many voters had shown up at this meeting, which may explain why our legislators can get away with so much. One citizen asked a question about why taxes were so high. That question never got a direct answer. In spite of all the so-called tax cuts and reforms, total tax revenues keep going up reducing the money you have available to spend or save.

The federal government spends about a trillion dollars each year, with states, cities, counties and other taxing bodies spending about a half trillion dollars annually. Since our gross national product, what all of us earn before taxes, is about four trillion dollars, 38 cents of every dollar is going for government. Since most of our elected officials don't want to face the fact that their promises mean higher taxes, governments at all levels are going into debt, more debt each year, which translates into more money being used to pay off the interest on that debt.

I heard a couple of polite citizens suggest that the only way to cut taxes was to cut government expenditures and reduce government debt. One voter siaid that he had paid 63.9 cents for a gallon of unleaded gas, and discovered that 25 cents of that price was hidden federal, city and state taxes, so that the real price without taxes was 38.9 cents. Government was taking 40 per cent of what he had paid.

At another meeting, some citizens discussed whether the community really needed another school. There had been a small increase in the school population, but it appeared to be a temporary blip. They questioned whether a 30-40 year building with expensive construction, furnishing and operating costs, financed by bonds that would be repaid at high interest, was the best possible answer. One of the people commented, "Don't worry, most of us won't be living here during that 30 to 40 years while the bonds ar being paid off. It will end up being someone else's problem!"

I thought about something that had happened in my former hometown. Our school superintendent hired big name consultants and recommended construction of an additional high school, and expansion of a middle school and four kindergarten to fourth grade elementary schools. Most citizens didn't ask any questions, and the bond issues to pay the bill passed. Anyone who doubted that we had a need was summarily smeared for not supporting "our kids."

A few years later, with all of the projects completed and the taxes raised to pay off the cost, we found that the big student enrollment surge never materialized, the temporary blip disappeared, and the new high school was closed and rooms were closed at all of the other schools. The school superintendent resigned to become a bank teller. The taxpayers will be paying for this blunder until about 2000.

Government costs a lot of money. Taxes are high and tax reforms don't cut tax bills unless spending is cut. We must insist that legislators at all levels of government cut taxes and live within tax revenues. Our states owe $170 billion, or about $720 per person. Our federal government owes about $2.1 trillion, or about $8,400 per person. The interest debt service is about $180 billion per year.

During an election year we have an opportunity to force our legislators to face the issue of government living within its means. Tax "fairness" is a phony issue, if all that happens is rearranging who pays what and not reducing tax burdens and spending. You must take the time to elect legislators who understand that you want government spending cut, and let them know that you intend "firing" those legislators who don't have voting records supporting government spending cuts. Don't vote for legislators just because they speak well, smile a lot, have sex appeal, and send you lots of correspondence produced on an expensive electronic word processor, for which you paid, along with postage and handling costs.

That's Straight Talk!

Since when is it a crime to turn 18?

Of course turning 18 isn't a crime at all. However, turning 18 without registering with Selective Service is.

That's why we need your help. We need parents to tell their sons to register with Selective Service within a month of turning 18. And we need teachers, friends, employers and others who can influence these young men to reinforce the message.

Why? Because, for one reason, it's the law. But in addition to risking prosecution by not registering, your son or young friend is disqualifying himself from eligibility for federal student loans, federal employment and job training programs.

America's future security depends upon today's young men registering with Selective Service on time. Every young man must register within 30 days of his 18th birthday by completing a simple form at any post office. You can help. Ask a young man you know if he is registered.

Selective Service Registration.
It's Quick. It's Easy. And it's the Law.

AgriDirections

Market information provided by the Chicago Board of Trade, 141 West Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604.

The current environment in U.S. agriculture has forced farmers to seek new risk-management alternatives. Over the past two years, one such alternative has been the use of options on agricultural futures.

As more and more farmers have become familiar with this new risk-management tool, they have begun to look at agricultural options as a vital part of their marketing plans. Less than two years after the introduction of agricultural options in the form of a pilot program, which allowed each U.S. futures exchange to trade options on two agricultural futures contracts, the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG) petitioned the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC), the government regulatory agency for the futures and futures-options industry, to expand that program so that they might have access to trade options on Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) wheat futures. Initially, the CBOT offered options on corn and soybean futures under the pilot program.

Recognizing the critical need for greater risk-management capabilities for farmers, the CFTC in April 1986 unanimously approved the expansion of the existing pilot program to allow each U.S. futures exchange to trade up to five agricultural options contracts. The CBOT responded by submitting to the CFTC application to trade options on CBOT wheat, soybean meal and soybean oil futures. The CBOT's new wheat option contract, the first of the submissions to receive CFTC approval, will begin trading on Nov. 18. Additionally, the CBOT's affiliate, MidAmerica Commodity Exchange, plans to list a smaller-sized wheat options contract in the future.

Wheat options offer the dual advantage of allowing the farmer to protect himself against adverse price moves, while still retaining the opportunity to profit from favorable price moves. A wheat producer will be able to lock in a floor selling price on his crop without surrendering the benefits of a potential rise in prices.

For example, let's say that on Oct. 1, 1986, the price on wheat futures for May '87 delivery is quoted at $2.60 per bushel on the CBOT. A wheat grower could buy a May '87 put option on the CBOT at a strike price of $2.60 giving him the right to "sell" the underlying wheat futures contract at $2.60 any time from purchase through a specified future date. In purchasing the right to sell an options contract, the producer might pay a cost of 15 cents per bushel. This 15-cent cost is called premium. It is the amount of money paid for the right conveyed by the option and is a one-time up-front cost to the producer. By purchasing the $2.60 put option at a premium of 15 cents per bushel, the producer has established a $2.45-cent selling price, plus-minus the local selling basis.

If, by May '87, wheat prices decline to $2.20 per bushel, the producer has two marketing alternatives. He can choose to sell back his put option and sell his crop in the cash market. His option would be worth at least 40 cents per bushel (the difference between the $2.60 strike price and the $2.20 May futures price). Subtracting the initial 15-cent premium, the producer would increase his selling price by 25 cents per bushel by selling back his put option.

Had the producer preferred to assume a wheat futures position, he could have exercised his put option rather than selling it back. In exercising his put option, the wheat producer would be assuming a short (selling) futures position at the strike price of $2.60, which can be bought back at $2.20 in the wheat futures market. Subtracting the 15-cent premium, the producer would have realized a profit of 25 cents per bushel by exercising his put option. On a 5,000-bushel CBOT wheat option, the farmer would have received a compensation of $1,250 for the 15-cent premium cost, which could be used to margin his short futures position.

Has wheat prices increased by May '87 rather than decreased, the wheat producer could have simply allowed the option to expire and sold his crop at the higher market price, losing only the premium he originally paid for the option.

The CBOT wheat option will be based on a trading unit of one CBOT 5,000-bushel wheat futures contract. Premiums will be quoted in increments of ⅛ cent per bushel, or $6.25 per contract. Trading hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. (Chicago time), except on the last day of trading when trading will stop at noon. Strike prices will be listed in integral multiple of 10 cents and the daily trading limit will be 20 cents per bushel above or below the previous day's settlement premium.

Although the use of agricultural options is not the solution for all marketing situations, it does offer the wheat grower a versatile alternative, particularly during times of price outlook uncertainty. The primary benefit of this risk-management vehicle is that it provides the producer with the right, but not the obligation, to assume a futures position. If wheat prices increase over the life of the put option, the producer can let his option expire and profit from selling his wheat at the higher-than-expected price.

Albinos do not produce adequate amounts of pigment. The lack of pigment in the skin and hair leaves each white. The eyes appear red due to blood vessels in the eyes. As a result albinos are very sensitive to sunlight, they have poor vision and they are quite prone to develop skin cancer.

Albinism occurs due to the inability of a person to produce melanin, the major pigment molecule of the body. In normally pigmented persons the amino acid tyrosine is converted into melanin. Chemical catalysts called enzymes are responsible for this conversion. In albinos one of these enzymes is missing. The enzyme is not made, so tyrosine cannot be converted to melanin.

Where does the enzyme normally come from? It is normally made due to genes (DNA) which code for the manufacture of these enzymes. Every person has two genes that should code for the enzyme, one inherited from his mother, the other from his father. When both genes work properly, the enzyme is made, tyrosine is converted to melanin, and one is normally pigments. If for some reason one of the genes does not work properly, the person is still normally pigmented because the other gene does work. The necessary enzyme is still produced. This person, although normally pigmented, would be considered a carrier.

Two normally pigmented parents could have an albino child if both of the parents are carriers. When the parents produce a child, half of its genetic information (genes) comes from one parent, half from the other. Only one gene for the enzyme will be passed to the child by each parent. Since each parent has one good gene and one bad gene, the child could inherit one bad gene from each parent. If so, he will be an albino.

This a common pattern for genetic traits that are controlled by one set of genes. Two good genes for one good gene for a trait and the person is normal. Two bad genes cause the abnormality. These disorders are called recessive gene disorders since they only show up with two bad genes. Cystic fibrosis, Tay-Sachs disease and PKU babies are other examples of recessive gene disorders.

Another type of albinism is caused by the inability of cells to absorb tyrosine. Here the enzumes to convert tyrosine to melanin are made; the tyrosine simply cannot get into the cell where the enzymes can work on it. These albinos are not as severe as the first type. Small amounts of tyrosine do get into the cells, so small amounts of melanin are made. The person just does not have nearly enough melanin for normal pigmentation.

Obviously, among persons who are not albinos, there is still a tremendous range of skin pigmentation. Persons whose origins were in tropical Africa typically have large amounts of skin pigment to offer protection from the sun; persons whose origins were in Scandanavia typically have much smaller amounts of pigment, so the available sunlight can penetrate to allow vitamin D production. A totally separate gene system exists to control how much melanin is deposited in the skin.

There are at least five pairs of genes in this system, maybe more. If all of these genes are working, there are very heavy deposits of melanin in the skin and a person will be very dark. If none of them work, a person will have very light deposits of melanin and will have very light skin. This person is normally pigmented and not an albino. A person with half of these genes working will be intermediate in skin tone between the two extremes.

Because so many genes are involved, there are gradual shades of skin color from one extreme to the other depending on how many of the deposit genes are working. Since these genes control deposit of melanin and not its manufacture, even a person who has all the working genes for melanin deposit will be an albino if there is no melanin made to deposit. After all, where would a brick layer be without bricks.

TIMES AROUND THE REGION

Community Endeavor

Goodridge—The elementary school students in Goodridge collected over $1,000 in donations following a Walk-A-Thon to benefit a fellow schoolmate, Adrian Wiseth, a first grader who is suffering from Spina Bifida. Several adult volunteers accompanied the students, who walked a total of six miles to raise the funds. Several other benefits were also held for Adrian Wiseth, including a chili feed, auction, music and volleyball programs at the school, and grain collection. A goal of $5,000 was reached, according to Clarence Peters, chairman of the Aid Association for Lutherans. The organization will match that amount. He said, "It was the community pulling together that made it a success."

Warmth Without Bulk

Fertile—A 49-year-old Fertile woman has become a distributor for a new product called a microfurnace. The microfurnace is smaller than a six-inch cube, weighs only six pounds and can be carried in one hand to wherever heat is needed. It is designed for household use and can be plugged into any household current. The microfurnace is designed to operate 24 hours a day and the cord and cabinet stay cool to the touch even when it is operating at maximum capacity. The exclusive disc element never exceeds 380 degrees Farenheit, which is below the flammable temperature of most materials, and it automatically adjusts to any change in room termperature. Shirley Sannes, a single parent and homemaker, recently signed as a distributor for the Canadian invention, and has been busy ever since, she says.

Red Lake Gets Tough

Red Lake—The Red Lake tribal council, responding to community pleas for a tougher stance against reservation crime, revised tribal laws to include mandatory jail time for drug offenders and authority to banish second offenders from the reservation for up to a year. The Red Lake reservation has suffered continual crime problems, most spurred by drug and alcohol abuse, but this year has been extremely hard on reservation members with at least four deaths attributed to tragic causes and at the hands of others, said the Bemidji Pioneer.

Lotsa Moxie

Greenbush—A Greenbush woman was severely injured in an accident at her home October 7. Mrs. Agnes Troskey was cutting wood alone when a tree fell on her. She managed to get to her car and use the chain saw to press the accelerator in order to drive the car to a road. She was aided by a passerby on a tractor, and was taken to United hospital in Grand Forks. She sustained a broken hip and broken bones in her leg and foot.

Plea Of Guilty

Dorothy—Darrin Nick Funk, 19, of the Dorothy area, pled guilty October 13 to charges stemming from a stabbing incident and auto accident March 25 in which Ronald Jorgenson, 39, of rural Thief River Falls was killed. Funk was charged with attempted first degree murder and third degree assault after stabbing his stepfather, Wallace Hoselton, with a butcher knife, and with third degree murder after being involved in a head-on auto collision near St. Hilaire with Jorgenson. Appearing before Judge Warren Saetre, Funk was sentenced to 23 months with five years' probation for second degree assault on his stepfather and one year and one day for criminal vehicular operation for his involvement in the auto accident. Those charges were stayed and he was committed to the St. Peter treatment center. After reviewal of a psychiatric evaluation on Funk, Judge Saetre said it was clear Funk did not know right from wrong at the time of the incidents, and after fleeing the stabbing scene at his home, had intentionally attempted to end his own life by driving his vehicle into Jorgenson's at a speed estimated at 88 miles per hour. Funk, who is hearing impaired, had been attending school in Marshall prior to the incidents. An interpreter was present in the courtroom during his sentencing.

To 911 Or Not

Red Lake Falls—Red Lake county commissioners are pondering the pros and cons of a 911 emergency telephone system for the county. They must connect to emergency services by December 15, but cannot decide whether to adopt their own system or join the Polk county system.

"Council, May I?"

East Grand Forks—A city ordinance that requires candidates for public office in city elections, primaries and general elections to get city council approval before their supporters can put up lawn signs was termed ridiculous by active DFLer and former city council president, Henry Tweten, speaking at an October 7 city council meting. He said, "We are the only community in a wide area that requires candidates to ask city aldermen's prior permission to put up their signs." He suggested that local representatives of the two major parties be invited to meet with a council committee soon to determine an acceptable change in the ordinance.

No Light Matter

Newfolden—The Newfolden city council voted October 6 to take three former city residents with delinquent light bills to small claims court. The three delinquent bills total about $800. At the end of September, there were also 20 delinquent light bills among city residents, totalling about $2,000. Three of those residents have been warned about a shut-off deadline.

Clean Water Act Clears Congress Without Dissent

Congressman Arlan Stangeland yesterday joined 407 other Members of the House of Representatives in a historic move by unanimously passing the Clean Water Act of 1986. It is one of the few times in history that a major environmental bill has passed the House by a unanimous recorded vote.

Along with providing five-year extensions of several existing programs, the bill creates a new revolving fund program to help states construct needed pollution control facilities and a new non-point source pollution control program.

Among the many features of the legislation is the clean lakes program which would be extended for five years at $30 million per year. State and local governments use the program for assistance in restoring water quality in lakes.

For the restoration of water quality in lakes which have deteriorated from a variety of sources, the bill also provides $40 million for grants to carry out specified demonstration projects.

The rural set aside program would be changed from four per cent to at least four per cent but not more than 7.5 per cent. Under this program, money which is ordinarily made available for construction grant projects in states with rural populations of at least 25 per cent is made available to fund alternatives to conventional sewage treatment works in smaller communities or highly dispersed areas.

Also extended in the bill at an annual authorization level of $50 million is the rural clean water program, which aids farmers in controlling runoff from their land.

Rice Developer Earns Alumni Award At U Of M

Te Tzu Chang, developer of a rice variety that staved off serious food shortages around the world, has received the Outstanding Achievement award from the University of Minnesota board of regents. The highest honor conferred on alumni, it recognizes unusual accomplishments in the recipient's field.

Chang and two colleagues developed a semi-dwarf variety of rice that led to the "Green Revolution" in the late 1960s. The rice varieties that followed his early work are now grown on 40 per cent of the world's rice land, excluding China, Japan and Korea. Chang currently manages one of the world's most active seed exchange services in his role as principal scientist and head of the International Rice Germplasm Center, part of the International Rice Research institute (IRRI) in Manila.

A 1949 graduate of the University of Nanking, China, Chang spent three years as assistant agronomist on the Sino-American joint commission on rural reconstruction in Taipei, Taiwan. He received a master of science degree in plant genetics from Cornell university in 1954 and a doctorate in 1959 from the University of Minnesota. He then returned to the Sino-American commission as a senior rice research specialist and joined the IRRI in 1961.

The American Society of Agronomy elected Chang a fellow in 1978 and chose him as the first foreign recipient of the prestigious International Agronomy award in 1980. He was elected a fellow of the Insitute of Biology in London in 1981, one of few foreign agricultural scientists to receive that honor. Chang also received the 1969 John Scott Award, given by the city of Philadelphia for inventions "significant to improving the well-being of mankind."

Women represented 61 per cent of all persons 16 years old and over who had incomes below the poverty level in 1984, according to a fact sheet on women workers published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

U.S. Lacks Will To Pay Bills, Invest In The Future

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

Recently Adam Smith asserted that before long, this country will again recognize the need for expanding government programs that contribute to economic efficiency, growth and competitiveness. To coin a phrase, I couldn't agree more.

Indeed, the devout supply-siders really missed a bet by their failure to recognize the need to beef up programs of public investment that are vital to private economic health and growth, even if this requires some added tax revenues.

I refer first of all to investments in human brainpower, in the public education required to cut down our appalling level of illiteracy and to equip our population to compete more effectively in a high-tech world. But beyond this, everything from highway to air transport to water treatment and waste disposal require public investment to go hand in hand with private investment to promote growth.

Granted, there is little evidence that we are willing to pay for this kind of public investment. We have not even been coming within $200 billion a year of paying for the civilian and military services we demand from the federal government. And far from showing a national will to invest in the future, we have been on a consumer binge financed by liquidating our assets overseas, by gorging on a huge flow of imports and by depressing our national savings and investment rates to the lowest levels in half a century.

Can't we afford to do better? Of course we can:

—We are still the richest country on earth, with the highest levels of wealth per capita and the highest annual flow of goods and services per capita.

—Our total federal, state and local taxes, at 29 per cent of gross national product, are the lowest of any advanced country except Japan.

—And recent studies have shown that we are by all odds the least socialized industrial economy in the world.

No amount of political rhetoric can refute these hard cold facts. We are entirely capable of paying our bills and investing in the future. What's missing is not the way, but the will.

OTH-B Information Meet Draws 130 Thursday

by David Hill
Times Reporter

About 130 to 140 people met in the city auditorium Thursday night in Thief River Falls to discuss, for what might be the last time, the Over the Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) radar system before the final draft is written.

The comment period, extended from October 6, will end on October 31. Anyone with comments on the proposed radar system and/or the Environmental Impact Study (EIS) is encouraged to write before that deadline.

At the meeting Thursday, about an equal number of supporters and opponents heard from several experts chosen by Don Dyrdal of rural Thief River Falls and some of the other opponents. Dyrdal is regarded by some as the opposition leader. The panel of experts assembled included Albert Koop, Pennington county commissioner; Gordon Forester, area wildlife manager for the Minnesota department of natural resources; Paul Burns, staff member of Minnesota department of agriculture and personal representative of agriculture secretary Jim Nichols; Dr. Duane Dahlberg, Concordia college physics professor and board chairman of the Minnesota pollution control agency; Ered Shumacher, Kindred, ND, farmer and electrical technician; and Vere Vollmers, vice president of the Minnesota Farmers Union. Each spoke for about 10 minutes.

The OTH-B radar receiver site proposed could be located west of Thief River falls, and the site selection area includes part of or the entire area of the following townships: Brislet, Angus, Euclid, Helgeland, Brandt, Belgium, Numedahl, Bray, Polk Centre, Norden, Sanders and Black River.

The OTH-B radar is a surveillance and tracking system that the United States air force plans to construct and operate in four locations in the United States. The function of these radar systems is to detect, track and give early warning of aircraft and cruise missiles approaching North America to the North American aerospace defense command and the national command authorities.

The site near Thief River Falls would be a receive site. The structural difference between the transmit site and receive site would be a longer antenna array (about 9,000 feet), a closer exclusion fence, and the use of only a single subarray with a uniform 65-foot tall back-screen at the receive site. The receive site would require a total of at least 2,400 acres.

Appeal Procedure Lacking For Day Activity Center Director

No appeal procedure apparently exists for Evan Armstrong to explain publicly what his situation is regarding alleged abuse of clients at the Falls Day Activity center which he has directed for more than 15 years, according to Armstrong's attorney, Kurt Marben.

In a letter to the board of directors of the DAC, Cheryl Nyhus, supervisor of the treatment and habilitation services section in the Minnesota Human Services department, ordered that Armstrong be allowed "no direct care responsibility, or other contact with participants of the developmental achievement center" and that he "shall not have access to the facility during hours that clients are present." He was also stripped of supervisory authority over other staff personnel.

Sandra Johnson, Fosston, northwest region legal assistant for legal advocacy for developmentally disabled persons in Minnesota, told the Grand Forks Herald that she had been contacted by DAC staff members early in October. She said staff members had signed affidavits alleging grabbing and squeezing, hitting and slapping on the face and hand, verbal abuse and throwing water in the face of clients. None of the allegations charge sexual abuse or serious bodily injury.

Investigation of the allegations was done by Pennington county social services personnel and by Jean King of Fergus Falls, one of several state licensers for the Department of Human Serrvices. The investigation consisted of questioning staff members and the director.

Gary Erickson, director of Pennington county social services, said that his department and the state human services department are charged with determining in such cases if the allegations are "substantiated", "unsubstantiated" or "not clearly unsubstantiated." He said that in private meetings with Armstrong, his attorney and state personnel that Armstrong did not deny the allegations and that they are considered to be in the "substantiated" category.

Erickson added that the burden of proof for such an investigation is substantially less than would be required in a civil or criminal court case since it deals with regulatory authority. He said that the day activity center has about 30 mentally retarded clients — about half from Pennington county and half from other counties — who pay a fee of $22.50 per day to participate in DAC care and activities.

Attorney Marben said that he is firmly convinved Armstrong did not violate DHS Rule 3 as alleged in the Cheryl Nyhus letter. "DHS Rule 3 (1968) requires that under no condition is corporal punishment to be administered to participants of a development achievement center," the letter states. "Further, Minnesota Statutes 626.557, Section 11, requires the commissioner of human services to take action with respect to the license of a facility or person to prevent further abuse of vulnerable adults.

"Complaints have been filed with the department of human services, division of licensing, alleging that an identified staff person physically abused participants, verbally abused abused participants and used corporal punishment. Based on the results of the investigation, it has been determined that the allegations are substantiated." (Armstrong is not identified by name in the letter. Reference is made only to "the identified staff person".)

Following the order regarding Armstrong's contact with clients and removal of his supervisory authority, the letter states: "Please respond by mail with your plan of action to immediately implement these orders. Failure to comply may result in further licensing action against your facility."

Marben said the DAC board is put in the uncomfortable position of having to act on Armstrong's situation without being informed of the allegations. Larry McDowell, attorney for the DAC board, said that the board had not received specific written allegations against Armstrong. Marben said he also had not received written allegations and that he was sending a letter to the human services department with a request for them.

He also said he believes Armstrong is being deprived of due process by not being provided with a formal hearing on his alleged actions. Marben said the only way he believes this could come about would be for the DAC board to defy the state division's order involving Armstrong and therefore have its license to operate revoked by the state. Such revocation would permit appeal by the board which could open the case to more public scrutiny.

At the present time, Armstrong is considered to be on voluntary leave of absence and his daughter, Sherrie Thompson, has been named temporary acting director.

Attorney McDowell said that Thompson has been assistant director of the DAC for the past three years, in charge of finances for the past two years, a seven-year employee of the center and formally educated at Northland community college and in special training for work in the field. She was the most logical choice for the interim role, he said.

The Armstrongs also operate a foster home for mentally handicapped persons and have had four adults in their care. One of the residents is a DAC client and that person has been removed from the home by the social services department with concurrence of the Armstrongs.

No formal charges have been filed against Armstrong. David Olin, county attorney, said his office is reviewing the material and information available as well as awaiting word from the state human services department. He said he expects to reach a decision soon on whether or not legal charges will be filed.

As requested by Nyhus in her letter, the DAC board has responded to the orders issued by the state agency. McDowell's letter to Nyhus states that the DAC board met in special session October 20 and adopted a resolution to extend Armstrong's reduction of responsibility for a period of 30 days.

The letter also notes that the board is not in agreement with the restrictions placed on Armstrong's access to the facility nor elimination of supervisory authority. "Without further explanation from your department," the letter states, "It is the board's position that these restrictions have no bearing on the allegations as they know them."

The letter further states that the board intends to provide a plan of action to be implemented in regard to

Seven Seek School Board Posts

Election of three members to the School District 564 board of education will take place concurrently with the general election on Tuesday, November 4. Voters will cast their ballots at their regular general election polling places when choosing among seven candidates for the three vacancies.

Candidates for the three open positions have been invited by the Times to present their backgrounds and views in today's issue and all have responded with self-prepared articles. Voters are encouraged to read all of the articles prior to casting their ballots next Tuesday.

In addition to terms of incumbents Rev. Paul Bortnem and Greg Pribula, both of whom have filed for reelection, the term of the late Myrle Carlson also expired this year. The board of education has elected not to appoint a replacement for Carlson until after the general election.

Thief River Falls school district is one of only several in the state which conducts its election together with the general election. Until two years ago School District 564 also held its election separately. The change was made in an attempt to increase voter turnout in school elections and serve as a convenience to voters.

Kim DeHaan To Combine Travel With Profession

Kimberly DeHaan, granddaughter of Otto and Mary Ann Myhrer, is a member of Medical Recruiters of America and the Cross Country nurses, a program which helps individuals enrich their nursing careers through travel.

A 1981 graduate of Lafayette high school, DeHaan received an associate of arts degree from Northland community college in 1983 and graduated as a licenses proactical nurse from the Thief River Falls AVTI in 1984. he continued her studies at Northland community college until achieving the title of registered nurse in 1985.

Her first position was as a staff nurse at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls. After the facility closed, she moved to Mahnomen County and Village hospital before joining the traveling nurse program.

Her first assignment after admission to the program was in Eagle Pass, TX, where she worked in the obstetrical and surgical departments as a nurse at Maverick County hospital. She is presently employed as a medical surgical nurse in a 90-bed facility in Cambridge, MD, and later this month will move to Margate, FL, where she will work on the medical surgical floor of a 165-bed facility.

DeHaan was introduced to Medical Recruiters association by fellow staff members at Maverick County hospital, and liked the idea of traveling and nursing, so she joined the organization in August of this year. Nurses in the program live in a nurses' dorm near the hospital where they have their own rooms, but share a kitchenette and lounge. Through the nurses' program, nurses receive assignments that exist in rural and urban areas and have the option of staying in one place from four to 26 weeks.

OTH-B Information Meet Draws Crowd In TRF Thursday

After the first expert, Albert Koop, county commissioner, who presented information on the tax base and loss to county and townships, Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson stood up and told Koop and the crowd that 65 per cent of Pennington county lives in Thief River Falls and that is where most of the taxes come from. He also questioned Dyrdal as to the intent of the meeting and whether he was attempting to close off debate by both sides and control the meeting so that only the opposition would be heard from.

Koop presented figures about the tax losses which would be spread throughout the county, stating that the exact location of the site was unknown and the figures were only averages. Koop listed the following figures: Black River has a $101,209 average tax base, the county would lose $16,882, and the township would have to come up with $197 if four sections are taken; Sanders has a $184,725 average tax base, the county would lose $20,525 and the township $1,724; Norden has an average tax base of $160,615, the county would lose $22,313 and the township would lose $1,778.52; Numedal has an average tax base of $125,016, the county would lose $18,520, and the township would have to make up $1,076; Polk Centre has an average tax base of $83,175, the county would lose $13,862 and the township, $1,066; and Bray has an average tax base of $125,172, the county would lose $13,906 and the township would lose $333.40.

Gordon Forester of the Minnesota department of natural resources, explained that the department of natural resources has several concerns and had drafted a letter to which he referred during his presentation. The department of natural resources, he said, was mainly concerned with the effect radio frequency radiation would have on small birds and animals. He noted that many migratory birds rely for guidance on an electromagnetic sense which could be disrupted by certain radio frequencies. He also was concerned with collisions birds might have with the high screen.

Paul Burns of the Minnesota department of agriculture said he was here on behalf of agriculture secretary Jim Nichols. He commented that the department of agriculture had several concerns which had been addressed to the air force. Among those concerns were requests for further definition of the type of land to be used, effects on roads, water supply and job impact.

"It is clear that when there is a change in the electromagnetic field, there is a change in us," said Dr. Duane Dahlberg, Concordia college physics professor and board chairman of the Minnesota pollution control agency. Dahlberg said that he was not at the meeting as an official representative of the pollution control agency but as an expert in the study of electromagnetic fields.

Dahlberg said there was ample evidence to indicate a correlation between electromagnetic fields and the body. Many surgeons rely on that evidence when conducting surgery, he said, but that not enough research has been done to determine an exact cause and effect relationship.

The body of research, he said, does indicate that effects on the body's own electromagnetic field does occur even with relatively low levels of energy. "The particular type does not seem to matter as much as how much energy is there," he said.

This type of energy can affect the cardiovascular system, immunology system and central nervous system. He said a great deal of basic information has been assembled in other countries and by comparison, Russia's allowable electromagnetic energy level standards are 1,000 to 10,000 times more stringent than America's. He said he could only explain the difference as a difference in philosophies in which the Americans believe the shock standard makes more sense.

Fred Schumacher, farmer from Kindred, ND, and expert with electronics, gave a detailed description of what type of energy and how much would be used at the receiver site, and the transmitter site. He concluded that the system could cause harm to humans; cannot determine what all the blips on the screen mean; targets the public here as guinea pigs; and the United States already has a better system with its satellites.

"It is no secret to anyone here tonight that no more agriculture land is being made," said Vere Vollmers, Minnesota Farmers Union vice president. "No matter what, we are all visitors and we have a responsibility to pass the land on to future generations so that it can be used," he said.

Vollmers said he was naturally concerned about the OTH-B radar site near Thief River Falls because it would involve productive farmland. But he did not limit his comments to the effect on farmland. Vollmers wondered if the OTH-B radar system was really necessary when the deficit is so high. He wondered if it was a way for the Pentagon to spend money it carried over from previous years just because it had the money available.

He also took issue with Mayor Carlson when he said it was true that Thief River Falls has 65 per cent of the population in Pennington county, but in democracies, the majority also looks after the minority.

Mayor Carlson said he wondered what business the agriculture department and other public officials had in participating in an obviously stacked meeting.

After the discussions by the experts, written questions from the audience were answered by the panel and Dyrdal. After the questions were answered, Tom Kenville, liason representative for Jobs Inc. and member of the North Dakota air national guard, surprised the audience by providing a list of answers to the questions posed by opposition ot the air force proposal.

Silence followed revelation of the answers to those questions and the meeting adjourned shortly thereafter.

Dyrdal said he has no plans for the near future and no further meetings have been scheduled. He did say that if the public is better informed, then he has accomplished his goal. He added that there still is time to write comments to the air force.

Seven To Seek School District 564 Board Posts

of the many reasons I am seeking a position on the board of District 564 is that I believe that when you live in a community for a number of years you should invest some of your time and energy back into the community instead of constantly taking from the community resources. A position on the board of education allows you to do this.

I am Jay R. Borchert, a resident and taxpayer in this district for the past 22 years. I currently reside at 506 S. Maple in this city. I am married, and have two children attending schools in this district. I am in the insurance business and own and operate the Bakke-Borchert and Associates insurance agency in partnership with Darrell Bakke. I have been in the insurance profession for 21 years, serving people of northwestern Minnesota.

I belong to Zion Lutheran church, and serve the Northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church as an interim lay pastor throughout this area. I am a charter member of Northland chapter of Life Underwriters, serving currently as educational chairman. I have taught several courses of insurance for continuing education at the AVTI. I graduated from Dawson county high school in Glendive, MT. Then attended Concordia college, Moorhead, graduating with a degree in political science and history, and Luther Theological seminary in St. Paul.

When spare time allows I enjoy all kinds of hunting and fishing activities afforded by this area. We try to attend as many school sports events as time allows.

Some of the major problems we will face in the future on our school board are problems we face in the total community: Our declining population, causing decling enrollments; the rural economic crisis affecting everyone, school, businesses, taxes; the problem of buildings, and classrooms. While I don't have any easy answers for the above problems, I do promise to listen to everyone and act carefully in the interests of the voters of Independent School District 564. Your vote on Tuesday, November 4, will be appreciated!

south of here. He is not a slow achiever; in fact, he asked me to take him to the library so that he could get reading material that would help him catch up with the rest of his classmates. His class size is 15 to 20 students; our class sizes are 30 or more. We have to do something about getting the class sizes down in the first four grades. The most important part of a youngster's education is the first four years of school. We also have to put more effort in stressing the "three Rs" in elementary education.

Many students have sat in my class in the Middle school, and I have learned that they cannot read at a third or fourth grade level. That is not the fault of the teachers, it is the fault of our school system. Thirty to 40 students per class is absolutely out of the question in the first four grades.

When I was asked to come to Thief River Falls by a former superintendent, Thief River Falls school district was rated one of the best school systems (education wise) in the state. The elementary teachers had qualified reading aids. Through the years I have watched many excellent instructors leave our school district for other districts. There were two reasons for that, they could see the standard of education in our system going down, and there is always the reason of more salary some place else.

I could have moved my family to several other school districts many years ago, but I believed Thief River Falls was a very good place to raise my family. I would like to be a part of keeping it that way.

I also feel uneasy about the fact that St. Hilaire does not have its grade school. I believe they were promised that when their school district consolidated with the Thief River Falls school district

☒ Elect JACK BOYER

Board of Education School District 564

I have been in education for 36 years and 29 of those have been in the Thief River Falls school system.

Whether you vote for me or not, please exercise your civic duty; get out and vote on November 4.

As a school board member, I will work toward the following issues:

(1) To seek a full time athletic director who can communicate with the public.
(2) To be responsive to unnecessary spending.
(3) To reduce class size in the first four elementary grades (this is badly needed).
(4) To put more emphasis on basic education, returning to the three R's.
(5) To work toward an elementary school for the St. Hilaire people.
(6) To visit school buildings, and make regular assessments of the grounds and district personnel.
(7) To represent the majority of the people and their wishes.

Applications For TRF Fifth Ward Being Accepted

Applications to fill the unexpired term of Clayton Restad on the Thief River Falls city council are now being taken. Restad will retire from his position as fifth ward alderman, which he has held since Jan. 1, 1976, on November 15.

Restad's resignation leaves a vacancy on the city council for a fifth ward alderman. The unexpired term which the council wishes to fill with a volunteer from fifth ward is for one year and will expire at the next city election on Nov. 3, 1987.

Anyone who lives within the fifth ward is eligible to be appointed by the council. The boundaries of fifth ward are the Red Lake River on the north and east and the center line of Crocker avenue on the west, with the southern boundary marked by the city limits. A resume or letter outlining the candidate's interest and qualifications should be turned in to the city clerk's office by November 10.

Restad is also retiring from his position as a driver's education and secondary math instructor. He has worked at Lincoln high school since Sept. 1, 1957. His combined work record as a teacher and his age qualified him for the retirement rule of 85. Under the rule of 85 the educator's combined age and work record must equal a total of 85.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Election Predictions

It's time once again to match guesstimates with the others who are interested in the outcome of the November 4 election. We are presenting our own guesses as to how the voters will make their selection and invite others to write down their guesses, then match them after the election and see how they compare.

It should be emphasized that our selections as winners do not necessarily mean we will support those candidates at the polls, nor are the selections to be construed as endorsements. They are only guesses and are to be taken by candidates and supporters in that light. Voters should also make their own decisions based on their personal knowledge or views on the candidates, their political parties or their particular interests.

Let's take a look first at the county ballot.

County attorney David Olin and challenger John Novacek survived the primary and are seeking the county attorney position. Both have waged active campaigns with Novacek emphasizing trial experience and Olin emphasizing that trials are a small percentage of county attorney work. Our prediction is that Olin will win reelection with a comfortable margin.

County recorder Eugene Prestegaard is opposed by Ann Pluth-Olson, deputy auditor in the county auditor's office. Mrs. Olson will garner some votes from persons interested in having more women elected to office that will increase her vote total, but we doubt they will be enough. We'll pick Prestegaard to win reelection.

County sheriff position ranks high in area interest because long time Sheriff Chuck Richards is retiring and there is no incumbent in the race. Deputy Bob Wold and Police Officer Jim Haugen are both capable, qualified and well-liked young men. The voters can't go wrong in selecting either one. With only two candidates, there was no primary test. Haugen gained good support in the last election, facing incumbent Richards. On the basis of Wold's experience and contacts with the department, we are going to give him a slight edge — but it will be razor thin. Extent of city voter turnout may be the deciding factor.

For county treasurer there is another race without an incumbent since veteran treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson is hanging up his ledger. The race is between his assistant, Vickie Bjorgaard, and local farmer-businessman Leo Nelson. Nelson led 10 candidates in the primary with 891 votes while Bjorgaard received 744. The combined total, however, was just over half of the 2,979 votes cast. We'll go out on a limb on this one and pick Bjorgaard on the basis of her knowledge and experience of office procedure. This is another race where the voters will be well served if either candidate wins.

Unopposed are Dr. Richard Heinrichs for county coroner, Donald Grabanski for second district commissioner and Bill Penning for fourth district commissioner. Also unopposed are county soil and water conservation district supervisors Raymond S. Olson in the first district and Clair Larson in the fifth district.

A whole pile of judges and justices are on the ballot, most of whom are unopposed. Notable exceptions are in the Ninth District where F. R. Weddel is opposed by James R. Wilson and Clinton Wyant is opposed by John Graham. Both of those offices have created active campaigns, particularly the Weddel-Wilson match-up where attorneys in Beltrami county favored Wilson over incumbent Weddel 25 to 19 (see editorial in this issue). In predicting, however, we'll have to expect the public to ride with the incumbents and elect both Weddel and Wyant.

On the state general election ballot we get a freebie pick for state House of Representatives from District 1B. Wally Sparby is unopposed and should pack in a big bunch of votes. For state Senate, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf is opposed by Jim Butler in District 1. Sen. Stumpf is a shoo-in at a margin of almost two to one.

For U.S. Representative in Congress the plot thickens a little more. Five term incumbent Arlan Stangeland should be vulnerable by most political assessments, but polls seem to indicate that his challenger, State Sen. Collin Peterson, isn't gathering the support that might be expected. Rep. Stangeland has rarely had a comfortable margin, but he has always managed to win. The big question this time around is whether voters will hang a poor farm economy on his coattails or believe he has done all he can for farmers as one legislator. Given the farm situation, we had expected to pick Peterson a winner. But we now think Stangeland can weather another storm and get just enough votes to win another squeaker.

The state ballot should find Perpich-Johnson handily beating Ludeman-Schulstad for governor, Joan Growe swamping Don Koenig for secretary of state, Arne Carlson out-polling John Dooley for state auditor and Mike McGrath winning by a small margin over John Drew for state treasurer. Neither of the latter are exactly household names. And Skip Humphrey will again skip into the state attorney general's office, leaving Lew Freeman crawling along behind.

That's the way we see the voters acting on November 4. After the election we'll let you know how we fared. But join the fun and make your own selections. Sample ballots are published in today's issue of the Times. Clip them out and mark who you expect to win, then compare your selections with the election results published in the Times.

Backing Backscatter . . . One Person's View

Fervent opposition to locating a receiver site for the Over-the-Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) radar system in the Thief River Falls area has generated discussion and brought up points of concern that we believe were important. It's good to have divergent views presented so that they can be weighed and studied and evaluated. That's America in action.

But our views have changed little since the U.S. air force first explained in Thief River Falls what it would like to do in this area as part of the national defense program. On the basis of access to available technology, knowledge of system success and familiarity with strategic needs of the nation, the air force would have to be considered the experts. We have to trust their judgment and we have to believe they are sincere in their assessment of need.

Evident in the opposition to the system is a deep-seated distrust of government — especially the federal government — that is very disturbing. It is disturbing because the distrust is not entirely unwarranted, and our federal officials must look inwardly for the reasons those suspicions exist.

Although we recognize the concerns which those as close to the situation as having their own lands considered apparently share, we do not harbor the same fears that have been repeated in letters and comments over the past several weeks.

For instance, we don't believe there is enough electromagnetic energy nor radiation from the receiver site to pose any hazard to anything. It should be no more dangerous than the dish antennas seen in many rural yards, no more of a threat than lying in front of a color television set.

Given the state of the nation's agricultural situation, the concern about taking "prime farmland" out of production seems unwarranted. (For the individual whose farmland may be involved, the personal question is different.) Should the nation find itself faced with a lack of farmland at some point in the future, the backscatter radar areas could again be available since the land would still be there.

Loss of tax revenue could be worth considering on a county or school district basis, but we feel individual townships which generally levy only a mill or two would probably stand to gain due to improvements or services the air force is likely to provide.

There could be some inconveniences due to rerouting of roads, but we see no problem with ditches or water courses. Even the federal government would be hard-pressed to defend itself for altering water courses and thereby causing hardship.

Associating the OTH-B site with the nuclear waste repository study is pure paranoia. Overlapping of areas is purely coincidental, and we have no doubt of that. It would very likely be much more difficult for one federal agency to acquire land from another federal agency than for either to acquire land from the general public.

It is good that concerns have been expressed and that they have been forwarded to the air force. It is good that meetings have been held and that the public has become informed and involved. It is too bad, however, if this is made out to be a city versus rural area issue, for it certainly should not be so.

This writer supports the project because it appears that the benefits will outweigh the disadvantages. A favorable balance is about all that can be asked in community development. Others choose to view the situation differently and that is their privilege; we have no quarrel with that. But until we are shown more than speculation on problems and motives, we will continue to back the backscatter radar program.

More On The Judges

If there has ever been a ho-hum part of an election in most past years, it has been the election of court judges. Most of the time they have been appointed and become reelected unopposed or with only token opposition until they are ready to retire from the bench.

Not so this year in the Ninth Judicial District where the two incumbent judges are receiving substantial challenge from aggressive opponents. Both judicial races have stimulated a great deal of interest in their local areas, but voters in the rest of the district are likely blissfully unaware of the turmoil going on. As a result, the word "incumbent" on the ballot behind the judge's name is likely to carry more weight than it probably should.

In one circumstance at least we believe the public should be aware before going into the voting booth November 4. An opinion poll was taken of the members of the Beltrami county bar association and 44 of the 50 ballots mailed out were returned. Judge F. R. Weddel received only 19 of those votes while James R. Wilson received 25. On the other hand, Judge Clinton Wyant received 35 votes and challenger John Remington Graham only seven.

Even the most casual observer would have to believe that a lack of confidence by the majority of attorneys in the county where a judge frequently presides indicates a serious problem in that area. Attorneys are not likely to incur the disfavor of a judge before whom they will have to try their cases unless their dissatisfaction or lack of respect is quite deep rooted. Witness the 35-vote support for Judge Wyant.

We don't know the qualifications of James R. Wilson, the Clearwater county attorney, but apparently enough attorneys in Beltrami county think he would be an improvement over what they have to cause them to jump the tracks. We will have to go along with the majority of attorneys and ride with the Wilson bandwagon over Judge Weddel. And we would suggest voters look at the word "incumbent" behind judges on the ballot as only a condition rather than a qualification.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

One of the best-kept secrets in Pennington county is the charm of Greenwood Recreation Trails, located in the area of Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls. An October hike along its paths gave a boost to our spirts as well as an appreciation of the natural beauty that surrounds the rivers that wend their way through our city.

The descent down the steep hill to the swift-flowing river was a pleasant introduction to a walk much different from our usual jaunts about the prairie. Across the river we glimpsed manicured lawns ending at the wooded high river bank. The log house nestled under giant trees would be the subject of a painting.

Although the vibrant colors of tree tops are only memory, the loveliness of autumn remained in the understory of the forest. Russet and emerald leaves glowed on shrubs newly open to light. Seed-pods and dark berries offered punctuation to angled sticks of bruch.

As we hiked along we were pleasantly aware of the woodsy fragrance of oak leaves underfoot. The notched leaves were still whole and so nice that we almost hesitated to step upon them, but we were soon grateful for the protection they gave from the mud beneath. In some places the dry leaves rustled and cracked as we shuffled through. When we stopped still, the faint sound of traffic intruded.

Ahead, on our side of the river, high bluffs of clay stopped at the edge of lawns bordering new houses. Our pathway turned uphill, away from the river. For awhile we thought we might have to retrace our steps to get back, but soon a tiny trail appeared at our left. We continued along through a meadow-like area, crossing an oak belt with great old trees, hardly pausing to admire the last of the season's wildflowers: purple asters.

You can walk to Greenwood Trails from town. We started on the east side of the dam, almost hidden that day by vapor, but roaring as usual. Continuing close to the river, we passed pleasant homes of the riverbend neighborhood called the "Horseshoe." At times Columbia Road borders the river, and from it a new vista of Hartz Park across the water unfolded. We walked past Jerome Street and soon the park came into view, marked by a wooden sign. Although entrance into Greenwood Park was impeded by a puddle, we made it in easily, balancing ourselves on the road's edge.

Helen Hunt Jackson wrote of "October's Bright Blue Weather." We had already discovered much to enjoy. On our walk back we took time to admire yards. A curb-side flower bed of yellows and reds centered by an evergreen gave a sudden delight. On one expanse of lawn an oval carpet of golden splendor rippled about a birch tree. Even on the heavily-overcast day, we were reminded that "Autumn is a second spring — every leaf, a flower."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Since when is it all right for a church to disturb the peace? I'm talking about the new bells at Zion Lutheran church. I live right across the alley from the church and these bells are very offensive to us. The bells echo through our house; I can just imagine what this will be like in the summer with the windows open; it will be unbearable.

When they first were put up I called the church and spoke to Pastor Larson. I requested that just the 9 p.m. bell be stopped (it was waking the kids) and the volume be turned down. The 9 p.m. bell has stopped but the bell sounds louder than ever.

I waited a couple more weeks and called Pastor Larson again. I asked to have the bells turned down and I was told that just one person being bothered wasn't enough. It other words, my family didn't count. He said that Trinity Lutheran and the Methodist church had bells so Zion should be able to play them just as loud, even though they are bothering us. The 10th commandment is "Thou shall not covet thy neighbor." This means you shouldn't want something just because someone else has it. But Zion seems to think that this one is all right to break.

He then told me there are others farther away that can't hear the bells and would like to; if he couldn't please me, maybe he should try to please them. In other words, if I don't quit calling he's going to turn them up; a Pastor threatening? He went on to tell me if I couldn't live with the bells that I should sell my house and move elsewhere. Imagine that; their bells are more important than our home!

If I were to play loud music in my yard you can bet I would hear it from everyone. So why aren't more people complaining about this? If anyone wants to hear how this sounds, please call me at 681-8502 for a demonstration. I would be glad to have people hear this from our yard.

Jeanine Molstad

To The Editor:

I am writing this letter in opposition to any type of site in this the Thief River Falls area, whether it be a radar site or a hazardous waste site (nuclear or toxic).

It is my opinion that we (our society) waste far too much and consider far too little. A prime example is just this case. I feel that it is a complete waste of our tax dollars to build a radar site which will soon be obsolete, when we could use our satellite technology to do the same job with far fewer health risks to be considered.

Second is the inconsideration to the residents of the area. If you were to take a close look at the proposed area you would see family farms, wetlands which support vast numbers of waterfowl, and wooded acreage which supports numerous types of big game animals and upland game, and last but not least other rural residents.

As a citizen, family man and a sportsman I have many fears and concerns.

As a citizen, I'm concerned with what appears to be a real waste of tax dollars, in an almost obsolete system at a time with a real deficit in our government for more needed projects, like the clean-up of present hazardous waste sites.

As a family man, my fears are as such, including the health risk of the proposed radar site to my family and the fear of maybe a hazardous waste site in the same area. To think that no health risk is involved is idiotic. To believe that the two sites coincidentally are being sited in the same area is insulting to the intelligence of all those affected.

As a sportsman, my fears are even more regulations to our already confusing game laws and regulations, and the same health effects for the animals involved as for human residents of the area.

Thank you for your time. A response would be greatly appreciated.

TIMES AROUND THE REGION

New Ownership

Erskine — Rolandson's body shop has become a Rolandson-Miller body shop upon a recent puechase by Jerry and Karen Miller. Gary Rolandson plans to continue on in the business for at least another year. The grand opening of the store, along with a 25th anniversary celebration, will be announced at a later date.

Lights By The Legion

Greenbush — The Greenbush American Legion post has contributed $965 to purchase a new light bar for one of the city's fire trucks. The old bar no longer complied with new regulations, necessitating the purchase.

Christian Clown

Middle River — Is it a bird? Is it a plane? No, it's Christian Clown. Pastor Mark Gehrke uses clown make-up and costume to bring his "Christian Clown Ministry" to different social events throughout the area. Out of costume, he is the pastor of First Lutheran church in Middle River.

Big Bean Business

Alvarado — Locally grown pinto, navy and great northern beans are being processed, cleaned and bagged at Alvarado, ready for sale nationwide, especially in areas in the southern United States. The plant has recently added a new 60x80 foot building to accommodate the growing business. They also process green split and whole beans and yellow split and whole beans from Canada, as well as locally grown lentils.

Tops In Carrots

Oklee — A carrot-growing operation has become big business for the Korydon Chervestads of Oklee. They presently supply carrots to wholesalers in Grand Forks, ND, and Thief River Falls, and four in Fargo, ND, with plans to add a Duluth wholesaler in the near future. The Chervestads were recently chosen "Farmer of the Month" for the second time by the Volts and Jolts newspaper.

Alaskan Wilderness

Roseau — Jason Stromstad, a 1981 graduate of Roseau high school, has been serving as a missionary in Alaska for the past year. At the outpost of Nome, he broadcasts over a Christian station to an audience of Eskimos, merchant marines and Russians. Nome is located about 500 miles from Anchorage on the Seward Peninsula, 200 miles from Siberia. It is cut off from the rest of Alaska by hundreds of miles of mountains and tundra. No roads lead there, and access is by plane, dog sled or boat.

Grocers Since 1950

Lancaster — Floyd and Glenn Sanner are retiring from the grocery business after 36 years. They purchased their grocery business in 1944. Sale was completed last week to Gerald and Helene Grabowska, former Thief River Falls residents and former owners of the Goodridge Hartz store.

Watch Those Improvements

Erskine — Eight persons entered pleas of guilty in Crow Wing county court to violations of state water laws and department of natural resources regulations following an investigation begun in the summer of 1985. Charges included filling, grading and excavation for beach development and access roads without a permit to work in protected waters, and removing of aquatic vegetation without a permit. Violations occurred at Blue Lake, involving approximately 825 feet of shoreline on six lots of undeveloped property in a recently platted subdivision. Fines from $200 to $500 were levied by the court, and two contractors and five landowners received 30-day suspended jail sentences. Two of those charged were required to replant bulrush plants that had been destroyed. DNR officials said the case emphasizes the need for persons who are considering the purchase of lakeshore, particularly undeveloped property, not to assume they can make desired improvements without first checking into what work is allowed.

Lots Of Stories

Hallock — The Kittson county jail, built in 1914 at a total cost of $14,400, was demolished October 15 to make room for a new parking lot. In two and one-half hours, the three-story structure that had housed inmates and families of county sheriffs for 63 years was a pile of rubble. The building had been condemned by the Minnesota department of corrections in 1977.

Party & Pledge

Gonvick — Gonvick and Berner area school children will attend a community Halloween party this year, co-sponsored by neighborhood people and the Modern Woodmen of America. All youngsters attending the party will be asked to sign pledge cards stating that they promise to respect the property of other people and will cooperate with leaders to make the party a success. The party will include costume judging, games, cake walk and finger food potluck treats for all.

Dike Ups & Downs

Oslo — A temporary restraining order signed by District Judge A. C. Bakken October 20 preventing the removal or altering of dikes on the Red River has halted all dike work on the North Dakota side of the river. North Dakota and Minnesota landowners had been given until October 31 to bring their dikes to the agreed-upon heights. On the Minnesota side of the river, several landowners in the Oslo area have given the Middle River-Snake River watershed district permission to go ahead and lower their dikes.

Fair Weather Or Foul

Hallock — Hank Noel, Hallock city clerk, has found a way to keep his love of golfing alive during the long Minnesota winters. He spends the winters in his basement workshop making custom golf clubs. Beginning in 1981 with occasional regripping of clubs for friends, his hobby has become a full fledged custom club shop. He makes new golf clubs in just about any style desired, as well as repairing used ones.

Sad Scouts

Baudette — Boy Scout troop 62 won't find a new home in the Baudette community center. The troop has been housed in church basements during the past few years, but is about to be vacated from its present quarters, said spokesman Steve Roepe. No action was taken by the city council on a request made that the troop be allowed to use the community center meeting hall every Monday night. The council has made it a policy to avoid commitment for regularly scheduled weekly events so that the center may be utilized by the largest possible number of groups and organizations.

Just Read It In The Paper

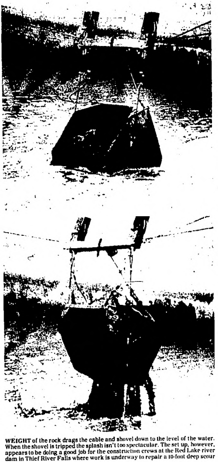
Baudette — A story in the October 17 issue of the Minneapolis Tribune indicated that a Minneapolis lawyer had filed suit against Lake of the Woods county sheriff, Bob Paulseth on behalf of a client. The suit has to do with Paulseth's observation and assistance in a confiscation of property prior to its sale at auction October 17. The property was seized by the state department of revenue to satisfy a tax obligation under the state's new drug stamp law, which requires tax stamps for illegal drugs. Paulseth said he knows nothing about the lawsuit and has been served with no papers to date. "The only thing I know is what I've read in the paper," said Paulseth. "And I'm not going to get too excited about it."

Mud River Trail

Grygla — Three new bridges, designed and constructed by Bob Englund, have been installed along the new hike trail in Grygla which follows the Mud River. Grass seeding has been done, a picnic area made and bird houses set up. Trees will be planted in the spring. The trail, intended for hiking or skiing, is a project of the city of Grygla, with help from a state park and recreation grant.

Clip, Clip, Clip

Greenbush — A Greenbush man has an unusual profession — he is a cow pedicurist. Paul Larson trims the hooves of cows for a living, estimating he will trim the hooves of four to five thousand head of cattle this year. The service is much in demand in the area, and Larson has clients from Roseau to Rochester in Minnesota, as well as the south and western parts of the country, where he travels during the winter months performing his trade. He also does dehorning and castration if required, he says.



WEIGHT of the rock drags the cable and shovel down to the level of the water. When the shovel is tripped the splash isn't too spectacular. The set up, however, appears to be doing a good job for the construction crews at the Red Lake river dam in Thief River Falls where work is underway to repair a 10-foot deep scour hole.

and two pre-school. We are active members of Trinity Lutheran church. I am past president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, and have served on the chamber board for seven years. I am a member of the chamber education committee, and a member of the Noon Lions club. I have also served as a United Way drive volunteer.

School District 564 has an annual budget exceeding $10 million. The unreserved general fund balance (K-12) has declined steadily from a surplus $859,671 on June 30, 1981, to a deficit of $145,905 as of June 30, 1986. Now more than ever we need qualified and proven common sense management on the school board.

I have a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration and mathematics from Valley City state college. I have been employed by Midwest Motor Express, Inc. for over 15 years, the last nine and one-half years as terminal manager here in Thief River Falls. I believe I can provide positive, practical direction, with an eye on fiscal responsibility.

We can be proud of much that our school district has achieved. Our ExCEL program, Book-It and elementary writing programs, computer introductions and the five-year plan are all steps in the right direction. However, statewide P.E.R. (planning, evaluation and reporting) testing shows that our students score below regional and statewide norms in a few important areas including math. This concerns me. I intend to target those areas and work hard at making improvements. Quality results can be obtained only through quality programs. Curriculum development with as back to the basics approach must be accomplished without increasing taxes for the general fund.

District wide morale seems greatly improved over just a few years ago. I believe the educational atmosphere must be one of enthusiasm and cooperation if we are to obtain the highest results. I will work hard on communications within the district and our community. I will work closely with the new parent involvement group (similar to the old PTA) as community involvement is the key to any successful educational system.

I know that with practical, positive input from our community, we can work together to make School District 564 one of the best school districts in the State of Minnesota. I would appreciate the chance to work toward that goal.

Pribula . . .

(two of whom attend Washington elementary) and as a person who has reaped the benefits of a good, quality education, I am dedicated and committed to the premise that all children (grandchildren, nieces, nephews, etc.) in the district should have the opportunity and privilege of receiving the highest quality education possible.

I feel that I have significantly (both subtly and actively) contributed, in the last six and one-half years, to the progress, direction and improvement in the education and the delivery of that education to the children of School District 564. That in itself has not been an easy task as many school districts throughout the state are struggling to maintain, while we here in our school district are pursuing Excellence In Education. We aren't there yet, but we are making good progress toward achieving excellence.

Some of the qualifications I feel I have and bring to the board are:

(1) INSIGHT — Boards made up of homogeneous individuals are not good boards. Because of my board experience, background, age and employment, I feel I have contributed a lot by asking the questions no one else asked or maybe even thought of. This can cause others on the board to research more fully the subject or question aspects of it before action is taken. Since I farm and am also employed full time at Arctco as a technical writer, I have a unique perspective and insight into community and educational issues.

(2) LEADERSHIP — A board member must provide leadership to the administration and staff of the district. This leadership must be based upon fairness, good judgment, reason and public input.

(3) DIRECTION — As an example of the direction I have given to the district, I'll mention that over six years ago, I developed a motion to have the district look at developing a long range plan. We are now in the midst of a five-year plan. Also, I have promoted the use of tax anticipation bonds to ease cash flow problems, researched the use of aid anticipation bonds, pushed the acquisition of energy retrofit grants and loans, and supported the synchronization of our reading and writing programs.

I didn't do these things, in fact no board members can truthfully say they did, but what board members need to do is to plant the seeds and let the staff and administration cultivate, fertilize and harvest the ideas. Our children are the ones who reap the benefits.

(4) SUPPORT — I am a positive person. In order for any system to work (school board, county commissioners or city council), the people on the board have to support the administration and staff to help them do the best they can do. I have not and never will interfere with the daily duties of our staff and administration. I will, though, refer community and parental questions to the appropriate personnel and will follow up these concerns as necessary.

We in School District 564 may not be doing everything right, but we are making progress daily toward Excellence In Education. I feel that I have done a good job on the board and want to continue on the board because kids are important to me! As the popular song goes, "I believe that children are our future."

Appeal Procedure Lacking For Day Activity Director

Armstrong within the 30-day period of reduced responsiblity.

"I might also indicate to you that it is the general feeling of the board that the process which has been followed lacks appropriate due process," McDowell's letter concludes.

McDowell also said that the board had engaged the Moser, Christianson Ltd., certified public accounting firm to conduct an audit of the facility since one had not been done for some time. When state personnel arrived here two days later to conduct an audit and learned that one was in progress, they returned to St. Paul to await the findings. There are no allegations of any irregularities in financial operation of the center.

Air Force Answers Questions On Area OTH-B Radar Concerns

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Announcement that the air force had provided written answers to several questions posed by Don Dyrdal of rural Thief River Falls, silenced many critics of the Over the Horizon-Backscatter (OTH-B) Thursday night in the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. But the silence came late in the evening and after a great deal of heated discussion over control of the meeting itself.

Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson furiously accused the panel of experts and public officials assembled by Dyrdal, and Dyrdal himself of being biased and unfairly controlling the meeting. He said it was a public meeting and should include information provided by both opposition and proponents of OTH-B. Mayor Carlson reminded Dyrdal and the panel that they were guests of the city at the city hall.

The panel of experts assembled included Albert Koop, Pennington county commissioner; Gordon Forester, Minnesota department of natural resources; Paul Burnes, staff member of Minnesota department of agriculture and personal representative of agriculture secretary Jim Nichols; Dr. Duane Dahlberg, Concordia college professor and chairman of the Minnesota pollution control agency; Fred Scumacher, Kindred, ND, farmer and electrical technician; and Vere Vollmers, vice president of the Minnesota Farmers Union. Each spoke for approximately 10 minutes about their agency's concern and-or personal concerns.

But the surprise came late in the evening when Tom Kenville liason representative for Jobs Inc. and member of the North Dakota air national guard, gained the floor and announced he had talked to Col. James Lee and obtained answers to the questions posed to the air force by Don Dyrdal and opponents to the OTH-B radar system. All of the answers were in written form and copies provided to the audience.

Following is the text of those answers: "As described in the draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), the final receive site will have four antennas. Each antenna will be on a sector of land about two miles long by one-half mile deep. Each sector will be totally enclosed by an exclusion of fence of treated wood or other non-conductive material.

"Outside the exclusion fence, there should be no interference or restrictions on the land use. Normal recreational use of the land outside of the fenced sectors will be allowed, to include hunting and use of firearms.

"Similarly, there will be no restrictions on the use of high tech farming practices, for example, closed circuit television, radio-controlled equipment, laser beams or other electronic monitoring devices. Equally important, the receive site will not cause any electromagnetic interference with these devices or practices.

"The only area of potential concern is any extensive use of arc welding directly in front of the receive antenna. While the exclusion fence provides about one-half mile separation from the antenna, it may be necessary to keep arc welding operations from approaching any closer than one mile from the antenna, that is, an additional one-half mile beyond the fence.

"Crop spraying in the area of the receive site would also be unaffected. Aerial spraying aircraft would be able to fly up to the fenced areas.

"The record of decision to be made by the air force following publication of the final EIS will be to select a study area for the transmit site and a study area for the receive site. Additional eivnronmental work together with meetings and specific location of the receive antenna sectors within the selected receive site study area. We envision additional community meetings as well as discussions with interested landowners as we attempt to narrow down to a single specific location for the four antennas. The selection of the specific antenna location within the study area would not be made until well in 1988 at the earliest.

"The environmental impact analysis process that the air force is following is specifically for the proposed Central Radar System as described in the draft EIS. The process is one which is established by law and which all federal agencies must also follow before undertaking any action which could have a major environmental impact. Land which was identified and selected for the OTH-B could not be simply diverted for an alternate use by another federal agency.

"Similarly, the site could not be diverted for use for some other type of radar system EIS. The purchase or lease of land for the transmit and receive site will not occur until Congress approves the Central Radar System by authorizing and appropriating funds for the program.

"The draft EIS refers to a 20-year life for the Central Radar system. This is a mimimum time period. If the need for an OTH-B surveillance system continues beyond that time, the proposed OTH-B system will be able to continue meeting that need. If and when the central radar system is no longer needed, any proposed uses of the land involving potential environmental impacts would again require a complete environmental impact analysis process. The public would again be involved in that process as they have been in this decision process."

Mayor Bob Carlson said he was going to go to the city council and again ask for a resolution of support for the OTH-B project. He said that he was on record as having some concerns and questions earlier but had never changed his support for the project. After talking with three mayors in Maine who have either a transmit site or receive site and then hearing what the air force had to say, he said he was more convinced to support the project.

Roger Reuter, president of Jobs Inc., said there was still time to write comments on OTH-B to the air force. He added that throughout the process the public has had plenty of opportunities to be heard and become informed.

Alderman Ken Murphy of Thief River Falls said he was disappointed in the meeting becuase he was originally under the impression that it would be an open forum. But instead, he said, the whole meeting sounded "like a bunch of kids telling spook stories." He said the public was being misled to believe that much of the energy from OTH-B was bad for us. We are surrounded, he said, and even bathed in electromagnetic energy just as strong as what will come from the OTH-B receive site. We have many uses for that source of energy and have used it safely for years.

Absentee Voting Hours Extended

Pennington county auditor's office will be open on Saturday, November 1 from 1 to 3 p.m. and again on Monday, November 3, from 5 to 7 p.m. for the convenience of voters wishing to vote absentee, according to Kenneth Olson, county auditor.

PUBLIC ACCURACY TEST

"A public accuracy test will be conducted in the city auditorium by the County Auditor, Pennington County, Minnesota, to test the accuracy of the computers and computer programs to be used for counting the ballots cast in the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 4th, 1986. Test to be conducted at 4:00 p.m. on the 30th day of October, 1986.

Northland Football Team Has Shot At State Playoff Berth . . .

Pioneers Hang On For 23-20 Win Over Trojans

A Northland Community College football team that has been victimized by the big play in the past came up with a couple of big plays of its own Thursday as the Pioneers edged rival University of Minnesota-Crookston 23-20 in an exciting down-to-the-wire Northwest Division contest at Thief River Falls' Prowler Field.

It was a significant victory for the Pioneers, putting their record at 4-3 and assuring them of their first non-losing season in the history of the 11-year-old Northland football program. It also kept the Pioneers in the Minnesota Community College Conference playoff picture. Northland wraps up its 1986 regular season schedule with another 7:30 p.m. Thursday game at Prowler Field, this week against Brainerd, and a win over the Red Raiders will result in the Pioneers representing the Northwest Division in the four-team MCCC state playoff held next week.

Northland and UMC entertained the fans with 60 minutes of yardage-producing offense in a game where the outcome was in doubt until the Trojans' Dan Upham, a sophomore all-conference tight end and place kicker from Thief River Falls, missed on a 36-yard field goal attempt with just 18 seconds remaining. Northland finished with 457 yards worth of offense, while UMC netted 473 yards and a remarkable 30 first downs — nearly twice as many as the Pioneers. The winners did most of their damage in the air with 336 passing yards, while the losers rushed for 305 yards, including a big 220-yard performance by John Goldsmith, a 6-2, 200-pound sophomore from Fosston. The Pioneers, who rushed for 246 yards in a 26-14 win at Fergus Falls the previous Saturday, mustered only 121 yards on the ground against UMC, and sophomore runningback Steve Ristau from East Grand Forks, who carried the ball 30 times for 135 yards against the Spartans, was held to just a single net yard on nine carries vs. the Trojans.

But freshman quarterback Scott Willoughby of Erskine was 14-for-29 passing for 311 yards, while Scott Groven and Dean Brandon, a pair of sophomore pass-catching twins from Goodridge and Thief River Falls, respectively, combined for 12 catches for 263 yards. Groven caught six passes for 166 yards, was 1-for-2 passing for 25 yards and carried the ball twice for a team-leading 44 yards. Brandon caught six passes for 97 yards.

"That's unusual for us," acknowledged Northland coach Rick Nelson in discussing the Pioneers' pass-over-run. "In the games we've won, we've been able to run the ball on the ground, pass occasionally. They (UMC) stopped our running game, but when you have two people like Brandon and Groven catching the ball..."

The game's biggest play was a 98-yard Willoughby touchdown pass to Groven in the first minute of the second half. Trailing 7-3, the Pioneers appeared to be in big trouble when they messed up the second half kickoff, with crossed signals resulting in return man Dean Shaver simply downing the ball at the Northland 1-yard line. A plunge into the middle by Ristau picked up a single yard, but on second down, Willoughby dropped back into the end zone and threw a long strike to Groven down the right sidelines. The first defensive back failed in a leaping attempt to bat the pass down and Groven out-ran the second defender, Plummer sophomore Russ Fisher, to the end zone for a stunning length-of-the-field scoring play with just 51 seconds elapsed in the second half. Ron Dass, who kicked a 21-yard second quarter field goal to start the scoring, added the conversion kick for a 10-7 Northland lead.

"That was the play that really brought us back to life," confirmed Nelson. "We were in trouble after messing up the kickoff return." Concern of surrendering a two-point safety on a quarterback sack in the end zone didn't stop the Pioneers from going for the home run ball when the traditional get-as-many-yards-as-you-can dives before punting out of trouble might have been expected, said Nelson.

Another call by Nelson provided a second touchdown-producing big play for the Pioneers when Anthony McCullough, a 6-4, 255-pound tower of strength at defensive tackle, was called upon to run one play as a runningback. He responded by side-stepping defenders on the right side on a nifty 28-yard touchdown run that gave Northland a 17-7 lead with 4:09 remaining in the third quarter. That capped a 10-play 71-yard drive in which Willoughby completed 12 and 13-yard passes to Brandon and a 22-yarder to Ristau out of the backfield on a third-and-15 call from the Northland 37-yard line.

UMC got right back in it, though, by going 67 yards in 10 plays after the kickoff. Fifty of those yards came on the first four snaps, followed by five straight carries by quarterback Jeff Bigger, the sophomore option whiz from Crookston, who scored from six yards out with 40 seconds left in the third quarter. Upham missed the extra point kick, though, leaving it 17-13, Northland.

Another UMC drive ripped through the Northland defense on the Trojans' next possession, an 82-yard march in 15 plays, polished off by a 5-yard run through the middle by Goldsmith with 7:29 remaining in the game. Upham's kick made it 20-17, UMC.

Northland responded quickly, coming right back to regain the lead 23-20 in nine plays covering 62 yards. There was an 18-yard Willoughby swing pass to Ristau to start it and a 17-yard roll-out to the right by Willoughby that carried the ball to the UMC 27-yard line. Two plays later Willoughby hit Groven on the right side, an 11-yard gain to the 14 that included another seven yards for a late-hit penalty assessed the Trojans. That put Northland at the 7-yard line with 5:44 to play, and two plays later Willoughby rolled right and cut into the end zone for what proved to be the winning touchdown with 4:43 on the clock. Dass missed the kick, setting up the potential tie at the end, 23-20.

Those Willoughby bootleg plays were called from the sidelines, said Nelson, when the Trojans' defensive ends were seen charging in toward the tackles on the snap. That clogged up the Pioneers' inside game, but opened the door for Willoughby outside.

That was hardly the end of the excitement, however. UMC's next possession died at the Northland 43-yard line, but only after the Trojans had a first-and-10 at the Pioneers' 35 with 2:26 to play. McCullough came up with a sack that cost Bigger eight yards, and three straight incompletions ended the threat — with McCullough batting down a fourth down pass.

It appeared Northland had the game wrapped up when they took over possession with 1:30 remaining. But even in playing it safe with a quarterback sneak, the Pioneers gave the Trojans another shot at it when Willoughby, instead of simply picking up a yard and protecting the ball as ordered from the bench, fought for additional yardage and lost the ball. UMC came up with the fumble at the Northland 49 with 1:13 still left.

A 12-yard run off the right side by Goldsmith quickly took the ball to the 32 and a Bigger completion to Nate Sather made it first-and-10 at the 21 with 50 seconds to play. Two incompletions and a two-yard gain by Goldsmith on the option to the left produced a UMC time-out on a fourth-and-eight from the 19 with 18 seconds showing.

UMC coach Jim Sims elected to try for the tie on the strength of Upham's leg. He got plenty of distance and height on the field goal try from the 26, but missed just wide to the left.

"The fans got their money's worth," offered Nelson.

Sims, too, said it was "a good football game. We just made too many mistakes. Dropped passes and fumbles hurt. We just killed ourselves. We got the yards, but you've got to get the ball across the goal line to score touchdowns. Northland came up with the big plays, give them credit, but we were our own worst enemy at times," he said.

Nelson was obviously ecstatic with the Pioneers' first win over UMC since 1981. "Our offense never quit, and you've got to give the defense credit. They made the big play when they had to. People like McCullough, (Steve) Wiskow and (Mike) Stennes came up with some big plays for us."

Prowlers Second At Fargo South Event

Thief River Falls girls placed third Saturday in a nine-team Fargo South Invitational high school swimming meet.

Mandan won the event with 279 points, followed by Fergus Falls with [illegible], Thief River Falls 196, Fargo South 183, Fargo North 121½, Park Rapids 86, Fargo Shanley 70, Grand Forks Central 27, Grand Forks Red River 24.

Thief River Falls opened the meet with a win in the 200-yard medley relay, where Brenda Russell, Christy Puetz, Marci Turenne and Gayle Borchert swam a 2:05.08.

The Prowlers also had a pair of second place finishes. Puetz was second in the 100-yard butterfly in 07.58, while Puetz, Marci Turenne, Russell and Laura Beito had a runner-up finish in the meet-ending 400-yard freestyle relay in 4:05.49.

"The girls swam well in light of last week's pre-taper practices," explained Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney, who has begun to alter the Prowlers' practice routine heading into the post-season Section 8 meet. Thief River Falls will close out its 1986 regular season schedule Friday with a dual meet assignment at Detroit Lakes.

Borchert matched sectional-qualifying time in the 200-yard individual medley Saturday, and also had strong efforts in the medley relay and the breaststroke, according to Forney, who said the Prowlers also received good efforts from Russell in the freestyle and medley relay, Heidi Gunderson in the I.M. and Jenny Nelson in diving competition.

MCC Girls Finish Schedule At 16-2

Marshall County Central closed out a 16-2 regular season schedule Thursday with a come-from-behind 3-2 high school volleyball win over Tri-County of Newfolden.

The Nordics won 8-15, 8-15, 15-9, 15-11, 15-13.

"It was a really good comeback," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde after the 2½-hour marathon match. "I was really happy with the way they came back like that. I told them to just play one point at a time, and that's exactly what they did. They didn't give up."

Andrea Kragness had an "outstanding" night, said Mjelde. She was 20-for-21 [illegible] 10 points and four aces at the service line and was 31-for-36 in spikes, including 14 aces.

"It was a good volleyball match," [illegible] Mjelde. "Karlstad (Tri-[illegible]) was an excellent ball club."

Oklee — Win-E-Mac

Oklee lost a 3-0 regular season-ending decision to powerful Win-E-Mac, but Bobcats head coach Brad Borene said his team gave the highly-regarded Patroits a good match.

"Our kids really played their hearts out," said Borene. "We had a few lapses here and there, but I was really proud of the way they played."

Win-E-Mac won 15-3, 15-6, 15-9, overcoming a strategy plan by the Bobcats, who elected to go mostly with soft hits instead of trying to match spiking power with the hard-hitting Patroits.

"We tried to mix it up a little," pointed out Borene. "We did confuse them a bit."

Julie Murack and Nancy Osbjornson had strong net games for the Bobcats, and Cici Olson turned in a solid setting performance, according to Borene.

Oklee finished the schedule at 14-7.

EGF Tips TRF Volleyball Team

Leads in the fourth and fifth games slipped away Thursday as Thief River Falls lost a 3-2 high school volleyball match to visiting East Grand Forks.

The Green Wave triumphed 8-15, 15-9, 7-15, 15-10, 15-13, overcoming a 7-1 deficit in Game 4 and winning after trailing 8-3 in Game 5.

It was just the fourth loss in 19 matches for the Prowlers, and their first setback since they lost to the same Green Wave in the finals of the Northern Lights Invitational Oct. 4.

"It was a tough loss," said Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "It was a good match on both sides, but it was a hard loss for the kids to handle."

A poor night on serve reception proved to be the Prowlers' downfall, according to Anderson. "Receiving the serves cost us the match," she said. The Prowlers managed to put just 76 per cent of the East Grand Forks serves in play, a figure that should be in the 90s, the coach pointed out.

Thief River Falls served 90 per cent, "but we needed the other 10 per cent," explained Anderson.

The loss overshadowed an outstanding performance by Thief River Falls senior Vikki Weigand. She was credited with 23 last-touch points, a category where 15-to-16 is considered a good night, and was 36-for-38 in spike attempts. She earned the Thief River Falls varsity Player of the Night award for her efforts.

Stephanie Benson led the Prowlers with 22 service points, while Jodi Anderson had 14 and Jill Olson 13. Bekah Bortnem was kept busy in a strong effort as setter.

Thief River Falls junior varsity beat East Grand Forks 15-13, 15-4 as Terese Tranby earned Player of the Night honors, and the Thief River Falls C squad edged East Grand Forks 1-15, 15-12, 15-4 with Nicole Dimich cited as Player of the Night.

Region 8AA Cross Country . . .

Bemidji, Alexandria Win Races

Bemidji and Alexandria teams earned state meet berths in both boys and girls competition Thursday at the 1986 Region 8AA high school cross country meet at Detroit Lakes.

With the top two teams advancing to the state meet, the Bemidji boys edged runner-up Alexandria 64-66, but the roles were reversed when the Alexandira girls out-pointed runner-up Bemidji 33-42.

Thief River Falls boys placed 11th in the 12-team field, while the Thief River Falls girls placed fifth.

In addition to the top two teams, the top five individuals qualified for state meet spots. Tim Langen of St. Cloud Tech and Heather Doyle of Moorhead were the individual winners.

Thief River Falls' Lynn Mueller, expected to challenge for a top five finish, wound up 14th. Christy Puetz, a member of the Thief River Falls swim team who was "borrowed" to fill out a complete five-member cross country delegation, was the second Thief River Falls girl across the finish line, 27th overall.

Jeremy Sisler was the first Thief River Falls boys to complete the race, finishing 44th, ahead of season-long Thief River Falls leader Shayne Anderson, who placed 50th.

Volleyball Team Ends Schedule With 3-1 Win Over Crookston

Thief River Falls closed out its 1986 regular season high school volleyball schedule Friday with a 3-1 win at Crookston.

A 14-16, 15-8, 15-7, 15-6 victory over the Pirates put the Prowlers at 16-4 for the year, but coming off a disappointing 3-2 loss at the hands of East Grand Forks the night before, it wasn't a particularly exciting finish, admitted Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "They were still tired from the Thursday match, she said.

Jill Olson and Bobbi Thompson both had 10 service points for the Prowlers, with Stephanie Benson adding 9. Player of the Night honors went to sophomore Kari Torkelson, a regular on the junior varsity who came off the bench to play in the varsity match.

Torkelson earned similar honors at the junior varsity level as Thief River Falls ended a 12-3 season with a 15-8, 15-12 win over Crookston.

Thief River Falls C squad ended its season at 9-6 when Crookston triumphed 15-5, 15-11. Christy Holthusen was presented with Player of the Night honors.

Cornell, the Region 8AA singles runner-up, was flanked by coach Whitey Olson and teammate Monica Haapoja before the three of them left at noon. The school station wagon was decorated with banners and a Thief River Falls police car was on hand to give Cornell a siren-sounding, lights-flashing escort out of town.

Nelson was the Region 3AA champion. Cornell reached the state tournament field as the Region 8AA runner-up.

"Kelly played very well," reported Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "We were pleased with her play. Nelson was a very fine tennis player; very mobile."

The tournament matches were played at the new Highway 100 North France Racquet Club in Brooklyn Center, facilities Olson described as "totally outstanding; like walking in Hollywood."

Plummer Plays Final Game At UND Memorial Stadium

Plummer closed out its 1986 high school football season in memorable fashion Friday afternoon when the Cardinals played Central Valley, ND on the artificial surface of Memorial Stadium at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

It was the first-ever regular season high school football game played on the two-year-old surface.

Central Valley won 37-34 to finish 7-2. Plummer wound up 3-5.

"It was a great experience," reported Plummer coach Gary Brantl, describing the opportunity to play at the UND facility. "The kids found out what a carpet burn is, but they really enjoyed it."

The meeting was arranged after the two teams were bypassed in their respective state football playoff structures. "We were disappointed not to make the playoffs," admitted Brantl. "That was our first goal. The kids were down for a while, but they regrouped and had a fun time."

Brantl said the loss didn't detract from the experience. "I thought we played real well. Central Valley has a big team. They ran the option real well on the big field. But I was really happy with our play. We just had a couple of times where we broke down."

Central Valley led 22-14 at halftime. Plummer tied it 22-22 on the Cardinals' first possession of the second half — a 36-yard Wade Grinde pass to John Fisher and a two-point Grinde to Shane Freyholtz conversion pass.

But the tie lasted only momentarily as Central Valley's Dan Wegge returned the ensuing kickoff 70 yards for a touchdown.

Fisher, a 5-7, 140-pound senior, scored all five Plummer touchdowns, closing out his high school football career in fine fashion, said Brantl. Fisher carried the ball 22 times for 122 yards, caught four passes for 48 yards and was in on 15 tackles as a cornerback on defense — eight unassisted stops. He scored touchdowns on runs of 2, 9 and 2 yards, and caught touchdown passes of 36 and 7 yards from Grinde.

Plummer totaled 178 yards on 36 carries and Grinde was 13-for-24 for 163 yards passing. Wayne Erickson added 56 yards on 14 carries, and Craig Brantl caught four passes for 48 yards.

Defensively, Neil Huotari was in on 16 tackles, Steve Pahlen 10 and Lonnie Longtin 9.

Fisher, Huotari and tackle-center Tom Hesse had fine senior season-closing performances, pointed out Brantl.

Badger 15
Oklee 6

Oklee added Badger to its 1986 high school football schedule when both teams missed the post-season nine-man playoffs, and the Bobcats lost to the visiting Rockets 15-6 Friday night to wind up 3-6 for the year. Badger ended 2-7.

"It was a poor way to end it," reported Oklee coach Dale Svaren. "Absolutely terrible. A very poor effort."

Oklee scored first when Greg Bishop scored on a 3-yard first quarter run, but that was the extent of the Bobcats' offense. Bishop was held to 73 yards on 23 carries and the Bobcats netted just 154 yards worth of offense for the night.

Brian Lange scored both Badger touchdowns.

Freshmen Finish Year With 4-2-1 Football Record

A strong performance in a season-ending 26-20 win over visiting East Grand Forks Thursday enabled the Thief River Falls freshmen to finish the 1986 football season with a 4-2-1 record.

The winners struck from long range, building a 20-6 halftime lead on a 45-yard touchdown pass from Kurt Kainz to Jason Kempert, a 96-yard interception return by Kempert and a 60-yard Kainz to Kempert touchdown pass. They closed it out on an 82-yard touchdown run by Paul Kezar in the fourth quarter.

A Kainz conversion pass to Roger Anderson added two points to the Thief River Falls total.

Glen Peters, Tracy Wensloff and Earl Erickson coached the freshmen this fall.

FmHA Borrowers Must Certify On Conservation

Farmers who apply for loans from the Farmers Home administration must be able to certify that they are in compliance with certain soil conservation requirements related to highly erodible and wetlands, according to state director, Russ Bjorhus.

The 1985 farm bill prevents farmers from receiving benefits from USDA programs, including FmHA loans, unless they are in compliance with conservation procedures relating to 'highly erodible' and 'wet' lands," Bjorhus said.

"If they are in compliance, they can certify to that effect in the FmHA county office. If they are not in compliance, they will have to have a conservation plan developed by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service and the Soil Conservation service for the highly erodible or wet land before FmHA can make them a loan."

The certification form to be signed by the applicant asks three basic questions dealing with cultivating highly erodible land not farmed before; wet areas converted for cropland since Dec. 23, 1985; and future plans to convert wetlands. If the answers show that the farmer is in compliance, and he or she signs the "self certification" form, FmHA can process the loan application.

AGRICULTURAL POLICY and the farm situation centered much of the discussion Thursday noon as Congressman Arlan Stangeland (right) and his challenger State Sen. Collin Peterson addressed a meet the candidates session conducted by the legislative affairs committee of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce. The event was held in the lower level meeting room at Lon's restaurant. "If you want a continuation of the policies and conditions which you have today, vote for my opponent," Sen. Peterson said. "If you believe a change is necessary to bring about the turnaround, then I encourage you to vote for me." Rep. Stangeland said the farm bill adopted by Congress was intended to protect farm gross income, and that while it may be imperfect, it was adopted out of a "deep and abiding concern for agriculture."

Seven To Seek School District 564 Board Posts

dolph av. N. in Thief River Falls.

I am a W.W. II veteran, serving in the air force from 1942 to 1945. I have been employed by Swift and Company as a salesman and worked as an assistant buyer in Powers department store in Minneapolis.

My major field of employment has been in teaching, both in California and in Minnesota for a period of 28 years. I was an elementary teacher for 26 years and principal for two years at Knox and Mark Twain schools.

I have served on several committees in the teachers' organizations and have been president of both groups of which I have been a member.

At the present time I am an active member of the Elks, Eagles, American Legion, and Golden K. I am also a past exalted ruler of the Elks.

My outside activities include drama on theater and sports. I have been active in the community theater in Thief River Falls and have coached basketball, football, golf and track. I have been a football official, hockey official, and at present am scorer for the basketball team.

As my teaching experience has been in the elementary field this is where my principal interests would lie. I believe that priorities should be students, classroom teachers, support groups, and administration.

I believe in reduced class size, particularly in the first three grades. This would give teachers a chance to offer more individual attention to students in the areas of reading, math and spelling.

Their should be review of certain approaches and materials. Testing is important but there is growing frustration among teachers at being turned into record keepers and not teachers. This is especially true with those instructors in the elementary area.

I would propose a long range physical plant plan. We have made recent changes but there are still outmoded buildings and facilities.

All these should be coupled with fiscal responsibility. This should also apply to long range planning in the instructional areas.

Thief River Falls has an excellent school system. Let's keep it that way. I would appreciate your support on November 4 and thanks to the Times for allowing me to present this resume.

Kiesow . . .

were born in Thief River Falls at Northwestern hospital. They all attend School District 564 and are in grades ten, eight and six, respectively. All three are active in extra curricular activities including sports and music. We are members of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

I have been a member of the Thief River Falls police department for 15 years and have served in the positions of patrolman, juvenile officer and investigator. During this same time I attended Northland community college where I obtained an AA degree with a major in law enforcement. I have also worked at numerous part-time jobs during this time which include retailing and preparing income tax forms.

I am also currently serving on the credit committee of the Pennington County and Municipal Credit union. I am a member of the Minnesota Peace and Police Officer's association and the Thief River Falls Police federation.

As a school board member, it is important to obtain the wishes and feelings of the voting public, school administrators and teachers. In my job, I have considerable contact with these which would give me a good understanding of what should be done in the school system.

If I were to rate the school system and the quality of education received by our students, it would be "Good." I feel the variety of classes and extra curricular activities are sufficient to help our students become well rounded adults. I definitely feel we must return to the "Back to Basics" type of education with more concentration on READING, WRITING AND ARITHMETIC. Far too many students are graduating that are deficient especially in spelling. I think with some pushing for this type of education we could soon rate the quality of education as "excellent."

The school board has a large and difficult problem finding a solution to the building situation at Lincoln high. The voters have decided that we must work with what we have and make improvements as funds become available. This will take planning, patience and good budgeting to accomplish. Again, we must do what will give our children the best education for our dollars spent.

Another very important responsibility the board has is maintaining good communications with the public, administration and teachers. It is important to review hiring guidelines so we obtain only good teachers so our children don't waste a year with a poor teacher. It is also an unjustified expense to pay a teacher a year's salary just to learn she or he is unsatisfactory. Complete job descriptions are also necessary so currently employed teachers know what they are expected to do during the year.

Our basic responsibility as a school board and community is to furnish our children with the best education possible. With your support on November 4 I feel I could be instrumental in obtaining this goal. Thank you.

Bortnem . . .

negotiations, continuing education (AVTI and K-12), excellence in education, kindergarten task force, PER, and staff selection committees. I am currently the board representative on the Minnesota State High School league.

We have turned to a new educational chapter in our district. This chapter has two exciting sections: (a(K-12 and (b) AVTI. A new spirit pervades K-12 education, a spirit of cooperation and energy to provide the best possible education for our children. As a board we need to support and continue this positive direction through programs of support for our staff, high expectations of our students, and educational facilities adequate for the task.

Our five year plan calls for involving teachers and principals in decision making, planning education, improving curriculum and maximizing our resources in the district. The new power plant at Lincoln is a positive step in the updating of our buildings with a continued need for improving the educational plant itself. Our primary energy through the coming years in K-12 ought to be focused on our core curriculum, while providing fine art and extra curricular options that invigorate the minds and bodies or our young citizens.

The second section of this chapter is the future direction of the AVTI. AVTI education is a technological and retraining education that is sitting on a launch pad of discovery. It will occupy the board's energy and will be exciting to reach into the future while not giving up the very programs that brought our AVTI into existence.

Our AVTI has programs unique in Minnesota and attracts students from throughout the Midwest. It is standing on the threshold of even greater growth and in our changing economic climate a strong AVTI in Thief River Falls is a necessity as well as an opportunity.

Personally, I am the husband of Rosine Englund Bortnem; the father of Peter, a freshman at Concordia; and Rebekah, a junior at Lincoln. I am chaplain at Northwest Medical center, a member of Zion Lutheran church, a member of the Kiwanis club, a member of the Pennington county cancer board, a member of the golf club, and active in the Ministerium. I ask for your support and encourage you to reelect me to the school board of Independent School District 564.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls Water Utility announces that the state maximum allowable limit for turbidity was exceeded for the month of October 1986.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level has not created any health hazards because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with state health department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lamm, water department supervisor, at 681-3809.

Keep Your "Goblins" Safe On Halloween

Halloween is almost here, and that means costumes, trick or treating, and bags of goodies for young goblins. The Minnesota safety council reminds parents that a few extra safety precautions can help insure that children have a fun-filled and safe outing.

When designing costumes, use only fire-resistant materials. Costumes should be large enough so warm clothing can be worn underneath and to allow freedom of movement. They should be short enough that children don't trip on them. Outfits should be made of light colors; whatever the color, reflective tape can make children even more visible.

Consider using makeup rather than a mask so that children's vision won't be obscured.

It's a good idea for adults to go along to supervise trick or treating. Children should travel only in familiar areas and along an established route. Pedestrian safety rules should be reviewed and understood. Children should stop at houses or apartment buildings that are well lit and should never enter a stranger's home.

Each child should have change for a telephone call in case they have a problem while away from home.

Set a return time by which children should be in for the evening.

Youngsters should understand that they may not eat any treat until parents have inspected it.

Blood Drive At Grygla Center Is Set October 30

On October 30 citizens of Grygla-Gatzke-Skime will have an opportunity to make an important, personal contribution at a mobile blood drive to be held at Grygla community center from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Ralph Rundell, chairman, would like every person to consider this drive to be an invitation for personal action — the simple, satisfying action of donating blood for a person in great need. In less than an hour you may give the most precious gift of all — the "Gift of Life."

In our area, 3,000 units of blood are needed each month to supply the needs of patients served by United Blood Services. This blood can only come from caring individuals — the human body is still the only source.

Be a lifesaver. To make an appointment to donate blood, call Ralph Rundell at 294-6177 or 294-6144; Loren Lusignan, 294-6155; Karol Byklum, 294-6352; Mildred Klamar, 459-3436; or Virginia Dahl, 425-7442.

Krohn Herd Tops Pennington DHIA For July, August

Duane Krohn herd at Viking led the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association for the months of July and August, according to Jerry Hamre, DHIA supervisor.

The Krohn herd of 42 cows had an average of 67.2 pounds of milk, 3.10 per cent test and 2.08 pounds of butterfat to lead the association's top 10 producers. Hanson Heritage farm of Thief River Falls was second with 65 cows averaging 63.5 pounds of milk, 2.87 test and 1.82 pounds of butterfat.

Other herds in the top 10 included Lyle Swanson, Arden Lundeen, Warren Hamrick and sons, Ray and Roger Walter, DKG Lundeen farms, Mylo Carlson, Duane Vatsaas and Don Fulton.

Hamre notes that herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd, since production is averaged out over all the cows to give the farmer a record of the herd's earning power. If there are many dry cows, the average may be low even if those in milk are high producers. There were 21 DHIA herds and one owner sampler herd on test in July and August.

MN Supreme Court Refuses To Hear Melbye Case Appeal

Attorneys for the city of Thief River Falls in the case of Allen Melbye vs. the city of Thief River Falls, announced that the Supreme court of Minnesota has decided not to hear an appeal from Melbye.

A news releaset from the attorneys
A news release from the attorneys states: "The Supreme Court of the parties that it would not consider reversing the decision of the Court of Appeals so the decision of the Police civil service commission and the city council to demote Melbye from sergeant to patrolman stands.

"Melbye is now attempting to get the same issues considered by an arbitrator to try to obtain a different result. The city maintains he has no right to two trials on the same issues. A court hearing on whether he has this right will be held at Bemidji on November 3rd."

Allen Melbye began his employment with the Thief River Falls police department in 1973. In 1978, he was promoted to sergeant and he continued in that position until March 17, 1985, when he was suspended with pay. Charges of inefficiency and misconduct were filed against him with the Thief River Falls police commission. The result of that case was appealed to district court and appaled again to the Minnesota state appeals court. The appeals court reinstated Melbye as a police officer, demoting him to patrolman.

Employment of women advanced strongly during 1985, with most of the increase occurring in the first and fourth quarters, according to a publication of the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. By the fourth quarter of 1985, nearly 48 million women were employed, well over 1 million more than a year earlier.

Gas Rates And OTH-B Discussed By Council

Gas rates in Thief River Falls and a new recommendation of approval for the Over the Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) radar system were discussed at the Thief River Falls city council meeting Tuesday night.

Tony Rader of Thief River Falls appeared before the city council to inform the council that he had talked to the attorney general of Minnesota about the high automobile gas rates in Thief River Falls, and to also ask if he was aware that gas prices in Thief River Falls were higher than in area towns.

Rader reported that while the average gas price in Thief River Falls was 91 cents, the average gas price in surrounding communities, including Crookston, Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks and also Moorhead, was below 80 cents. He said he was aware that different situations in those communities account for some of the differences, but not much of it.

Mayor Bob Carlson and several of the councilmen agreed that gas prices in Thief River Falls were high. Mayor Carlson said that if Rader stopped 50 people on the street and asked them what they thought of the gas prices, all would probably say they were high. But he said he did not think any price fixing was going on.

Mayor Carlson said he was on record as having criticized high gas prices. He said he had also talked with LeRoy Bugge and Bugge said he would open his books to the public so they could see his profit margin. City Attorney Bob Wurst said the council is concerned, but added that prosecution (price fixing) is outside of the domain of the city. It would have to be a state function.

Alderman Milan Borsheim said he would have to concur with Rader but said he believes his hands are tied when talking about free enterprise.

Alderman Kenneth Murphy said he too would have to support Rader, because he has seen the price variations first hand. He also said people have pointed out to him that people outside the community do not shop here as much as they would because they feel gas prices are a reflection of retail prices generally.

The Thief River Falls city council unanimously approved a motion approving of the Over the Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) proposed radar site near Thief River Falls.

The resolution reads: "Whereas, the local development corporation, Jobs Incorporated, has actively solicited the siting of the U.S. Air Force's Over The Horizon Backscatter (OTH-B) Radar Receiver facility for Pennington county, and whereas, the Draft Environmental Impact Statement and all other reliable information indicate that the OTH-B Receiver facility represents no threats to public health and will create minimal detrimental environmental impacts, and whereas, construction of the facility will require employment of 125 to 200 construction workers, including some hiring of certain local skilled persons, over a three to five-year period and permanent employment of up to 50 civilian employees, now therefore be it resolved that the city council of Thief River Falls of Minnesota does hereby strongly support Jobs Incorporated in its efforts and reiterates the city's strong interest in having the U.S. Air Force select Pennington

DAC Staff Gives Its Comments On Group Suspension

Three staff members of the Falls Day Activity center, including one who has been placed on two-week suspension as a result of "complaints", have taken issue with a Times story Monday regarding the suspension of Evan Armstrong, as director of the center.

Jim Rooker, Doreen Sigerud and Lynae Johnson, all of whom signed affadavits of complaint regarding Armstrong's alleged abuse of clients, objected to a statement in the article which said that Armstrong was on voluntary leave. In a requested interview Monday evening, they pointed out that state law requires immediate removal of a person who has been accused of abuse until the complaint can be investigated.

Although a letter from Ceryl Nybus, supervisor of the treatment and habilitation services section of the Minnesota human services department, was sent to the DAC board October 15, the employees state that board chairman LeRoy Larson informed the staff October 2 that Armstrong was not to be in the center as a result of complaints against him.

Nybus' letter advised the board that Armstrong was to have no direct care responsibility, other contact with participants in the developmental achievement center, have no access to the facility during hours that clients are present and have no supervisory authority over other staff persons.

Rooker was informed in a letter Monday from DAC board chairman Larry McDowell that complaints have been filed with the board "concerning areas of the operation for which you are responsible. In light of the nature of the complaints the board has determined to appoint a committee of the board to conduct an investigation in regard to those complaints."

"During the time that the investigation is being conducted," the letter continued, "the board has determined to place you on a two week suspension with pay. During the period of time you are on suspension you will not have access to the Falls Day Activity center nor to any of the records contained therein. In light of that, the board has directed that all of your keys be turned over the acting director.

"Within the suspension period you will be advised by the board as to the results of their investigation. If the committee of the board determines that the two-week period is not sufficient time to complete its in-

Anhydrous Leak Fatality

An anhydrous ammonia leak at the Cenex West Plant in Roseau resulted in the death of one man and injury to another early Friday afternoon. Hillard Frank Horvath, 45, an employee of the plant, was dead on arrival at the Roseau area hospital after a line ruptured while he was apparently filling a fuel applicator tank from a filler island.

Members of the Roseau fire department, Roseau county sheriff's department, Roseau police department, Greenbush fire department, Minnesota state patrol and department of natural resources were immediately called to the scene and shut down the leak. Roseau firemen and Chief Deputy Sheriff Pat Novacek donned self-contained breathing apparatus to remove Horvath from the area, but when Novacek removed his mask to administer CPR to Horvath, he, too, was exposed to the anhydrous ammonia fumes. Resusitation attempts on Horvath were continued in the ambulance enroute to the hospital, but Novacek and other rescue personnel were unsuccessful in their attempts to revive the man. Officer Novacek was treated for inhalation of the toxic fumes and spent the night in the inten-

A House For Amy Rises At Larry Killian Farm

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Larry Killian stood with hands on hips Monday afternoon, surveying the house which had risen over the weekend and shaking his head in wonder. "I just can't believe it," he said. "Friday morning there was just the floor still covered with straw. Now there's a house there. There's finally a house there."

Beginning Friday morning and continuing throughout the weekend, volunteer workers showed up in numbers to assist Killian and a professional carpenter in building "A House for Amy." Five-year-old Amy Killian, subject of an intensive therapy program intended to help her overcome brain damage at birth, is one of six children of Larry and his wife Diane. Volunteers and others interested in the program of Amy's recovery organized and participated in the house-building effort.

"It was just unbelievable," Larry Killian continued during a brief break from completing shingling of the roof Monday afternoon. "Everyone was so cooperative and so helpful and we just love 'em all. Most of them didn't have a lot of experience in building but what they accomplished shows how hard they worked and how much they could do."

Much of the organization and coordination as well as securing of materials was accomplished by an organization known as "A Chance To Grow," headquartered in the Twin Cities. Director Bob DeBoer, his wife and Kathy Blader of "A Chance to Grow" were on hand during the weekend to assist with the project work.

The organization is comprised of families of brain-damaged children who are involved in the therapy program whereby they develop through patterning of what would be normal functions in healthy children. Efforts in the Twin Cities area resulted in a semi load of building materials being trucked to the farm Friday morning with a wide red ribbon tied around it. Other materials provided from the area were also delivered to the site just northeast of Plummer.

Under the direction of head carpenter Eldon Vigstol of Plummer, volunteers on Friday assembled and raised the walls of the house, including raising one 60-foot long wall in one section. They also began work on the interior dividing walls.
